Fear of Trouble with the United States Expressed in Washington.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Fear of trouble between the United States and Mexico, due to the activities of German propagandists, headed by the German Minister in that country, is frankly expressed by Senators who have been studying the situation as a result of today's dispatches from Mexico City telling of the severance of diplomatic relations with Cuba by Mexico.

Information relating to the activities of Von Eckert, the German Minister to Mexico, and the army of propagandists under his direction, has been reaching Washington through unofficial channels for some time.

Nothing has been given out by the State Department or any branch of the administration, but the unofficial advices have been most serious, indicating that it was the deliberate

THE GREAT WAR. The huge armies facing each other in Flanders remain quiet. The stillness is even accentuated and for a couple of days now reports from the battle front speak of larks singing and band concerts in villages where recently the roar of big guns was constant. This may be the lull before the storm that both sides have expected. At present the only person who knows when the fight will resume is Ludendorff, who is hurrying his troops into line for his final and supreme effort. He holds the key to the situation for a time, but unless he strikes within a reasonably short time he will lose the chance to say how, when and where, and Foch will move the pawns to a decision.

The Allies' mastery of the air is proven more and more daily. German flyers are slowly but surely being driven from the sky. Allied bombing flights over German cities are becoming intensified. The Catholic prelate at Cologne has forbidden church processions because of the danger from air raids. He also has asked the Pope to request the Allies to allow the procession scheduled for May 30 without interruption. Maybe the Huns don't get as much pleasure out of reading about English and French women and children murdered by sky bombs as they did before the Allies retaliated.

German troops are concentrated near the Lys River and here the shelling is more active than elsewhere. The Germans for the third time gassed Bethune, but so far their infantry has failed to move.

At the American front the Germans have brought up tanks and massed numerous heavy guns as a tribute to the skill of the Americans. Trench raids by the Huns have been called off and the only German the Americans see is an occasional aviator high in the air.

Activity in Italy is confined to patrol engagements and artillery.

AMERICAN GUNS SMASH BIG ENEMY CAVALCADE

GERMANS ENTERING MONTDIDIER BAPTISED IN FIRE; LULL CONTINUES.

BY WILBUR FORREST.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN PICARDY, May 25.—Emboldened by the lull in the artillery fire, Thursday, the enemy entered Montdidier with nearly 100 automobiles, many cannons and groups of horsemen.

The American guns, aided by keen observers, opened up on the cavalcade. After finishing its work, the artillery quieted down and the lull before the storm was continuing at noon Friday.

Two enemy prisoners have been taken in this area within the last twenty-four hours. No information of military value was obtained from either of them. One, a boy of only about 18 years, was happy to be a prisoner. The other, a man of 45, cried intermittently when he tried to talk about the fate of his family. He insisted that he knew nothing.

GERMAN TROOPS BROUGHT FROM ITALY TO FRANCE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Official cables received here in Allied military quarters state that practically all the German troops have been withdrawn from the Italian front and taken to France and Flanders. Their places at the Italian front have been taken by Austro-Hungarian troops from Rumania. Only insignificant Austro-Hungarian forces have been in Russia for the past year, and the Russian front has been drained of all fit German troops for service in the west.

There are on the Italian front still some Bulgarian and Turkish soldiers, who are expected to be used there in the Austro-Hungarian offensive against Italy. When this drive will be started is considered problematical, but some experts believe the moment will be determined by the German high command rather than the Austro-Hungarian and that it will have a direct relation to Germany's activities on the Franco-Flanders front.

GERMANS SHIFT CRUISER BRITISH SANK AT OSTEND.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, May 25.—The Germans have succeeded in shifting the concrete-laden cruiser Vindictive, sunk in the harbor of Ostend on May 10 by British raiding forces. The Vindictive, according to the Times, is now lying close alongside the eastern piers, leaving a passage about thirty feet wide. This is enough to allow destroyers to go in and out. Nevertheless the Germans are not using the harbor.

Unsuccessful attempts have been made by the Germans to dredge a passage between the two old cruisers sunk in the harbor of Zeebrugge. A German destroyer, sunk this week by bombs dropped by British naval airmen, lies close to the cruisers.

The basin at Bruges, which is connected with both Ostend and Zeebrugge, is full of German shipping, but the canal is not being used.

EVERY HIGHWAY INTO CITY PATROLLED; FIVE HUNDRED ARRESTED QUICKLY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, May 25.—This evening was started a great drive on draft slackers. On orders of the local board, through the United States Marshal, 500 deputies were sworn in, including the entire strength of the police reserves, and every highway into the city was guarded. By 10 o'clock 600 arrests had been made, of men who failed to show their cards or who could give no satisfactory account of themselves.

The jails soon were overflowing and a large basement in the center of the city was filled. A majority of the men arrested are Mexicans who had failed to register. It is understood that they are likely to be included in the draft that is to leave here Monday night, with 500 already enrolled for this and the northern district of Arizona. Arizona's class 1 is exhausted.

The task was made easier by the fact that thousands had assembled in Phoenix to witness a great Red Cross parade.

At Mesa has been arrested E. R. Starks, who was caught distributing the peace propaganda of the International Bible Students' Association.

Organizer Declares Bullets of Members Intended for Our Officers.

Government Witness Forced to Join Organization Exposes Doctrines.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 25.—Declarations in favor of the German Kaiser as a ruler in America as compared with the present administration were made at the meeting place of the Industrial Workers of the World in Milwaukee, Wis., after the final break with Germany, according to testimony today at the trial for seditious conspiracy of 112 I.W.W. leaders.

Joseph Burdall, who said he was forced to join the I.W.W. to safeguard his life, testified as a government witness that G. J. Bourg, a defendant, and other Germans who gathered at the Milwaukee Hall, declared I.W.W.'s "knew their signs," that if they were drafted into the army they would shoot, but they would choose their marks carefully.

"Our bullets will not strike down the Germans, but will pierce the necks of the American officers," Burdall testified Bourg shouted in an impassioned anti-war speech in which he urged overthrow of the American government.

PUT ARMY ON BUM.

"We can put the American army on the bum as quickly and effectively as we can wreck a construction company plant," said Bourg, adding that the members of the organization should begin by "burning grain fields, destroying food production plants and wrecking munitions manufactories."

"If the Germans strike in the east we should be ready to strike in the west, and bring about complete overthrow of the government," Bourg was quoted as saying. He said that Germans and other leaders knew that the great number of Germans in America were willing and ready to fight the American war programme.

ORGANIZER BRANDED.

Burdall testified that Bourg, whose exploits as an organizer in the harvest fields last year resulted in his being branded with the letters I.W.W. on his body by a mob, was the most ardent of the Milwaukee speakers in his revolutionary pronouncements.

"We will be doing a good thing for civilization if we follow out the policy of fighting the masters who are calling our men to arms," Bourg was quoted as saying.

Under questioning by Frank K. Nebeker, chief prosecutor, Burdall explained the Hi-Jack, or strong-arm tactics of the organization, told how farm machinery was wrecked faster than land owners could make repairs and at times when loss of a day meant a big financial loss, and related specific instances of property destruction.

ALLIES MASTER AIR; FOIL GERMAN PLANS.

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, May 25.—The attack by German aviators on a British hospital camp emphasizes the fierceness of the aerial fighting in France, where, out of sheer desperation, the Germans have committed crimes as black as any they have been guilty of in this brutal war. There is no longer any doubt but that the Allies are clearly superior to the Germans in the air. Each day this advantage is growing, one in which the American aviators share.

At no period of the war has either side enjoyed such an advantage in the air as that held at present by the American, French and British forces.

It is true that the German flyers are exceedingly active and daring. But slowly and surely they are being driven to the earth. The British are carrying out their bombing expeditions on a scale which makes previous efforts seem insignificant.

With the American forces looming up larger day by day, the results seem inevitable. It is highly probable that the Allies will have the same supremacy in the air that they enjoy at sea.

No leader can estimate the value of bombing. It may be that this great weapon will revolutionize the whole system of land fighting and prove a decisive factor in ending the war. Even now the Allies are bombing the enemy lines of communication so that Ludendorff's plans are being knocked awry. The Germans are striving desperately to increase their output, but they are deceiving their men harder than ever and they are throwing aside all pretense of following the code of warfare.

They know that in their coming push they will be at a considerable disadvantage unless they can thin out the flocks of Allied airmen, who hover over their area day and night.

What is happening at sea is being repeated in the air. The part that manufacturers of war munitions are playing in the struggle is being demonstrated daily. Great as Germany's military organization is the recent happenings on land and sea show that the manufacturing genius of America, France, and of Britain exceeds that of the foe.

The Germans are continuing their trench raiding, that in the Lens region being especially active. Around Givenchy and Lens the heavy field artillery of the enemy has kept up a lively cannonading. There was considerable activity along the whole northern battle front, but the Somme front was quiet. The weather continues cloudy and unsettled and windy.

FLOOD CONTROL BONDS GET FEDERAL APPROVAL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Flood-control bonds for Los Angeles county were approved today by the new Capital Issues Committee to the amount of $1,000,000. The remainder of the issue of $2,250,000, amounting to $1,250,000, will be given favorable attention in ample time to prevent any delay in the work of flood control.

The items passed at this morning's meeting are for bridges and rights of way. For bridges $165,000 is approved, and for rights of way, $835,000, making up the $1,000,000 of bonds approved for the work which is now most pressing.

Los Angeles may be congratulated that such speedy action has been taken in this application, and its good fortune is largely due to the sympathetic attitude of J. S. Drumm, the member of the committee from San Francisco, who has given it his personal attention. The final papers did not arrive here until late Thursday, and therefore no time has been lost in Washington.

In view of the tremendous number of applications before the committee, the expedition of this big flood-control issue is all the more creditable.

TEUTONS NOW CONVINCED OUR MEN ARE FIGHTERS.

Concentration of Cannon and Support of Tanks Give the Lie to Story of Disregarding Latest Foe.

BY JOSEPH W. GRIGG.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright.]

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES ON THE PICARDY FRONT, May 24.—Wherever the Germans intend to launch their next great attack, now so many days overdue, they indicate daily, and especially nightly, that a certain stretch of the front, although it is not long, is causing them great agitation. And that is the sector held by the American forces.

How does the enemy intend to deal with this new and now thoroughly defined American menace? Heavy casualties from our persistent artillery fire have completely soured all his spoon-feeding to his troops that the Americans form only a camouflage army. Further, he gives the lie to all his assumed disregard of the American forces by concentrating guns, heavy and otherwise, in his sector opposite ours, and now there are indications that he is bringing tanks into the same sector.

His activities are indubitable proof of his honest recognition that we hold an important piece of ground in the world's greatest battle field and that anything the American forces do will have a bearing on the whole situation.

He is daily calculating our part in the impending momentous battle as something demanding attention. He is striving by every means to keep prisoners from falling into our hands. He substitutes aircraft raids on our trenches for other kinds of attack.

American patrols have been searching his advance posts and No Man's Land recently without encountering any enemy patrols or outposts. He withdraws by night to rear trenches, bristling with barbed wire protection and machine guns. It is ironical how highly the German high command, at this particular and critical juncture, seems to value the life of the individual soldier, but that is only temporary and is based entirely on the feeling that one German captured just now might cause serious embarrassment by divulging the enemy plans.

I have explained in recent dispatches how the enemy is giving nightly a display of nerves and last night I saw perhaps his greatest display of star shells and flaming "onions," as our soldiers have dubbed his signal flares. I had a day's wait in a tree-shaded place and was thoroughly entertained by the songs of the doughboys or their highly combatative arguments about the respective values of different mule teams. Then in the cooling hours of the early evening we listened to a band concert. Villagers are scarce in these parts but those still clinging to their old homesteads came to listen too, as did the village children, who were brought in by our soldiers.

GAS MASK DRILL.

A platoon of soldiers doing gas mask drill sat near the band, with their faces encased and looking much like scarecrows. The moon was shining through the trees when the concert was over, and on a road near by passed a long string of wagons and motor trucks going up to the lines, some of the wagons carrying loads of hay, doughboys stretched out at full length on the top and singing. This heterogenous cavalcade was heading for a barred point beyond which nothing goes in daylight.

Eventually starting time came and they were off as quickly as a race starts at Belmont Park, the trucks snorting up hill and down dale, with full loads of men of different ranks and callings. It was a case of spurting over a road which the enemy reaches for with his heavier guns and shrapnel and he was methodically plunking away at nothing in particular and everything in general.

The sky brightened up as with heat lightning, as our guns and his did their accustomed strafing, with ours much more active. At the place where I went to watch for possible developments on this still, moonlit May evening, a nightingale held forth in a near-by tree, his song being brought to intermittent pauses by the close proximity of sailing shells. Out on this hill top I had ample opportunity to see the enemy's flaming "onions," his searchlight beams and star shells signalling his nervous state of mind until the early hours of this morning.

GET HIS GOAT.

"We're getting his goat" is the favorite doughboy manner of defining the foe's present frame of mind. In the early morning we retraced our way along the road over which our "tin lizzie" and its impetuous driver, who could have made it climb a tree if necessary, had flown with us some hours before. Things had quieted down and tin hats and gas masks seemed unnecessary incumbrances on several miles of this lonely French road.

But these two unnatural developments of the twentieth century are sometimes the best friends a man can find in this sector or any other, and this argument is brought convincingly home when a shell falls not far away and, maybe gas or a foe airplane comes over head as an air fighter did before we reached our billet, though he did not drop anything.

Strategy.

TEUTON BLOW FOR PORTS ON CHANNEL EXPECTED.

Bottling of U-Boats Forces the Kaiser to Strike for Calais or Admit Defeat

BY C. W. GILBERT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Recent developments in the Allied campaign against the submarine make it plain that the real object of the Germans in the west must be the channel ports. If Germany does not get these ports she faces the prospects of steadily diminishing usefulness of her U-boats. The figures of sinking will tell her people that the device for the sake of using which she drew this country into the war is a failure. The channel ports are now her great need. Military arthorities here in Washington believe that breaking of the Allies' lines would be no such serious blow as the loss of Calais and the neighboring harbors.

The raids by sea and air upon Ostend and Zeebrugge ar not of a sporadic nature but are part of a large plan to press the attack upon the submarines everywhere. An element in that plan, and an important element, is the new mine field recently announced in the dispatches from London.

The bottling up of the submarine is now being attempted with every prospect at least of greatly reducing the number of submarines which will be able to attack British and French shipping. No such mine field as the British and American navies have laid will entirely confine the submarine. Storms and heavy tides will affect the best marine traps ever set, but experience will probably show how to make it extremely difficult and dangerous for the U-boat to get out where they can do most damage to Allied and American shipping.

WAR TAKEN HOME.

At any rate war is at last being carried home against the submarine not only against his nests at Ostend and Zeebrugge, but in his larger and most permanent base in the German ports. The holding of the channel ports, the loss of which would bring the U-boat closer to the British shore, becomes of even greater importance than it was before, important as it was that the line of communication between England and her armies at the front should be kept open. So, wherever the coming German drive appears to center at first, it is likely to be found that its real aim is to weaken the grasp England has on Calais and Boulogne.

The delay of this drive does not surprise military men in Washington. They point out that it was weeks after the original drive of Germany was announced before it was actually set in motion. It was expected daily for more than a month. The delay continued so long that men began to believe that the drive was a bluff. The reason for the length of time consumed is now apparent in the extensiveness of the preparation made for it which surpassed anything previously disclosed in this war and the real basis of comparison for the coming effort of Germany is the attack which centered upon Amiens not that directed at Ypres which was not so much a new offensive as the second phase of the Amiens offensive. The new effort, when it comes, will surpass the effort against Amiens if Germany still has the resources to strike harder than she then struck. The period of preparation is likely to be extended.

VAST PREPARATIONS.

Everything about the preparation for the Amiens drive was on an enlarged scale. An offensive had to be rehearsed a few miles back of the front. The Amiens offensive was rehearsed fifty miles back of the front. This distance permits of the maneuvering of large bodies of men out of the usual range of air observation and at a point where several parts of the front, along radii of a circle, are about equal distance. The rehearsal of the coming drive is probably taking place at least as far in the rear as did the rehearsal of the Amiens movement.

The factors which will control Germany's making the drive are largely the political pressure at home from the people who are demanding to see results bought by their terrific sacrifices, and the military necessity of improving the situation of the German troops on the west front. The factors which will determine the time of the blow are two; the enormous size of the preparations necessary and the relative speed with which the German armies and the Allied armies are being strengthened. One of these factors obviously makes for delay, the other for haste. If we knew the elements involved it would be possible to tell just at what moment the drive must be made.

EXPECT BIGGER FORCE.

All that is generally agreed on is that Germany will attack again, probably in as great force as she did at Amiens and, if possible, in greater force. Military men hold that the political rather than the military factor controls in determining the necessity that Germany shall renew her efforts.

Now as to time both the Allies and the Germans are strengthening themselves in preparation for the coming effort. Germany has the advantage of nearness to her base and uninterrupted means of communication, but the point where the Allies gain strength faster than the Germans do cannot be safely passed by Germany. She must strike before that time comes. She must hasten her preparations.

Meanwhile a feeling of encouragement prevails. The submarine has passed its climax of effectiveness. On the sea the offensive, which has been for a year in the hands of Germany, has passed over into the hands of the Allies. On land it is expected that Germany's aggressiveness will end with one more huge effort and that then the offensive there, too, will pass definitely over to the Allies.

GERMAN ARMY SEEKS BREAD, UKRAINE INVASION EXCUSE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—An official dispatch from Moscow today says:

"The press bureau of the People's Council gives out a note which was sent by the German government to the newspaper in order to prepare the German public opinion for the events in Ukraine. The text of this document says:

" 'The prevailing public opinion, according to which peace is for us a bread question, is totally wrong. Our commissaries are convinced that the wheat supply in Ukraine is inadequate. The supply was insufficient last year, as the peasants were certain that their crops would not be paid for, and, besides, the small land owners had burned their crops.

" 'The peasants are still armed and hostile. There is hardly any commercial relations at all. It is possible that during our future advance in the country important supplies may be found and that the result may be made better by armed force. At any rate, the hope of improving the food situation is very uncertain.' "

PILLAGE OF FRENCH ORDERED BY GERMANS.

WANTON DESTRUCTION OF HOME FURNISHINGS OFFICIALLY SANCTIONED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—An account of the plundering practiced in enemy countries by German troops is furnished in the diary of a prisoner taken by the French from the Fifth-sixth Regiment of the seventh division of reserves, who took part in the last German offensive. Quotations telegraphed to Washington today by the French government follow:

"As soon as we passed San Quentin plundering began. The abandoned houses were searched, all food supplies were taken away, bread, potatoes, butter, lard, jam, wine, etc. In many places the old people had to remain. They cried and begged the soldiers to leave them something so that they would not starve. The soldiers pushed them back pitilessly and carried away even the knives, spoons, forks, plates and articles of cleaning of all kinds. That which they could not take they destroyed. Clothes were snatched from wardrobes, thrown out on the road, trampled on, tables and chests were broken to pieces; pictures and mirrors were pulled down from the walls and broken to fragments. In the cellars the cocks of the casks were opened so that all the wine they could not drink or carry away could not be used.

"The commander of the Second Battalion (Capt. Dettender) gave the order to a few soldiers to go to Noyon with carriages on a plundering errand. These men returned with big booty a few hours later. They had, for instance, several thousand cigarettes, cigars, apples, marmalades, wines, jams, chocolates, handkerchiefs, linen, soap and many other things. Each soldier received twenty English cigarettes, 300 or 400 grams of soap, three or four marmalade cans for each squad and three or four milk cans.

"The feldwebel received much more. The officers kept for themselves the valuables and all the real good things. In another battalion the men were given permission to go to Noyon individually to plunder at their ease and as much as they liked."

ADJOURNMENT NOT IN SIGHT FOR CONGRESS.

PROSPECTS FOR POSTPONING REVENUE LEGISLATION GO GLIMMERING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Prospects for a postponement of revenue legislation, and an early adjournment of Congress, again appeared to have vanished tonight when Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress failed to agree on a programme presented by President Wilson for a special session after the November elections.

The Republicans, according to administration spokesmen, blocked the proposal by refusing to give assurances that a bill along lines proposed by the President would be passed within a definite time. Tonight Democratic leaders prepared to go ahead with the framing of a bill.

The unexpected differences between the political sections of Congress, it was explained, made it impossible for administration leaders to give to President Wilson the assurances he desired before he would agree to postpone the legislation for a special session.

Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, Republican leader in the Senate, issued the following statement:

"Republican Senators recognize that additional revenue will be necessary in the near future, and for that reason they are prepared to consider revenue legislation whenever the majority think it wise to do so, and they are ready to co-operate to secure the passage of a revenue bill without unnecessary delay."

AMERICAN ARMY ABROAD TO BE TRIPLE ESTIMATE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Friday, May 24.—The American forces in France will be double by midsummer the number Secretary of War Baker recently announced as having been sent there, and by the end of 1918 they will be three times larger, said Andre Tardieu, French high commissioner, in a statement issued to the French people on his arrival from the United States today.

Secretary Baker announced on May 8 that more than 500,000 American soldiers already had been sent to France.

FIFTH OF MILLION WILL GO IN MAY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON ,May 25.—More than 200,000 Americans will be sent abroad during May, and that number probably will be much exceeded next month, members of the Senate Military Committee were told today at their weekly conference with Secretary Baker and his assistants.

Great satisfaction with the speed with which the troops are going abroad was expressed by the Senators.

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS ON THE BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE, Thursday, May 23.—Several soldiers of the "new" American army now on this front are reported to have been wounded yesterday by bombs dropped by German raiders. This was their first experience with the enemy.

The Americans are making a good impression and they astonished British and French veterans by the quickness with which they adapt themselves to new customs and the cheerfulness with which they accept discomfort. By the French, with whom they are billeted, they are admired for their physique, good behavior and order.

GERMAN ROYALTY FLEES RAIN OF ALLIED BOMBS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BASEL (Switzerland) May 25.—The east wing of the Grand Ducal Palace at Mannheim was struck by bombs during the British air raid of Tuesday. The royal residents had left for Berlin. Two tons of bombs were dropped within the city. They destroyed the chemical factory and damaged the railway station.

Accounts of the raid describe it as the most terrifying of any of the three which have been carried out there during the war.

RICKENBACHER AGAIN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Friday, May 24.—Lieut. Edward Rickenbacher, the former automobile racer, has added another aerial victory to his record. Announcement was made today that it had been confirmed that the lieutenant shot down a German biplane in the neighborhood of Thiaucourt on May 22. The fight took place 5500 meters in the air. With another pilot, Rickenbacher engaged in a long fight with two enemy machines. He finally got on the tail of one machine and fired at short range. The enemy machine went into a spinning nose dive. Today positive confirmation that the machine crashed to the ground was obtained.

BRITISH LABOR LAUDS WILSON.

President's Views Supported by Henderson.

Moral Idealism Praised by English Leader.

Freedom for Russia Held Part of Democracy's War.

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, May 25.—Arthur Henderson gave me an interview today in which he said that he welcomed the speech of President Wilson for two reasons—because it reaffirmed in ringing words democracy's refusal to desert Russia in the hour of her agony and humiliation and because it proclaimed a doctrine to which organized workers themselves stand pledged, that peace, when it comes, must conform to the principles of international rights and essential justice.

"President Wilson's greatest contribution to the effort of free nations in this world struggle," said Mr. Henderson, "is the moral idealism which he has brought to bear upon the problem of world peace. He has refused to treat the question of peace as a matter for political bargaining between belligerents or as a question of territorial compromise or concessions of one side to the other.

"In all of his speeches since America entered the war, he has approached peace from the point of view of democracy itself and has insisted with every variety of emphasis and inflection that what is morally wrong cannot be politically right.

BASED ON JUSTICE.

"As I read his latest speech the President has resolved to have nothing to do with peace negotiations which ignore the claims of international justice and the right of every nation freely to determine its own destiny.

"His latest utterance is in the nature of a declaration that the fundamental issue of this war is a moral principle which must be asserted at all costs against the lawless and brutal militarist imperialism which has already trampled upon the freedom and independence of several nations and which menaces the existence of every state where liberty and democracy are enthroned.

"Russia, and in fact, the whole situation in the east, the President rightly regards as a test of Germany's sincerity in talking peace. If there is any possibility that the Allies might be persuaded to accept a cynical peace based upon concessions by Germany in the west as the price of leaving Germany with a free hand in the east, the President's firm repudiation of any such bargain will, I hope, finally dispose of it.

PROTECT RUSSIA.

"An organized democracy stands by Russia in her agonized effort to work out her national destiny and the war cannot end while Russia lies under the heel of a new tyrant, more monstrous because more methodical and ruthless than the corrupt and criminal bureaucracy that the revolutionists destroyed.

"Freedom for Russia is a democratic war. It is because the treaties which the Central Powers have made with Russia and Rumania violate the conscience of the democracy of which the President is preeminently custodian. The proposals for peace which imply German triumph in the east cannot and must not be considered as a possible base of negotiations.

"We of the working-class movement in the Allies' countries look to the President to maintain this high standard of statesmanship and to bring our government into line to see the issue of this struggle with his clear vision and to defend the cause of international freedom with his exalted enthusiasm and disinterested spirit.

"Having secured unity of military control, it is of essential importance that we should now secure complete unity of purpose and political policy, without which no world settlement can be obtained."

HORRORS OF TEUTON WAR PRISONS TOLD.

INMATES STARVED, OVERWORKED AND CONTAMINATED WITH DISEASE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 25. — The Serbian legation received today the following cablegram from Corfu, temporary capital of the Serbian government:

"Lieut. Topolovitch, L.L.D., a reserve officer in the Serbian army who has just been exchanged after having been for four years a prisoner in Austria, gave a lecture at the theater of Corfu on the treatment of Serbian prisoners. He declared that we need no longer have any illusions in the protection of prisoners of war or the civil population by the prescriptions of international law. These are now a dead letter.

"The prisoners," he stated, "can only count on the food they receive from abroad. Tuberculosis is raging. The camp of the prisoners of war and the concentration camps for civil prisoners are veritable hotbeds of disease. As soon as the civilian prisoners have developed the disease to such a degree as to be able to spread contamination to those around them they are sent back to Serbia to carry contagion there.

"An equal number of healthy persons are then sent to take their places, to be contaminated in their turn. In this way tuberculosis is systematically transported into Serbian soil. In addition to the Serbs, 10,000 Italians have already been contaminated with tuberculosis. Prisoners are employed at the front in the zone of fire where they are forced to work like driven cattle till they die beneath the blows of their taskmasters. Lieut. Topolovitch gave only facts that are of incontestable authenticity and which show that the Austrian mentality has reached a degree of cruelty unimaginable in human beings."

WAR OFFICE STATEMENTS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, May 25.—The German artillery was increasingly active last night on the westerly side of the Lys salient in Flanders in the neighborhood of Strazeele, the War Office announced today. The district east of Bethune was again subjected to gas bombardment. The British captured numerous prisoners and two machine guns in raiding operations.

"The hostile artillery has been active today in the Villers-Bretonneux sector," says the official statement given out tonight by the British War Office. "Otherwise," the statement adds, "there is nothing of special interest to report."

FRENCH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, May 25.—French troops last night repulsed two German raids south of Hangard Wood and in the Vosges, the French War Office announced today. French detachments penetrated the German lines west of Noyon and returned with a number of German prisoners.

The announcmeent tonight says:

"There was intermittent artillery action north and south of the Avre. On May 22 and 23 four enemy airplanes and two captive balloons were brought down. It is confirmed that five additional German planes were destroyed in aerial engagements on May 16, 19 and 21.

"From May 22 to May 23, inclusive, our bombing escadrilles dropped 30,000 kilograms of projectiles on stations, cantonments and aviation grounds in the enemy zone. Fires in the stations at Montescourt and Hirson and serious damage to the aviation grounds at Cappy have been established.

"Eastern theater, May 24: Near Lumli, twelve kilometers south of Demir-Hissar, and west of Doiran there were detachment engagements, in the course of which the British troops put to flight the Bulgarians and took prisoners. Artillery duels occurred on both banks of the Vardar, east of Cerna and west of Lake Ochrida, where the enemy bombarded with a long-range gun the neighborhood of Numulista and Udunista."

AMERICAN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Gen. Pershing, in his communique for May 24, reported to the War Department the deaths on Wednesday of two American officers, First Lieutenant Walter V. Barneby, Signal Corps, and Second Lieutenant Kenneth P. Colbert, United States marines, as a result of injuries received in an airplane fall. Before they died they were decorated with the War Cross. The communique follows:

"Section A. There are no developments to report. It is established that our aviators shot down two hostile machines on May 21.

"Section B. On Wednesday afternoon, First Lieutenant Walter V. Barneby, Signal Corps, of Sumner, Wash., and Second Lieutenant Kenneth P. Colbert, United States marines, of Orange, N. J., were fatally injured by the accidental fall of an airplane in which they were acting respectively as pilot and observer. Both officers died during the night. In the evening both were decorated with Croix de Guerre with palm, for excellent, faithful and courageous work in numerous former flights. Their valor in operating in Seicheprey on April 20, under heavy fire and under adverse weather conditions, was especially mentioned."

An addition to the communique, issued later, said:

"Hostile machines referred to in today's communique were brought down by Lieut. Rickenbacher and Lieut. Buford.

"In Lorraine, on May 21, a hostile airplane flying over our lines was disabled and forced to land in its own territory. There it was destroyed by our artillery fire adjusted with balloon observations."

ITALIAN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, May 25. — The official statement issued by the War Office today reads:

"Between the Brenta and the Piave both artilleries have been fairly active. On the southern slopes of Sasso Rosso repeated enemy attacks led to lively hand-grenade fighting.

"In the Monte Asolone region our patrols destroyed an advanced post and captured arms and war material.

"On the Asiago Plateau, British aviators bombed enemy lines of communication. Five hostile machines were brought down and a sixth was forced to land."

AUSTRIAN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VIENNA, Friday, May 24 (via London.)—Final repulse after hot fighting of an Italian attack on the Austrian positions on Zugnatorta is reported today. The Italians also were repulsed in several attempts upon Monte Asolone, between the Brenta and the Piave.

GERMAN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via London) May 25.—Bad weather along the western front has prevented active operations, according to the official statement by the War Office tonight. The statement reads:

"Owing to the storm and rain, fighting activity of the two artilleries remained throughout the day within moderate limits. It increased intermittently to great intensity in connection with local attacks delivered by the enemy during the night northwest of Kemmel and north and west of Albert. These attacks broke down everywhere with heavy losses.

"In the neighborhood of Hamel we threw the enemy back in a counter-attack. His storming troops, moreover, had already been shot to pieces before our lines.

"On May 23 the crew of an observation plane shot down four machines out of a chain of six British one-seater battleplanes."

CHECK SPECULATION IN COFFEE IMPORTS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—To check speculation in chartering pace for coffee imports, which has driven the rates to four and five times their normal, the War Trade Board today suspended all licenses for importation of coffee and will renew them only on proof that they are being used under chartering rates as fixed by the Shipping Board.

The Calm.

LULL FOLLOWS BATTLE'S ROAR.

Lark's Song Replaces Thunder of Huge Cannon.

Stillness Extends Along the Picardy Front.

Rattle of Farmer's Harrow Halts Band Concert.

BY WILBUR FORREST.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN PICARDY, May 24.—The same morgue-lake calm that you experience at sea before a storm is the best impression of this front today. Three days ago the enemy's artillery figuratively declared peace and its fire was cut to a minimum. For two days our guns thundered on intermittently and then they entered the spirit of the thing.

As this is being written, the harshest sound within earshot is the sputtering of the American motorcycle belonging to a dispatch rider taking a message back to the rear. His message reads: "Nothing to report."

As the sound of the motor dies away, the sing of the French field larks down the road is the only sound to break the stillness. The larks' notes have replaced what was recently the thundering roar of the guns, easily heard twenty miles in the rear.

GUNS ARE SILENT.

At midnight this morning I walked along a road in the brilliant moonlight in this vicinity, which is usually raked by the enemy's fire. The shadowed shell holes that I occasionally passed on the roadway to the trenches and the constant pyrotechnic display of the watch flares on the line as it winds around the Montdidier salient, gave the only ocular evidence of war. The ear could detect nothing.

Early this morning, before sunrise, the situation at the actual front was the same. A rifle shot would have startled the most hardened soldiers who have been hearing the din for weeks.

As the sun rose, an emeny sausage poked its nose above the trees. This was our signal to leave. Skirting through the bushes to our hidden car, we cranked up and scuttled down the road as fast as our mail order automobile could take us.

OUTRUN SHRAPNEL.

The sausage observer observed us and signaled for shrapnel. It came, but it was behind; we were moving too fast. With the exception of an occasional two or three shells like those of specially directed shrapnel, it is evident that the enemy gunners are under positive orders to withhold fire.

The effect is unique to those who have become accustomed to being lulled to sleep by the high explosive thunder. Add to this the incongruity of an American infantry band playing soft evening accompaniments, in a certain village where shells two days ago were not entirely unknown, for a soldier-singer from New York as he sings war parodies on popular home music to a semicircle of admiring soldiers and officers.

Another touch of incongruity is the rattling of the farmer's harrow on the gravel road near the front as he comes home from the field in the summer dusk where he has been working despite the possibility of shell fire. The harrow drowns out the band and they are compelled to stop until it has passed.

Out of this deadly calm within twelve or twenty-four hours or at any minute, new shell fire will break loose and the war will continue. Everybody knows it's the lull and they are ready for the storm.

ON WEST FRONT

SUMMARY OF SITUATION.

Military operations on the western battle front have been overshadowed in interest recently by developments elsewhere.

ly by developments elsewhere, says the Associated Press.

No signs are observable, according to correspondents at the front, of the enemy's intentions as to the time and place of the delivery of his expected stroke. The artillery activity, indeed, seems less marked than for some days past, while the aviators have been obliged to let down in their intense labors by the advent of less favorable weather.

It seems not improbable, however, that the magnificent work of the Allied airmen has had much to do with the slowness of the enemy in putting his offensive machine in working order again. They have established themselves as masters of the situation to such an extent that the Germans have been forced for the most part to keep well back of their own lines.

The Allied aviators, on the other hand, have been able to carry out photographic observations and bombing work on a large scale for long distances in the enemy's rear territory.

The bombing operations have been so extensive that tons of explosives have been unloaded on military objectives—many more than 1000 tons to date. Unquestionably this has seriously interfered with German movements of troops and supplies. Furthermore, the activities of the battling aviators on the Entente side has swollen the German losses of machines to considerably in excess of the 1000 recently reported to have been brought down since the opening of the enemy's spring offensive.

In the aerial activity the American airmen are taking an increasing part, and it now develops that in the Toul sector held by the American army an exclusively American pursuit squadron is operating with marked success to date.

with the assistance of the German Legation in Norway to work in prison camps to corrupt Irish prisoners of war. This priest was a certain Father John T. Nicholson, an American citizen of Irish birth. He reached Germany safely and we find him in January, 1915, transmitting messages to America.

PLOT RIPENS.

"According to a report of Capt. Von Papen (German military attache in Washington) dated December 5, 1914, verbal assurances were sent in response to Casement's request that an excellent impression had been produced in Ireland. In the beginning of 1916 the plot ripened and on February 10 of that year Count von Bernstorff sent to a covering address in Rotterdam a dispatch signed with the name of Skal, one of his principal American agents.

"The dispatch included an extract from the report of John Devoy, head of the Clan-na-Gael, to the effect that action in Ireland could not be postponed much longer, since he feared the arrest of the leaders. It had been decided, he said, to begin action on Easter Saturday and he urged that arms and munitions be in Limerick by that date.

"Von Bernstorff surreptitiously attached to a message to Berlin passed by the American government a note fixing Easter Sunday for the rising and urged the dispatch of munitions in time. On March 4 Von Jagow (German Foreign Minister) replied that the arms would be landed in Tralee Bay and asked that the necessary arrangements be made in Ireland through Devoy. On March 14 Von Bernstorff replied that the Irish agreed.

DUBLIN BAY OPEN.

"The next day Von Bernstorff telegraphed the code to be used between the Germans and the rebels while the arms were in transit and explained that a submarine might safely enter Dublin Bay and go as far as Pigeon House without encountering nets.

"On March 26 Von Jagow replied that the arms would be sent and that a special code word would be used every night as the introduction to the German wireless press service. In a message from Von Bernstorff to Berlin the Germans were assured that there were numerous private wireless receiving stations in Ireland.

"On April 18 and April 19 messages were sent from America to Berlin fixing the delivery of arms for the evening of Easter Sunday, pressing for the landing of German troops and asking for an air raid on England and a naval attack on the English coast. These attacks actually took place between April 24 and 26.

"It was declared to be the hope of the rebels and their German and American friends to blockade the Irish ports against England and establish bases in Ireland for German submarines.

REBELLION FAILED.

"The rebellion broke out a day later than scheduled, on Easter Monday, April 24, but, as the world is aware, German support miscarried and it ended in complete failure. The report of the royal commission on the rebellion in Ireland states:

"'It is now a matter of common notoriety that the Irish volunteers had been in communication with the authorities in Germany and were for a long time known to have been supplied with money through Irish-American societies. This was so stated in public by John MacNeill (former president of the Sinn Fein,) on November 8, 1914. It was suspected long before the outbreak that some of the money came from German sources.'

"The evidence on this subject in possession of the British government provides the clearest proof of these suspicions.

"It became clear very soon after the rising that the Sinn Fein leaders again were asking Germany for help. On June 17 there was a message from Berlin to Washington referring to 'A 259 or May 6,' a message which is missing, and saying that Germany was perfectly ready to give further help if the Irish would only say what sort of help they required."

SCOPE OF AIRCRAFT INQUIRY UNDECIDED.

HUGHES OBJECTS TO IMMUNITY PHASES IN PROPOSED INVESTIGATION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 25. — The scope of the proposed inquiry into aircraft production to be undertaken by the Senate Military Committee was discussed at a conference today between Charles E. Hughes, who is to conduct the Department of Justice's aircraft investigation, and Senator Thomas of Colorado, chairman of the Military Committee's Aircraft Subcommittee.

At the conclusion of the conference it was announced that nothing would be determined as to the subcommittee's investigation until members of the committee could confer. Mr. Hughes, who recently objected to the committee's going into phases of the aircraft which give immunity to witnesses, issued this statement after the conference:

"Of course, I assume that the Senate committee will act according to its own views with respect to the advisability of proceeding with the inquiry into aircraft matters. I have no desire to make any suggestion and I have nothing to add to what I said in my letter to the Attorney-General."

COAST'S CONCRETE SHIP "GOING FINE."

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

A PACIFIC PORT, May 25.—The steamer Faith, the largest concrete ship in the world, now enroute to another Pacific port on its initial voyage, was reported by wireless tonight to be battling its passage successfully in the face of a "strong northwest wind and a heavy sea."

FLYING CADET KILLED IN PLANE TAIL SPIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) May 25.—Cadet Moultrie C. Trowbridge, 23 years old, of New York, was instantly killed by a fall of 300 feet in an airplane at Kelly Field this morning.

Cadet Trowbridge in attempting a figure eight, banked his machine in such a manner as to throw it into a tail spin from which he was unable to recover. He was almost instantly killed, falling about 800 feet.

Worse Off.

CHECKERBOARD OF WAR ON INVADERS' FAILURES.

And the Troubles that Germany is Hatching in Mexico.

BY HARRY CARR.

THE delay in resuming the German offensive is probably due to the unexpected success of Gen. Foch in husbanding his reserves.

Although in one way a brilliant military operation, the great German offensive has failed of its purpose.

We know now with some degree of certainty just what the Germans had in mind when they began the attack. Their plan was an old American football play called the "fake line buck." In the football play, one of the half-backs charges into the scrimmage line as though he intended breaking through with the ball; while the defending team concentrates all its strength at the threatened point to head him off, the ball is slipped to another player who plunges through the weakened line with the weight of his whole team behind him.

That was in essence the German idea. Concentrating an immense army of reserves from ten to fifty miles back of the line, they sent an army charging in against the line just south of Amiens. As this was in a direct line toward Paris, the Germans figured that Gen. Foch would hurry every man he could find to protect that sector. Then at the fatal moment when the Allies were rushing headlong to save Paris, another Germany army would be hurled in from the reserve stations in the rear, break through at Ypres and capture the channel ports, thus cutting off both England and America from the armies in the field.

The Germans figured that, with Ypres and Amiens both under heavy attack and with a great German reserve army still available in the rear, the third army could be sent in to either point; to whichever seemed the best bet at the time. The plan did not work out. The British, falling back to the heights south of Ypres, showed unexpected strength. They held the line long enough to permit the French and Americans to come to the rescue.

MUST TRY AGAIN.

It is very likely that this error in the German plans was partly due to the failure to take Amiens, an important railroad center, in the first drive. The initial drive toward Amiens made a terrible dent in the Allied line, but it did not tear apart the French and English armies as the Germans had hoped; nor did it seriously interrupt the ability of the Allies to ship reserves to threatened points of the line.

The battle plan having failed in its essential purpose, there remains nothing for the Germans to do but to try the same tactics again. They can't stop now.

In taking up the fight again they find themselves confronted with several difficulties.

By an exhibition of moral courage that has seldom been equaled in the history of warfare, Gen. Foch was able to resist the excited demands of public opinion for a counter-attack and held back his reserves.

The result is that the Allies are better off now than before the German "victory."

It is estimated that Foch has 1,250,000 men who have not been in the battle. Americans are pouring in to augment this reserve.

To oppose these troops, it is estimated that Germany still has 800,000 men who have not yet been used in the big battle.

This gives the Allies a very important preponderance in reserves.

It is quite within the range of probability that the Germans have delayed the second attack in order to add to their reserves by draining the East front and the Holland border.

The new method attack adopted by the German General Staff absolutely necessitates a concentration of reserves at one night's march from the line. By the same token it compels the Allies also to concentrate large reserve near enough to the front line to be within a night's march, but far enough back to be able to defend almost any sector of the line that may be threatened.

FAILURE UNDER SEAS.

Speaking in broad general terms, however, the worst failure of the Germans is the failure of the undersea boats.

If the German empire goes down to final defeat, it will be because they guessed wrong about the power of submarines.

From the very first, the American naval officers have contended that the submarine is not a weapon of first magnitude and never can be; that it is in reality an auxiliary and always will be.

So great was the German confidence in the undersea boats that after the voyage of the Deutschland across the Atlantic, they felt able to take a chance at bringing America into the war, serene in the belief that the submarines would make it impossible for us to ship troops across the sea.

The submarine warfare has reminded us of the old military truism that "every offensive digs its own grave." Every weapon of attack is met with a defense. Every defensive has a fatal hole that can be broken through.

Belgium relied upon her wonderful forts, considered to be impregnable. They were torn up like paper. Germany relied upon her sea sharks and they were snagged. Every weapon is met by a shield; new weapons, new shields.

The full details of the methods employed by the British and Americans in fighting the subs are not known and loyal citizens do not try to find out. But the fact is surely established that the submarine menace is no longer a real military danger. Even as these lines are written a transport may be going down with a torpedo in her heart; but that would not alter the fact that the Allies are able to ship troops across the sea probably with less interference than the shipment of large numbers of troops has ever encountered before in the history of warfare.

The Allies are suffering now from the damage that the undersea boats did in the past. That is to say, we are embarrassed by the ship shortage caused by past submarine depredations, not by any present activity of the undersea boats. The present percentage is all in favor of the shipbuilders.

From the German standpoint, the bottling up of the "sub" bases at Ostend and Zeebrugge came at a critically bad time. It pulled the teeth of the sea sharks just when the American troops were on the sea in greatest number.

Having failed to prevent the shipment of American troops overseas, the Germans are engaged in a frantic effort to keep our boys on this side by stirring up trouble in Mexico. It has been known for some time that this intrigue was to be ripe in May.

WHAT OF MEXICO?

The extent of their success will be in direct ratio to the number of troops they can compel us to detach. A general invasion of Mexico will require a large force.

The strategy of a Mexican invasion is very peculiar. Its purpose will be exactly opposite of ordinary military strategy. The usual objective of an army is to divide the forces of the foe and then attack them separately. In the event of a Mexican invasion the plan will be to advance across the line in parallel columns and attempt to herd the enemy together like series of giant cattle rodeos. This will require several columns of troops advancing on separate expeditions. And it will take a lot of men.

We should not delude ourselves into thinking that the crisis has passed. The crisis is still to come. The German army now about to attack on the west front has lost its first position of advantage, but it still has terrific striking power. In spite of its losses no one can honestly think of it as a weakened army. It has maneuvered itself into a less advantageous position than from which it started, but the battle has not yet ended.

ALLEGED EVADER WHO SHOT SHERIFF KILLED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

FALLON (Nev.) May 24.—Paul Walters, alleged draft evader, who Sunday shot and killed Sheriff Mark Wildes of Churchill county, was killed in an alkali swamp six miles from Parron, Nev., late yesterday by "Skinney" Paschal, an Indian trailer.

Walters, whose father is a wealthy rancher near Fallon, was called six weeks ago by his local draft board. He armed himself and took to the mountains.

Last Sunday Sheriff Wildes went out to arrest Walters. He was found in an old sheep camp. While the Sheriff was moving to disarm him, Walters shot him.

Walters made his escape into the hills and for five days eluded pursuit.

The reward for Walters is nearly $6000.

MERCY WORKERS FACE FIRE PERIL; ONE DEAD.

FLAMES IN RED CROSS PRINTERY CONSUME BUILDING; TWO CASUALTIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—One woman Red Cross worker was burned to death here today and another badly seared in a fire which destroyed the printing establishment of Walter N. Brunt, where forty of the workers were engaged in turning out Red Cross badges.

Mrs. H. M. Lambert sacrificed her life when she attempted to smother a pan of flaming celluloid with the apron of her Red Cross uniform. While the flames consumed her dress a score of other girl and women workers, all in the Red Cross uniform, attempted to aid her. The fire spread, however, and they were forced to flee.

It caught the dress of Mrs. Kate Brand, who was working alongside Mrs. Lambert. Mrs. Margaret Morgan, secretary of the company, seeing her plight, rushed to her aid and carried her to safety. Mrs. Brand was badly burned before the fire in her clothing could be extinguished. Mrs. Morgan was uninjured.

Others slightly burned were Mrs. Mary Lenormand and Miss Annie Morgan, who were working in the room where the fire broke out.

The building was reduced to a shell by the fire, but it was announced that a new supply of stock for Red Cross badges had been secured late today, and the operations which had been halted by the fire will be resumed Monday. The loss was unofficially placed at $75,000.

CAMOUFLAGED FRUIT IS "AGIN" THE RULES.

"FACING" OF DRIED PRODUCTS BANNED; SALES OFF TILL JULY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—All buying and selling of the 1918 crop of licensed dried fruits in California, including prunes, apples, peaches and raisins, was prohibited today until July 15 by the United States Food Commissioner for California.

Dealing in licensed fruits was to have been permitted after June 1 by a previous ruling. The postponement until July 15 was taken because crop prospects and conditions cannot be determined accurately by June 1, it was announced.

The practice of "facing" the fruits, cleaning and arranging them in boxes to make their appearance more attractive, was prohibited also by today's order on the ground that it was "a wasteful practice."

TERMS HEARST ANTI-AMERICAN

Roosevelt Sums up Disloyal Items in Papers.

Editorials Attacking Allies Aid to Enemy.

Colonel Replies to Burleson Charges.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Charges that the administration had used its powers to stifle honest criticism, while at the same time condoning anti-Ally and anti-American agitation in powerful newspapers, were made by Theodore Roosevelt today in a reply to Postmaster-General Burleson in their controversy over the Postoffice Department's treatment of publications.

The charges were presented to the Senate by Senator Poindexter of Washington.

Col. Roosevelt declared President Wilson personally was responsible for the Postmaster-General's attitude. The Hearst papers, he said, are among those that have received favored treatment.

"Since the war began," said Col. Roosevelt, "the administration has used the very great powers of the government over the public press to stifle honest criticism of governmental inefficiency or misconduct while condoning (which necessarily means encouraging) pro-German, anti-ally and their anti-American agitation in certain powerful papers which defended this inefficiency and misconduct; and it has sought from Congress a great addition to the already existing power it has misused. I believe that the first article of the Constitution guarantees the right of the people to criticise truthfully the conduct of their public servants and that this right cannot be taken away by any law.

"During the past year the action of the administration, taken largely through the Postoffice Department, has been such as to render it a matter of some danger for any man, and especially any newspaper, to speak the truth if that truth be unpleasant to the governmental authorities at Washington.

POLITICAL EFFECT.

"The effect of this attitude has been very marked politically. Such coercive power tends to make upright men, even although they are strong men, cautious about telling truths which ought to be told.

"It forces weak men to praise the administration whether it does well or ill. It invites unscrupulous men who desire to serve Germany to gain license to do so and to secure advantages by praising the administration, especially when it has acted wrongfully or inefficiently, and by supporting it politically.

"There are cases where all competent and honest observers are morally certain that political support has been given and is now being given to the administration by various newspapers, especially German-American and semi-Socialistic newspapers, because of the club thus held over them by the administration. From the very nature of the case there can rarely be positive proof in such cases, but as regards the most striking cases of favoritism, those concerning the Hearst papers, as compared with the suppression of Tom Watson's paper, and the attack (for nominally wholly different reasons) on the Metropolitan (magazine,) I herein give the facts which prove exactly what I have alleged. The Postmaster-General has raised the issue; I meet it squarely; and he shall not evade it. The administration has successfully endeavored to prevent expression of opinion hostile to it, and to put a premium on supporting the President personally and politically without regard to whether his actions are detrimental or beneficial to the country."

ASSAILS CREEL.

Col. Roosevelt also assailed Chairman Creel of the Committee on Public Information and in imputing responsibility for the acts of the Postmaster-General and Mr. Creel, said:

"I deal with Mr. Burleson and his actions purely because he is a representative of President Wilson exactly as is Secretary Baker; exactly as is Mr. Creel. President Wilson is responsible for everything Postmaster-General Burleson and Secretary Baker and Mr. Creel do or leave undone. . . . I have scant patience with the timidity which dares not hold accountable the source of power and only ventures to express displeasure with instruments through which the power is exercised. Messrs. Burleson, Baker, and Creel and their associates possess no importance whatever except that accruing to them because it is through them that the President speaks and acts or refuses or fails to act."

In attacking Creel, Col. Roosevelt declared he "assails publications that truthfully expose shortcomings of the administration and without regard to the facts personally and through his bureau actively upholds the administration in matters such as the aircraft programme, in which there have been grave governmental shortcomings."

PARTISAN PROPAGANDA.

"This is partisan political propaganda of the very worst type," the former President declared, "carried on with public moneys under the guise of public work."

Regarding the Postmaster-General's alleged attitude toward the Hearst papers, Col. Roosevelt said:

"It is true that since we entered the war Hearst has at various times issued editorials professing great patriotic zeal, but it was at the very time when in other editorials he was attacking Allies of America, England and Japan, in the most offensive way and at the very time when he was upholding the Russian Bolsheviki, who had made Russia a traitor to the free nations of the world and a subservient ally of the German autocracy. Such action cannot fail to give aid and comfort to Germany.

"By turning to the New York Tribune of May 8, 1918, the Postmaster-General will find an ardent tribute paid by the former German correspondent of Koelnische Zeitung (Cologne Gazette) to Hearst and to Hearst's editor-in-chief, Arthur Brisbane, for having been auxiliaries of valued influence to Germany especially because of the editorials in the Hearst newspapers.

HEARST EARNS PRAISE.

"Hearst earned the praise thus given him by the servants of the Kaiser, and during the time when he was earning it the Kaiser was saying to Ambassador Gerard, as the latter recites in his book, 'America had better look out after this war. I shall stand no nonsense after the war,' which the Ambassador reported to the administration at Washington, without, by the way, producing any effect upon the administration.

"Mr. Brisbane in the Washington Times ably followed Hearst's lead," Col. Roosevelt continued, citing several editorials from the Washington paper.

"Mr. Burleson has stated that he has received 'more complaints' about my writings than about those of Hearst. In view of Mr. Burleson's record and actions there is small cause for wonder in this. Every pro-German and anti-American, every believer in a feeble American war and a triumphant German peace, every man who follows Hearst would naturally appeal for sympathy to Mr. Burleson in denunciation of what I have done.

AID TO ENEMY.

"Hearst's papers actually stated that it believed 'that our government made a great mistake when it did not meet both English aggression and German aggressions . . . with armed resistance.' Hearst . . . expresses regrets that we did not go to war against the friends who fought for us. Such a proposal is a proposal in the interest of the enemy who murdered our women and children."

Citing a number of other editorials from Hearst newspapers, Col. Roosevelt declares:

"These quotations show that Hearst has steadily endeavored to belittle the vital importance to our country of this war and to excite the hatred of our people against Allies who are faithfully fighting beside us; and such conduct can be of help only to Germany, to the enemy we are fighting. Just so long as Hearst's publications are permitted in the mails, Mr. Burleson is without excuse for excluding any other publications from them.

"The administration by its acquiescence permits the continuance of Hearst's campaign, which necessarily tends to give aid and comfort to Germany and to impair the morale of our own people.

LACK JUSTIFICATION.

"The quotations given above deprive Mr. Burleson, and the administration of which he is part, of any shred of justification for their action and inaction. Mr. Burleson is, of course, only secondarily responsible in the matter. Hearst's papers are so important and Hearst's position among the administration's political friends, supporters and advisers is so prominent and the action in connection with reinstating him in his cable privileges was so purely dependent upon the President himself that no subordinate of the President can accept or be credited with the chief responsibility for any action or inaction of the administration in relation to Hearst. The administration is responsible for the toleration of Hearst's anti-ally, anti-war and, therefore, anti-American activities, and for the reward nevertheless given him; and the service rendered on the other side by Hearst was service to the administration and not to the country."

Col. Roosevelt suggested that the Department of Justice had knowledge of an alleged attempt to boycott the Metropolitan Magazine through its advertisers. He said a man, representing himself to be an agent of the Department of Justice, called on E. M. Mansur of Floral Park, N. Y., and asked him if he were going on advertising next year and then if he were an American citizen.

IN EFFECT A THREAT.

"The last query taken in connection with the first two, contained, of course, an implication that was in effect, a threat," said Col. Roosevelt.

"This shows that the Department of Justice had knowledge of the attempt to boycott the Metropolitan and lent its official power to further it unless the man in question had stolen the special agent's shield which he possessed and forged his name and address."

The agent's name was given as James A. Corcoran, with shield No. 436, giving his address as Box 241, Park Row, New York City.

Taking his charges against the Hearst papers, Col. Roosevelt compared them to Tom Watson's publication in Georgia, saying that the administration crushed Tom Watson, a poor man, while it first tolerated and then encouraged the wealthy, powerful Hearst.

"The government had full notice about Hearst because the Allies had barred him from the cable service and, only through the good offices of this government, have these privileges just now being restored to Hearst."

There was no debate in the Senate on Col. Roosevelt's statement, which was presented without being read. Afterward, Senator Swanson of Virginia, Democrat, had the recent statement made by Postmaster-General Burleson also placed in the record.

Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, the Republican leader, said he ventured "the hope that the incident is closed."

FINNS RESIGN WHEN DICTATOR IS NAMED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

STOCKHOLM, May 25.—The Finnish government has resigned as a result of the appointment of former Premier Zvinhufvud as temporary dictator.

Paasikivi, a member of the old Finnish party and a former Senator, has been asked by Dictator Zvinhufvud to form a Cabinet.

DRIVE GERMANS FROM THE AIR.

portance and the developments of a political and military nature arouse little interest. On each side of the battle front prodigious tasks are being accomplished and gigantic engineering feats are being hurried to completion, but the great war machines remain stationary.

According to most calculations, May promised to be a month of heavy and continuous fighting, but the German militarists hold the initiative and they decided otherwise.

Nothing is certain in war, as every general and statesman can testify. Today the leaders in Armaggedon qualify every prophecy and much of their time is devoted to defending their action. Lloyd George spent his week-end building up the morale of the country by buoyant statements about shipbuilding. Incidentally he used the figures he quoted to defend his administration.

FRESH SLAUGHTERER.

Though Ludendorff is preparing a fresh slaughter, it is really a defense of the German military—a policy of justification which is condemned in Allied lands and which is doomed to failure at home unless it completely vindicates itself.

Every bit of the old glamour of war is gone today. It is a struggle for the defense of home, for the defense of freedom, for the defense of the world against future wars. Ludendorff is fighting for the preservation of his profession.

No body of politicians and soldiers are more on the defensive than those of Germany. Within and without they are subject to constant attack and as their difficulties grow, their desperation increases so that they have abandoned every pretense of recognizing justice and right, not only towards their enemies, but towards their friends.

In a last desperate effort to find a way out, Ludendorff is organizing for a tremendous blow. Daily he calls fresh divisions into line and increases his stock of shells and guns. He waits because he fears failure. He delays because he must succeed now or never will he have another opportunity.

WANTS A LOT.

Ludendorff would like to get the channel ports for submarine bases. He would like to have the Crown Price make a triumphant entry into Paris. He would like to march across the northern frontier of Italy, and to fall upon the rich country of Southeastern France.

If he obtained any of these new objectives, Prussian militarism would enjoy a new lease of life. But America is his nemesis. At every step he takes he finds she offers an obstacle. Ludendorff is getting reinforcements from the east and workers from the Russian provinces. He is driving Austrians into the battle. He is using the mailed fist in Bohemia. All over Central Europe he is mobilizing everything for a vindication of militarism.

Lloyd George says that he could give an exhaustive recital of German blunders. The greatest of these was the decision which brought America into the war.

DESTROYERS TURN TIDE.

Ludendorff might have won with the submarines. He might have saved hundreds of thousands of German lives and millions of marks had not American destroyers come to the support of the British and French as U-boat hunters and convoy protectors and had not American shipyards supplemented the British output.

Ludendorff would have advanced further in March and April had American engineers constructed miles of roads behind the lines. Ludendorff would have less to fear today if America had made the great sacrifice of brigading the American troops with the British and French, and her airmen with the British and French forces.

Europe has exhausted her supply of youthful fighting material. America is sending over the finest in the world. Ludendorff is no fool. He calculates coolly and reasons dispassionately and when Lloyd George says that this is a race between Germany and America, he acknowledges that America will have to settle this war.

BETHUNE GASSED.

Because Ludendorff persists in harassing the British and French troops along the Lys, it is natural to expect that he will try to get to the channel. For the third time within a week the Bethune area has been drenched with gas, but still the German storm troops remain inactive.

Though the peoples' attention has been turned for the moment towards Ireland, it is only a minor question. What happens on the field of battle is the only thing that counts now. If Ludendorff is balked, if he falls short of a decision, the turning point in the war will have been reached because America cannot become exhausted and European belligerents can. If Germany doesn't win this summer she never will. She has a lot of paper money, but can't negotiate it.

after the ship, with American troops on board, had been torpedoed off the southeast coast of England, Thursday morning, virtually every man had gone over the sides of the vessel into the lifeboats.

Edwin and Clyde Bosley of North Troy, Vt., leaped from the deck and were drowned. Had it not been for this, the losses, which are given officially as fifty-six American soldiers, would have been confined to those killed by the explosion of the torpedo. The Bosley brothers were on guard when the ship was struck. There was a sharp list, and they evidently believed the ship was turning over.

The Moldavia was moving forward steadily on a smooth sea and was almost within sight of its destination when the torpedo crashed into the boat's side. The vessel listed sharply. Destroyers began rushing alongside and fore and aft in an endeavor to find a trace of the submarine. Although they prevented the U-boat from reappearing, it is not known whether a hit was scored by the depth charges, which were dropped in a circle around the point from which the torpedo was sent.

SINKING DESCRIBED.

Capt. Johnson, an American infantry officer, who was on board the Moldavia, gave a Daily Telegraph representative this account of the sinking:

"The ship was struck just forward of the engines on the port side. All the troops were in their bunks sleeping in their uniforms. There was a loud explosion and then the ship's whistle was blown, which was a signal for everybody to come on deck. The men had been assigned to particular boats and boat drill had been held every day. The men assembled in perfect order. Their discipline was splendid, the best I ever saw.

"The Moldavia listed to port, but righted herself and ran on for about fifteen minutes to avoid being hit again. Then she began to sink steadily. Orders were given to lower the boats and rafts and we got off.

"Destroyers had been circling around us all the time and as soon as the Moldavia was struck they dropped several depth charges. No second torpedo was fired and we saw nothing of the submarine. We remained in the lifeboats until the ship sank, when we were taken on board the destroyers.

"As soon as the men got aboard the boats and rafts they began laughing and singing and when the ship sank they gave three cheers.

"Of the fifty-three missing, two are corporals and the others privates. I believe all were killed by the explosion."

CHINO-JAPANESE TREATY BALKS KAISER OF PREY.

Barrier Erected to the Spread of German Kultur into Asia.

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, May 25.—It is understood that the British government is not in possession of the text of the Chino-Japanese military treaty signed on May 16, but its terms quoted by Reuters from Paris, as outlined in the Chinese papers, are regarded as substantially accurate. The treaty is considered to be the natural outcome of the position of the two eastern allies and not necessarily as another step toward intervention in Russia. The importance of the treaty is minimized, as the terms are only of contingent application.

The opinion here regarding President Wilson's speech is that America has pledged herself to obtain the territorial reconstruction of Russia, whether as a single state or as a federation of small states, in such a manner that all the territory within Russia's western frontier shall be free from German domination. It is considered that this policy will appeal in all the Allied countries to the capitalist classes who are especially anxious to see Russia freed from German economic influence as well as the moderates who protest against a "cynical peace" at Russia's expense.

INTERVENTION FAVORED.

England strongly favors the policy of Allied intervention in Russia, although it is admitted that intervention at the present moment would be too late to affect the impending German offensive, beyond perhaps serving to draw several Austrian divisions from the Italian front.

No doubt is entertained but that when the present German offensive has failed, Germany will be in a chastened mood and inclined toward a peace of restitution. But it is stated that, although in one sense Russia's fate will be decided on the western front, yet the knowledge by Germany that Japan is actively opposing her policy of expansion eastwards will make Germany more quickly inclined to exchange territory and ambitions for the facilities for resuming her overseas trade.

Regarding Japan's compensation for aiding in the interest of the Allies in Russia, it is believed that Japan would act under a specific undertaking, would withdraw when peace is concluded and would accept only such compensation as Russia would in the future agree to give.

Doubtless Japan would like to have the northern half of Saghalien Island, of which Japan already owns the southern part. This island is practically uninhabited, so that no racial question would arise, and the northern portion of the island contains rich coal and iron mines, which would be very valuable to Japan.

READY FOR AID.

Japan might also make a declaration of Russian disinterestedness similar to the declaration by the United States. The truth is that Lenine and Trotzky are considerably less opposed to intervention than they were formerly, and they are willing to consider any concrete proposition which the Allies place before them.

The French press is unanimous in its approval of the pact. The Journal Des Debats writes:

"One of the strangest results of the European war is to bring closer together China and Japan. Germany gave them a common interest in Eastern Asia. This evolution is taking place under the auspices of the European powers, allies of the two empires of the Far East. If this evolution keeps going normally it will certainly bring important results."

The Temps shows that the Chino-Japanese agreement, "which answers practical needs, at the same time protects the legitimate interests of all. Japan promises to respect Chinese sovereignty and pledges herself to withdraw her troops from Chinese territory as soon as the war operations shall be ended. Japan and China have come to an understanding in order to fight the common enemy, and their agreement is good as long as the two countries are in the war against Germany. As Japan adhered to the London pact, the result is that the principle of no separate peace is now extended all over the Far East.

RUSSIA CONSIDERED.

"Finally the Russian interests are taken into consideration in the manner in which any stipulations in regard to Chinese territory concern them. Japan and China agree to an understanding with the Russian railway company in Eastern China if this railroad is to be used for common military purposes. Therefore, through an extraordinary reversal of history, the railroad which Russia was building for twenty years on Chinese territory, and which transported so many soldiers destined to fight against Japan, today is the object of an agreement between Japan and China against the invaders of Russia. It becomes the instrument of an inter-Allied action in Russia's interest. One can realize now how wise Russian diplomacy was when it effected a reconcilement with Japan after the Manchurian war, and the Germans will see once more that their greed unite against them the nations which seemed the least ready to help each other.

"The German propaganda will vainly attempt to misrepresent the Peking agreement. It is evident that if any danger threatens Chinese independence, it is the west. How could China, with only her own forces, resist a German penetration which would have all Russia as a base if Japan should allow the Germans to establish themselves in Siberia and China? How could she undertake the struggle against them? What would remain of Russia if Japan's action were to abandon the defense of the approach to the Pacific Ocean against German influence, or compromised with it?"

AMERICAN CEMETERY SHELLED BY GERMANS.

BAVARIAN TROOPS LOSE HALF THEIR EFFECTIVES IN NORTHERN BATTLES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Friday, May 24.—Bavarian troops which have just arrived opposite the American sector northwest of Toul suffered casualties of 50 per cent. of their effectives while engaged in the recent offensive in Northern France, according to reliable information.

Virtually all these losses were in killed and wounded, as the Bavarians, it is declared, lost only one man taken prisoner.

The Germans have been deliberately shelling an American cemetery near the front in Picardy. Recently one grave was torn up four times.

It may be cited in contrast that the Americans in this sector a few days ago took a German prisoner who was mortally wounded. He died and was accorded a Christian funeral and burial in the American cemetery near the front. His grave was marked in the same manner as the others.

Except for artillery activity the American front in Picardy has been quiet for several days. There are signs behind the German lines of slight movements, but nothing further to indicate that the enemy is preparing to launch an attack here.

COLLISION, NOT SUB, SINKS THE NECHES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, May 25.—The American steamer Neches was sunk May 14 off Start Point, in Orkney Islands, in a collision with another steamer. The crew of the Neches was saved, while the other vessel sank immediately with the loss of all an board.

Announcement was made by the American Navy Department on May 16 that the steamer Neches had been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine. She was returning without a cargo and all on board were reported saved.

RECALLS ENVOY FROM HAVANA.

firm in the conviction that Mexico was convinced that the United States was responsible for the incident.

MAY AID CUBA.

A break between Cuba and Mexico, it is felt, disrupts practically nothing but a long-standing friendly relation. In the opinion of those in close touch with the subject, it may actually give Cuba a free hand, as the Mexican Foreign Minister says in his announcement, but, perhaps, not in the manner suggested. American agents for some time have been reporting German agents operating in Cuba, some of them crossing frequently to the United States as Cuban citizens or Mexican citizens. A severance of diplomatic relations probably would leave the Cuban government feeling more at liberty to investigate their activities.

When first-class powers are concerned, a break in diplomatic relations inevitably has been followed by war. Between lesser powers this rule often fails to hold good.

A first reading of the statement issued by Foreign Minister Aguilar in Mexico City giving the reasons for the recall of the Mexican Charge to Cuba conveyed to officials here the distinct impression that in breaking off relations the Mexican government actually is expressing its displeasure and resentment at the withholding of Cuban sugar and other supplies.

The fact that these restrictive measures were adopted by the Cuban government in conformity with the requests of the American Food Administration of maintaining absolute control of shipping in the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea doubtless was known to the Mexican authorities.

As Mexico cannot expect to make any successful protest to the Allies or to the United States against these restrictions, officials believe she has had recourse to the plan of bringing pressure to bear directly upon Cuba and it was believed this first step, involving the severance of diplomatic relations, would be followed by retaliatory measures of an economic nature.

EXPORT BAN.

Among these measures would be the prohibition of the exportation to Cuba of food supplies, such as peas and beans, largely consumed in Cuba. It also was regarded as possible that an effort would be made to stop the exportation of Mexican petroleum to the island, though it might be difficult to separate such exports from the vast amount of oil that is shipped from Tampico to the United States and Europe for naval uses.

Interference with this oil supply might easily lead to serious trouble between Mexico and the Allies and America. It is a naval necessity that this source of fuel supply be maintained during the continuance of the war at least, and while there is no disposition to refuse payment of all reasonable taxation on the exports of oil, a stoppage of shipments to the naval forces would bring immediate and vigorous protests.

Officials are unwilling to discuss at this stage the possible effect upon relations between Mexico and the United States of Mexico's break with Cuba. As Cuba is in all but name an ally of the United States, any action even by a neutral government directed against her must be a matter of serious concern to the United States.

WAR IS RULE.

While the almost invariable rule of international law is that a breach of diplomatic relations is followed by actual war between the parties, the present situation is peculiar and there is lacking entirely any of the elements of personal offense and asperity that make hostilities inevitable in such cases.

In fact one high official, after reading Minister Aguilar's statement, expressed the opinion that the present status was not actually equivalent to a complete breach of relations, as was indicated by the cordial tone of the statement, and the expressed desire to maintain unbroken the "fraternal sentiments of solidarity" which have bound Cuba and other Latin-American countries. It also was considered worthy of note that Aguilar said it was with the purpose of avoiding the creation of "tension in our relations" that inspired his action.

It was said officially that Aguilar's course was unusual and no official could recall a precedent for a suspension of diplomatic relations which was designed to prevent a possible quarrel between two governments. The action of the Mexican authorities appeared to be based to some extent upon the assumption that the Cuban government in carrying on the war would be compelled to take steps to which Mexican residents in Cuba would object and that the Mexican government would be obliged to support those objections if diplomatically represented in Havana which might lead to trouble. One of the possibilities of the situation is that suspension of diplomatic relations might also follow between Mexico and Guatemala, Costa Rica and Nicaragua since all of these countries have declared war upon Germany and Mexico's relations with them are similar to those she has had with Cuba. It was not believed the Mexican government would extend such action to the United States, which is at war with Germany and which has adopted measures that affect Mexican trade. Some friction has arisen over the action of the American and British consular officers at Guaymas, in seeking to enforce provisions of the American blacklist.

MEXICO EXPLAINS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, Friday, May 24.—The recall of the Mexican representative to Cuba and the suspending for an indefinite time of the sending of a new representative is explained officially as due to the fact that, because of the war in which Cuba is involved, that government has been obliged to dictate measures that affect the interests of the Mexican government in many instances.

For this reason, it is declared, the making of representations that the Mexican representative would be forced to make to the Cuban government would be useless and would restrict the liberty of action of a friendly nation "which is now in an afflicted situation."

Gen. Candido Aguilar, Minister of Foreign Affairs, tonight gave out a statement for the announced purpose of avoiding a misinterpretation of Mexico's action.

CABINET ACTS.

The statement follows:

"The President of the republic and the Cabinet at a special meeting have decided that it was an imperative necessity to recall the Mexican diplomatic representative to Cuba and to suspend for an indefinite period the sending of a new representative because it was considered an indispensable measure for the high ideals and interests of the two nations in the actual moments of an acute world crisis. The state of war in which Cuba is involved has obliged the government of Cuba to dictate measures which in many cases affect the interests of the Mexican government, and her citizens, and for this reason, the Mexican Legation would be called upon to make frequent representations to the Cuban government, which would only be useless and which would restrict the liberty of action of a friendly nation which is now in an afflicted situation."

"In consequence, our diplomatic efforts would not produce at this time any practical results and would only produce tension in our relations which would have to be cleared up later to maintain unbroken the fraternal sentiments of solidarity which have always bound us to the people of Cuba and all Latin-American countries.

PROOF OF FRIENDSHIP.

"Mexico, upon recalling her diplomatic representatives from Cuba, gives eloquent proof of her consideration and respect for the sovereignty of a friendly government which is now passing through a critical period. At the same time it furnishes proof of confidence, in virtue of which the Mexican government expects her citizens will be treated with all the benevolence that the laws of Cuba and her institutions permit under which protection they will remain in that republic the same as her own nationals.

"In so doing the Mexican government complies faithfully with the line of conduct which President Carranza has proclaimed upon innumerable occasions as the highest ideal of a true society of nations, the equality of nationals and foreigners alike and complete submission of all to the national sovereignty. The crisis having passed, as the one in which originated the revolution in our country is passing over, Mexico and Cuba will be in a better condition to renew diplomatic relations upon the basis of justice and equality only, and the great aspiration of the Mexican government in her new international relations."

The Cuban Minister to Mexico, Dr. Ezequiel Garcia Ensenat, has not yet arrived in Mexico City, having been appointed only recently. During the interval, Dr. Luis Santamaria y Calvo has been acting as Charge. It was reported recenly that he would leave for Cuba on a vacation and would return with the new Minister.

The Mexican Charge at Havana is Alberto O. France.

HELD FRIENDLY ACT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

HAVANA, May 25—A high government official, who refused to allow his name to be used, said today when shown Mexico City dispatches to the effect that diplomatic relations between Cuba and Mexico City had been broken that although the Cuban government had received no previous notice regarding Mexico's action, the dispatches doubtless gave a correct view of the situation. He stated that he considered President Carranza's action to be a friendly one, taken to avoid possible complications later in view of Cuba's situation as one of the warring nations, which find it necessary some times to take unusal action.

No diplomatic exchanges, he said, had taken place which might indicate seriously strained relations between the two countries and he believed that these relations might be considered as only suspended during the war crisis.

The exact situation with reference to the diplomatic relations between the Cuban and Mexican republics is difficult to define in view of the wide divergence of interpretations placed on the departure of the Mexican Charge d'Affairs from Havana, who before sailing, paid a courteous and friendly visit to President Menocal.

Apparently his departure had no more significance than that of any other diplomat returning home to make a report to his government. That the Cuban Charge in Mexico been recalled recently is merely a a coincidence, and not connected with any question pending with Mexico.

Sub-secretary of State Patterson stated to the press that the reports that the diplomatic relations have been broken off were groundless and showed a dispatch from the Cuban Charge in Mexico, Senor Santamaria, stating that the latter had been informed by the Mexican Minister of Foreign Relations that the recall of the Mexican Charge does not constitute a rupture of diplomatic relations.

RATIONING PLEASES LOWER CALIFORNIA.

TWENTY THOUSAND PERSONS ASSURED OF FOOD BY OUR GOOD WILL.

All Lower California, with a population of 20,000 souls and a Governor, is now under a complete rationing system undertaken through the good will of the United States government, according to John B. Elliott, local Collector of Customs. The system providing life's necessities to the entire population of the peninsula is under the direct supervision of Mr. Elliott.

Provision supply centers are located at Calexico, Tia Juana, Andrade, Campo and Tecate, at which the Baja Californians may obtain regular rations, under certain restrictions, and by applying to one of the United States customs stations situated in either of those ports of entry.

Even Gov. Cantu and his immediate household are furnished with food under the same plan obtaining for the other inhabitants.

SYSTEM IS SUCCESS.

"The system of rationing the people of Lower California has been in operation one month," Mr. Elliott said yesterday. "It is now working on a smooth basis. Persons living within immediate distance of the border may put in requisitions for one week's food supplies. Those in the interior may carry back with them supplies for two weeks.

"Meat is not included, for the reason that numbers of cattle are roaming the Lower California pasture lands. Naturally the inhabitants are showing their appreciation of this government's efforts and good will toward keeping them from becoming famine-sufferers.

"No commercial shipments are at present being permitted between California and Mexico. Mexicans in quest of supplies must cross the line and put in a requisition. All purchases must be submitted for inspection at one of the several customs stations before a crate blanche is given for their carriage across the border.

"Regular army rations are allotted to each person, except wheat, flour and sugar, which come under the regulations of the State Food Administrator.

"It is understood that all foodstuffs are destined for the sustenance of employees of agricultural or industrial organizations. In return for food it is strictly stipulated that the products of those organizations, whether crops, minerals or otherwise, must be exported to the United States."

MEXICAN PAPERS AID TEUTON PROPAGANDA.

COPY RECEIVED HERE SHOWS KAISER'S AGENTS WORKING IN THE SOUTH.

That the Germans are making use of Mexican newspapers in their propaganda to try to counteract the reports of German atrocities in Belgium and France was brought directly to the County Council of Defense yesterday by a citizen who had received in the mail a copy of the "Informaciones Inalambrians," published in Mexico City on the 11th inst.

This newspaper contained an alleged dispatch from St. Louis dated March 28 last, making a direct attack on the Associated Press and its officers for spreading the "lies of German atrocities, and embittering the people against Germans and Germany."

John J. Hamilton, a member of the County Council of Defense, has a copy of this paper and will bring it before the meeting of the council on Tuesday. It is said that this paper and others published in Mexico are being mailed not only to Mexicans in Los Angeles, but to others who have a knowledge of the Spanish tongue, who may be influenced to sympathize with Germany. The Associated Press is held up as the medium through which the alleged false reports of German atrocities are being circulated through the United States.

WORK-OR-FIGHT PLAN TO AID LABOR TOTAL.

LIKELY TO ROUSE MANY OUT OF UNNECESSARY LINES OF ENDEAVOR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Formal denial that Provost-Marshal-General Crowder's "work-or-fight" regulations were promulgated with intent to affect labor conditions was made today by Secretary Baker. They are purely military measures, the Secretary said, designed to modify certain privileges in the way of deferred classifications in the draft, now granted some registrants, and are not intended as an indirect conscription of labor.

"My attention has been called," said Mr. Baker, "to the possibilities of some misunderstanding occurring because of the regulation affecting persons engaged in less essential industries.

THE SOLE PURPOSE.

"One suggestion is that this is a beginning of a series of regulations for the purpose of affecting labor. I want to say in the most positive manner that this regulation has nothing to do with labor. The sole purpose is to guide exemption boards in their duty to apply the provisions of law affecting occupation as the reason for exemption and deferred classification."

Replying to a question as to how the regulations would affect workmen of draft age who strike, Mr. Baker said that, while the regulations were silent on that subject, it was not the War Department's intention to affect the labor situation in any way through this indirect method. He added that the whole question of the relation of the government to labor was under the administration of the Labor Department, and that the War Department had no intention of intervening.

WILL INCREASE WORKERS.

That the regulations will affect the labor situation was foreseen, and this effect was a point in favor of the regulations urged by their civilian proponents. The shortage now existing in some lines of industry, particularly the nonskilled branches, is expected to be materially relieved when the regulations become effective and men of draft age now engaged in what the War Department terms unnecessary lines of endeavor turn to essential work.

TRIANGLE FILM COMPANY RADICALLY REORGANIZED.

CHANGES in the personnel of the Triangle Film Corporation were announced yesterday, H. O. Davis, general manager, going to New York to put on the new Triangle film, "The Servant in the House," and Harry E. Aitken taking charge of Triahgle affairs locally.

Thirty members of the Triangle stock company were dropped yesterday, and more may follow. Norman Kerry, formerly leading man with Mary Pickford, comes to act with Olive Thomas, and Christy Cabanne comes as a director. Members of the art title department are dropped, and printed titles will be used hereafter. The scenario writers are dropped and Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman, author of "Hagar Revelly" and other novels, is appointed editorial and scenario director.

The significance of these changes is believed to forecast a gradual return by Triangle to big feature plays with new companies hired for each, instead of the weekly programme now turned out by stock companies.

Traingle operates an eleven-acre studio at Culver City, which, with its five stages, property buildings, dressing-rooms and other buildings, is worth $2,000,000. Triangle also has a ranch northeast of the city, where it takes outdoor western scenes.

ALIENIST DECLARES GRACE LUSK INSANE.

GIRL SLAYER COMPLETES TESTIMONY—EXPERT MENTAL OBSERVER NEXT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WAUKESHA (Wis.) May 25.—Grace Lusk completed telling the story of her life at her trial for slaying Mrs. Mary Newman Roberts today and the defense immediately began the introduction of expert testimony to prove her insane.

Dr. H. W. Powers, formerly of Chicago and now a resident of Milwaukee, in answering a hypothetical question, nearly 5000 words in length, declared that in his opinion the defendant was not of sufficient mental capacity at the time of the tragedy to distinguish between right and wrong and that she was suffering from paranoia.

The question recited at great length Miss Lusk's early history, the fact that she frequently suffered from headaches which rendered her unable to perform her duties as a school teacher; that there was an apparent strain of insanity in her family; that just before meeting Dr. David Roberts she had suffered a nervous breakdown, and her relations with the veterinarian.

After Miss Lusk left the stand her aged father, A. P. Lusk, was called by the defense and testified that when he was on his honeymoon his wife attempted to commit suicide because of some trivial remark he had made.

More alienists will be called to testify for both the prosecution and defense when court opens Monday.

CONNECT WOMAN WITH BOMB PLOTS IN NORTH.

MILTON CARLSON, handwriting expert, and Dist.-Atty. Fickert of San Francisco conferred at Riverside on Friday, it became known last night, as the result of discoveries made by Carlson connecting a woman with the preparedness parade bomb outrage of July 22, 1916, the bombing of the Executive Mansion of Gov. Stephens at Sacramento on the night of December 17, last, and death warnings sent to the Governor in a letter on December 24. Mr. Carlson had been retained by Mr. Fickert some time ago and his examination of letters found in connection with the preparedness parade plot and the warnings to the Governor brought to light important facts.

Mr. Carlson said last night:

"I have been retained by the District Attorney of San Francisco and I conferred with him at Riverside. Further than this I can say nothing."

The death-threat letters sent to Gov. Stephens were mailed from Oakland, were printed from type, except numerals, were signed "C. C. C. of C." and on the back had a crude drawing. The writer of the letter demanded that the Governor place $50,000 under a rock at a specified place in Redwood Canyon at 3 p.m. on December 31.

Mr. Fickert has been attending a convention of district attorneys at Riverside. He could not be reached at the Mission Inn last night.

INDICT TWENTY-EIGHT ON FEDERAL CHARGES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 25.—Twenty-eight indictments, which, according to P. H. Johnson, Assistant United States District Attorney, involved charges of pro-German activities, illegal dealing in opium and post-office robberies, were returned today by the United States grand jury here.

Most of the indictments were placed on secret file.

ARIZONA SOLONS KILL DEPORTATION MEASURE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, May 25.—Roberts's anti-deportation bill was killed this morning in the Senate, which alone was in session. This measure copies the Hayden bill in Congress, but was found by the Judiciary Committee not germane to the call for the special session. Claypool, Roberts and Colter constituted the minority.

Roberts's anti-I.W.W. resolution went to the Labor Committee, which is believed hostile to it.

Rutherford's resolution pledging the resources of the State to the nation for war passed unanimously.

Administration Senators led a fight started at once on a new bill by Campbell, calling a referendum vote on restoration of the death penalty. Hall, in support, called it a war measure, to save life, as eighteen murders had been known in Maricopa county the first year after abolition, compared with three for the previous five years.

Despite opposition the bill went to the Judiciary Committee for determination of the question.

DRIVE FOR WAR FUND HITS TOP.

$100,000,000 Mark Reached and Passed.

Belgian King and Pershing Cable Commendations.

Arizona, Nevada Exceed Their Quotas; California Near.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—With subscriptions to the American Red Cross second war mercy fund estimated now at more than the minimum quota of $100,000,000, workers in the campaign rested tonight in preparation for a strenuous closing day Monday. Officials expect a big outpouring of dollars at the finish and expressed confidence tonight that the fund would be heavily oversubscribed.

A message from King Albert of Belgium to President Wilson thanking the nation for its aid to his stricken people and another from Gen. Pershing commending the Red Cross work in France, were received today and were expected to give impetus to the war fund drive.

The figures for the fourteen divisions, as announced today, follow: Atlantic, including Greater New York, $35,319,518; Central, $10,605,000; Gulf, $2,001,775; Lake, $8,566,475, Mountain, $1,887,550; New England, $6,457,000; Northern, $3,362,000; Northwestern, $2,574,723; Pacific, $4,139,519; Pennsylvania, $6,067,055; Potomac, $3,006,924; Southern, $8,511,047; Southwestern, $10,625,419; foreign $900,000.

SAN FRANCISCO OVER QUOTA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—Subscriptions for the Second War Fund of the Red Cross reached $1,287,446 in this city late today, with workers continuing their active efforts to roll up an oversubscription of $500,000. The city's quota is $1,050,000. The campaign will continue tomorrow.

The Pacific division of the Red Cross was within $127,000 of its $3,730,000 quota of the second war-fund drive, with Arizona and Nevada both having contributed more than their State quotas, it was announced here today by John B. Miller, campaign chairman in this division.

Arizona has exceeded its $200,000 quota by $55,341.36, and Nevada has obtained $81,694.87 against its allotment of $75,000. California's quota is $3,455,000 and subscriptions received total $3,265,090.

SACRAMENTO GOES OVER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 25.—The Sacramento district has exceeded its quota of $112,500 for the second American Red Cross war fund, the Campaign Committee announced today. Subscriptions by pledges and cash donations totaled $188,917.44 today, it was announced. An attempt was being made to double the minimum quota before Monday night.

CANTALOUPES $3 APIECE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 25.—Three dollars apiece was paid for fifteen crated cantaloupes at a theater last night when they were auctioned off for the benefit of the Red Cross. The crate was of the first shipment of the melons from California to Chicago this season.

AMERICAN SURGEONS "MIRACLE WORKERS."

MARVELOUS MORTALITY RECORD BY HOSPITAL UNITS WIN PRAISE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 24.—The work of the American hospital units in Picardy has won high praise from both French and English officials. By the establishment of a non-transportable field hospital near the front line, the first of its kind to be introduced, it has been possible to perform operations which seem to be little short of miraculous.

Of 155 cases recently admitted operations were performed on 118 men and the mortality was only 30 per cent. The doctors say that had it not been for this hospital so near the scene of action the mortality undoubtedly would have been 80 or 90 per cent.

The principal building, formerly the country home of a French count, is said to be one of the most complete hosiptals in Europe and is equipped with every necessity. Near the hospital is a cemetery, in which nearly 100 Americans are buried.

SPANISH VETERANS ELECT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 25.—Capt. George B. Zane of Pennsylvania, was today elected commander-in-chief of the national commandery of the military and naval order of the Spanish-American War, succeeding Col. Taylor E. Brown of Chicago. The order is composed of officers, only, of whom there were 16,000 in the late war.

HUNDRED AND SIXTH BIRTHDAY HONORED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 25. — The 106th birthday of H. P. West of Henleyville, Tehama county, was celebrated yesterday with a picnic which was attended by eighteen members of his family.

West was born in New York May 19, 1812, according to official records. His memory is still good, especially of events which occurred in his early youth. He is hale and hearty and able to wait upon himself and even walks good distances with the aid of only a cane. He makes his home with his grandson, Henry Todd, of Henleyville.

There are five grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

THE FINAL FIGURES.

There will be short talks by several men who have been prominent in the campaign, and Private Blake will speak. Final reports of the teams and other organizations will be received, and a great score board will be placed on the stage to show the actual figures as they are recorded.

One of the interesting features of this campaign has been the donation of old jewelry, silverware, etc., to be turned into cash for the Red Cross. Notable among these efforts is the offering of Mrs. J. Dekker and two daughters, of No. 1114½ South Vermont avenue, (phone 556360) who are offering for sale at that address a collection of solid silver Holland toys, the proceeds to be donated to the Red Cross. These articles are heirlooms from a wealthy Holland family. They are also offering for sale for the same purpose a genuine delft plate, dated July 15, 1798, and inscribed, which was especially baked for a wedding gift on that date. These articles can be seen at the address given above.

CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT.

Chairman H. M. Haldeman made the following statement last night:

"The interest manifested in this Second Red Cross War Fund Campaign is most encouraging, and it is my belief that Los Angeles is going to show herself as patriotic, yes, even more than she has in any of the past campaigns, including both the Liberty Loan and Red Cross drives.

"But the citizens of this city must keep one thing in mind. This campaign will be a failure if Los Angeles cannot point by Monday night to a total of 200,000 subscribers to the second Red Cross war fund drive. Every citizen should keep in mind that he has a duty to perform, no matter what the total in dollars may be, and that it is strictly up to him individually to do his share, and contribute what he can to the Red Cross fund. If we do this, Los Angeles will go greater than 200,000 subscribers.

"Almost every industrial and mercantile plant that has been solicited by the Industrial Committee can report a 100 per cent. contribution from their employees.

"Many reports are coming in from the workers in the precinct organization of people who are not doing their share, or have expressed themselves as not in sympathy with the Red Cross fund. Every one of these names is turned over immediately to the Vigilance Committee, and you can rest assured that prompt action will be taken.

"On account of the great increase in the number of subscribers throughout the United States to this second Red Cross war fund, every community has been disappointed in finding out that they have not ordered enough Red Cross buttons or insignias. Our Los Angeles supply was soon depleted, and we have ordered 250,000 more, which are now being made in San Francisco and shipped to us at the rate of 25,000 to 30,000 daily. We will keep on getting them as long as people ask for them. Every person who leaves their name at precinct headquarters will surely get one, but we would ask them to be patient."

TO GIVE PAGEANT FOR RED CROSS BENEFIT.

NEARLY TWO HUNDRED CHILDREN WILL TAKE PART IN PROGRAMME.

Nearly 200 children will take part in the Red Cross benefit pageant, "Poster Folk of the Magic Peanut," which will be produced at both a matinee and evening performance at the Majestic Theater on June 1. The affair, under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Forsythe Coffey, is sponsored by the Friday Morning Club Red Cross Auxiliary. In it will participate children ranging in age from 3 to 18 years.

The production is a musical extravaganza with interpolated specialty acts, and will be aided by a Filipino orchestra and a jazz band from the Los Angeles High School. Fifty boys of the Urban Military Academy will drill and sing patriotic airs. They will be led by Edward S. Qually.

A unique feature will be a fashion revue, in which a number of Los Angeles society girls will take part. The gowns, hats and wraps have been loaned by the various stores of the city and are said to be of considerable value. A group of the girls will present the latest in bathing suits.

Ballets from the Norma Gould School and the Pithian Academy will apear. "The Bird of Paradise" ballet will be danced by Marie Louise Larkin, a tiny toe danseuse, who will be accompanied by a group of child whistlers. Georgia Williams will give bird imitations.

A number of child film stars will appear, including James Bush, Gloria Joy, Virginia Lee Corbin, Billy Jacobs, Elizabeth Kevane, Billy Fowler and Violet De Hay. Stuart Chester Pollard is to sing, "We've Got to Hang the Kaiser to the Linden Tree," and there will also be a duet by Charlie Lloyd, boy tenor, and Helene Louise. The Los Angeles High School Quartet will give patriotic airs. In addition, there will be a colorful pageant, depicting Liberty coming to the aid of the Allies.

PULLMAN COMPANY'S MANAGEMENT STANDS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 25.—Published reports that the government had taken over management of the carrier business of the Pullman Company are denied by officials of the corporation.

It was stated that there has been no change in the relations between the Pullman Company and the government since December 28, last, when the government took over control of the railroads and the Pullman car service of the railroads.

Mrs. William H. Hinchliffe, No. 20 Myrtle St., Beverly, Mass., writes: "I have taken four bottles of Peruna, and I can say that it has done me a great deal of good for catarrh of the head and throat. I recommend Peruna to all sufferers with catarrh. I do not think I ever felt much better. I am really surprised at the work I can do. I do not think too much praise can be said for Peruna."

Those who object to liquid medicines can procure Peruna Tablets.

RED CROSS DRIVE NOTES.

METAL workers in the shipyards at Los Angeles Harbor will work today and donate their wages to the Red Cross War Fund.

Ralphs Grocery Company reported that every employee in their stores has subscribed to the Red Cross Fund.

Eagles Lodge No. 102 have assessed every member $1, besides the personal donations of members through other channels.

Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank reported 100 per cent. subscription among their 220 employees, totaling $1288.

New York Cloak and Suit House made a 100 per cent. subscription of employees and officers. Also the Los Angeles Creamery.

Llewellyn Iron Works of Los Angeles, employing 600 men, have subscribed $11,000, or an average of $17 per man. The Torrance branch of the company is reported to equal this amount.

Southern Pacific Company sent in subscriptions totaling $14,314.01 from their 5336 employees up to Saturday noon. A large part of this came from Mexican laborers.

Employees of the D. & B. Pump Company of this city, which was reported as 100 per cent. subscribers a few days ago, have asked the company the privilege of working May 30 (Decoration Day) and donating their wages to the Red Cross War Fund. This the company agreed to do and also stated that they would duplicate the amount earned by the men and send it in as the men's donation. An average of $7 a man was made last week.

Precinct No. 416 was the first district in the city to report every resident a subscriber.

The Olive Evening School, which has had the distinction of teaching people of sixty-three nationalities during one school term, has organized a Red Cross Auxiliary that most certainly contains the elements that go into the "melting pot."

The first entertainment of this auxiliary will be given at the school, No. 419 South Olive street, Wednesday night, the programme beginning at 7:45 o'clock. Representatives of five nationalities will be on the programme. There will be some famous Greek wrestlers, experts in Japanese jiu-jitsu, and other interesting athletic features; the Japanese women will have a tea booth, and there will be other booths and attractions.

One of the handsomest Red Cross booths to be found on the Pacific Coast is that in the Hotel Savoy, Sixth street and Grand avenue, in Precinct 300. Use of a part of the lobby was donated by John A. Ewing, the hotel proprietor, and he also furnished the decorations. The booth is decorated with flags, ferns and red, white and blue flowers. Cards and banners were painted by students of Manual Arts High School.

Miss Elizabeth Stephenson is in charge, and is assisted by a committee composed of F. A. Rigley, secretary; John Wilhelm, treasurer; Sally Cook, May Worth, Mrs. James J. Canavan, Mrs. A. J. Fitzsimmons, Mrs. I. W. Jones, Miss Clara Silliman, Katherine Bomberger, Mrs. L. B. Whittemore, Pauline Romney, Lydia Pfluger, Margaret Hibbard, Mrs. Mendenhall, George Proctor, Mr. Brennan, Lloyd Harris and Mr. Smith.

At the opening of the booth, a beautiful diamond and pearl pendant was donated by Mrs. Ralph Starkweather, to be turned into money for the Red Cross. It will be auctioned off from 2 to 5 o'clock next Tuesday. A Chevrolet touring car will also be auctioned at this time, and numerous other articles have been donated to be disposed of at auction for Red Cross funds. The committee hopes to raise sufficient money at this auction to purchase an ambulance for use in France.

The 1120 employees of the Southern California Edison Company have subscribed $9025 to the second Red Cross War Fund, making an average of $8 each.

Employees of Los Alamitos Sugar Company yesterday volunteered to turn over their wages for the afternoon to the Red Cross fund, and in addition to this there have been many individual subscriptions. Los Alamitos had a quota of $17,000 in the recent third Liberty Loan campaign, and its subscription was $42,000.

Henry S. McKee, chairman of the third Liberty Loan campaign, has sent out from the San Francisco headquarters a request for the removal of all Liberty Loan posters from windows and other places where they may be displayed, so that they will not conflict with other campaigns on necessary activities, and distract attention from these things. Business houses of Los Angeles are urged to comply with this request immediately.

The ladies of the Euclid Heights Red Cross Auxiliary will give a tea on Friday at the Y.M.C.A. Building on Stephenson avenue, near Euclid, from 2 o'clock until 5. A short programme will be given, and a silver offering will be taken. Everybody is invited to come and bring their knitting. This auxiliary meets every Wednesday from 10 o'clock in the morning to 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Presbyterian Chapel, on Albertine street, off of Stephenson avenue, one block east of Euclid avenue.

The Red Cross Shop serves luncheon every day. All refreshments are brought in by the committee in charge of the day, and are paid for by them, so that every cent for luncheon, teas and birthday parties is clear profit for the Red Cross. Last Friday the Red Cross Shop cleared $500 from the tearoom alone. An old lady who had just celebrated her golden anniversary brought her wedding cake, and it was cut into sixty slices which brought $1 a slice.

The Red Cross Shop has new goods in every department, donated by the generous merchants of Los Angeles, and by the school children, whose patriotism has been untiring. Many new garments which the school children made are on sale at the shop.

Mrs. H. A. Barnick, of Spokane, whose husband, Lieut. Barnick, is in Siberia with Col. [illegible], entertained the Mizpah Club at luncheon at the Red Cross Shop on Thursday. Her guests remained for the southern programme given by Edward Smyth Jones, poet and lecturer. Among her guests were Mrs. Ed M. Church, Mrs. J. R. Glenn, Mrs. J. Arthur Lewis, Mrs. Felix Stack, Mrs. W. F. Kempf, Mrs. E. J. Kerner, and Mrs. Carl Lataky.

The men of the Santa Fe freight shed, with A. L. Cooper, the assistant foreman, as captain, scored 100 per cent. in the second Red Cross drive. Every man of 160 employed at the shed contributed.

A unique entertainment was given each night last week at the home of Harold D. Nickel, No. 1227 East Forty-second street. Each affair was a success, netting the Red Cross, altogether, several hundred dollars in small change.

Mr. Nickel enlisted in the navy and served three months, but had to resign because of imperfect hearing due to an accident. Determined to do something for the war his opportunity came with Red Cross Week. Marshalling his friends they gave their own and engaged special talent to appear on the front porch of the house before an audience of several hundred persons which gathered nightly to see the show.

Dr. Marietta H. Bowley who is inaugurating a campaign to raise funds for the American Womens' Hospitals for war service, was so impressed by the entertainment that she enlisted the services of Mr. Nickel and Miss Clark of the Entertainment Committee, to prepare a programme for the Garden Fete to be given at Garvanza on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, June 6, for the benefit of the hospitals fund.

The following is a list of the entertainers which Mr. Nickel and Miss Clark managed during Red Cross week.

Hamburger's Fairyland children direction of Margaret Dolan, Little Miss Tubbs, the "Lonesome Honeymoon" cast, direction of Miss Sheila Clark, barefoot dancer, Miss Carl and Miss Cope pupils of Norma Gould, Miss Knidel danced The Flame, Walter LaFrance (Anina) in oriental and Spanish features. The Castle Allen sextette assisted by Miss Gene Barker, Miss Lindorf, violin and Miss Voight, dancer with many other dancers and singers.

Precinct No. 416 through its precinct captain yesterday reported a total of $10,100, which includes a contribution from every person in that precinct.

The Flying Squadron of young women captained by Miss Ruth O'Donnell have turned in during the week $19,000 in contributions from over 725 subscribers. Miss O'Donnell was accompanied by her sister, Miss Doris O'Donnell and the following young women. Misses Rita McCray, Blanche McCray, Rena Stoecke and Catherine Northrup. The Misses O'Donnell are the daughters of P. A. O'Donnell, chief of production of the oil division of the Fuel Administration at Washington.

Next Thursday, Laguna Beach is giving a Red Cross benefit. There will be an open air concert on the beach by members of the Al Malaikah Shrine Band, one or more addresses by four-minute men, and the principal address of the day by an official Red Cross lecturer. The programme will commence at 1:30 p.m.

Due to the fact that the company that manufactures the Red Cross buttons in San Francisco, burned down yesterday, no more buttons can be issued until tomorrow. The buttons will be substituted by ribbons according to H. M. Haldeman of the Red Cross.

NOTABLE PROGRAMME FOR THE RED CROSS.

B'NAI B'RITH LODGE AND AUXILIARY TO GIVE BIG ENTERTAINMENT AT SHRINE.

No less than ten big numbers will be on the programme of the entertainment to be given at the Shrine Auditorium on Tuesday evening, June 18, for the Red Cross benefit, given under the auspices of the Los Angeles Lodge No. 487, I.O.B.B., and the Ladies' Auxiliary. Several leading motion picture actors and actresses, and those of the legitimate and vaudeville stage, have proffered their services. The musical features will include Leopold Godowsky, pianist; Alexander Cherniavsky, violinist, and eminent singers.

The entire gross receipts will be used for the purchase of the finest ambulance it is possible to secure, and the rest turned over to the Red Cross Society.

Ruth St. Denis will be there, with a coterie of her splendid dancers, in an original act, and George Baban, character actor, in one of his famous Italian sketches.

Tickets will be on sale at Platt's Music Store, Tuesday morning. Among the leading Jewish organizations who have already signified their intention of co-operating are the Central Woman's Circle, Council of Jewish Women, Beth Israel Temple, Women's Auxiliary, I.O.B.B., Jewish Social Center, Jewish Institute, Bachelors' Club, Temple Sisterhood, Willing Workers, Young Zionists and others.

ANGELENO OVERSEAS PRAISES RED CROSS.

CAN'T DO ENOUGH TO HELP "GREATEST MOTHER" SAYS LOCAL MAN.

Robert S. Cauvin, a Los Angeles young man, formerly advertising agent of the Salt Lake Route here, has written to T. C. Peck, general passenger agent, an interesting letter from France, where Cauvin is now serving as a lieutenant in the American Expeditionary Force. He especially praises the work of the Red Cross and the Y.M.C.A. are doing. He says:

"Believe me, you who are over there contributing to the Liberty Loans, Red Cross, Y.M.C.A., etc., are doing a grand work for us who are over here. Both the Y.M.C.A. and the Red Cross are doing splendid work over here and deserve all the support they can get from the home folks.

"The Y.M.C.A. soup kitchens at the front are as much life savers as the Red Cross workers themselves. And the French have never ceased to marvel at the work of the American men and women of these two societies, and they are most deeply grateful for this aid.

"Being part French myself, I get into very close contact with the French officers and they all have the same sentiment. And if they admire us we admire them. When you think that these people have had a foreign enemy on their soil for four years and that they have made every sacrifice imaginable during that time, their spirit is nothing short of wonderful. And the women send their sons and husbands back to the front with pride that they are able to do so for France."

ARMY CHAPLAIN DIES AT HIS HOME HERE.

MAJ. EDWARD H. FITZ GERALD HAD BEEN WITH SERVICE TWENTY YEARS.

Maj. Edward H. Fitz Gerald, United States Army chaplain since 1898, died Friday night at his home, No. 1405 Rochester street, Sawtelle. Maj. Fitz Gerald was in the Santiago campaign, and immediately afterwards, before fully recovered from Cuban fever, was ordered to the Philippines. There malarial fever attacked him, but he kept at his duties, though his system became weakened. A little over a month ago he was compelled to leave his post at Fort Douglas, Utah, and come to his home here.

Edward Fitz Gerald was born on his father's estate near Ballyneety, County of Limerick, Ireland, fifty-five years ago. He studied for the priesthood in Dublin and was ordained in Rome. His two sisters are nuns, and one of his brothers is a Jesuit priest at Leigh, Eng. Two others are physicians in Ireland.

When Father Fitz Gerald first came to this country, he served as a parish priest under Bishop Lawrence Scanlon in Salt Lake City. Later he had parishes at St. Joseph, Mo., and at Cheyenne, Wyo. For five years before the Spanish War he was assistant to the head of the Catholic Indian Bureau in Washington, D. C. In his army service, he was for ten years chaplain of the Twenty-second Regiment, United States Infantry. Bishop John J. Cantwell was a close friend of his family in the old country.

The body will be taken from the parlors of Cunningham and O'Connor to St. Vibiana's Cathedral at 9:15 o'clock Tuesday morning. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

GOVERNMENT LAND IS OPENED TO SETTLERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 25.—A release of 41,349 acres in lieu of school lands, said to be the largest single release ever filed in the California State Land Office, was received today by W. S. Kingsbury, Surveyor-General, from the United States government. The release covers timber and grazing lands in Plumas, Modoc and Lassen counties.

The action of the government opened land to settlement to various persons, some of whom made filings on the land in 1891. In cases where the original applicants have died, their heirs may take possession of the land.

ARMY STRENGTH IS TWO MILLION.

American Airplanes in France Number 1316.

3760 More in United States, Dent Declares.

Work or Fight Order Doesn't Affect Labor.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Full strength of the army, including National Army, National Guard and regulars now is 2,000,000 men, Chairman Dent of the House Military Committee announced today in his report on the army appropriation bill:

The total number of officers in the army was given in the report at 140,133, while the total of men before the April draft call was 1,506,152. The drafts since that time carry the total of enlisted men slightly above 2,000,000.

There are 504,677 men in the Regular Army, the report said; 510,963 in the National Army, 411,952 in the National Guard, and 78,560 in the Reserve Corps.

"While some mistakes and delays have occurred," the report said, "on the whole we think the country is to be congratulated that after a little more than a year from the date of the declaration of war our country has constructed a wonderful military establishment."

"While it has been generally rumored that we had no airships with our army in France, the fact is that we have between 1300 and 1400 of them, at least 200 of which are fighting machines," the report says.

The report of the committee disclosed that the exact number of American airplanes in France is 1316, of which 323 are combat planes. There are 3760 planes in the United States, the report said.

The army bill, carrying direct appropriations of $9,583,349,808 and authorizations amounting to $2,458,332,801, was reported to the House today by the Military Committee. House leaders planned to begin its consideration Monday.

SOME ITEMS.

Among the items approved are: Ordnance stores, ammunition, $390,000,000; automatic machine rifles, $237,144,000; armored motor cars, $75,550,000; maintenance of provost-marshal-general's department, $15,762,000.

Substitute estimates of appropriation for the Quartermaster's Corps of the army, increasing the original estimate by $1,335,100,347 for the next fiscal year, was submitted to Congress today by the War Department. The revised figures are based on the organized activities of the Quartermaster's Corps, the total estimate being for $5,781,910,383.

The highest estimate is $1,589,624,745 for army pay. Transportation calls for $635,566,697 and construction $181,674,785.

DOESN'T AFFECT LABOR.

Secretary Baker today issued a formal statement declaring that Provost-Marshal-General Crowder's "work-or-fight" regulations were promulgated without any intention of affecting to the least degree labor conditions. He said it was not the intention of the War Department to affect labor by military regulations or in any other way.

"My attention has been called," said Mr. Baker, "to the possibilities of some misunderstanding occurring because of the regulation affecting persons engaged in less essential industries.

"One suggestion is that this is a beginning of a series of regulations for the purpose of affecting labor. I want to say in the most positive manner that this regulation has nothing to do with labor. The sole purpose is to guide exemption boards in their duty to apply the provisions of law affecting occupation as the reason for exemption and deferred classification."

"BLIND PIG" TERM CUT TWENTY DAYS.

POLICE CHIEF WRITES JUDGE RICHARDSON ASKING AN EXPLANATION.

Following an investigation made by his office into the report that a man convicted of conducting a blind pig was out on liberty twenty days before his sentence expired, Chief of Police Butler yesterday wrote a letter to Police Judge Richardson, asking for a committment for the unserved time or some explanation of the circumstances of the case. Should Police Judge Richardson issue a committment, the police will make an effort to arrest the man and bring him back to jail, Chief Butler declared.

The Chief began the investigation when members of the metropolitan squad, who arrested and prosecuted the man, reported seeing him on the street ten days after he was sent to jail. The man is J. H. Wallace, who was arrested by Officers Bergman and Dillon in a store at No. 2008 East Seventh street, charged with selling half-pints of whisky at $1.50 a bottle.

Wallace was taken before Judge Richardson, found guilty, and sentenced to thirty days. This sentence, the police officers say, was so entered on the bailiff's sheet, and from it records were made for the Chief's office, the desk sergeant's blotter, and the records of the metropolitan squad. In each case the sentence was entered as thirty days. The court dockets, according to the clerk, also show thirty days as the sentence.

Further investigations made by the officers on the case disclosed that the committment slip sent from Judge Richardson's court to the jailor called for a ten-day sentence. Accordingly, Wallace served ten days and was released.

How it happened that every record with the exception of the one sent to the jailor was written as thirty days, and where the mistake was made, and by whom, is what the Chief is trying to determine.

"Judge Richardson's reply to my letter will probably explain the circumstances. If a mistake was made in letting the prisoner out before his time, the man should be classed as an escape and brought back. If the sentence was for ten days only, then we shall have to change our records," Chief Butler said.

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and cannot salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.

THE FINAL FIGURES.

There will be short talks by several men who have been prominent in the campaign, and Private Blake will speak. Final reports of the teams and other organizations will be received, and a great score board will be placed on the stage to show the actual figures as they are recorded.

One of the interesting features of this campaign has been the donation of old jewelry, silverware, etc., to be turned into cash for the Red Cross. Notable among these efforts is the offering of Mrs. J. Dekker and two daughters, of No. 1114½ South Vermont avenue, (phone 556360) who are offering for sale at that address a collection of solid silver Holland toys, the proceeds to be donated to the Red Cross. These articles are heirlooms from a wealthy Holland family. They are also offering for sale for the same purpose a genuine delft plate, dated July 15, 1798, and inscribed, which was especially baked for a wedding gift on that date. These articles can be seen at the address given above.

CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT.

Chairman H. M. Haldeman made the following statement last night:

"The interest manifested in this Second Red Cross War Fund Campaign is most encouraging, and it is my belief that Los Angeles is going to show herself as patriotic, yes, even more than she has in any of the past campaigns, including both the Liberty Loan and Red Cross drives.

"But the citizens of this city must keep one thing in mind. This campaign will be a failure if Los Angeles cannot point by Monday night to a total of 200,000 subscribers to the second Red Cross war fund drive. Every citizen should keep in mind that he has a duty to perform, no matter what the total in dollars may be, and that it is strictly up to him individually to do his share, and contribute what he can to the Red Cross fund. If we do this, Los Angeles will go greater than 200,000 subscribers.

"Almost every industrial and mercantile plant that has been solicited by the Industrial Committee can report a 100 per cent. contribution from their employees.

"Many reports are coming in from the workers in the precinct organization of people who are not doing their share, or have expressed themselves as not in sympathy with the Red Cross fund. Every one of these names is turned over immediately to the Vigilance Committee, and you can rest assured that prompt action will be taken.

"On account of the great increase in the number of subscribers throughout the United States to this second Red Cross war fund, every community has been disappointed in finding out that they have not ordered enough Red Cross buttons or insignias. Our Los Angeles supply was soon depleted, and we have ordered 250,000 more, which are now being made in San Francisco and shipped to us at the rate of 25,000 to 30,000 daily. We will keep on getting them as long as people ask for them. Every person who leaves their name at precinct headquarters will surely get one, but we would ask them to be patient."

TO GIVE PAGEANT FOR RED CROSS BENEFIT.

NEARLY TWO HUNDRED CHILDREN WILL TAKE PART IN PROGRAMME.

Nearly 200 children will take part in the Red Cross benefit pageant, "Poster Folk of the Magic Peanut," which will be produced at both a matinee and evening performance at the Majestic Theater on June 1. The affair, under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Forsythe Coffey, is sponsored by the Friday Morning Club Red Cross Auxiliary. In it will participate children ranging in age from 3 to 18 years.

The production is a musical extravaganza with interpolated specialty acts, and will be aided by a Filipino orchestra and a jazz band from the Los Angeles High School. Fifty boys of the Urban Military Academy will drill and sing patriotic airs. They will be led by Edward S. Qually.

A unique feature will be a fashion revue, in which a number of Los Angeles society girls will take part. The gowns, hats and wraps have been loaned by the various stores of the city and are said to be of considerable value. A group of the girls will present the latest in bathing suits.

Ballets from the Norma Gould School and the Pithian Academy will apear. "The Bird of Paradise" ballet will be danced by Marie Louise Larkin, a tiny toe danseuse, who will be accompanied by a group of child whistlers. Georgia Williams will give bird imitations.

A number of child film stars will appear, including James Bush, Gloria Joy, Virginia Lee Corbin, Billy Jacobs, Elizabeth Kevane, Billy Fowler and Violet De Hay. Stuart Chester Pollard is to sing, "We've Got to Hang the Kaiser to the Linden Tree," and there will also be a duet by Charlie Lloyd, boy tenor, and Helene Louise. The Los Angeles High School Quartet will give patriotic airs. In addition, there will be a colorful pageant, depicting Liberty coming to the aid of the Allies.

PULLMAN COMPANY'S MANAGEMENT STANDS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 25.—Published reports that the government had taken over management of the carrier business of the Pullman Company are denied by officials of the corporation.

It was stated that there has been no change in the relations between the Pullman Company and the government since December 28, last, when the government took over control of the railroads and the Pullman car service of the railroads.

Mrs. William H. Hinchliffe, No. 20 Myrtle St., Beverly, Mass., writes: "I have taken four bottles of Peruna, and I can say that it has done me a great deal of good for catarrh of the head and throat. I recommend Peruna to all sufferers with catarrh. I do not think I ever felt much better. I am really surprised at the work I can do. I do not think too much praise can be said for Peruna."

Those who object to liquid medicines can procure Peruna Tablets.

RED CROSS DRIVE NOTES.

METAL workers in the shipyards at Los Angeles Harbor will work today and donate their wages to the Red Cross War Fund.

Ralphs Grocery Company reported that every employee in their stores has subscribed to the Red Cross Fund.

Eagles Lodge No. 102 have assessed every member $1, besides the personal donations of members through other channels.

Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank reported 100 per cent. subscription among their 220 employees, totaling $1288.

New York Cloak and Suit House made a 100 per cent. subscription of employees and officers. Also the Los Angeles Creamery.

Llewellyn Iron Works of Los Angeles, employing 600 men, have subscribed $11,000, or an average of $17 per man. The Torrance branch of the company is reported to equal this amount.

Southern Pacific Company sent in subscriptions totaling $14,314.01 from their 5896 employees up to Saturday noon. A large part of this came from Mexican laborers.

Employees of the D. & B. Pump Company of this city, which was reported as 100 per cent. subscribers a few days ago, have asked the company the privilege of working May 30 (Decoration Day) and donating their wages to the Red Cross War Fund. This the company agreed to do and also stated that they would duplicate the amount earned by the men and send it in as the men's donation. An average of $7 a man was made last week.

Precinct No. 416 was the first district in the city to report every resident a subscriber.

The Olive Evening School, which has had the distinction of teaching people of sixty-three nationalities during one school term, has organized a Red Cross Auxiliary that most certainly contains the elements that go into the "melting pot."

The first entertainment of this auxiliary will be given at the school, No. 419 South Olive street, Wednesday night, the programme beginning at 7:45 o'clock. Representatives of five nationalities will be on the programme. There will be some famous Greek wrestlers, experts in Japanese jiu-jitsu, and other interesting athletic features; the Japanese women will have a tea booth, and there will be other booths and attractions.

One of the handsomest Red Cross booths to be found on the Pacific Coast is that in the Hotel Savoy, Sixth street and Grand avenue, in Precinct 800. Use of a part of the lobby was donated by John A. Ewing, the hotel proprietor, and he also furnished the decorations. The booth is decorated with flags, ferns and red, white and blue flowers. Cards and banners were painted by students of Manual Arts High School.

Miss Elizabeth Stephenson is in charge, and is assisted by a committee composed of F. A. Ripley, secretary; John Wilhelm, treasurer; Sally Cook, May Worth, Mrs. James J. Canavan, Mrs. A. J. Fitzsimmons, Mrs. I. W. Jones, Miss Clara Silliman, Katherine Bomberger, Mrs. L. B. Whittemore, Pauline Bonney, Lydia Pfluger, Margaret Hibbard, Mrs. Mendenhall, George Proctor, Mr. Brennam, Lloyd Harris and Mr. Sault.

At the opening of the booth, a beautiful diamond and pearl pendant was donated by Mrs. Ralph Starkweather, to be turned into money for the Red Cross. It will be auctioned off from 3 to 5 o'clock next Tuesday. A Chevrolet touring car will also be auctioned at this time, and numerous other articles have been donated to be disposed of at auction for Red Cross funds. The committee hopes to raise sufficient money at this auction to purchase an ambulance for use in France.

The 1130 employees of the Southern California Edison Company have subscribed $9025 to the second Red Cross War Fund, making an average of $8 each.

Employees of Los Alamitos Sugar Company yesterday volunteered to turn over their wages for the afternoon to the Red Cross fund, and in addition to this there have been many individual subscriptions. Los Alamitos had a quota of $17,000 in the recent third Liberty Loan campaign, and its subscription was $42,000.

Henry S. McKee, chairman of the third Liberty Loan campaign, has sent out from the San Francisco headquarters a request for the removal of all Liberty Loan posters from windows and other places where they may be displayed, so that they will not conflict with other campaigns on necessary activities, and distract attention from these things. Business houses of Los Angeles are urged to comply with this request immediately.

The ladies of the Euclid Heights Red Cross Auxiliary will give a tea on Friday at the Y.M.C.A. Building on Stephenson avenue, near Euclid, from 2 o'clock until 5. A short programme will be given, and a silver offering will be taken. Everybody is invited to come and bring their knitting. This auxiliary meets every Wednesday from 10 o'clock in the morning to 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Presbyterian Chapel, on Albertine street, off of Stephenson avenue, one block east of Euclid avenue.

The Red Cross Shop serves luncheon every day. All refreshments are brought in by the committee in charge of the day, and are paid for by them, so that every cent for luncheon, teas and birthday parties is clear profit for the Red Cross. Last Friday the Red Cross Shop cleared $500 from the tearoom alone. An old lady who had just celebrated her golden anniversary brought her wedding cake, and it was cut into sixty slices which brought $1 a slice.

The Red Cross Shop has new goods in every department, donated by the generous merchants of Los Angeles, and by the school children, whose patriotism has been untiring. Many new garments which the school children made are on sale at the shop.

Mrs. H. A. Barnick, of Spokane, whose husband, Lieut. Barnick, is in Siberia with Col. [illegible], entertained the Mizpah Club at luncheon at the Red Cross Shop on Thursday. Her guests remained for the southern programme given by Edward Smyth Jones, poet and lecturer. Among her guests were Mrs. Ed M. Church, Mrs. J. E. Glenn, Mrs. J. Arthur Lewis, Mrs. Felix Slack, Mrs. W. F. Kempf, Mrs. E. J. Kerner, and Mrs. Carl Lataly.

The men of the Santa Fe freight shed, with A. L. Cooper, the assistant foreman, as captain, scored 100 per cent. in the second Red Cross drive. Every man of 160 employed at the shed contributed.

A unique entertainment was given each night last week at the home of Harold D. Nickel, No. 1327 East Forty-second street. Each affair was a success, netting the Red Cross, altogether, several hundred dollars in small change.

Mr. Nickel enlisted in the navy and served three months, but had to resign because of imperfect hearing due to an accident. Determined to do something for the war his opportunity came with Red Cross Week. Marshalling his friends they gave their own and engaged special talent to appear on the front porch of the house before an audience of several hundred persons which gathered nightly to see the show.

Dr. Marietta R. Bowley who is inaugurating a campaign to raise funds for the American Womens' Hospitals for war service, was so impressed by the entertainment that she enlisted the services of Mr. Nickel and Miss Clark of the Entertainment Committee, to prepare a programme for the Garden Fete to be given at Garvanza on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, June 6, for the benefit of the hospitals fund.

The following is a list of the entertainers which Mr. Nickel and Miss Clark managed during Red Cross week.

Hamburger's Fairyland children direction of Margaret Dolan, Little Miss Tubbs, the "Lonesome Honeymoon" cast, direction of Miss Sheila Clark, barefoot dancer, Miss Carl and Miss Cope pupils of Norma Gould, Miss Knidel danced The Flame, Walter LaFrance (Anina) in oriental and Spanish features. The Castle Allen sextette assisted by Miss Gene Barker, Miss Lindoff, violin and Miss Voight, dancer with many other dancers and singers.

Precinct No. 416 through its precinct captain yesterday reported a total of $10,100, which includes a contribution from every person in that precinct.

The Flying Squadron of young women captained by Miss Ruth O'Donnell have turned in during the week $19,000 in contributions from over 725 subscribers. Miss O'Donnell was accompanied by her sister, Miss Doris O'Donnell and the following young women: Misses Rita McCray, Blanche McCray, Rena Stouhe and Catherine Northrup. The Misses O'Donnell are the daughters of P. A. O'Donnell, chief of production of the oil division of the Fuel Administration at Washington.

Next Thursday, Laguna Beach is giving a Red Cross benefit. There will be an open air concert on the beach by members of the Al Malaikah Shrine Band, one or more addresses by four-minute men, and the principal address of the day by an official Red Cross lecturer. The programme will commence at 1:30 p.m.

Due to the fact that the company that manufactures the Red Cross buttons in San Francisco, burned down yesterday, no more buttons can be issued until tomorrow. The buttons will be substituted by ribbons according to H. M. Haldeman of the Red Cross.

NOTABLE PROGRAMME FOR THE RED CROSS.

B'NAI B'RITH LODGE AND AUXILIARY TO GIVE BIG ENTERTAINMENT AT SHRINE.

No less than ten big numbers will be on the programme of the entertainment to be given at the Shrine Auditorium on Tuesday evening, June 18, for the Red Cross benefit, given under the auspices of the Los Angeles Lodge No. 487, I.O.B.B., and the Ladies' Auxiliary. Several leading motion picture actors and actresses, and those of the legitimate and vaudeville stage, have proffered their services. The musical features will include Leopold Godowsky, pianist; Alexander Cherniavsky, violinist, and eminent singers.

The entire gross receipts will be used for the purchase of the finest ambulance it is possible to secure, and the rest turned over to the Red Cross Society.

Ruth St. Denis will be there, with a coterie of her splendid dancers, in an original act, and George Baban, character actor, in one of his famous Italian sketches.

Tickets will be on sale at Platt's Music Store, Tuesday morning. Among the leading Jewish organizations who have already signified their intention of co-operating are the Central Woman's Circle, Council of Jewish Women, Beth Israel Temple, Women's Auxiliary, I.O.B.B., Jewish Social Center, Jewish Institute, Bachelors' Club, Temple Sisterhood, Willing Workers, Young Zionists and others.

ANGELENO OVERSEAS PRAISES RED CROSS.

CAN'T DO ENOUGH TO HELP "GREATEST MOTHER" SAYS LOCAL MAN.

Robert S. Cauvin, a Los Angeles young man, formerly advertising agent of the Salt Lake Route here, has written to T. C. Peck, general passenger agent, an interesting letter from France, where Cauvin is now serving as a lieutenant in the American Expeditionary Force. He especially praises the work of the Red Cross and the Y.M.C.A. are doing. He says:

"Believe me, you who are over there contributing to the Liberty Loans, Red Cross, Y.M.C.A., etc., are doing a grand work for us who are over here. Both the Y.M.C.A. and the Red Cross are doing splendid work over here and deserve all the support they can get from the home folks.

"The Y.M.C.A. soup kitchens at the front are as much life savers as the Red Cross workers themselves. And the French have never ceased to marvel at the work af the American men and women of these two societies, and they are most deeply grateful for this aid.

"Being part French myself, I get into very close contact with the French officers and they all have the same sentiment. And if they admire us we admire them. When you think that these people have had a foreign enemy on their soil for four years and that they have made every sacrifice imaginable during that time, their spirit is nothing short of wonderful. And the women send their sons and husbands back to the front with pride that they are able to do so for France."

ARMY CHAPLAIN DIES AT HIS HOME HERE.

MAJ. EDWARD H. FITZ GERALD HAD BEEN WITH SERVICE TWENTY YEARS.

Maj. Edward H. Fitz Gerald, United States Army chaplain since 1898, died Friday night at his home, No. 1405 Rochester street, Sawtelle. Maj. Fitz Gerald was in the Santiago campaign, and immediately afterwards, before fully recovered from Cuban fever, was ordered to the Philippines. There malarial fever attacked him, but he kept at his duties, though his system became weakened. A little over a month ago he was compelled to leave his post at Fort Douglas, Utah, and come to his home here.

Edward Fitz Gerald was born on his father's estate near Ballyneety, County of Limerick, Ireland, fifty-five years ago. He studied for the priesthood in Dublin and was ordained in Rome. His two sisters are nuns, and one of his brothers is a Jesuit priest at Leigh, Eng. Two others are physicians in Ireland.

When Father Fitz Gerald first came to this country, he served as a parish priest under Bishop Lawrence Scanlon in Salt Lake City. Later he had parishes at St. Joseph, Mo., and at Cheyenne, Wyo. For five years before the Spanish War he was assistant to the head of the Catholic Indian Bureau in Washington, D. C. In his army service, he was for ten years chaplain of the Twenty-second Regiment, United States Infantry. Bishop John J. Cantwell was a close friend of his family in the old country.

The body will be taken from the parlors of Cunningham and O'Connor to St. Vibiana's Cathedral at 9:15 o'clock Tuesday morning. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

GOVERNMENT LAND IS OPENED TO SETTLERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 25.—A release of 41,349 acres in lieu of school lands, said to be the largest single release ever filed in the California State Land Office, was received today by W. S. Kingsbury, Surveyor-General, from the United States government. The release covers timber and grazing lands in Plumas, Modoc and Lassen counties.

The action of the government opened land to settlement to various persons, some of whom made filings on the land in 1891. In cases where the original applicants have died, their heirs may take possession of the land.

ARMY STRENGTH IS TWO MILLION.

American Airplanes in France Number 1316.

3760 More in United States, Dent Declares.

Work or Fight Order Doesn't Affect Labor.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Full strength of the army, including National Army, National Guard and regulars now is 2,000,000 men, Chairman Dent of the House Military Committee announced today in his report on the army appropriation bill:

The total number of officers in the army was given in the report at 140,133, while the total of men before the April draft call was 1,506,152. The drafts since that time carry the total of enlisted men slightly above 2,000,000.

There are 504,677 men in the Regular Army, the report said; 510,963 in the National Army, 411,952 in the National Guard, and 78,560 in the Reserve Corps.

"While some mistakes and delays have occurred," the report said, "on the whole we think the country is to be congratulated that after a little more than a year from the date of the declaration of war our country has constructed a wonderful military establishment."

"While it has been generally rumored that we had no airships with our army in France, the fact is that we have between 1300 and 1400 of them, at least 200 of which are fighting machines," the report says.

The report of the committee disclosed that the exact number of American airplanes in France is 1316, of which 323 are combat planes. There are 3760 planes in the United States, the report said.

The army bill, carrying direct appropriations of $9,583,349,808 and authorizations amounting to $2,458,332,801, was reported to the House today by the Military Committee. House leaders planned to begin its consideration Monday.

SOME ITEMS.

Among the items approved are: Ordnance stores, ammunition, $390,000,000; automatic machine rifles, $237,144,000; armored motor cars, $75,550,000; maintenance of provost-marshal-general's department, $15,762,000.

Substitute estimates of appropriation for the Quartermaster's Corps of the army, increasing the original estimate by $1,335,100,347 for the next fiscal year, was submitted to Congress today by the War Department. The revised figures are based on the organized activities of the Quartermaster's Corps, the total estimate being for $5,781,910,383.

The highest estimate is $1,589,624,745 for army pay. Transportation calls for $635,566,697 and construction $181,674,785.

DOESN'T AFFECT LABOR.

Secretary Baker today issued a formal statement declaring that Provost-Marshal-General Crowder's "work-or-fight" regulations were promulgated without any intention of affecting to the least degree labor conditions. He said it was not the intention of the War Department to affect labor by military regulations or in any other way.

"My attention has been called," said Mr. Baker, "to the possibilities of some misunderstanding occurring because of the regulation affecting persons engaged in less essential industries.

"One suggestion is that this is a beginning of a series of regulations for the purpose of affecting labor. I want to say in the most positive manner that this regulation has nothing to do with labor. The sole purpose is to guide exemption boards in their duty to apply the provisions of law affecting occupation as the reason for exemption and deferred classification."

"BLIND PIG" TERM CUT TWENTY DAYS.

POLICE CHIEF WRITES JUDGE RICHARDSON ASKING AN EXPLANATION.

Following an investigation made by his office into the report that a man convicted of conducting a blind pig was out on liberty twenty days before his sentence expired, Chief of Police Butler yesterday wrote a letter to Police Judge Richardson, asking for a committment for the unserved time or some explanation of the circumstances of the case. Should Police Judge Richardson issue a committment, the police will make an effort to arrest the man and bring him back to jail, Chief Butler declared.

The Chief began the investigation when members of the metropolitan squad, who arrested and prosecuted the man, reported seeing him on the street ten days after he was sent to jail. The man is J. H. Wallace, who was arrested by Officers Bergman and Dillon in a store at No. 2008 East Seventh street, charged with selling half-pints of whisky at $1.50 a bottle.

Wallace was taken before Judge Richardson, found guilty, and sentenced to thirty days. This sentence, the police officers say, was so entered on the bailiff's sheet, and from it records were made for the Chief's office, the desk sergeant's blotter, and the records of the metropolitan squad. In each case the sentence was entered as thirty days. The court dockets, according to the clerk, also show thirty days as the sentence.

Further investigations made by the officers on the case disclosed that the committment slip sent from Judge Richardson's court to the jailor called for a ten-day sentence. Accordingly, Wallace served ten days and was released.

How it happened that every record with the exception of the one sent to the jailor was written as thirty days, and where the mistake was made, and by whom, is what the Chief is trying to determine.

"Judge Richardson's reply to my letter will probably explain the circumstances. If a mistake was made in letting the prisoner out before his time, the man should be classed as an escape and brought back. If the sentence was for ten days only, then we shall have to change our records," Chief Butler said.

Trust Me! Try Dodson's Liver Tone! Calomel Harms Liver and Bowels

Read my guarantee! Liven your liver and bowels and get straightened up without taking sickening calomel. Don't lose a day's work!

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and cannot salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.

The more you put into your HOME, the more you will receive from it. Every effort expended, every dollar invested, in making your HOME a place of comfort, delight and inspiration, will pay you back with compound interest. In these trying times, this is more apparent than ever. It is something every one of us can well afford to think seriously about.

We have cheerfully met every Goverment request and demand.

Now let us think of the ones here. As Los Angeles is not a munition town and sells very little of the war supplies, the ones at home must be taken care of.

Taking our boys into service leaves the burden of home welfare upon us here.

Our Government is going to regularly make further demands upon us.

To meet these conditions, every industry here should be worked overtime and every man, woman and child should do his best cheerfully.

Therefore, let us all work overtime, smile overtime, and use our dollars overtime.

SECOND LAUNCHING.

To patriotic music from the thirty-piece Los Angeles Shipyard Marine Band the Westzone went down the ways, also stern first, one hour and thirteen minutes after the Bellota touched the water.

The big steel freighter was christened by Mrs. Joseph F. Sartori in the presence of a considerable company. One minute after she had left the ways the first plate of the keel of another vessel was laid on the spot vacated. The ship thus started is the eleventh to be laid down by the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, which has contracts for thirty vessels to be built for the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Four had been launched prior to last night and all the six ways are now occupied.

The United States Shipping Board was represented at the launching by A. G. Anderson and the company by President Fred L. Baker, General Manager Samuel L. Naphthaly, Supt. F. A. Gardner, Assistant Secretary Francis P. Dunckerlee and a number of stockholders.

Aside from patriotic selections by the marine band there was no formal programme.

The Westzone's machinery will be installed at once and she will be ready for delivery within a few weeks.

SAN DIEGO MAY GET CONCRETE SHIPYARD.

SITE IS AMONG RECOMMENDATIONS OF EXPERTS OF SHIPPING BOARD.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 25. — The sites for five government yards for building concrete ships have been recommended by engineering experts of the Shipping Board. The selections are understood to be Wilmington, N. C., and Jacksonville, Fla., on the Atlantic Coast; Mobile, Ala., on the Gulf Coast, and San Francisco and San Diego, Cal., on the Pacific Coast. The board has not acted on the recommendations.

The yard at San Francisco, privately owned and already in operation, built the Faith, the experimental concrete ship now undergoing test trips.

FAITH DELAYED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

A PACIFIC PORT, May 25. — Heavy weather was delaying the arrival here of the steamer Faith, the largest concrete ship in the world, which today was nearing the end of its trial from another Pacific port.

Regarding the reported decision of the experts of the United States Shipping Board in selecting San Diego as one of the concrete shipbuilding sites on the Pacific Coast, officials of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday said that they had no comment to make.

However, the chamber was active in reviewing the entire situation with the government experts during their recent trip of inspection and demonstrated to them where cement, sharp sand and crushed rock could be obtained in large quantities in close proximity to the harbor; also that two companies here are manufacturing steel rods and bars, and that water, fuel, oil and hydro-electric power all could be supplied in the requisite quantities.

The Harbor Commission offered several sites and it was shown that there is not an item connected with the manufacture of concrete boats lacking here. Gratification was expressed by chamber officials that one of the five sites selected for the ships had come to Southern California.

LIEUTENANT, PRIVATE DIE IN AIR COLLISION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WACO (Tex.) May 25.—Lieut. William B. Kuen of Gynwyd, Pa., and Private William Miller Snyder, of Philadelphia, were instantly killed here today, when their airplane collided with another machine at a height of about 800 feet. The two occupants of the other machine were uninjured.

NAVY MEN SEE WAR VIEWS AT HARBOR.

The first official views of the trenches sent out by the French commission to be exhibited in the training camps on the Pacific Coast were shown yesterday at the new recreation center of the Knights of Columbus in the outer harbor for the benefit of the men at the naval reserve training station and the Submarine Base.

The views vividly portray life in the trenches and actual battle scenes held the close attention and interest of the sailors for an hour. There were over 100 of the views projected on the screen by stereopticon.

The building of the Knights of Columbus has now been in use just a week. It was dedicated by Bishop John J. Cantwell in the presence of 1000 sailors and civilian guests. F. J. Jenal, Grand Knight of the Los Angeles council, was chairman of the evening and William J. McGinley, Supreme Secretary of the Knights of Columbus, and Joseph Scott were the principal speakers.

ONLY STUNNED, KILLS GERMAN HOLDING HIM.

AMERICANS RECONNOITERING IN PICARDY NO MAN'S LAND HAVE HOT FIGHT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 25.—An American reconnoitering party commanded by Lieut. A. P. Craddock of Lynchburg, Va., had a thrilling hand-to-hand encounter with Germans in No Man's Land in Picardy last night. In the face of a continuous fire from two machine guns they charged the enemy. Although Lieut. Craddock and several of his men were seriously wounded, they continued fighting and drove off the Germans.

One of the Americans was shot in the head and body, and lay on the ground stunned. When he came to he found a German holding him by the shoulder. He whipped out his pistol and killed the German.

Another American detachment during the course of the night penetrated the enemy organizations in the Bois Allogne, attacked a German post and killed five Germans and took one prisoner. The prisoner told the same story as thousands of others who have been taken by the British and French — that he would give anything to see the war ended. He apparently knew nothing regarding future German movements.

STRIKE CALLED OFF.

Labor Trouble at Yellow Astor Mine, After Sixteen Years, at an End.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RANDSBURG (Cal.) May 25.—Miners' Union No. 44, Randsburg, late last night called off the strike against the Yellow Aster mine which was voted June 10, 1902. In an interview tonight Glenn Kinsey, secretary of the Randsburg union, stated that the recent raise in the wage scale made by the Yellow Aster Company places their wage above the local Miners' Union scale and that the action of the Randsburg local was a natural sequence.

The Yellow Aster strike was a nation-wide sensation in labor circles for two or three years. It was on sixteen years, breaking the record for mining labor troubles in history of the Unitel States, it is claimed.

GERMANS MAKE GOOD HAUL IN RUSS FLEET.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, May 25.—While two big steamers and two destroyers of the Russian fleet got safely away when the Germans occupied Sebastopol, the vessels falling into German hands, according to the Frankfurter Zeitung, included seven battleships of the pre-dreadnaught class, including four launched since 1896, two protected cruisers of the Kague class, three modern destroyers, seven old destroyers and a number of submarines.

The old Turkish cruiser Medjidieh, sunk by a mine in the Black Sea in 1916 and afterwards raised by the Russians and rechristened the "Prut," also was taken together with various mine layers and miscellaneous craft.

The correspondent says that the ships, engines and guns are in good condition in almost every case.

PURITAN DAY SUCCESS.

First Annual Affair Introduces Mrs. Los Angeles to the Cudahy Company.

Yesterday went down in the local history of the Cudahy Packing Company as the first annual Puritan Day. Preceded by a week of advertising mapped out by Hugh Brennon of Chicago, who handles all of Cudahy's newspaper publicity, and prepared for by supplying every dealer in smoked meats with a fresh stock of Puritan brand hams and bacons, it is declared that the first Puritan Day was successful from every standpoint.

Teasers in the daily papers showed a genial little man in Puritan garb inviting housewifes to "meet me at the eat shop Saturday." On the last day of the advertising campaign, the missing letter in the slogan was discovered to be "m" and the figure bore a ham in his arms. So at the Saturday marketing Mrs. Los Angeles met and was introduced to Mr. Puritan Brand at the meat shop.

Veteran at Rest.

LAST SUMMONS COMES FOR GEN. JACOB DURYEE.

GEN. JACOB EUGENE DURYEE, veteran of the Civil War and widely known in Los Angeles and Southern California, died suddenly early last evening at the family home, No. 2164 West Twentieth street. He was in his eightieth year, and had been in vigorous health until within the past few days. Heart failure is given as the cause of his demise. Funeral arrangements will be announced tomorrow.

Gen. Duryee leaves the widow and one son, Harvey H. Duryee, of this city. He was born in New York City, and his early life was spent there. He was the son of Abram Duryee, who organized the Duryee Zouaves, famous in the Civil War.

Gen. Duryee enlisted at the outbreak of the Civil War as a private in the Seventh Regiment of New York. He was made captain of the Fifth New York Volunteers, and later was appointed by President Lincoln as lieutenant-colonel of the Second Maryland Regiment.

He led the famous charge at Burnsides Bridge at Antietam, and lost 50 per cent. of his regiment in battle. He had many thrilling experiences during the Civil War and was a valiant soldier.

SERBIANS DECIMATED.

War Cuts Great Swath in Birth Rate; 150,314 Deaths in Three Years—Two-thirds Children.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, May 25.—Figures have been obtained from a Serbian source showing the terrible losses sustained by the Serbian population of Bosnia. In three years, 1915, 1916 and 1917, there were 150,314 deaths, of which 65,042 were children under 10 years of age. Of these 12,867 were infants under 1 year.

While before the war there were from 25,000 to 30,000 births annually, the birth rate has been so reduced that in 1915 there were 4648 more deaths than births. In 1916 the excess of deaths over births amounted to 17,711 and in the first half of 1917 to 7566.

HOPEFUL FEELING IN STOCK MARKET.

SECURITIES SHOW OPTIMISM PREVALENT IN BANKING, TRADE CIRCLES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 25.—On only a partial slowing down of operations, the stock market this week again reflected the more hopeful feeling prevalent in banking and industrial circles.

Some of the leaders sustained moderate reactions, but these were largely restored later, while various specialties exceeded their previous high quotations of the year.

The liberal financial appropriations granted to the transportation companies, increasing activity in the western war zone, and the divergence of opinion regarding revenue legislation at Washington entered into the calculations of conservative observers, the latter situation exciting especial interest.

Steels and related equipments, together with numerous specialties having only remote claim as war issues, registered extreme advances of three to ten points in a few instances making greater gains.

Shipping bulked large on the speculative horizon, but manifested occasional unsettlement at the delay in the consummation of the mercantile marine deal.

PRINCE OF CONNAUGHT LUNCHES WITH WILSON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Prince Arthur of Connaught, first cousin of King George of England, who is on his way to Japan on a special mission, was entertained at luncheon today by President Wilson.

Later, with Lord Reading, the British Ambassador, the Prince and members of his party called on Vice-President Marshall at the Capitol.

NORTHWEST SAVING HALF WHEAT FLOUR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINNEAPOLIS, May 25.—Food administrators of six Northwest States, meeting here today in executive session, declared that one-half of the normal consumption of wheat flour is being saved for war purposes, made possible by government restrictions calling for an equal amount of substitutes with each flour purchase, and the six-pound monthly ration.

The administrators left tonight for Washington, where they will attend a national conference.

"TRIED TO BRIBE ME," SAYS MOONEY WITNESS.

"CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR" DECLARES $17,000 OFFERED HIM BY BRENNAN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—A statement that $17,000 had been offered Nicholas H. Treanor to induce him to testify falsely against Thomas J. Mooney in the trial which resulted in Mooney's conviction on a first degree murder charge which grew out of the 1916 Preparedness parade bomb explosion here, was made today by Treanor on the witness stand of the United States District Court, where Treanor was awaiting sentence on a charge of having refused to submit himself for physical examination for the selective draft.

Treanor appeared as a witness for Mooney, he said. He was sentenced to one year in the County Jail after he had testified that he was a conscientious objector. In course of his testimony he made this statement:

"Assistant District Attorney James Brennan offered me $17,000 to testify against Mooney and attempt to swear his life away. I refused and testified for Mooney."

"What?" exclaimed Judge M. T. Dooling, who was presiding at Treanor's hearing.

Treanor then repeated his statement.

In a supplemtary statement Treanor said Brennan and another man had talked to him in August, 1916, "on the Irish situation and other things, finally coming around to the Mooney case." The offer was made at this time, and Brennan's companion also asked him to accept it, Treanor said. On his refusal, the matter was dropped, and he later testified for the defense, concerning Mooney's movements July 22, the day of the explosion.

Attorney Brennan denied all knowledge of the offer and said he had no recollection of having met Treanor.

"I do not remember ever having seen or heard of this man," he said. "I don't know him, and certainly if I had $17,000 I would not hand it over to him. In the first place I did not handle the Mooney case; I did not present any evidence against Mooney and I had no connection with the case other than I was in the District Attorney's office."

Brennan said Treanor's statement probably had been "inspired by similar statements that have appeared in publications of the Workers' Defense League that is raising funds for Mooney's defense.

SOLDIERS FACE PERIL, BACK THEM, ROOSEVELT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SPRINGFIELD (O.) May 25.—"At this time no good American should sleep easily, if during the day he has not done everything in his power to put this country back of the armed men who in France are fighting for our national honor and interest, and for the future of the free peoples of civilized mankind," declared Theodore Roosevelt here tonight in an address on "Americanism" in behalf of a local war chest campaign.

"The peril is faced by, and the honor is rightly due to, those at the front," he said. "But the rest of us, who cannot get to the front must at least back our men in every possible way; and the way to back them up is every day, every week, every month, to do the thing that is next. At this moment the thing that is next is the Red Cross drive. And all the time the biggest thing that its next to back up the men who wear our uniform by insisting that we at home tolerate absolutely no division on the great question of Americanism."

Despondent.

WOMAN TRIES TO DIE BY GAS.

Financial Losses Thought to be Cause of Act.

Man's Disappearance Brought into the Case.

Friends of Latter, However, Deny Connection.

Despondent over financial affairs, which are thought by the police to be the result of a mysterious disappearance of a man now sought by them, Mrs. Lillian Sutliff, 45, of No. 833 South Hill street, yesterday attempted to end her life by locking the doors to her apartments and turning on the gas. She was found when neighbors detected the odor and forced their way into the room. At the Receiving Hospital, where the woman was given emergency treatment, the physicians say she probably will recover.

Mrs. Sutliff made careful preparations for the act, the police say. In one envelope she left deeds to property owned by her in San Diego county, saying they were to pay for the funeral expenses. In another envelope, addressed to Coroner Calvin Hartwell, she left a deed to a lot in a cemetery. The police say the woman made a previous attempt to end her life several weeks ago when she jumped into the path of a moving automobile.

Interwound by circumstances with yesterday's attempt at suicide is the recent disappearance of Charles H. Fuller, father of Viola Fuller, on the night when Miss Fuller and Mildred Shipp became asphyxiated in the bathroom of the former girl's home. The double funeral of the girls was being held up while the authorities helped in the search for the missing man, the police declare.

According to Call Officer Box and Detective Burgess, who were placed in charge of the investigation, Mrs. Sutliff admitted having lost money and property amounting to nearly $5000 within the last few weeks. She refused to give the police the details they sought, or to tell them where Mr. Fuller is at the present time, although she admitted knowing where he was a week ago.

Assisted by Owen Sutliff of No. 400 West Forty-sixth street, the police are trying to clear up the financial tangle surrounding Mrs. Sutliff's property. Friends of Mr. Fuller, who are assisting the police in trying to locate him, yesterday denied that the man had anything but a passing interest in Mrs. Sutliff.

TWO CARS OF NEW WHEAT FROM BRAWLEY

Two cars of new wheat were received yesterday by the Los Angeles Grain Exchange from Brawley, in the Imperial Valley, breaking the record for early shipments of this crop by more than a month. This is the first of the 1918 wheat crop to move in America. The cars go to the Newmark Grain Company. The Imperial Valley is first with more new crops than any other part of the country. Among other new crops with which the valley was first this month are barley, cantaloupes, onions, strawberries and tomatoes.

GERMANS' HAND IN MEXICO ROW.

intention of the Germans to provoke trouble between the United States and Mexico, with a view to compelling this country to maintain a large army on the border, thus cutting down the number of men who could be sent to France.

Perhaps even more important, from the German viewpoint, it would necessitate the keeping here of much military equipment, rifles, machine guns, and artillery, which should be sent to France.

WORST FEAR CONFIRMED.

The Mexican situation has been the subject of much interested, but quiet, discussion in Congressional and diplomatic circles for some time past. In many quarters it is frankly stated that Carranza has gotten so under the influence of Von Eckert as to be strongly pro-German, and today's news, as it is interpreted here, confirms the worst fears that have been entertained.

"I am afraid the Germans will continue egging Carranza on until he forces trouble on the border," said one Senator with a large knowledge of Mexican affairs. "I have refrained from discussing this matter on the floor of the Senate because I do not wish to embarrass the administration. The State Department apparently has hoped that keeping quiet and avoiding strong language in public would result in the situation cooling off of itself, but I no longer hope for that.

"Today's action looks to me like the forerunner of trouble with the United States. The same reasons as given by the Mexican Foreign Minister for severing relations with Cuba obviously would be as sound if applied in explaining why he had severed relations with the United States.

LONG BORDER NIGHTMARE.

"That long border, with possible raids over it, and outrages along it will be, I am afraid, a nightmare to us before we are through. We may have to keep trained troops along it who can ill be spared from France."

Other Senators and Representatives, on reading the papers, began to renew talk of raising a special force for policing and patroling the border. They think it would be possible, without really interfering with the army intended for France, to raise a force which would protect the United States from any force the Mexicans could raise.

Most Senators agreed that a strong force on the border, but no invasion of Mexico unless it should prove absolutely essential, would be the better policy if the situation develops as they now fear it will.

FEARS POISON.

Noted Athlete's Babies Given Candy by Stranger; Plot is Suspected.

Believing that an effort was made by a pro-German to poison his two children, Genevieve, 5 years old, and James J. Jr., 3 years, James J. Donohue of No. 1240 Fourth avenue, L.A.A.C. basketball coach and Olympic games contestant, last night appeared at the Receiving Hospital with his babies and two chocolate drops, which were given them by a man in overalls. Mr. Donohue told Police Surgeon Houghton that he feared the candy had been poisoned, pointed as evidence to the fact that the chocolates had been crushed and looked as though holes had been bored in it for the purpose of introducing a foreign substance.

Although the candy was not analyzed last night, Police Surgeon Houghton stated that he believed the candy had been tampered with. The chocolates were given the two children while they sat in their father's automobile in front of the Realty Board Building. Mrs. Donahue, who was standing on the sidewalk, saw a man of German appearance hand the sweets to her babies, and immediately rushed up and confiscated the candy before the children could taste it. Mr. Donohue was soliciting Red Cross subscriptions on the sidewalk when the affair occurred.

FRENCH OFFICIAL VIEWS WILL BE SEEN AT MASON OPERA-HOUSE TONIGHT.

Under the auspices of the State Women's War Relief, M. William Sandoz and Mme. Lantes of the William Sandoz mission to this country from France will present at the Mason Operahouse tonight what are said to be the most remarkable pictures ever brought to this country from the great French battle front. All the battlefields on which American troops in alliance with the French, British, Belgian, Italian and Portuguese are about to meet the expected last great smash of the Huns will be graphically shown.

From the battle of the Marne to the smash at Arras, the story of the war is graphically told by the pictures. The tragic ruins of the great city of Rheims, the territory that the Germans devastated as they withdrew, the armies of Joffre and Foch and all that goes to make the story of the great war complete will be presented.

A special engineer, G. A. W. Kerr, has been sent by the French government to present these pictures. The meeting tonight will be presided over by Lucien Brunswig and the address of the evening will be made by Frank Keenan, the actor.

The Sandoz mission is here to interest Americans in that class of retired French soldiers known officially as Invalides, Class No. 2. They are the men who are called in France, "Heroes without Halos." For the length of the war they have fought desperately, but they are sick and most of them are suffering from tuberculosis, heart trouble, nerve shock or rheumatism, contracted while on duty. Because they have not been wounded they draw no pension. They number about 500,000.

At the meeting tonight there will be no admission charged. Music will be furnished by the Naval Band from the Submarine Base and the affair will begin at 8:15 o'clock. Mayor Woodman yesterday issued a proclamation urging the people of the city to attend.

SOCIETIES WILL ASSIST HOOVER.

Fraternal Organizations to Aid Food Saving.

To Abstain from Wheat Till After Next Harvest.

Brotherhood Here Appoints Committees.

That the National Food Administration is about to make an appeal to the 8,000,000 members of fraternal organizations in the United States to abstain from using wheat until after the next harvest, and to conserve meat and other foods, is indicated by telegrams received by Carlos Hardy, president of the Fraternal Brotherhood, which has its national headquarters in this city, from Herbert Hoover.

Mr. Hoover's first telegram, dated the 14th inst., asked Mr. Hardy to make a special appeal to all members of the Fraternal Brotherhood to avoid waste of any kind, to eliminate the use of wheat entirely until after harvest time and to limit the quantity of meat or poultry to two pounds per person per week. Mr. Hardy wired Mr. Hoover that the Food Administration can count on the Fraternal Brotherhood for full co-operation.

COMMITTEES NAMED.

A committee has been appointed for each Los Angeles lodge. California, outside of Los Angeles, has been divided into five districts, a committee appointed for each district and other committees for other States.

Speakers in the lodgerooms will present at every meeting this special appeal from Mr. Hoover and from time to time such other requests as may come from the Food Administrator.

If all the fraternal organizations are taking similar action, as it is believed they are, it will mean that, beginning this week, the Food Administration will be in constant touch with 126,000 lodgerooms in the United States. Mr. Hardy understands that copies of a special message from the Food Administration to members of fraternal orders will be available this week and that the aid of these organizations throughout the country will be systematically enlisted for the period of the war.

APPROVED BY COLE.

Louis M. Cole, City Food Administrator, said last night that he had heard of the drive by the Food Administration to interest the fraternal organization members in saving food.

"I have received a number of requests from local lodge members," said Mr. Cole, "asking for information as to how and what to save. Their national officers are taking up the request of Mr. Hoover and passing the word along to the members. It is a big thing, a fine thing. The members of fraternal organizations can be of great help in this critical wheat situation."

ENTERTAINMENT WILL AID WAR WORK FUND.

LONG BEACH KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO START BIG CAMPAIGN.

Long Beach Knights of Columbus, backed by the hearty indorsement of the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, Federation of War Activities and other organizations and societies will give a big entertainment at the Long Beach Auditorium at 8 o'clock next Saturday night, as the beginning of a campaign to raise the Long Beach quota of $5000 for the Knights of Columbus War Work Fund.

Sig. Florencio Constantino has donated the services of himself and his pupils at the California Temple of Art for the musical programme, and the Submarine Base Band, of thirty-five pieces, will also be one of the features. Sig. Constantino and his pupils will be the guests of the Hotel Virginia for the afternoon and evening. A patriotic address will be made by Joseph Scott, Past State Deputy of the Knights of Columbus, and Mayor Lisenby, Thomas White, Grand Knight of the Los Angeles Council, will also speak.

Everything connected with the entertainment has been donated, so that 100 per cent. of the proceeds may go to the Knights of Columbus War Work Fund.

ITALIANS' BARBECUE TO AID WAR FUND.

EVENT OCCURS TODAY AT VAQUERO CLUB GROUNDS, WITH NOTABLE ENTERTAINMENT.

A big event for the Italian colony of Los Angeles is the barbecue to be given today at the grounds of the Vaquero Club, reached by the Sherman car line. The proceeds of the affair will go to the Italian war relief fund.

Everything has been donated, including the use of the park. Huge pieces of choice meat have been given by the packing-houses, beans by Italian grocery houses, and music by Italian musicians. A well-known barbecue chef has been engaged to head the corps of men in charge of the barbecue pits. There will be plenty of meat and other good things to eat; a delightful musical programme will be rendered, and there will be dancing, athletic events and sports.

The charge will be $1 for admission to the grounds, and this includes the barbecue dinner, dancing, etc. Children will be admitted free. The Italian colony hopes to net a large sum for the war relief through this event.

FAVORITE CONTRALTO.

DOLLAR-A-YEAR WOMAN ATTRACTS A BIG HOUSE.

By Jeanne Redman.

A huge audience at Shrine Auditorium Saturday afternoon testified to the fact that Schumann-Heink is not only a popular singer, but that she amounts almost to an institution with the American people. The great contralto has sworn herself to the government for a dollar a year, and Saturday's concert was her farewell to us for at least that length of time.

After her first number, which was Handel's recitative and aria from "Rinaldo," she was applauded at length, and explained her seeming unwillingness to give an encore by saying: "I cannot be very free with encores; I need all the voice for the boys." There is still a tremendous lot of it left for them, however, and even to spare, for Schumann-Heink has a big organ, and while she has been before the public many years, she is still at pains to keep her voice in control. It is typically a Wagnerian contralto, and personally I prefer her as "Ortrud" rather than as the popular singer of popular songs, but nevertheless she sings them with evident enjoyment, and without the air of condescension which is employed by many singers for the purpose of indicating their superiority to the class of work which they think the public wants. I am not at all sure that the public does want it, but the assurance of the singer is all that is needed to put "Danny Boy," "A Soldier's Dream," "At Parting," "Kerry Dance" and "When the Boys Come Home" on one programme.

On the other hand Schumann-Heink sang "My Heart Ever Faithful" and the "Ah, Mon Fils" aria from "Le Prophet" very beautifully, and with all her old capability in phrasing and control. She also sang Gertrude Ross's "Dawn," without which a programme of this singer's would not be complete, and the applause was so fervent that Mrs. Ross stood for it, also.

Miss Edith Evans played three piano solos sensitively and well, and accompanied Schumann-Heink adequately. "The Star Spangled Banner" closed the programme, made especially patriotic by a four-minute speech by the singer herself on behalf of the Red Cross.

PLACE BAN ON HEARST ORGAN.

Pasadena Firm Stops Sale for "Patriotic Reasons."

Broadside Park Song Festival Scheduled Today.

Labor Economy Displayed by Maryland Guest.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, May 26.—The Hall-Whitney Cigar Company, the principal newspaper and cigar dealers in Pasadena, have stopped the sale of all Hearst organs—"for patriotic reasons."

"The people of this country do not realize how necessary it is not to support interests that are not supporting the country," said Sam Hall yesterday in explanation of the refusal of his partner, W. W. Whitley, and himself to continue the sale of Hearst newspapers and magazines.

"The financial loss to us is small, but if it were greater we would rather stand it and have the knowledge that we were standing firm in our principles," he continued.

"Our individual action is not prompted by the boycott in the East or the ban in England and Canada. In our opinion the Hearst papers as long as I can remember have been against law and order."

COMMUNITY SONG FEST.

The stage is set for the community song festival to be held at Brookside Park at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. A band will be placed at the foot of the slide and the directors will occupy places on top of the slide. The hills form a wonderful natural amphitheater that is said by experts to be remarkable for acoustic properties as well as scenic attractions. A ten-minute patriotic address will be made by Rev. Daniel F. Fox and the singing will be directed by George A. Mortimer. Special programmes of favorite and sacred songs as well as patriotic numbers have been printed.

PRACTICES LABOR ECONOMY.

James Powers, inventor of the census tabulating machines used by the governments of the world, and dozens of other devices, who is a guest of the Hotel Maryland, has individual ideas which he does not hesitate about putting into practice. Finding that his clothes were in need of the ministrations of a tailor he carried the suit through the lobby of the hostelry and two blocks down the street. Bell boys who usually perform this function, as well as guests, were astonished and looked askance. No one was more surprised than the tailor. He frankly admitted to Mr. Powers that the procedure was without parallel.

"The government is demanding the release of able-bodied men from non-essential employment. I have the time to bring the suit to your shop, why shouldn't I do it? If you come after it and deliver it a half hour of your time is wasted." Mr. Powers told the tailor, who is still losing stitches while he wonders what Pasadena is coming to in war time.

GOATS ARE SHOWN.

"Will they really eat cans?" asked a small boy at the goat show of the Pasadena Milch Goat Association held yesterday. And procuring a former tomato container the small boy surreptiously placed it within reach of one of the prize exhibits. Then he watched in wonderment while the goat made a determined munching effort which was intefered with by an attendant. The small boy was disappointed in the experiment and now doesn't know whether hollow horned ruminants actually eat cans or not. The show was described in the neighborhood as a gas attack.

Seventy-five goats of all varieties were entered in the show which was declared to be educational as the milch goat is said to be an important factor in the future production of milk. The judges were Prof. S. H. Bowman, Prof. R. M. Cartwright, Miss Winthrop Holland and Miss Jane White. Two champion does were exhibited by Mrs. M. D. Kiggins, who, with Mrs. Frank Matthews and Thomas Crew formed the Committee of Arrangements.

Chapman was connected with the Pasadena street department.

WORK OR CLEAR OUT DECREE AT EL CENTRO.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, May 25. — Every man able to work will either have to accept a ranch job at high wages or get out of the county.

This is the declaration of the County Council of Defense, Dist.-Atty. Galen C. Nichols, chairman, at a meeting of the council today. The members issued a call for a meeting of the peace officers of the county with Sheriff Applestill in this city to act on plans for a "loafer drive" to start in one week.

There are at least a thousand men in the county, itinerant laborers, for the most part, who refuse to work, although offered from $3 a day and board to $125 per month and house, by the ranchers, who are short 2000 workers. Imperial county will not tolerate the presence of these loafers who, when asked to go to work, say they "are not interested."

REMOVAL OF BELL RECALLS HISTORY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COLTON, May 25.—Catholics of Colton reluctantly saw the removal yesterday to the Glenwood Mission Inn at Riverside of the old mission bell that for over half a century called followers of the Catholic faith in this vicinity to worship. Frank Miller having purchased the bell to add to his famous collection at the Inn.

The bell, which was heroically saved from the fire that destroyed the little church of The Holy Rosary in South Colton several months ago, was parted with because it was too heavy and cumbersome to be hung in the new church now being built. Mr. Miller once made an offer of $1000 for the relic and it is understood that $500 in cash and a new bell was the compensation in the present deal.

The bell bears the date 1866, but its history extends far back of that period, as that was the date it was rewelded in the sands of Agua Mansa. According to Father Juan Caballeria's history of the San Bernardino Valley the bell originally hung in the little church of Agua Mansa, built in 1851-52, where worshiped such famous families as those of Louis Rubidoux and Christobal Slover. In 1852 the little village was swept away by flood and all that remained was the little church on San Salvador Hill. It, too, passed away with the years and the bell, which had been dedicated to "Nuestra Senora de Guadalupe" —Our Lady of Guadalupe—was brought to Colton and finally hung in the belfry of the church of The Holy Rosary.

SPECIAL TRIBUTE TO SANTA MONICA BOY.

STREWING OCEAN WITH FLOWERS FEATURE OF MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, May 25.—The first of Santa Monica's soldier boys to be lost at sea in this war will be remembered next Thursday when the usual ceremony of honoring the nation's dead lost in naval combat is observed by the strewing of the ocean with flowers after public memorial exercises on the Municipal Pier.

Sergt. Delbert E. Inglehart, who lost his life when the United States transport Tuscania was sunk by a Hun torpedo, and the first local boy in the United States service to die at sea since the entrance of America into the war, is the one who will be especially remembered. The day's memorial programme will be carried out under the auspices of Stephen Jackson Post, G.A.R., of this city, under the direction of Commander William M. Sanders, Adjt. F. C. Grant, and Harry J. Engelbrecht, the latter being the marshal of the parade.

The G.A.R. veterans and the ladies' auxiliaries of that organization will leave from the City Hall at 9 a.m. to decorate the graves of comrades, returning in time to take a place in the parade that leaves the City Hall at 10 o'clock for the Municipal Pier.

In addition to the strewing of flowers on the ocean by school children and the members of patriotic organizations, the exercises will include an oration by Dr. Lewis Thurber Guild, pastor of the East Hollywood Methodist Church, and editor of the Santa Monica Outlook; an address to veterans, by Commander Sanders; patriotic songs by Sam V. Carlisle; an address by Mayor S. L. Berkley of this city; the singing of "America" by a quartette, and the audience, and the benediction by Rev. Walter F. Troeger.

In the parade will march Mayor Berkley and other city officials, platoon of police headed by Chief F. W. Ferguson, the Municipal Band, Santa Monica Home Guards, in command of Capt. William H. Carter, City Commissioner of Public Works; Sons of Veterans, G.A.R. Ladies' Circle, G.A.R., Red Cross officials and nurses in uniform, Westlake Military School cadets, Boy Scouts, school children, and citizens.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, May 25.—First Tulare county peaches to leave for the East were shipped from Redbanks by the Redbanks Orchard Company about ten days later than normal. Tardy maturity of the fruit is believed to have been due to cool nights, which continue to prevail. The first shipments left this district last season about May 10.

"I Guarantee to perform your dental work WITHOUT PAIN"

Dr. D. E. Foster

Read this testimonial letter from a well-known Los Angeles woman, Mrs. F. W. Eldridge, the wife of the managing editor of one of Los Angeles' big morning newspapers:

Dr. D. E. Foster:

The dental work which you recently did for me was entirely painless and has proved very satisfactory.

Yours truly,

MRS. F. W. ELDRIDGE.

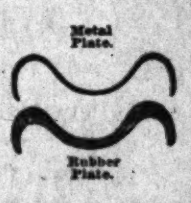
I am enabled, through the knowledge which I have gained in my long experience in the use of Analgesia, to absolutely guarantee PAINLESS dentistry. I extend a very earnest invitation to every person in Los Angeles to visit my offices, to observe my elaborate facilities for treatment and to carefully investigate my methods and reputation. Why should you undergo painful treatment and content yourself with old worn-out methods of dentistry when my service is available to you at absolutely no extra cost?

NATURAL PLATES

Compare the Thickness of the Foster Crown With Ordinary Crowns

Ordinary Crown.
Foster Crown.

The Foster Crown is guaranteed to last a lifetime. This is merely a sample of the type of dentistry performed in my offices. The Solid Cusp Foster Crown is made to last—to give the same satisfaction 10 years from today that it gives today.



The Advantage of the Foster Thin Metal Plates Over the Old Thick Rubber Plates

The old style rubber plate is unsanitary, and uncomfortable. It causes a disagreeable whistling sound when talking. My new thin metal plates will give a lifetime of satisfactory service and are absolutely no impediment to speech. They can be made as shown above, to build out the hollows of the face and to eliminate lines and wrinkles. They are one of the big forward steps of modern dentistry.

REPLACEMENTS WITHOUT PLATES

You do not need plates if you have a few good teeth remaining. I can make replacements, as shown in the illustration, which will be just as good "as Nature's own." I will be glad to make an examination absolutely free.

FRUIT BUYERS ACTIVE, PRICES RANGE HIGHER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DINUBA, May 25.—Present indications are that prices for all classes of green fruit will be much higher than those offered for last season. Buyers are already in the field and are bidding briskly for contracts.

There is no activity as yet in the peach market, packers declaring the uncertainty as to action by the government has made it impossible for them to set prices.

Emperor grapes have already soared to new heights. Some contracts have been reported on a basis of $60 per ton and few sales have been at less than $45. Wine grapes have shared in the general advance, $25 being about the average price offered.

NEW PACKING-HOUSE.

SANTA ANA, May 25.—The new packing-house of the Santa Ana Walnut Growers' Association will be built by Kidder & Shipp of Santa Ana, on a bid of $20,495.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time receipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and luster and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

MRS. H. C. VILES DEAD.

Succumbs Following Operation Here, Funeral Will Be at Los Vegas.

Mrs. H. C. Viles of Las Vegas, N. M., died on Friday, after an illness of about two weeks. With her husband, Mrs. Viles came to Los Angeles for a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Willis Lord Moore, hoping that change of climate might benefit her. Shortly after arrival an operation was found necessary. She rallied well, but a complication set in which resulted fatally.

Mrs. Viles was active in all branches of war work in Las Vegas which had been her home during her married life. Her father, Prof. Oval Pirkey, was the founder of and endowed Christian College, Canton, Mo.

Charles Viles, father of Mr. H. C. Viles, was one of the founders of Escondido from whence he removed his family to New Mexico, where they have been identified with the activities of Las Vegas, Santa Fe and the Upper Pecos.

The funeral of Mrs. Viles will take place on Tuesday, at Las Vegas.

SPEEDER IS JAILED.

Fifty-Day Sentence Imposed on Motorcyclist Who Ran Away From Officer.

For the next fifty days speed will pass out of the life of Ralph Wells, 19-year-old youth, unless he shows it in handling a broom or some other useful implement at the City Jail, Police Judge Frederickson decreed yesterday.

Wells exhibited his fondness for moving along at a good clip when he ran away from Motorcycle Officer R. B. Jackson, by notching his motorcycle to seventy-eight miles an hour, several days ago. Jackson's machine went out of commission and Wells managed to escape arrest at that time. Later he was apprehended at his home and brought before Judge Frederickson.

"I intend to show no mercy to any man who speeds and endangers the lives of motorcycle officers. These men have to ride through the traffic under all sorts of conditions and the casualty list among the speed squad shows how dangerous their calling is. Any persons who wilfully adds to these officers' risks should spend a long time in jail," the Judge declared, in imposing sentence.

GIVE THEIR PENNIES.

Young Lads Take Savings Banks to Precinct Headquarters as Donation to Red Cross.

"We wants give somethin' to the Red Cross."

Bart T. Davidson, in charge of Precinct No. 202 headquarters, at No. 1602 West Pico street, last night, looked up to see two youngsters, hand in hand, and each clasping a small bank, standing before him. They were Elwyn and Walter Koopman, 9 and 7 years old, respectively, of No. 1407 South Union avenue.

"We been savin' these pennies for 'bout a year," said Elywn, as he placed the two banks on a table. "The Red Cross can buy some bandages and things with them."

SPEARS MAY ESCAPE TRIAL FOR MURDER.

PLEA OF GUILTY ON ROBBERY CHARGE WILL BE MADE TOMORROW.

When the trial of Harold Spears, indicted on six charges involving highway robbery and participating in the murder of Philip J. Metz, a grocer, on January 22, 1918, is called in the department of Superior Judge Craig, tomorrow morning, the proceedings will be temporarily halted by a plea of guilty to the crime of robbery. Walton J. Wood, public defender, and his associates held a conference with Dist.-Atty. Woolwine yesterday and at its conclusion, Mr. Wood said the offer so to plead had been accepted by the District Attorney. It is believed the ends of justice will be served by the acceptance of the plea, and there will be nothing further done toward filling the jury panel.

It became apparent in the trial of Harold Denman, convicted of murder in the first degree, that it would be hard to convict Spears of active participation in the killing of Metz, as it was shown that he was not present at the time of the shooting. Under the indeterminate law Spears may be sentenced for from one year to life for robbery, and will be eligible to parole in one year if his conduct is good.

When Harold Denman, Richard Riley, Charles Hadley and Harold Spears were arrested on the charge of killing Metz, several army officers, including the brother of Spears, Lieut. Thomas Spears, became interested in the youths, as they are all of draft age, and would have been glad to have had the opportunity of enlisting. Since then Lieut. Spears has been doing his utmost to get Harold outside the shadow of the gallows at San Quentin.

The proposed action tomorrow will have nothing to do with the charges against Hadley and Riley, whose friends have retained attorneys in their behalf. In the case of Riley, a demurrer to the indictment is pending before Judge Willis.

DEAD IN FRANCE.

Corp. Edwin W. Boggs, Victim of Pneumonia, Letter to His Mother States.

Mrs. Lillian Hayward Boggs, the Lillian Hayward of the Ulrich Stock Company at the old Grand Operahouse on Main street years ago, received word from Washington yesterday that her only son Corp. Edwin W. Boggs, had died in France of pneumonia on May 13. The soldier's mother and his 11-year-old sister Jacquelin are heartbroken. They have given their all.

Corp. Boggs graduated from Hollywood High School three years ago. When war was declared he enlisted at once, but was not sent to France until last month. The mother, who lives at No. 1729 Sunset boulevard, received a card from her boy announcing his arrival "over there" on Aprill 19. The next message, this from Adjt.-Gen. McClain, announced the death of the young soldier. Corp. Boggs was 22 years old. He was with Co. I of the Fortieth Division.

WAR SAVINGS WILL BE TOPIC AT MEETINGS.

Several patriotic meetings in the interest of war savings will be held during the present week. On Thursday evening a programme will be given in the Fraternal Brotherhood Building, No. 845 South Figueroa street, at which addresses will be made by Perry B. Widener, assistant State director of the National War Savings Committee, and George L. Sanders of the State Speakers' Bureau.

Other war savings campaign meetings will be held on Tuesday evening by Daylight Chapter, O.E.S., at the Walker Theater Building on Grand avenue, to be addressed by C. J. Miller, and Thursday evening, by the Knights and Ladies of Security, to be addressed by Attorney Fred Spring, at Odd Fellows Hall, at North Broadway and Workman streets.

The holdings of the university extend back from University avenue for depths ranging from 150 to 200 feet and the buildings are planned accordingly.

It was seen that if the university property could be made to include the entire frontage of University avenue, southward to Exposition boulevard, which is the northern boundary of the park, this beautiful square of green in the heart of the southwest residence section could, in effect be made a part of the university layout.

The university athletic field will remain where it is, but will be somewhat enlarged, this being made possible by the utilization of space now going to waste on the south side of the field. The plans call for the erection of a large gymnasium, with departments for both men and women, as well as for the construction of a stadium enclosing the running track and football field. Fronting on Thirty-fifth place and back of the main university building, space will be available for other smaller buildings, the purpose of which will be determined later.

NEW TYPE.

The University of Southern California is departing from the established custom in university planning in ranging its principal buildings along a single street instead of around a central campus. This decision was reached after long and careful study and after the university authorities had more than once seriously considered accepting large tracts offered them in the suburbs of Los Angeles and in neighboring cities and towns.

The location of the present university plant near Exposition Park was the principal factor in deciding the trustees to keep the institution approximately where it is. The great County Museum of History, Science and Art and the State Exposition Building make of the park an educational center in itself and

GROWTH OF GREAT EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION LIKE THAT OF CITY.

Local University is Now Second in the State in Point of Enrollment, Last Year Showing Nearly Four Thousand Students in Attendance.

THE University of Southern California, the development of which has necessitated the plans now under way for its great enlargement, is an entity that has grown with the city of Los Angeles. It is a part of the city, and the city is a part of it. Thousands of prosperous citizens are members of the university alumni association. Hundreds of successful professional men here received their training under her friendly roof. Her friends are legion in Southern California, and as Dr. Bovard has explained, the university was established by the Methodist conference, and it is still under the control of the conference, but it is absolutely nonsectarian. Its faculty of more than 300 instructors numbers men and women of nearly all modern religious denominations, and its student body embraces practically all colors and creeds. The board of trustees includes members of several religious denominations.

The birth of the University of Southern California dates back to 1875, when Rev. John R. Tansey, then presiding elder of the Los Angeles district for the Methodist Episcopal Church, came into possession of a large tract of land near Florence. He conceived the idea of establishing an educational institution there. At the suggestion of Rev. W. A. Knighten, then preaching in this locality, Rev. Tansey outlined his plan to Rev. M. M. Bovard, who was then preaching in Riverside. The latter had been suggested as the logical man to head such an institution. Before the plans took shape, however, Rev. Tansey passed away. His widow, Mrs. Sarah A. Tansey, later expressed his sentiment regarding the enterprise by giving property valued at $20,000 to endow the Tansey chair of Christian ethics in the university.

ITS EARLY HISTORY.

Not until the spring of 1879 did the idea again come to the front, and then it was introduced by Judge Robert M. Widney. His advocacy of the plan so aroused other prominent citizens that the plan was placed before the public and inducements offered for the location of the university. Several sections of Los Angeles made bids for it, but it was finally located on its present site. A part of the present campus was donated by Ozro W. Childs, I. W. Hellman and Former Gov. John G. Downey. Their contribution was the land lying at the corner of University avenue and Thirty-fifth street. The university has since acquired title to all of the land reaching from there to Exposition Park.

The University of Southern California was incorporated on August 8, 1880. The first building was completed on October 4 of that year, and instruction was begun immediately. The first board of trustees was made up of A. M. Hough, J. P. Widney, E. F. Spence, M. M. Bovard, G. D. Compton and R. M. Widney.

Rev. M. M. Bovard and his brother, F. D. Bovard, conducted the university under contract during the first five years of its life. Then Rev. M. M. Bovard was made president of the institution and he continued in that capacity until 1891, when his death occurred.

The first class enrolled at the university numbered thirty-five students. The first graduating class, in June, 1884, was composed of Minnie C. Miltemore of South Pasadena, Attorney F. E. Lacy of Los Angeles, and George F. Bovard, who has been president of the institution since 1903.

President Bovard points with pride to the remarkable growth the university has enjoyed in recent years. He recites a comparison of its enrollment for the past seventeen years as follows: In 1901, 518; in 1902, 520; in 1903, 570; in 1904, 601; in 1905, 770; in 1906, 919; in 1907, 1182; in 1908, 1289; in 1909, 1383; in 1910, 1608; in 1911, 1802; in 1912, 2107; in 1913, 2505; in 1914,

RAILWAY SERVICE CHANGES WILL NOT HURT SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Local Passenger Agents Look Forward with Optimism to Next Season's Travel Here—The Government is Merely Cutting Out "Joy Riding."

THE government order, effective a week from today, taking off seven transcontinental passenger trains and ordering various excursion ticket privileges cut off, will not adversely affect Southern California, in the belief of local passenger agents of the railroads and travel companies. What the government is trying to do is to eliminate railroad "joy riding," stop the running of passenger trains on which there are only a handful of passengers, and, in general, to cut out the fancy trimmings which the national railroad officials believe imposed an unjust burden on the public.

For eastern people who desire to come to California or to Colorado, or Glacier National Park, for example, there will be plenty of trains. Make your reservations early, will be the order of the day.

As for rates, there will be the usual nine months' round trip tickets from the East, three-month summer round trip tickets from the East, but probably none to the East, and there will be summer round trip rates in the West to the national parks, Southern California resorts, from Arizona, and New Mexico. What will be abolished are the old-time convention excursion rate, the round trip for a one-fare rate (as for example the $72 rate from Los Angeles to Chicago and return of two years ago,) and similar get-business-quick schemes which the roads used in the old days to boom business. The word "excursion rate" will apparently be barred while the government is running the roads.

CHANGING SCHEDULES.

The present week is expected to be a busy one in railroad offices everywhere, making the necessary changes in schedules. The definite government orders concerning the changes are expected to arrive early during the week. Railroad officials have been in conference in Chicago and San Francisco with the government directors the last two weeks, to arrange the new schedules.

Beginning June 2, the government, for example, cuts off seven transcontinental trains. The government also orders that from that date on seventy-two hours will be the fixed time for the Pacific Coast to Chicago trip. The time now to Chicago on the Santa Fe is sixty-eight hours. Instead of leaving Los Angeles at 1 p.m., the California Limited, or No. 4 (as it will be hereafter designated by its old number instead of by name,) will leave at 11 a.m., in order to arrive at Chicago at the same time under the new schedule.

As the transcontinental trains proceed East, they will be consolidated and come into Chicago a solid train. At Ogden, for instance, the Salt Lake train going East from Los Angeles will be connected up with the Union Pacific train from San Francisco, and at Green River, Wyo., the cars of the train going East from Portland will be hitched on, thus making a single train from three western centers coming into Chicago.

"By the consolidation plans," said T. C. Peck, general passenger agent of the Salt Lake route here, "the government insures a full load for each car and each train and releases engines, coal, cars and men for necessary work elsewhere. The new consolidated train will be known as trains Nos. 1 and 2, being a consolidation of the Los Angeles Limited, the Overland Limited and the Oregon-Washington Limited."

LOCAL SERVICE CUT.

A number of local trains will be missing from the new time tables, also. For example, there will be no more local trains between Los Angeles and Riverside and San Bernardino, according to present plans. These trains never paid for themselves. The through trains will carry this traffic.

"I feel that when the public becomes accustomed to the new schedules, travelers will feel as optimistic about the future as we do," said John J. Byrne, assistant passenger agent of the Santa Fe. "The Santa Fe, for example, will have four trains to the East. The trains will be longer, carrying from twelve to fourteen cars each, but the public will be served. There will simply be no useless, empty, or half-filled trains.

"As for rates, we expect no terrific changes which would stop people traveling. The new rates will simply be based on actual mileage. Formerly, one could buy a round-trip ticket which was in reality a joy ride or a sightseeing trip. One could go from Los Angeles to Chicago by the way of New Orleans at short-haul rates. The new rates will be based on actual mileage. For persons who want to come to California we expect no changes that would stop them, but if they want to go a long way around it will cost them more."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CHANGES.

The Southern Pacific via New Orleans drops trains Nos. 105 and 106 via New Orleans and Nos. 111 and 112 between Los Angeles and El Paso. In the north, the Southern Pacific drops the Shasta Limited between Portland and San Francisco, in line with the cutting out of all extra-fare trains, as when the Santa Fe dropped the De Luxe several months ago.

Following are the important changes on the Southern Pacific lines, effective a week from today:

Golden State Limited will leave Los Angeles at 9 a.m., instead of 11:45 a.m., as at present, operating over Southern Pacific through to El Paso.

Sunset Limited for New Orleans will leave Los Angeles at 11 a.m., instead of 8:30 a.m., as at present.

Train No. 2, for Phoenix, Tucson, Douglas and Bisbee, will leave Los Angeles at 2 p.m., instead of 3 p.m., as at present.

Train No. 106, for Phoenix, leaving Los Angelse at 3:05 p.m., will be discontinued. Phoenix passengers will be handled on train No. 2, leaving Los Angeles at 2 p.m.

Train No. 110, for El Paso and New Orleans, will leave Los Angeles at 3 p.m., instead of 3:30 p.m., as at present.

In addition, a local train will be operated from Los Angeles to Impe-

ONLY SHORT TIME LEFT TO PAY INCOME TAXES.

No Extension After June Fifteenth is Possible—Government Looks to All to do Their Duty.

"THE amount of taxes to be collected by the government by June 15 was taken into consideration by the Treasury Department in fixing the amount of treasury certificates and Liberty Loan Bonds. Hence the necessity of everybody getting in his income tax return before that date," said John P. Carter, collector of Internal Revenue, yesterday.

"There positively will be no extension of time granted by the government. Secretary McAdoo already has issued a statement to this effect, together with a comment that circulation of rumors over the country with respect to further time extension has caused considerable harm.

"Any decrease in the amount of income from excess profits caused by an extension of the payment date (June 15) would certainly necessitate a larger issue of treasury certificates. These excess profits and income taxes are relied on by the government under the present huge financial arrangements and must be in on the date specified.

"In this district, individual income tax returns are coming in satisfactorily. There apparently has been a misunderstanding with relation to returns of information, however, and in this case some of the larger corporations in Southern California are delinquent. But in view of recent publicity, I am receiving daily calls over the telephone from these corporations, their officers explaining that they were laboring under a misunderstanding as to just what was wanted by the government.

"There has never before been a better manifestation of patriotism than by Americans at the present time in coming voluntarily to the assistance of the government in answer to its tremendous financial needs. I am speaking with particular reference to the hundreds, nay, thousands, of citizens of Southern California who not only have sent in their income returns earlier than usual, but who in countless cases have given more money to the government than they were called upon to provide under the income regulations. This excess money must, of course, be returned.

"I have had a wonderful exhibition of American honesty filtering through my offices in recent months. Daily I am called upon by citizens who have already mailed their returns, but who have come by unexpected profits and wished to pay the tax on these profits. With such an illustration of patriotic love for one's country, America will unquestionably come through this war with a great moral achievement as well as a great physical victory.

FINES FOR SLACKERS.

"Naturally, there are bound to be some slackers in paying the government taxes, as there are some who lack the spirit to serve in a military way. Penalties have been provided for this class and they will be collected under drastic government regulations. As a representative of the Internal Revenue Department in this district, I have not the power to rebate fines imposed on delinquents."

Mr. Carter stated that there will be no provision for the payment of excess profit and income taxes in installments extending beyond June 15. He continued:

"Although it is not within my province to furnish figures I must say that Southern California equals any other section in the United States with respect to its income tax returns. There has been little or no disposition to shirk responsibility, though many have not yet filed their returns, due possibly to ignorance of the regulations.

"The fact is that every single man and woman who earned $1000 or more during 1917, and every married man or woman earning $2000 or more during that year, is subject to the income tax regulations and must file individual returns with this office.

STATEMENT REQUIRED.

"In the matter of returns of information every corporation that paid $800 or more either as salaries, rentals or interest during the year 1917 must file a statement to this effect by June 1, or otherwise suffer severe penalties to be imposed."

Mr. Carter furnished figures showing the government estimate on excess profits and income tax for the year ending June 15, 1918, to have been $2,407,000,000, whereas the actual amount forthcoming under the two taxes reached the figure of $2,643,000,000, according to figures of returns compiled by the government.

U.S.C.

GREATER UNIVERSITY TO RISE IN LOS ANGELES.

New Structures will Take Place of the Present Buildings, with Other Groups Added.

Out of this conclusion and the subsequent action purchase by the university of the frontage coveted there was born a great civic idea, namely, that the university plan should be tied in with the park layout in one harmonious whole. The county museum stands just across Exposition boulevard from the site on which is to stand the southernmost of the university buildings, that housing the music and art departments, and from a point on University avenue will appear to have been built into the university scheme. Directly in front of the museum is the wonderful sunken garden for which Exposition Park is famous, and bordering this beautiful ballustrated expanse of greenery and bloom on the west and looking across it down University avenue is the splendid Exposition building. Thus, the new university will have in Exposition Park a "campus" more extensive and more beautiful than that possessed by any institution of learning in the country.

In keeping with the comprehensive idea thus evolved, the university's architect has designed the new buildings after the architectural spirit of the park structures, which had their inspiration in the edifices of Northern Italy. All will be of reinforced concrete construction, which lends itself so well to this style, the ornamentation being of terra cotta and the roofs of tile. From the point of view of the city at large, therefore, the new university project will represent a distinct municipal acquisition. As for the trustees, one of their main objects in planning as they have has been to make of the local institution a great "City University" in every sense of the term.

BIG FUTURE.

That the University of Southern California, with its new buildings and equipment, is bound to take rank as one of the leading universities of the continent is assured through the very magnitude to which it has grown under less advantageous conditions. Founded less than forty years ago, the institution had grown until it had an enrollment of nearly 4000 students last year. This represented nearly twice the enrollment of Stanford University and placed the institution second in size to the University of California in this State. In common with all the schools of the country, the university has lost many students to the army in recent months, there being now about 3000 students in attendance in all departments.

The building which the splendid main edifice of the new university group will replace was started in 1884, having been enlarged in 1905 under the direction of Mr. Austin, the architect commissioned to plan the greater institution of the future. Before it, there was built in 1879 the original frame structure, which still stands on the grounds, facing Thirty-fifth place, and which is used for laboratory purposes.

Thus far the university has grown in a most haphazard fashion, some of its departments being widely scattered. In the new plant the university will gather to itself the art school, now located in Garvanza, the law school, at First and Broadway, and the medical school on North Broadway. The facilities of all the departments will be greatly expanded.

Just when work will be started on the new buildings cannot as yet be decided. Preparations are now shaping, however, to take up the question of actual construction immediately upon the completion of the great drive for an increased endowment fund, which the university has been carrying on for the past several months.

UNIVERSITY IS SECOND LARGEST IN THE STATE.

2469; in 1915, 2773; in 1916, 3106; in 1917, 2727.

As an educational institution it ranks second in the State from standpoint of enrollment, the University of California alone outstripping it in number of students catalogued each year. The University of Southern California is the only institution in the Southland which is authorized to award regular university degrees and give post-graduate work. Likewise, it is the only one that is permitted to qualify applicants and invest them with credentials with which they may obtain high school teachers' certificates. It has already created more than 600 such certificates since being invested with the authority of the State Board of Education.

The University of Southern California offers courses in twenty-eight branches of the liberal arts, aside from its departments of law and other professions. Its leading courses are fine arts, oratory, theology, pharmacy, dentistry, medicine, law, music and liberal arts.

"On account of our low overhead expense we have been able in the past to offer exceptional educational advantages," says President Bovard, "the tuition fee being only $50 per semester or $100 for a year's work. This is extremely low in comparison with the tuition charged elsewhere. As time goes on the demands upon our institution will necessarily be great, for we must keep up with the progress of the community, and in order to do that it is plain that we must, before many years, have a $5,000,000 endowment fund at our disposal."

Since the beginning of the war the university has revised its course of instruction in order to offer mainly such things as will have a direct bearing upon the winning of the war. Its summer school, beginning June 24, offers a series of special war lectures, a course in languages of the war zone, geography and lectures on the foundations of national prosperity. There are six branches offered under the general heading of "Making the World Safe for Democracy."

In the regular course of instruction a class in economics is receiving modernized lectures on such interesting subjects as "How Los Angeles is Fed," the "Retail Grocery Business," and "The Olive as a Food." This department is co-operating with the Los Angeles Housing Commission and the local office of the Food Administration in matters calculated to assist in the successful prosecution of the war.

The $1,000,000 finance campaign now being conducted by the Educational Jubilee Committee of the institution, is directed by Dr. C. E. Leitzell of New York. He is being assisted by thirty specialists and scores of volunteers, the latter being students and prominent Los Angeles people who are graduates of the university of otherwise closely identified with its work.

Up to Saturday noon the total pledged since the campaign opened, April 21, was $403,251. Of the 283 pastoral charges in the Southern California conference, only sixty-five have reported to date. With 218 churches to hear from, the prospect of daily reports of substantial progress seems very bright.

Bishop Adna Leonard of San Francisco is chief director of the campaign, and is doing much to create interest in the enterprise. A single gift of $200,000 has been listed. The contributions are not binding unless the entire $1,000,000 is secured, and those who are contributing to the cause are privileged to designate whether the money shall be spent for buildings and equipment or used as an endowment fund for the support of the university in future years.

THE PRESENT BOARD.

The present Board of the University consists of Bishop Leonard, president of the Board of Trustees; George F. Bovard, president of the university; George I. Cochran, treasurer; J. E. Carr, vice-president of the Board of Trustees; W. M. Bowen, Julius A. Brown, S. P. Mulford, J. B. Green E., A. Healy, Albert J. Wallace, A. E. Pomeroy, W. F. Cronemiller and Charles Edward Locke, Trustees.

President Bovard states that contributions to the $1,000,000 campaign fund have been exceedingly numerous and that for the most part they have been made in small amounts, which is justifiable because of the numerous other demands for money which are constantly made upon the people these days.

Last Thursday evening the trustees met with the Board of the University Methodist Episcopal Church, at McClintock and Jefferson streets, to talk over the idea of merging the church with the university, to the extent of selling the present church site and building and putting the money into a more spacious auditorium than that which is contemplated in the present university building plans. It is the idea of the university trustees that such an auditorium could be regarded as the spiritual home of the University Church congregation, and could at the same time be used for the many activities of both institutions which demand large auditorium accommodations. This consolidation plan, however, is a matter to be worked out in future years probably.

MAY AVERT STRIKE.

Threatened Action of Cannery Workers May be Avoided, Says Federal Mediator.

Expressing himself as convinced that the threatened strike of cannery workers of Southern California will be averted, Capt. C. T. Connell, Federal labor mediator, returned from San Francisco yesterday.

While in the north, Mr. Connell had a series of consultations with Ralph P. Merritt, Federal Food Administrator for California. He also arranged for a conference of leading packers and canners of the State to be held in San Francisco on Tuesday.

"Wake up, America!"

TO SHOW SHIP WORKERS NEED OF PREPAREDNESS.

"WAKE up, America" is the title of a programme that will be given at Shrine Auditorium next Thursday evening, especially for persons engaged in war industries. The affair will be under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with the United States Shipping Board and is designed to show to ship workers the cause for which America is fighting and the vast amount of preparation that is necessary.

Motion pictures of the desolation brought by the Hun to Belgium and France will be shown to emphasize what unpreparedness brings to a nation attacked by the ruthless enemy.

One of the fanciful features to bring home what might happen in America is shown by a moving picture of French school children in the war zone. They are warned of danger, hastily adjust their gas masks and fly for shelter. Uncle Sam's soldiers in khaki marching to the ships that bear them overseas and other incidents of the huge war preparation programme are included.

In order to reach directly those engaged in actual war preparation work, the chamber has sent special invitations to the heads of the larger industrial companies for distribution among the workers. It is announced, however, that failure to receive an invitation will not bar any worker, as the programme is free and the audience will be limited only by the seating capacity, which is 5000.

A musical programme will precede the pictures and lectures. W. J. Burns, an industrial expert who was sent to Los Angeles under the auspices of the Shipping Board, will give the descriptive talk accompanying the pictures. There will be no reserved seats and the doors will be open at 7 o'clock.

Famous in a Day for Her Beautiful Complexion, Oatmeal Combination Does

A Free Prescription Does Its Work Overnight. You Can Prepare It at Home.

New York: It is my own discovery and it takes just one night to get such marvelous results, says Mae Edna Wilder, when her friends ask her about her wonderful complexion and the improved appearance of her hands and arms. You can do the same thing if you follow my advice, she says. I feel it my duty to tell every girl and woman what this wonderful prescription did for me. Just think of it. All this change in a single night. I never tire of telling others just what brought about such remarkable results. Here is the identical prescription that removed every defect from my face, neck, hands and arms. Until you try it you can form no idea of the marvelous change it will make in just one application. The prescription which you can prepare at your own home is as follows: Go to any grocery and get ten cents worth of ordinary oatmeal, and from any drug store a bottle of derwillo. Prepare the oatmeal as directed in every package of derwillo and apply night and morning. The first application will astonish you. It makes the skin appear transparent, smooth and velvety. I especially recommend it for a sallow skin, freckles, tan, sun spots, coarse pores, rough skin, ruddiness, wrinkles, and, in fact, every blemish the face, hands and arms are heir to. If your neck or chest is discolored from exposure, apply this combination there and the objectionable defect will disappear as if by magic. It is absolutely harmless and will not produce or stimulate a growth of hair. No matter how rough and ungainly the hands and arms, or what abuses they have had through hard work and exposure to sun and wind, this oatmeal-derwillo combination will work a wonderful transformation in 12 hours at the most. [illegible] sands who have used it [illegible] same results I have had.

Miss O. C. says: "My [illegible] was poor and my skin rough. [illegible] chest, hands and arms were [illegible] exposure. Asserting that successful prose[illegible] of the war is the one big is[illegible] before the people today, J. O. [illegible] of San Jose, candidate for [illegible] Republican nomination for Gov[illegible] yesterday at the City Club, [illegible] Californians can do nothing [illegible] than to prepare for retrench[illegible] of State expenditures. He [illegible] attacked some of the [illegible] fat commissions and declared [illegible] in his opinion no business man [illegible] think of conducting his pri[illegible] business upon the basis [illegible] for the operation of many [illegible] the commissions.

Mr. Hayes was greeted by a large [illegible] of City Club members and [illegible] it being his first public ad[illegible] of his southern campaign. He [illegible] frequently applauded, striking [illegible] chord every time he took [illegible] at the unnecessary and ex[illegible] expenditure of State [illegible]

The speaker directed a part of his [illegible] address to the In[illegible] Accident Commission, of [illegible] Meyer Lissner is a member, [illegible] who was present. Mr. Hayes [illegible] he did not have a personal feel[illegible] in the matter, but would say [illegible] he intended to say to the face [illegible] the member, rather than behind [illegible] back.

SHOWS EXTRAVAGANCE.

Mr. Hayes said that when the In[illegible] Accident Commission was [illegible] the promise was given that [illegible] be self-sustaining after the [illegible] year. An appropriation of [illegible] was made to carry it [illegible] preliminary stages, he said, [illegible] while he had not secured the [illegible] for each year he was in[illegible] that the commission applied [illegible] last session of the Legislature [illegible] appropriation of $500,000 to [illegible] it through another two years. [illegible] said that approximately that [illegible] had been given to the com[illegible]

Mr. Hayes cited one instance of [illegible] in connection with [illegible] commission. He said that in a [illegible] town of the State two employ[illegible] have taken out accident insur[illegible] paying a total premium of [illegible] a year. "The commission sends [illegible] inspector to this town four times [illegible] year to examine the risks," [illegible] Mr. Hayes. "Instead of having [illegible] inspector examine the risks of [illegible] employers on the same trip it [illegible] the work so it is done upon [illegible] dates. Such business prin[illegible] obnoxious to a business [illegible] I do not believe the peo[illegible] California will stand for them [illegible]"

Mr. Hayes said he believed there [illegible] duplication of work among [illegible] commissions. The work of the [illegible] Welfare Commission, Im[illegible] and Housing Commission, [illegible] of Labor Statistics and the [illegible] Bureau should be [illegible] he said. He made it [illegible] however, that he is not op[illegible] to doing everything possible [illegible] betterment of conditions of [illegible] laboring class.

WILL WEED 'EM OUT.

"The time has come when we [illegible] look at these problems from a [illegible] viewpoint," said Mr. [illegible] "We can make a big saving [illegible] use a large part of the sav[illegible] helping win the war. Just [illegible] should lose their jobs, I am not [illegible] to say just now, but it is [illegible] that if I am elected Gov[illegible] I will weed out all of them [illegible] are not needed for the success[illegible] operation of the State's busi[illegible]

Mr. Hayes introduced his political [illegible] with an expression of his [illegible] upon the war. He said we [illegible] in the war to stay till the end, [illegible] to win. He deprecated the re[illegible] often made that the people of [illegible] United States are not conscious [illegible] fact that we are at war.

POLITICS.

The American Game.

THE WATCHMAN.

TREND OF POLITICAL THOUGHT AND ACTION.

By the Sentry on His Beat.

The 25th inst. has "came and went," and still Charley McGee of San Diego has not formally announced his candidacy for Governor. His local press agent probably got his dates mixed.

Charles M. Fickert, the stalwart District Attorney of San Francisco, was in town a day or two the past week. He said he has received encouragement from every side and believes the platform he will announce in a few days will meet with general approval.

Tom Hughes, the veteran campaign manager, asserts that things could not look brighter for Gov. Stephens. "The wanderers are slowly but surely coming into our camp," Mr. Hughes said, "and before the campaign reaches its highest pitch all of 'em will be with us."

The dry forces have unqualifiedly given their indorsement to Gov. Stephens.

Editor Hayes made a ringing speech before the City Club yesterday. It was his maiden address and though he was in the midst of his enemies made a favorable impression. I am still of the opinion that Mr. Hayes will get more votes south of the Tehachepi than a lot of people think he will.

News of a shocking nature impends.

It is this: Intelligence has trickled westward from Washington that the Republican and Democratic national organizations, Congressional and otherwise, have reached a tacit agreement whereby they will not, as national organizations, interfere in the party elections this fall. They have virtually agreed upon the proposition that hot partisan battles will not only divert large sums of money from war work, but will involve many thousands of workers whose energies should be utilized in winning the war.

Up in Oregon two candidates for Senator, influenced, no doubt, by the action taken in the East, have agreed to set their names up before the people and remain inactive during campaign time.

Hints will likely come from the administrators of war activities that campaign organizations, before and after the primaries, should not hire large forces of workers and should not spend any more money than is actually necessary to conduct a modest campaign.

The shocking part of all this comes in its effect upon the gunrunners and the hangers-on who fatten upon campaigns and never do a lick of work between times.

It will be sad news, indeed, to organizers of fake societies, to the professionals who always have "thousands of voters" in the palm of their outstretched hands. It will bring dismay to the "loyal" men and women who make the rounds of one headquarters after another until they land on the pay roll of one—and sometimes more than one.

Every candidate from Southern California who went into San Francisco to organize the northern end of his campaign knows what a hungry horde of shameless political parasites he has to meet. And every candidate from the north who comes to Los Angeles finds the Gimme Club at the depot with outstretched hands.

It will be a relief to all of them if the word from Washington is correct, for in the interest of war energy and war expenditure, the money these candidates will have to raise will be reduced to a minimum, and the army of leeches, moochers, professional grafters and just ordinary hangers-on will have to go to work or fight.

If this is true, and it appears to be, the day of the up-ended "barrel" is over.

Judge Weller made an important ruling this week that will interest all politicians. He held that a candidate's name stamped in on the ballot with a rubber stamp is quite as valid as a candidate's name that is written in. The primary law, which is the worst patchwork of incongruities imaginable, specially requires that all written-in names must be done with pen or pencil. Judge Weller's decision, ending an election contest of little or no importance, holds that to write in a name on its proper space upon the ballot, one may use a rubber stamp and therefore held that the candidate who was a beneficiary of the rubber stamp was entitled to the votes "written in" thereby.

The possibilities opened up by this decision are vast. It is a physical impossibility to interest many people in a candidate when they are compelled to write in his name. If his name is not printed on the ballot, the voters won't write it. There are many instances, however, wherein it would have been possible for candidates to become elected had they known the rubber stamp was legal.

Take the whirlwind campaign of Joy Clark for Congress two years ago, as an illustration. It was much easier for the voters to write in the name of Joy Clark than Henry Stanley Benedict (vale, Henry!) for the short term in Congress. Yet Benedict got the greater number of votes and won. Clark, by circulating rubber stamps, could have added several thousand votes to his total, but didn't know it was legal.

P. S. McNutt of Glendale two years ago made a good race for the Assembly in the Sixty-first District and was so flattered by the votes of 1500 good Republicans that he has decided to try it again.

Congressman Osborne demonstrated again his far-sightedness when he opposed the prohibition amendment, which was drafted by Congressman Randall. The amendment would exterminate the gigantic wine industry of California and if adopted by Congress would be a direct slap at President Wilson, as it would take from him discretionary powers he now holds. It was not the first time Mr. Randall took a fling at the President, however. None of us can forget his reprehensible anti-war record.

W. C. Mushet is a candidate for Congress and has figured a way to beat Mr. Randall. He and many of his friends believe that Messrs. Randall and Odell will split the radical dry vote and that loyal Republicans will be glad of an opportunity to support a man who has never weakened and who stands for all that the G.O.P. represents. Mr. Mushet plans to conduct a vigorous campaign. He will visit day and night for two months in the Ninth District. Being a powerful speaker and full of pep, he will make some showing.

J. L. Mathews of Covina, editor of the Covina Argus for twenty-five years, is in the First Supervisorial District fight to stay. He was postmaster in Covina during the administrations of McKinley and Roosevelt and is a Republican of the highest type. He has been a leader in public work for years and perhaps no one is better known throughout the county. He bases his platform on economy, and says an inventory of the First District will be a surprise to the people, that they have never received proper attention nor their share of the county's finances. He is bitterly opposed to faddists, impractical and expensive experiments. Mr. Mathews is a genuinely public-spirited worker for things that are good.

H. G. Cattell, a business man of Pasadena, has entered the race for Supervisor. He admits his principal reason for getting in is that he does not care to disappoint 100 "prominent" citizens who urged him to be their candidate.

THE WATCHMAN.

GERMANY'S DEBT NOW ENORMOUS.

Amounts to Thirty-five Per Cent. of Total Resources, Says Lecturer.

Prof. B. R. Baumgardt, now lecturing here, gives the following interesting figures regarding Germany's commercial and military advance since the Franco-Prussian War in 1871.

Germany had no foreign trade in 1871; in 1914 she had $5,000,000. In 1871, no factories; in 1914, 300,000 employing 5,500,000 people. In 1871, no navy; in 1914, the third largest in the world. In 1871, no merchant marine; in 1914, the largest in the world. In 1871, no war debt, today her debt amounts to $30,000,000,000, or 35 per cent. of her total resources of $80,000,000,000, with $1,500,000,000 interest per year.

The United States total resources amounts to $225,000,000,000, and our debt today is but 2½ per cent of our total resources.

Justice William Lorigan.

JUDGE LORIGAN TO SEEK RE-ELECTION.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICE OF STATE SUPREME COURT HAS RECOVERED HEALTH.

Judge William G. Lorigan, associate justice of the State Supreme Court, who some time since suffered a severe and protracted illness, has fully recovered his health. He has resumed his work upon the bench and was in attendance at the recent May session of the Supreme Court held at Sacramento.

The term of Judge Lorigan as associate justice expires this year and he has announced that he will be a candidate at the coming State election to succeed himself. Judge Lorigan served two terms as Superior judge of Santa Clara county and was elected for a third term, but just before it commenced he was appointed, in January, 1903, by Gov. Gage as successor to Judge Jackson Temple of the Supreme Court, who had died. The unexpired term of Judge Temple was for four years, at the end of which Judge Lorigan was nominated and elected for a full term of twelve years, which is now about to end.

Judge Lorigan has been an industrious member of the court and his decisions rank with those of any other member of it.

CONGRESSMAN OSBORNE.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Democratic party is in a minority in the national House of Representatives, President Wilson and his administration have received the loyal support of the House ever since it became apparent that the United States must align itself with the forces of democracy in the great world war. To secure this united support it was necessary for a large number of Republicans to submerge their party spirit and to stand in all national legislation for a policy of country first. For many this meant a sacrifice of ideals which formed the base of their political convictions; it meant a backing of certain measures of whose equity they felt more than a reasonable doubt. But in such instances they accepted the administration programme, although they felt at times it was not the safest plan.

Some men change their politics as nonchalantly as an actor makes up for different parts; but there are others who chose a platform to stand on, not merely to get in on; and for these it was at times humiliating to follow Democratic leaders and support policies in which the line of demarcation between the country's welfare and that of the Democratic party was not always clearly defined. But to them the lesser of two evils was to stand with the President, to join in a unity of action that would convince allies and foes alike that the country was practically unanimous in sustaining the war policies of the government.

Prominent among those who never hesitated to place the welfare of the nation before any tactical advantage for his own party was Congressman H. Z. Osborne of Los Angeles, Representative from the Tenth Congressional District. Mr. Osborne is a lifelong Republican, a staunch party man; but on every measure relating to the war his attitude has been strictly nonpartisan. He voted with the administration at times when Democrats themselves wavered in their support. He proved a valued aid in framing bills for raising necessary war revenue and in obtaining a majority vote for them in the lower house. As all revenue bills must come from the House of Representatives, it devolved upon Congressman Osborne and his associates to initiate the most important legislation passed by the present Congress. At the beginning these men were dubbed "administration Republicans" by some as a term of reproach; but as the war proceeded and the importance of unity in the lower house was better understood, the term "administration Republican" became a badge of distinction. Only big men can follow loyally where once they have led.

President Wilson was one of the first to recognize the worth of these administration Republicans. He was grateful for their silence when men of his own party were harping on some petty administrative error that had been corrected before the critics knew about it. Congressman Osborne and his associates either voiced constructive criticism or held their peace. And the President has expressed repeatedly the hope that the Democrats of their districts will requite the signal service they have rendered to their country by refraining from nominating Democratic candidates to oppose them in the Congressional elections. The Times hopes and expects that the Democrats of the Tenth Congressional District (Los Angeles) will heed the request of the President and will not nominate a Democrat in the August primaries to oppose Congressman Osborne.

SHIFTING CONDITIONS.

The champion riveter is now in position to pity the poor railroad president who has lost his job and cannot tell exactly where another like it can be had. The man who ran a railroad and the stout party who owned a brewery were held as the real snapholders in days of old, but just now they seem as inconsequential as a wishbone to a stuffed walrus. They may not even travel in their own private cars and they are lucky to have two ounces of white bread with their dinners.

AMERICAN ENTERPRISE.

American genius seizes and harnesses the electric force that throbs in the tides and thunders in the cataracts and with it melts iron and makes ice and lights cities and propels car wheels and conquers the very forces of nature in their strongholds. There are American contractors who, if it could be made to pay, would undertake to raise lilies and roses in a conservatory at the North Pole or—mebbe—to turn Hades into a cold-storage warehouse.

"THEY NEVER COME BACK."

Joseph W. Folk, one-time Governor of Missouri, has announced his candidacy for the United States Senate. Mr. Folk was dropped from the major league ten years ago. If he were a better sport he would be familiar with that imperishable aphorism of Muggsy McGraw, "They never come back."

MIGHTY MEAN.

In listing the champion mean folks of the world don't overlook the shoestring bandits who have been burglarizing the milk bottles put out to catch pennies for the Belgian babies. They would steal the warts off a toad.

STATECRAFT AND THE KAISER.

THE largest statesmanship stands for world service. Real statecraft cannot recede to sectionalism. The world will never again acknowledge the murderous militarism of the Kaiser as statesmanship. It has already taken its place in the solemn world estimates as a wicked and wholesale slaughter. There is no more dignity in his shameless sporting with suffering and grief than there is in the cruel cat playing with a dying mouse. He is as cruel as a cobra. He is as soulless as a snake swallowing a toad. He is as utterly heartless as the hyena. The Kaiser of Germany is the consummation of criminal camouflage. He is not a diplomatist; he is a villain. Nor is this a mere spiteful speech about the black snake of Berlin. It is a recital of facts about Germany's Emperor ghoul. As sickening as it is we must believe the truth about this Teuton vampire. Now and then, even yet, some well-meaning sentimentalist whispers, "Surely it can't be so." But if a body has a thimbleful of brains, he ought to know that a mad dog's bite IS poison, a reptile IS venomous, and that the spumes of a skunk ARE sickening with vileness.

If all the Herods, all the Neros, all the "Bloody Maries," all the insane Attilas, all the Jezebels, all the idiotic inheritors of thrones; if all the foul brood of the world's blood-mongers, John Wilkes Booth, Guiteau, Czolgoz, and all the other serpentine assassins of the centuries could be called out of the bottomless pit of eternal darkness, KAISER WILHELM OF GERMANY WOULD BE THE FITTEST TO STAND AT THE HEAD OF THIS DARK PROCESSION OF DEMONS.

II.

STATECRAFT? A statesman is the servant of the people of a state. He is their leader in humanitarian labors for their mutual welfare. The greatest statesman is the greatest unselfish servant of the people. Any dog may be a schemer and a slaughterer. Longfellow speaks of the "Werewolves of the human race." The beast of Berlin is one of these. A werewolf is a creature whose nature is changed from that of a man to the nature of a wolf. In some superstitious countries it has been a prevalent belief. And when such brutes as the Kaiser stalk across the arena who can wonder at such belief. Since he opened this world war in 1914 what slightest semblance of manhood has he shown? In his sinister motives and movements he has been, throughout his career (to use one of those rare words of Ben Jonson,) only a "stinkard" and never a STATESMAN. Whatever the possibilities in his case might once have been he is thoroughly imbruted now. He is now a "lycanthrope," a "werewolf," a meant-to-be man degenerated to a wolf. The scriptures say, "Beware of dogs." The meaning plainly is, beware of the DOG-man. Now this murder-man of Germany is not only the DOG-man, he is a man-formed beast with a dog nature. Statesmanship? No more than a snake or a fox or a wolf or a dog. We talk about the German state. The German state is a death trap. The Emperor of Germany is a schemer who has "cornered" the murder mill of the Huns. What movement has he made since his coronation, save to sate his murderous maw?

The test for membership in a certain band of bandits used to be shooting at the crucifix of the Christ. If a man could do this without wincing, then he was fitted for the basest brutalities and villainies. If he had nothing but a night black shadow for a soul he was beast enough to be a bandit. That is Wilhelm. He could do that. He could stab Jesus in His last cry on the cross. His ideas are simply vermin wriggling their way through a few gruesome knots of nervous ganglia called brains. His soul is a fit spawning place for serpents. It is a nest of ooze putridly foul.

King David, Kossuth, Pitt, Cromwell, Garibaldi, Gladstone, John Bright, Jefferson, Washington, Lincoln—these are statesman names to conjure with. These were all stalwart souls serving their fellows. The sorrows of mankind broke the heart of every one of them. Every man of them worked himself to death in the service of mankind. Each of them was faithful unto death.

III.

DO WE need a sample of real and sublime statesmanship this hour? Look at Abraham Lincoln. The contrast between him and Prussia's criminal chief is as great as the contrast between a blowfly and an eagle. It is as great as the contrast between a gorilla and a god. Lincoln gave himself to save others. Wilhelm gives others to save himself. Lincoln was a builder. Wilhelm is a destroyer.

Germany's ghoul insists that "Might is right." Lincoln said, "Let us have faith that RIGHT MAKES MIGHT, and, in that faith, let us to the end dare to do our duty. I know that the Lord is always on the side of the right. But it is my constant anxiety and prayer that I and this nation should be on the Lord's side." Germany's slave-driver would say, "It is my pleasure to TRIUMPH OVER EVERYBODY." The loving Lincoln said, "It is NO PLEASURE to me TO TRIUMPH OVER ANYONE." The murder chief of the Teutons has gloatingly planted a spear in the bosom of babies and virgins and mothers. The tender Lincoln said, "I have not willingly planted a thorn in any man's bosom." The head of the slave gang in Germany authorizes any kind of bloody bargain or any wickedness that will inflict a blood-bath on the enemy. "I authorize no bargain [for the Presidency,] and will be bound by none. Come what will I will keep my faith with friend and foe." The Prussian says, "Stand with the Prussian that has might." Lincoln said, and did what he said, "STAND WITH ANYBODY THAT STANDS RIGHT. Stand with him while he is right, AND PART WITH HIM WHEN HE GOES WRONG.

Here it is well to recall those ever memorable and familiar words of our great Lincoln: "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work that we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations." In plain view of the atrocities of the Huns let us put over against Lincoln's sublime utterance of statesmanship its Kaiserian antithesis. This is what Wilhelm would say and this is what comports perfectly with his conduct as head of the Huns:

> "With hate toward everybody, with charity for nobody, with frightfulness in the wrong, as God knows we see it is wrong, let us strive on to finish the slaughter we have begun; let us keep open the nation's wounds; let us care for nobody, not even the widows and orphans—Let us do all which may achieve an unjust and everlasting disturbance of the peace among ourselves and with all nations."

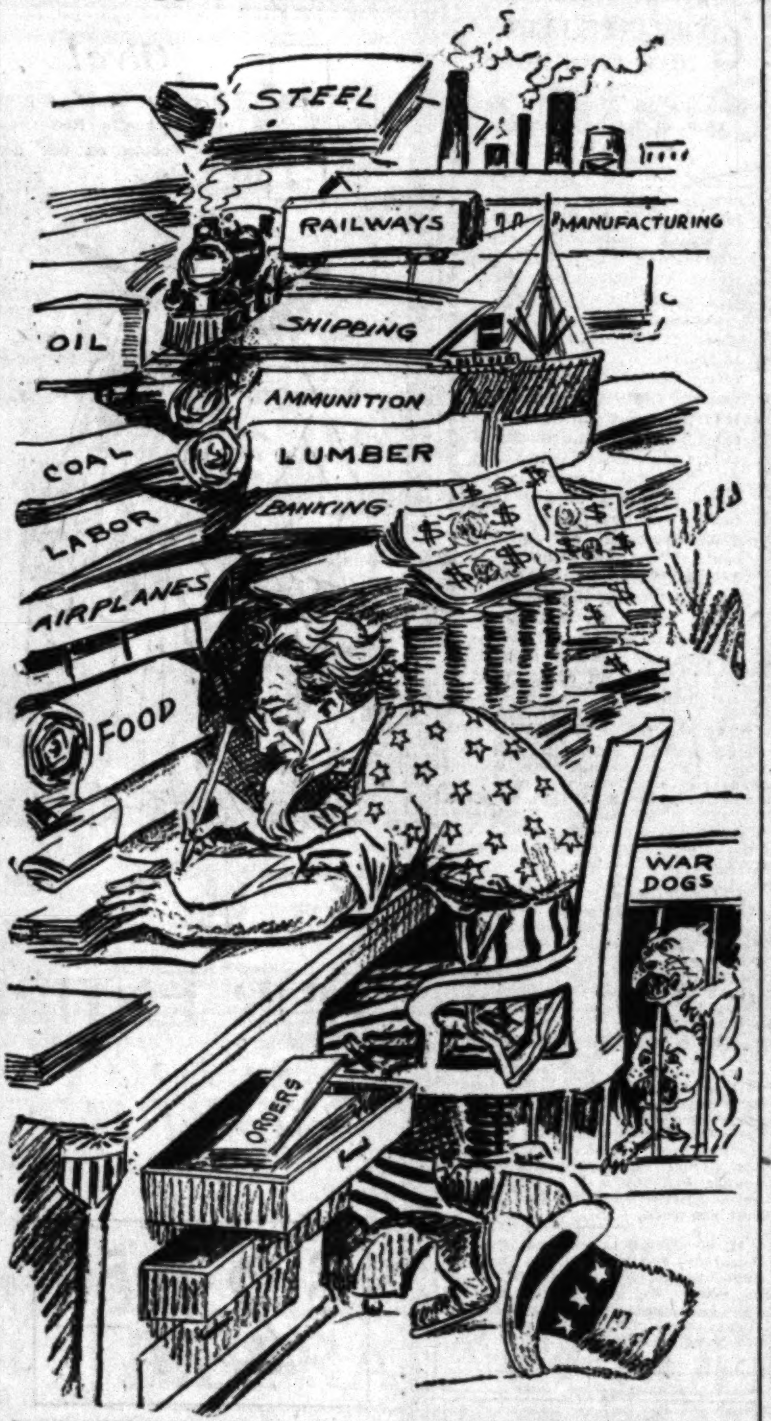
In solemn epitome here is a perfectly fair contrast between Lincoln, the state-maker and Wilhelm, the state murderer. Here is the difference between statecraft and state crime, state service and state slaughter. Lincoln was a ruler in righteousness. Wilhelm is a ruiner on a rampage. Our emancipator was an associate of the people. Germany's Emperor is an assassin of the people.

Lincoln's reverence for womanhood was close of kin to worship. The Kaiser's lustful exploition of women would shame a common breeder of dogs. We heard that he gathered violets the other day for the Kaiserin. It was camouflage to cover up his crimes against women. Not all the world's violets could cover his crimes. Not all the perfumes of all the world's orchards and gardens could take the blood smells from his hands. The wraiths of mothers and babies from the spot where the Lusitania went down in the sea will haunt his guilty heart till the last death-gurgle shall die in his throat.

IV.

LINCOLN, the great leader of liberty said: "At what point shall we expect the approach of danger? Shall we expect some trans-Atlantic military giant to step across the ocean and crush us at a blow? Never! All the armies of Europe, Asia and Africa combined, with all the treasures of the earth (our own excepted) in their military chest, with a Bonaparte for a commander, could not, by force, take a drink from the Ohio River, or make a track on the Blue Ridge, in a trial of a thousand years. At what point, then, is this approach of danger to be expected? I answer, IF IT EVER REACHES US, IT MUST SPRING UP AMONG US. IT CANNOT COME FROM ABROAD. If destruction be our lot, we must ourselves be its author and finisher. As a nation of free men, WE MUST LIVE THROUGH ALL TIME OR DIE BY SUICIDE." In this hour of internal spies and disloyalties these words from our greatest statesman, and, perhaps, the foremost statesman of all time, flash out like a beacon light. We must keep our own door yard clean. We must keep the decks of our ship of state constantly cleared for action. These are solemn words of warning, but they are also words of cheer. The land of Lincoln will not be guilty of suicide. We are now stripped for the fight and we are now winning the war. The Teuton serpent is now writhing under the heroic heel of the legions of liberty. Carry on, carry on, comrades at home and abroad, carry on! The golden tongue of liberty's bell is trembling now to ring out tyranny forever. Let us keep steady. The sea tides of victory are rolling to liberty's landward every day.

The Biggest Business Man in the World.



NOT U-BOATS, BUT AIRCRAFT.

German piracy on the high seas has ceased to be a dominant factor in the war. The Allied navies are rapidly solving the problem of the U-boat; so rapidly, in fact, that the rates for marine insurance are less than half those existing when America entered the war. The total tonnage losses for the first four months of 1918 are but a little more than that of a single month last spring. Admiral Von Capelle, head of the German Admiralty, was forced to admit in a recent Reichstag debate that the rate of U-boat destruction by the Allies has passed that of German construction. He still insists that the submarine is a powerful factor in the war; but he was compelled to ask for greater appropriations in order that the number of submarines afloat might be maintained.

Von Tirpitz's boast of bringing England to her knees by a submarine blockade has become a public jest of the Allies, like that boast of Hindenburg's about eating Easter dinner in Paris. But, while the submarine menace passes as its destructive power wanes, a new and more formidable force is revolutionizing the methods of warfare. Winning the war has apparently been reserved, not for the U-boat, but for the airplane. Fighting in the darkness and seclusion of the depths of the ocean lends itself readily to German kultur; but the Hun is less at home in the air. The heavens are essentially the domain of the champions of democracy. The Paladins of freedom and equality are at their best in the great open spaces that canopy the far-flung battle lines. Recent dispatches reveal that the ascendency of the air has been clearly established by the Allied aviators and that the menace of Foch's air cavalry has so terrorized the German land forces that the organization of the new offensive has been seriously hampered.

We naturally take pride in the fact that the airplane is an American invention. It is the one weapon against which the intensive military training of the German forces offers no defense. The airplane is the eye of the modern army; and the destruction of the air squadron is as serious as the loss of sight. Germany's supremacy in the air was maintained until the middle of last summer; but the spring campaign in France has been disastrous to the Hun aviators. More than one thousand enemy airplanes have been wrecked since the big drive started. The Allied airmen recently bagged one hundred in a single day.

It was natural that the Germans should put their trust at the beginning of the war in the Zeppelins. Those machines were gross and heavy, like the German intellect; but they proved no match for the eagle-winged fighting planes of the Allies. It is hardly too much to say that the knell of the Prussian military system was sounded when the Wright brothers invented their wonderful machine. Reflect that the first successful flight was made only a little more than ten years ago, then turn back and read in your Thursday's Times, "In the period between May 15 and May 18 the Allied squadrillas dropped 160 tons of bombs on enemy depots and other establishments. During the night of May 15 120 airplanes were in the air at the same time bombing German depots. . . . American squadrillas participated in the aerial operations."

Since so many successful bombing operations have been carried out by the Allies the German Reichstag has suddenly discovered that bombing cities not in the fighting zone is contrary to the tenets of civilized warfare. The Chancellor was interpellated Thursday as to whether an agreement could not be reached by which air raids behind the lines would be discontinued by mutual consent. Bombarding London and Paris was rare sport in the early days of the war; but when the Allies are strong enough to retaliate the Hun sings another tune. It is through continued supremacy of the air that the collapse of the German military machine can be accomplished soonest. The Germans are not naturally air fighters. They are essentially creatures of the earth. It is characteristic of the Huns that they should offer the resistance of the brute.

So it is to the air and not to the depths of the ocean that the Allied peoples look for victory. Those who look past material things to psychic forces beyond will see in the invention and marvelous development of the airplane a directing Providence which placed it in the hands of civilization at the time when it would be needed to combat the development of scientific barbarism. The airplane is the force that Bismarck and Treitschke did not foresee, and it is the airplane that has rendered obsolete the plan of campaign on which Germany's whole military system is based.

Out in the air and the sunlight, not a hundred leagues beneath the sea, a final decision in the great struggle between democracy and despotism must be sought. Patriots look upward for their inspiration, and it is now to be found in the great squadrons of air cavalry that are driving the Huns underground and under the sea. The Times predicts that the first raid to reach Berlin will be that of an air squadrilla composed of a thousand planes. It is from the heavens that the wrath of wronged democracy will be visited on the Huns; and it is from the air that the fighting force of America will probably deliver its most telling strokes.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

WARTIME LOAFING.

In sundry sections men have risen and cried in ringing tones that idle gents should go to prison or else bestir their bones. The scheme is good and I indorse it, for every man on deck should work until he busts his corset or dislocates his neck. Oh, every corner has its loafer, who will not earn a wage; and him the village cop should go for and put him in a cage. The man unfit to wield a saber or carve Teuts with a sword should try a course of honest labor—pitch hay or saw a board. There is a place for every sinner who has one leg and arm, and he can earn a bed and dinner on any moral farm. Yet husky men are idly standing in town, forever more, and bold as brass they are demanding a hand-out at your door. In times of peace they put it over, the coarsest stunts got by; but now all men should put up clover or hunt their holes and die. The earnest, busy lads are packing the burdens of this time; and idleness is truly slacking, and slacking is a crime. There's no excuse for Weary Willies, their presence is a sin; so let the peelers take their billies and run the loafers in.

WALT MASON.

WHAT GOD'S ATTITUDE TOWARD THIS WAR?

Is He Neutral?—Does He Care? How to Pray?

BY HALL CAINE.

A few days ago the Wesleyans of London gathered at their Central Hall to call for intercession on behalf of the nation and its defenders. Their prayers included several forms of petition, and every one of them seemed to me injurious to true religion and harmful to the national spirit. I deplore them deeply, and feel compelled to condemn completely.

The first of the prayers of the Wesleyans was for "deliverance from our traditional sins of drunkenness and pride." In the abstract, apart from the central purpose of the gathering, and as a general supplication against two besetting human infirmities, no exception, but that of slanderous exaggeration, can be taken to this petition. But it is impossible to take it so. Offered on a day of special intercession for the nation and its defenders, it was plainly intended to apply to the war—not as a prayer against one principal cause of our slackness in prosecuting it, but as an effort to probe the mystery of the world's suffering and to account to humanity for the purposes of God.

Why does God allow the war to go on? If He is an almighty and beneficent providence, why does He not put an end to this cruel, merciless, meaningless carnival of barbarity? For what reason that is intelligible ot the mind and appreciable by the heart of man, does He permit it that for four awful years the right should be wronged and the weak and innocent should suffer intolerable outrages at the hands of the strong and guilty? In the midst of a cataclysm that is shaking the foundations of the world—robbing millions of mothers of their sons, millions of wives of their husbands, and millions of children of their fathers—is God doing anything? If not, why not? Is it because He does not care?

Such is the cry, hardly daring to become articulate, that has gone up from the bleeding hearts of suffering people all over the world. And the silent answer of hundreds of millions of humble and reverent souls, confronted by this most dread mystery, has been, and will continue to be, "I do not know; I do not see; only God knows and sees; and before His awful will I bow and wait."

But through all the ages there has been a type of the religious mind which has been unable to maintain this attitude of devout humility. It must reconcile God's ways with man, and being forbidden by the cardinal doctrine of its faith to believe that God does nothing, still less that He does not care, it falls back on the explanation that the evils which are permitted to befall humanity are God's chastisement of man for his transgressions. Man has sinned; therefore, God wills it that he shall suffer. If the suffering is to be removed, the sin must first be wiped away.

That has been the meaning of thousands of pious pilgrimages in time of plague, and days of fire, famine and slaughter, and (whatever other words surround it) it is the central motive of the prayer of the London Wesleyans at Central Hall today, when, in the face of the tragedy of the war, they call on God for "deliverance from our traditional sins of drunkenness and pride."

But think of the impiety of it! The treason and the cowardice of it! Put into plain words, it means that not German treachery, and the spirit of a baser plot than had ever before been hatched by cruel greed and heartless ambition against the peace and welfare of the world, but our own sins were the true authors of this war.

Oh, I well know with what theological conjuring and juggling a certain type of the religious mind has throughout the Christian ages made effort to escape from such manifest deductions. There is no escape from them.

If the German is God's instrument for the chastisement of our sins, why should we resist him? If the war is God's punishment of our transgressions, our duty is to submit to it, as the Christians of the dark ages submitted in helpless blindness to famine and plague. "Mea culpa" should be our only cry.

To charge the war to our national sins, and to pray for deliverance from them as a means of propitiating the Almighty that He may end the horror, is to belittle God, to degrade man, and to weaken our will to overcome our enemy. Therefore (however sincerely intended,) it is impiety, profanity, blasphemy and treason.

The Wesleyans of Central Hall did not intend any of these things. Their sincerity and devotion are entirely above question. But their prayers do little justice to either, and none at all to their intelligence. Brains, Wesleyans, brains! For God's sake, in this hour of peril, let us have not only your piety, but your brains!

I fully expect, and indeed already know, that an attempt will be made to prove that the prayer in question meant something less and perhaps quite other than I say; but lest there should be any unworthy effort to escape from the only logical interpretation, look at the terms of this second petition, which agree with the spirit of the first and carry it to its natural conclusion: "That God will give us a peace that will not mean the breaking down of any other nation, nor the destruction and humiliation of any people.

"We have sinned, and as the just punishment of God, we have suffered. Let us not, therefore, seek to break down, destroy, or humiliate the instruments of God's revenge."

Now, here is the authentic voice of the shallowest and most mischievous "pacifism" that masquerades under the sun. If I believed that the Wesleyans fully realized the whole dangerous and d disloyalty of it, I should

The Answer is Yes.

IS NEW WOMAN FARM LABOR MOVEMENT PRACTICABLE ONE?

Can They do the Work and Stick to It? How do They Compare with Men? What About Their Pay, Their Clothes, Their Accommodations?

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

"WHAT about this Woman's Land Army? Is it a game or do they mean business?"

That is the big question the farmers of the country are asking today. And upon its answer rests the cultivation of a vast number of now unproductive acres, in fact, almost the difference between plenty and scarcity. For the labor problem will be acute this year, and minus this possible efficient reserve corps, will become increasingly problematical.

And the farmer is very skeptical about the women.

"Oh, yes, we've seen these movie stunts, we've observed the fetching uniform, but can they stick it out; can they really work?"

And my unequivocable answer, after a visit to the Elsinore ranches where a few pioneer ranchers have set aside their prejudices and are giving the first two units of women a fair tryout, is that,

The women can do the work, do do the work, and most emphatically do stick it out.

This woman's land army, composed of able-bodied young women, selected just as the men are selected for the army, for their physical capacity, their good characters, their general deportment, and trained and disciplined even rather more strictly than the men, that no petty frivolities or paltry scandals may mar the success of these first pioneers who must break down the prejudices of tradition, are acquitting themselves with amazing efficiency. I worked with the girls, who wore the uniform, and during my entire visit, heard nothing but grateful eulogies from those farmers whose land they are making productive.

There are twenty-two of these buoyant healthy girls at Elsinore now—the first properly organized working unit of the Woman's Land Army, in the country.

HOW IT STARTED HERE.

The reason California is ahead of the States in this enterprise, is because the idea was formed here before it became a national qustion. Six months ago Mrs. Orpha Eastman of Elsinore was begging Red Cross subscriptions from the ranchers in her district. She found the farmers all pessimistic about the labor problem and insisting that much of their acreage must remain idle on this account. So she made a bargain with them—"I will undertake to get you women workers aplenty," she said, "if you will give me 2 per cent. of your profits for the Red Cross, at the end of the year." After considerable argument, R. P. Sherman and his manager, Mr. Harvey of the South Elsinore Development Company, agreed to her terms. Mrs. Eastman at once set to work, with the result that when the national movement was started, she had a ready-made unit which was immediately co-operated in the scheme. The first contingent of fifteen girls have now been at work a month. The second arrived last Monday.

THE UNIFORM.

The official uniform has called forth criticism. Farm laborers don't wear uniforms. But those uniforms are proven to be an essential and desirable asset. For not only are they intensely practical, but they have exactly the same effect on girls as they do on the men—one lives up to a uniform. A uniform makes a soldier out of a city civilian, lends him self-respect and a sense of responsibility. These girls are not farm laborers any more than the city clerk is a soldier—but with the donning of that workmanlike uniform they become responsible members of a Liberty Army and they would not disgrace it.

Farmer Anderson, who manages the Sherman ranch as well as his own, cannot speak too highly of these recruits. And even the scoffers, notably Mr. Anderson's foreman, Mr. Wiggins, are, after a month's hard test, unstinted in their praise. Last week, when Elsinore went dry, the ranchers had a particularly interesting experience. For the male helpers, almost to a man, had duly celebrated the night before—and failed to appear at work. There was urgent irrigation and planting to be done. Not a woman failed, and be it observed that, with all their newness to the work, with all their stiff joints, blistered hands and the numerous physical disabilities peculiar to women, not a woman has dropped out, or lost even an hour's work since the day of her enlistment. Not a single one.

ALL KINDS OF WORK.

I talked with each of the ranchers employing the women. Not a pessimistic note anywhere. The women do all kinds of work, drive teams, run the mowers, cultivators, harrows and hay rakes; dig, plant, hoe, irrigate, stack hay, make irrigation boxes—and do it well and steadily for eight hours a day—and go home singing gaily in a disreputable old Ford driven by one of them, which bumps happily across roadless hills and vales half the time.

The farmers agreed that pretty well the only farm work that will be too heavy for the women is ditch digging. And, for the present, they are not sufficiently good mechanicians to take full charge of the complicated farm machinery.

I am purposely giving the farmers' point of view first, because it is the farmers who are watching this innovation with keen expectation. In those first two units there are four women who thoroughly understand horses and drive teams with skill. There are several that understand machines and are capable chauffeurs. It is therefore merely a matter of familiarity before they can look after the farm machinery, too. Already the women teamsters have shown peculiar vigilance on behalf of their horses, the harness and the condition of the machines before they start out. And when a machine harrow got lost one day, the young woman hiked across to the nearest ranch-house, got some wire, fixed the trouble and no one knew about it until the end of the day. No running back to headquarters for every little trouble.

STAND THE HEAT.

The girls were told by fussy elderly ladies that they could not stand the heat. They have stood it, do stand it, and make no fuss about it. Two young women planted a forty-acre field in tomatoes with the patent planting machine, which is being tried out and is not yet perfected. Miss Emily Williams, a little English girl, holds the tomato planting championship so far. She sits at the back of a seat almost on the ground with her box of plants beside her, while Miss Jean Kantrell, driving, releases the water with a foot brake every five feet. These two have vast fields of flourishing plants to their credit. Miss Hilda Ruthman shines in the irrigation department. She loves the water and the mud, is tall and husky and wields a spade like a young Amazon her sword. The only time she is ever triste is when they put her at a kneeling job, because she is so tall and has to fold up for the operation. They keep her happy with promises of more irrigations to come.

Mrs. Maude Rhorer is the official chauffeur, and is also a champion teamster. She hauls the units to and from their work and drives officials round the ranches, and fills in her spare time on cultivators and hay stacking. She gets $60 a month, and extra mileage for the driving. And she has a pair of shoulders and muscular arms like a bantam lightweight.

Miss Julia Armbruster is a husky, smiling young woman with a special penchant for mowing hay, and she runs the mowing machine with the same pride that some give to a Rolls-Royce. Mrs. Carolyn Horton is a first-class horseman, knows all about horses and can drive four abreast. So is Miss Hilda Secor, whose pet diversion is heavy ploughing.

True, the farmers find it desirable to treat the women with politeness, give their orders with no more ferocity than an editor gives me mine. But that won't hurt them. In fact, they all seem to be enjoying the experience—and the work gets done. The farmers have shown decent consideration for their women help, have not kept them too long at one task for the first few days, followed kneeling jobs with standing ones to tire a new set of muscles. But after the first two aching days—and they are aching all right—the girls get limbered up and ask no such consideration. The farmers say that the men knock off to the minute, while the girls insist upon finishing a row. They are neater, more expeditious and a good deal more personally interested in their work. At first the horses were the most bewildered animals. They had been used to a cussful start and still more cussful urging. But now they are getting to like the gentle, "Get on, old man."

And in many planting jobs, the more delicate handling of the women is a real asset. That is why Emily Williams shines with the tomato machine—her slim, expeditious little hand is as quick and light as a feather.

GIRLS' SIDE OF IT.

Now we will come to the girls' point of view.

These particular units are fortunate in their accommodation. They have an old sanatorium which is very comfortable. They sleep on narrow cots, clean and comfortable, two and three in a room. They have bathrooms, a comfortable dining-room, a parlor—and they are near enough to that wondrous lake to run down for a cool swim before dinner every evening. It is a wonderful sight to see those girls hop out of the Ford without opening the doors, still neat in their trim uniforms, get into bathing suits with amazing celerity and fly down to the diving-board in a continuous line after their day's work.

THEIR PAY.

As novices they get $60 a month. But directly they are experienced they get a raise. These units are to be a sort of officers' training camp and soon these girls will be placed in charge of new units. Then they will be worth $100 a month upward. The house is run on the club plan—$1 a week for their rooms and their proportion of the living expenses, which to date has cost them about $5.35 a week each. They live very well—oh, very well, and have roaring appetites. They have a first-class volunteer cook, who enlisted like themselves. They make their own beds and wait upon themselves at meals. They have a good-humored chaperon, Mrs. L. T. Sinclair, who mothers them and works in the office of the development company a few hours a day.

IN ONE DAY.

The bell rings at 5:30 a.m. every morning and after the first two days' work some of the sleepyheads need a little outside encouragement to get up. But after that they rise promptly. Breakfast is served at 6 a.m. Mine was prunes, porridge, home-made sausages, toast, coffee and et ceteras. The Ford whisks them off to their various labors and gets them all there at 7 a.m. promptly. I went to the Anderson ranch. We all had blue noses, for it was distinctly chilly. Farmer Anderson greeted us and put us all to work within five minutes. My job, with a new recruit in little miss Clarissa Boke, and the irrigation champion, Miss Ruthman, was to thin out seed tomatoes in hotbeds. Mr. Anderson showed us once—it took him half a minute. An hour hence we had them finished and he pronounced them correct. We were whisked off in the Ford to a field to hoe newly irrigated tomatoes. Mr. Anderson hoed one for us—it took him less than a minute. The hoes were full-sized men's hoes. They about the uniform. It costs one grade, $12.25 in a stouter one. That includes well-cut trousers, full at tight at the knee, where it the boot or puttee; a or loose coat for working, and belt, and a rather coat of stouter khaki ma- with belt and pockets, -up collar for neatness use. Then there are a puttees. These, however, found less serviceable high, loose elkskin boot, which is soft and laces up over the trouser. The girls usually wear the puttees while they are wearing out their old, stout walking boots, but replace them with the high boot at $6.50 as soon as they can. The hat of the uniform is a light khaki one with a narrow brim, but those girls who have extra dusty jobs, like the tomato planter, wear big cotton bonnets to protect their hair and eyes from the dust. One little lady with a lovely complexion also insists upon wearing a big straw hat, and works twice as hard and efficiently to make up for this wee bit of vanity. Nearly all the girls are tanned a rich, healthy brown. All of them have bright eyes. Mrs. Maddox of Pasadena, who is tall and was once much too thin, has gained five pounds. Another girl who was rather overweight has lost seven pounds—so everybody is happy. The girls wear no corsets and walk like graceful boys. Athletic underwear is the ideal, but many of them are wearing out their old frivolities first and it is funny to see a pink silk crepe de chine garment with forget-me-not touches emerging from that khaki coat and trousers.

There is a good deal of discipline for the girls, but they accept it willingly in the interests of the army. For instance, they are never allowed to go out alone, but always in trios or more, and the chaperon must be informed. This is to avoid any possible hint of scandal or gossip—as these pioneers have to get the women a good name. These two first units are so far composed of very superior girls—three daughters of a professor, for instance; or patriotic girls of previous leisure who, as one of them said, tried Red Cross nursing for a year, but found the atmosphere of sick people so depressing and took up this more virulent war work instead. In this connection it is amusing that many village belles in the surrounding towns are anxious to enlist — farmers' daughters, for the most part, who once considered field work beneath them.

HAVE THE GRIT.

At present there will be an endeavor to select the girls from the so-called "superior classes," for these seem to be the ones who can stand hardships more gracefully and who evince the grit to see it through. The girls will always be sent out in units, with a chaperon, and the officials of the Woman's Land Army will see that accomodations are made for them. In fact, farm labor will probably be entirely metamorphosed, and, instead of the least intelligent type of brawn and muscle being utilized, the work of raising produce for the country will become a respectable and honorable profession. The farm laborer who worked unintelligently, shiftily, uncertainly, for sixteen hours a day at low wages will now be superseded by the alert, intelligent, husky young woman, who puts in eight hours of enthusiastic efficiency and earns every cent she receives.

And, incidentally, there is obviously nothing so becoming as hard, healthy, out-of-door work. You never saw a better looking, better tempered, healthier lot of girls than those now working eight hours a day on the Elsinore ranches. Passing automobiles cheer them as they fly by, just as patriotic audiences cheer the Sammies on the screen. And the girls would not be caught slacking for anything you could offer them.

They don't quite like being called "farmerettes"—they say they don't want to be any kind of an "ette," but the real thing.

elieve Your Indigestion
ith A Laxative

Dyspeptics know that indigestion is accompanied by constipation; and that until the bowels can be regulated so they will act freely and naturally every day at a stated time, swallowing dyspepsia tablets is of little use.

A great and growing number of sufferers from this trouble find immediate and then permanent relief by the use of a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The laxative herbs act on the bowels and the pepsin and extracts on the digestive tract, forming an exceptionally effective laxative-tonic.

It is a combination that has been found wonderfully helpful in indigestion, constipation, biliousness, headaches, bad breath, belching and gas on the stomach. A small dose is all that is required.

The druggist will refund your money if it fails to do as promised.

As Ranch Hands.

EXPERT FINDS WOMEN GOOD FARM LABORERS.

Supply is Available and They Can Render Desirable Service—Set Pace for Men Sometimes.

BY WILLIAM L. CLARK.
Superintendent Public Employment Bureau.

AN IMPORTANT question confronting the Public Employment Bureau of Los Angeles (Federal-State-city consolidated,) is the practicability of sending women ranch hands to producers at more or less remote points in the Southwest. To satisfy myself concerning the conditions surrounding the employment of women in what is usually considered an essentially masculine pursuit, an investigation was made on May 17 covering a group of fifteen who had been employed over two weeks on a large California farm.

When first suggested, the proposal to employ women on farm work brought forth a wide range of opinion. The fact that California has furnished for war purposes 68,000 men in addition to the thousands called by draft implies the necessity of some remedial action to insure the excess production of foodstuffs required for home and abroad, and the importation in large numbers of Asiatics is abhorrent to many employers of farm labor.

Upwards of thirty men are employed by the South Elsinore Development Company and the management issued instructions to them regarding their attitude toward the new employees. The women were to be accorded the respect due the sex, but equality should govern the tasks in the field. They were not to be favored, nor were they to be imposed upon. In the assignment of work they were to be considered as ranch hands, and with the exception of driving a tractor and digging a ditch they would be expected to fit in the organization as so many men. They were to pair off with men or work alone, as conditions demanded.

A flat rate of $60 a month is paid each woman employee at South Elsinore. The expense of food and the cook's services are pro-rated among them and the approximate cost to each is $22.50 a month. A very efficient chaperone, whose services are volunteered, manages the home and supervises the purchase of supplies and the preparation of meals. The problem of pairing off these girls, who, with two exceptions, never saw one another before, has not developed temperamental difficulties; they just grouped in a natural, congenial manner. The question of providing any recreative facilities to balance the new life has not developed, the girls so far seeming to thrive upon the eight-hours' daily field work, the evening dip, dinner, perhaps a walk through the small town, or home entertainment. When this programme does begin to pall, if it does, I am satisfied the capable chaperone will meet it without trouble.

STIMULUS OF WORK.

However, the nature of the work and the conditions under which these ranchers live may render it unnecessary to provide amusement and diversion to the extent desired by the same persons while engaged in office and kindred employments in a city. Field work on a large scale carries with it a certain stimulus which the office or store employee does not enjoy. In any event, this phase of the matter has not yet required attention.

Stripped of its halo of patriotic self-sacrifice, and considering the undertaking from a coldly practical viewpoint, certain conclusions, based upon half a month's performance, are apparent, and prospective employers of female farm labor may find these of value.

The girls selected for this trial work in California are all physically strong. A little nervous and overanxious at the beginning, they quickly overcame this and attacked their new tasks with a spirit and vigor which did not permit of failure.

The manager states that his women employees are in many instances setting the pace for men. In certain classes of work they excel the old hands. One girl has demonstrated a speed and deftness in handling tomato plants never approached by a male worker here.

The women are not shown any special attention. The hostler throws the harness on a team and the woman hooks it to the equipment, climbs up on the seat and drives off to the field.

Strong shoes, canvas leggins, khaki breeches, blouse and hat constitute the field costume. In town the girls wear a khaki skirt over the breeches.

This organization has shown an aptitude for the work beyond the hopes of their staunchest supporters. In the opinion of the men who are paying the wages they are surprisingly successful. They have brought to bear upon ordinary tasks a convincing spirit of conscientious understanding and enthusiasm and a vision which promises well for the future.

This valley will raise 500 acres of tomatoes, and a cannery is being constructed to handle the crop. Women will be employed in every branch of the work.

The semi-monthly pay day gave some girls of this group the first wage check ever earned. Without exception all the female force reported for work the following morning.

MAY ADVANCE WAGES.

The average compensation for male ranch hands in Elsinore Valley is $2 a day and board. This is equivalent to $72.50 a month, allowing $22.50 for board. The men work nine hours and more each day. The women receive $60 a month, from which they pay $22.50 for board. The California labor law permits women to work a maximum of forty-eight hours weekly. The difference between $60 and $72.50 is offset somewhat by the extra hours worked by men. Apparently there is no intention to differentiate between men and women in rates of compensation when the work is comparable. The Elsinore management contemplates advancing the present scale for women.

The average employer of ranch labor is not now equipped to provide the necessary conveniences for female help. They must have privacy when not employed in the fields, and this means separate quarters. Shower baths must be installed. Chaperonage in some form is essential to maintain a proper moral tone, and, in the case of small groups particularly, diversion may have to be provided. If the employer desires to hire women for ranch work and will make satisfactory provision for them, it appears that they are available, and can render desirable service.

The Public Employment Bureau will be glad to co-operate with producers in filling their orders for female farm hands after we satisfy ourselves that the housing, sanitation and general surroundings are such that we can safely send women in groups to locations. The Woman's Land Army has on file over 600 applications for this class of work, and we have been requested to utilize this list in filling orders.

Outlook.

SHORTAGE OF FORAGE ACUTE.

Menace to State's Live Stock is Pointed Out.

Weather Blamed for Unusual Range Conditions.

Use of Wild Grasses Urged as Partial Solution.

California is facing the most serious shortage of forage for live stock in the history of the State, according to those familiar with the situation. Cattlemen report that because of the unusual weather that has prevailed for nearly two years, range conditions are very bad, with the alfileria (or "fillaree") shorter than it has been for years at this season, and with other grasses proportionately retarded in growth.

Available hay and other forage supply, they say, was depleted last spring to such an extent that practically no reserve was carried over, while demands for feed are certain to be heavy again this year.

Prof. Gordon H. True of the university farm at Davis told a recent gathering of stockmen that the forage outlook is "the worst we have ever faced," and warned them that, even though everything possible is done to conserve all kinds of feed, there may not be sufficient for their needs. "The burning of straw and other fodder must be discontinued," he said, "or our live stock will starve."

MUST BE SAVING.

He urged that efforts be made to persuade not only stockmen, but all farmers throughout the State, to save even the fodder not ordinarily used for feed. "The farmer who burns bean straw because of some real or fancied grudge against the stockmen (and it has been reported that some men have done this) is certainly lacking in patriotism," another speaker declared.

A Los Angeles bull dealer, who has recently completed an extensive trip through the range sections of the State, says that many of the cattlemen have built or are planning to build silos and expect to increase the production of hay and other fodder on their own ranches in order to provide winter feed. Much good could also be accomplished, he believes, by utilizing to the fullest extent the natural wild grasses of the State.

He offers the theory that the "fillaree," although difficult to handle commercially because of its minute, easily scattered seed, offers big possibilities as a hay crop, and expresses the belief that this native grass will some day become an important "domesticated" forage crop. It will grow almost anywhere, he points out, and is a nutritious and palatable feed either green or dry.

VALUE OF WILD HAY.

One local cattleman has expressed the belief that not only the "fillaree," but the wild oats and burr clover have not been utilized to the greatest extent possible. Not a patch of wild grasses should be allowed to go to waste this year, he avers, and urges that every farmer make his mowing machine "do its full duty," not only in the regular hay fields, but in the natural meadows and grassy swales.

The wild grasses, he points out, are successfully handled for hay in many parts of the State, notably in the vicinity of San Diego. The value of wild hay is recognized, he says, in nearly all the western States and, in California, may offer a partial solution to the perplexing problems confronting the range cattlemen.

"CITY HAY."

A Times subscriber has called attention to the possibility of cutting hay upon vacant city lots. In many sections of Los Angeles, he points out, may be found rank growths of oats and other wild or volunteer grasses, which might well be utilized, if cut at the right season and properly cured.

While some of the "city hay" is already curing in the shock, much valuable forage will, it is feared, be wasted and finally burned as trash by order of the authorities. One suburban farmer, who contracted to cut the hay from over 100 vacant lots in his neighborhood (in most cases getting the crop for his labor in clearing the land,) has secured enough hay, he says, to pay him well for his labor and the use of his team, mower and rake. He believes that the inconvenience of moving from one small lot to another, as well as the light yield, is offset by the fact that he has made no investment in land and had no seeding, cultivating or irrigating expense.

CITY RIGHTS VERSUS PRIVATE CONCERN'S.

BRIEFS TO BE FILED IN SUIT INVOLVING CONTROL OF PUBLIC UTILITIES.

Briefs will be filed this week in the suit brought by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation against the city, in which the latter will be asked to show cause why it should be granted any special rights not granted to private utilities.

It will be contended that the city charter and the rulings of the State Board of Railroad Commissioners are as binding on the city as on private corporations. This contention will be met by the city with the charge that it has been hampered in its operations and has been prevented from expanding into territory now occupied by the local corporation.

Attorney H. C. Beach, for the local corporation, will contend that much capital that would be otherwise invested in this city is now lying idle because investors believe that special privileges are to be granted the municipality which cannot be enjoyed by private corporations. It will be argued that, because of the conditions that now exist in Los Angeles, investors are kept away and much business is being lost.

TEACHERS STATE CASE.

Resolutions Assert Proper Conduct of Schools Requires Adequate Appropriation.

Resolutions adopted at the mass meeting of teachers and representatives of various civic organizations, held at the Bible Institute last week, gave reasons why, it is believed, teachers' salaries should be increased in the interest of greater efficiency in the schools.

Setting forth that the schools of Los Angeles county are concerned with the daily training in citizenship and patriotism of over 110,000 boys and girls, the resolutions point out that the proper training of these boys and girls, now left more and more to the schools for guidance and instruction, requires, as never before, teachers who shall be well trained, efficient, and thoroughly devoted to their work.

After referring to the increase in cost of living and the higher price of all supplies used in schools, the resolutions conclude:

"Be it resolved by the 3000 and more citizens of Los Angeles city and Los Angeles county here assembled on this 22nd day of May, 1918, in the auditorium of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles, representing those forces most deeply interested in the welfare of the schools of the nation, that it is for the best interests of the community and of the country at large that sufficient appropriations be made for the schools of Los Angeles city and of Los Angeles county, for the year 1918-1919, to maintain our schools at the highest efficiency demanded by the present national crisis."

SYNAGOGUE SERVICE.

The Sinai Congregation, Tw[illegible] and Valencia streets, has issu[illegible] a call to all members to join in a grand service at the synagogue on Decoration Day, next Thursday, at 10 a.m., in compliance with the Presidential proclamation. Preparations have been made to make the service memorable, as the number of youths who have joined the colors and whose parents are members of Sinai Congregation is large.

An excellent musical programme for the occasion has been prepared by Cantor J. Weinstock.

DUTCH MINISTER TO STATES IS RELIEVED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

THE HAGUE, May 23.—It is officially announced that the resignation of Dr. August Philips, Minister to the United States, has been accepted.

An Amsterdam dispatch of May 22 stated that Dr. Philips had requested that he be relieved of his post at Washington. It was said that the Minister's request was made on medical advice.

At Government's Request.

SCHOOL OF SHIPBUILDING IS TO BE STARTED HERE.

THE senior class in naval architecture and practical shipbuilding at the University of Southern California has just finished a complete model of a 280 feet wooden vessel. Prof. C. W. Cook assigned parts of the boat to each member of the class and each one had to lay out a template for his assigned part using exactly the same methods as are used in the mold loft of all modern shipbuilding plants. The class also made drawings of parts of the ship in accordance with the modern methods of shipdrafting. Plates were also developed to fit some of the curved parts of the boat, which is a difficult problem.

At the request of the United States Department of Vocational Education at Washington, Prof. Cook will start an evening school class in naval architecture, practical shipbuilding and shipdrafting. This class will be held in room 106, Civil Engineering Building, University of Southern California, Thirty-fifth place and University avenue.

Conditions for admission will be given upon application at the class. The class will meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings from 7 to 8:30 p.m., and if necessary a second class will be formed. The class will probably continue for three months. In some cases, university credit can be arranged for the work.

The government needs trained men in shipbuilding as much as an army and this is an exceptional opportunity for young men to help the government and also to learn a well-paying business.

Work will be given in timber, steel and reinforced concrete shipbuilding.

CHEER SOLDIERS WITH LETTERS FROM HOME, WILLIAMS URGES

Write Early and Often, Send Magazines and Books; They are What the Men in the Trenches Yearn for and They'll Nerve Them to Win the War.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent of The Times.

PARIS, May 12.—Walking along in London recently on a dark and dreary day the sign "New York Central Railroad" rose up and kissed me in the eye. Now New York is a good ways from Los Angeles, but that sign board was a sight for tired American eyes, and seemed like a message straight from home. My first impulse was to give three cheers for the grand, large United States.

That's the way it works all the way across. In Chicago it gives a man sort of a homey feeling when he passes by the downtown Santa Fe office. It is the link that connects him with his domicile, and he feels almost a proprietary interest in that road. Then on reaching New York he notes with satisfaction that certain Chicago establishments have branch offices there. Chicago seems a bit nearer his heart than New York, and if looking for information he will just naturally look up one of those places run by Chicago people and breeze in with one of those "well-how-are-all-the-folks" expressions, whereas he might approach an office inhabited solely by New Yorkers with more restraint, if not trepidation.

Yet when he lands in London and sees "New York" written on large type on some window how strongly he finds that city implanted in his affections. He immediately feels that Fifth avenue is as familiar to him as the alley running back of his far western home. Yessiree, New York seems just naturally to belong to him; he is proud of the old town and the bare name gives him a sense of comfort. He can imagine trolley cars banging along Broadway, the old Met clock chiming off the quarter hours, trains rushing in and out of the Pennsylvania station and newsboys yelping "Base bawl uxtra" while he just naturally sniffs, expecting to scent the odor of fresh pie and cakes and pork and beans—things that he doesn't see nor smell over here—odors peculiar to America steaming out of some restaurant door. Then he comes out of his trance and finds himself speculating when the war will be over so that he can inhale the aroma of real Yankee grub, and again attune his ears to familiar raucous noises, once annoying, but which now would be the sweetest music.

"HOME, SWEET HOME."

Holy smoke, his very soul yearns to see somebody squirt tobacco juice out of the starboard side of his mouth or roll a Bull Durham cigarette in brown paper, or instead of being all surrounded by knives and forks and silver urns and pitchers and containers straddle a stool in his favorite grease joint and wrap both paws around a ham an' sandwich with coffee and cream and hot mince pie on the side.

London does not get a hold of him like New York, because it isn't in his country, while the latter remains warm in his affections for it was the jumping off place of his homeland—and he remembers New York with its dirt and noise and smoke as some sort of paradise or fair Elysium with the freighty smells from railroad yard and river sweeter than the scent of roses on breezes blowing across Kensington Gardens. London is too old, too hoary and too musty to appeal to him. It seems to reek with ancient edifices and royal corpses.

So when he reaches Paris he does not go around looking for something to remind him of London. Instead, after giving the statuary and monuments the once over, he picks out a spot in front of a window on which are written such familiar legends as American Express Company, Adams Express Company or Wells-Fargo Express Company and tries to figure out what the Giants are doing to the Phillies at about that hour of the day.

NAPOLEON AND CREAM.

I happened along where two Sammies were standing near one end of the beautiful Alexandrian bridge that spans the Seine opposite the Tombeau de Napoleon. They were looking at a masterpiece in sculpture.

"It sure took a lot of some guy's time to whittle that out," remarked one of them, shifting his cud. "Gosh, I wish we could find a caffey around here where they throw in a splash of real cream with the Mocha and Java."

In England and France they serve hot milk with coffee and chocolate, and this boy's thoughts right in the overwhelming presence of a masterpiece turned to a jorum of rich Jersey cream, simply because he has been brought up that way.

Personally, I know something of how these fellows feel—the tug of that old homing instinct, the craving for something familiar [illegible] only the sight of a [illegible] tory.

From the window at [illegible] the Rue de Rivoli, with [illegible] pavement and spreading [illegible] there is one of the finest [illegible] Europe. I look out directly [illegible] garden of the Tuileries [illegible] Seine, and beyond to the [illegible] Within a stone's throw is the [illegible] de la Concorde, with its [illegible] obelisk and fountains. Up [illegible] rises the gray dome of Notre [illegible] and down can be discerned [illegible] stately outlines of the Palais [illegible] Trocadero, while the Eiffel [illegible] reaches its spidery, web-like [illegible] ture into the transparent [illegible] filmy half-real castle, where [illegible] play or angels alight. And that is the mental [illegible] many of our soldiers. They are [illegible] callous to art or beauty, but [illegible] something familiar, even if [illegible] geous.

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water, with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation.

"NECESSARY" TRAVEL.

Director-General McAdoo has announced that railroad [illegible] be confined to "necessary" [illegible] His interpretation of the [illegible] essary means much to [illegible] California. Hits and Bits.

MUSICIAN IS SOLDIER.

YOU MAY HEAR HIM ANY DAY AT TALLY'S BROADWAY.

When you listen to the exquisite notes of a violin at Tally's Broadway Theater, these days, doubtless you crane your neck to catch a glimpse of the soloist, and you see a slim, brown-eyed, rather ethereal looking youth who looks as if he had spent all his life in some artistic cloister-like retreat.

Not a bit of it. His name is Bernard Bogouslowsky, and he has come, within the last two months, from the trenches in France, where he served seventeen months, being three times wounded. Young Bogouslowsky was in the biggest of the battles—at Verdun and at the Marne. He was wounded, and in hospital for several months, and later was assigned to driving automobiles for various French generals and other officers. Twice while he drove, his automobile was overturned, for, as he explains—"When you are driving those officers you drive like—excuse—you drive like hell"— and on the last occasion his arm was broken. His father and mother are in Paris, and his old home in Rheims is in ruins.

The holder of numerous prizes is the youthful violinist, who is but 25 years old. In 1912 he carried off the Premier Prix, the greatest honor that can be bestowed on a musician in Europe, and later he won also the grand prize bestowed by the Paris Conservatorie. Since coming to America he has been engaged in concert work until Mr. Tally, hearing him in New York, engaged him for his Broadway Theater here.

Conway with Vitagraph.

Jack Conway, formerly with Triangle, has made connection with Vitagraph, and will direct Earl Williams in his next picture.

Didn't Hurt a Bit.

Driving an apparently street car proof automobile, Edna Earl, Universal star, and Mabel Condon, the half-portion publicity expert, ran amuck of a Broadway car, the other day, and while no damage was done to Miss Earl's machine, the street car suffered the loss of a set of perfectly good steps.

And when the two young ladies, alighted in order to answer the motorman's questions as to how they dared take a wheel off him, there stood Charlie Pike waiting to rescue them just as soon as ever they reached the curb!

Will Play Eve.

Just determined to write her own scenario and to have it all about that renowned young woman who has the distinction of being the first of her sex, Eve, is Nell Shipman, Vitagraph star. The reason is because she has to wear fourteen new gowns in "A Gentleman's Agreement," her present picture vericle, and yet she complains that she hasn't a single scene worth while.

Immigration Note.

Migrating from Santa Barbara for the purpose of finding the correct locations for his newest Mutual picture, is William Russell, who will make his next feature in Los Angeles. "Hobbs in a Hurry" is the name of the new vehicle, and as Mr. Russell justly says, "Who ever heard of anybody being in a hurry in Santa Barbara?"

It's a Boy, by Heck!

Vola Vale Russell, formerly Vitagraph star, for the time being a domestic person for obvious reasons, is distressed. The reason is that the sex of her infant child has not been announced. She wants it distinctly understood she is making a contribution to her country's cause; and that whereas most of the babies recently born to film stars have been girls, her's is a boy. The youngster has the good old-fashioned name of Bill, so-called for his distinguished uncle, William Russell.

In Roosevelt's Class.

A signal honor has been conferred upon Dustin Farnum, the star of the Sherman Productions, Inc., by the city of San Jose, Cal. Louis O'Neil, an official of that city, made a special trip to Los Angeles, to invite Mr. Farnum to be an honor guest of the city officials, along with no less a person than Theodore Roosevelt, at their great Red Cross Rodeo, to be held for four days, beginning the Fourth of July. Dustin Farnum will take his band of cow-punchers with him to the scene of the festivities and will ride with them in the opening parade. Meanwhile, Mr. Farnum, with his leading woman, Miss Kingston, who is one of the most ardent workers in the cause of "The Greatest Mother in the World," will endeavor to do everything possible in Los Angeles to help the success of this humaue endeavor.

He Did His Bit.

Bert Lytell, star of the Metro production, "The Trail to Yesterday," has received from James K. Lynch, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, the following letter:

"As fiscal agent of the United States government for the Twelfth District, the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, extends sincere thanks for the valuable service rendered by you in the third Liberty Loan campaign.

"Your co-operation is particularly appreciated by reason of the additional assurance it affords our national government of the loyalty and support of its citizens in the present emergency. It may interest you to know that the grand total of the subscriptions obtained through the tank meetings in Los Angeles approximated $582,000."

Mr. Lytell, who appeared twice at the tank meetings, says the most touching incident of the experience was when an old scrub-woman whom he had seen around the Metro studio, appeared in the crowd, and responded to his appeal by buying a $100 Liberty Bond.

Olive Branch Item.

Amicable adjustment of the difficulties between the Fox company and Jewel Carmen, Fox star, having been made, Miss Carmen went back to work last week at the Fox studio.

The story she is to appear in promises to be a knock-out, being nothing less than a film version of Gouverneur Morris's story, "You Can't Get Away With It."

Emigration Note.

Douglas Fairbanks has gone to Oxnard with 150 actors and a large amount of special equipment, in order to make desert scenes for a new photoplay. A special train of ten cars conveyed the aggregation.

All for Her Art.

"Striving for realistic effects is all very well in its place," says Norma Talmadge, "but smoke eating is a pastime for professional firemen—and picture stars, perhaps because of their affinity for celluloid, had best beware!"

They were filming a scene of utter realism in Norma Talmadge's next Select production, the scene being the roof of the American Theater in New York, the action calling for a bravery stunt on the part of Miss Talmadge. The star stepped out before the safety curtain on the theater's stage and addressed the seething mob of extras, who were impersonating the audience. "Don't be frightened," she called, "take your time and all will get out safe." This was all part of the story, and Plastic Poses of the Morgan Dancers.

Classic ideals in rhythmic expression.

Terpsichorean.

PRETTY DANCERS WILL ALL LIVE OUT OF DOORS.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

ALL THOSE pretty Morgan dancers at the Orpheum will live outdoors this summer! Oh, boy! Just imagine how real estate will go up in that vicinity. But don't get too hopeful; it will all happen away back in New York.

"I'm planning to lease a big private estate near New York, close to the water, and to take all my twenty-five boys and girls there for the summer. There they shall live the outdoor life, and there I shall train them in a big ballet which I expect to send over the vaudeville circuits next year—unless, indeed, I have my own traveling organization. All summer these young people will swim and play games and ride horseback and train, train for dancing. Fifteen of these young people are from California, because I consider California the great recruiting ground from which to obtain dancers."

It was Marion Morgan, ballet impresario—no longer merely. Marion Morgan, "who used to be a teacher at Manual Arts High School"—who spoke, up in her dressing-room at the Orpheum, where her Greek ballet is making a sensation these days. Because, since she was here last, Marion Morgan has scored a huge success in New York.

Not that she appears on the stage. She doesn't. She's merely the inspiration behind the act. And despite the fact that Miss Morgan is conducting a ballet, she still looks far more like one's idea of the head of a young ladies' exclusive boarding school. To the superficial gaze, that is, for she is a quiet-spoken, gentle-mannered little woman, with just enough of the school teacher about her, so that you probably wouldn't tell her you had hidden the fudge under the bed. Yet another look gives the impression of lithe, well-trained muscles beneath the easy attitude of body, while keen and dancing blue eyes reveal the "pep" and intellect which have made possible that remarkable Marion Morgan dancing act. Even there is a glimmer of humor, so maybe you'd tell about the fudge, after all!

"The new ballet," says Miss Morgan, "is to be of the Archaic Greek period. It will portray a different period of the world's history than has ever been attempted in a dancing or even a dramatic act, I believe, and will visualize a certain phase of war which applies equally to the present conflict."

And that is all the information the canny little lady will give out at this time concerning her new ballet, since there are always people willing to avail themselves of the other fellow's idea.

While we were talking in came Josephine McLane. She's the one who performs the boyish bow-and-arrow dance, and she's as demure and gentle as a convent miss, which is the reason Miss Morgan points her out as an example of what a well-trained mind and indomitable will may accomplish in the way of synchronization of mind with bodily movement.

Miss Morgan's attitude is that of a sort of big sister toward her girls. So Miss McLane came up and kissed her in a little sister sort of way.

"There's a Red Cross lady outside wants to see you," she said.

"You go and talk to her," said Miss Morgan.

"No, I can't. You'll have to do it yourself," answered Miss Josephine, which was very little-sistery, too, when one comes to think of it.

Then in glided a tall and lovely girl, who turned out to be Miss Darling, one of the two girls in the Bacchanal dance, and who wanted a book out of the traveling library which Miss Morgan carries along with her.

And that led us up to the fact that all the girls in the ballet are college or high school girls.

"I'm going in for college girls now," said Miss Morgan, "because, though you may not know it, dancing is really an intellectual exercise, and the better your mind is trained the better dancer you will make, all other things being equal. The best dancers should have education along all lines of art, because the basic principles of all arts are the same. I have musicians, painters, sculptors among my girls. And, just to think, one of my best dancers was the prize mathematician in her class at college!"

One naturally, I admitted frivolously, thinks somewhat of figures in relation to dancing, but not in just that way.

And, dear me, can you imagine such a frivolous thing as dancing involving such awe-inspiring terms as psychology and psycho-analysis and psycho-physiology and mental attitude and synchronization and things? Well, it does, take it from no less an authority than Miss Morgan herself.

"For instance," says Miss Morgan, "I won't take a morbid, pessimistic, self-centered girl into my ballet. She would never learn to dance."

I'm quite willing to admit it takes optimism to tackle even the ballroom dances, much less the ballet stuff, so we let that pass.

"As for synchronization, it is the girl with the trained mind who will educate her body to synchronize with her mental conceptions and ideals."

But just because Miss Morgan is a ballet mistress who delves deep into musty old Greek and Roman history for her ideas, and who differs from the stage manager in charge of the "ponies" of the Follies by calling the work of the good dancers "synchronization," instead of just saying, "the girls are right there," is no sign she doesn't keep up with current events—and away beyond.

One always asks, I see by the interviews which get themselves printed, what effect the war is having on any particular subject under discussion, from shaving soap to scenery, from philanthropy to pie. So naturally I asked Miss Morgan what effect the war will, in her opinion, have on dancing. Her reply is illuminating.

"So far as ballroom dancing is concerned the war has put a definite check upon it, of course, which possibly will mean a check for some time. In the meantime interest in dancing is not at all on the wane. But people want passive enjoyment in dancing; they want to see people dance. Of course, the war has had a serious effect on the sources of dancing, such as the Russian imperial schools, which, I believe, are abolished, or at least are entirely disrupted for the present. The present tendency is toward athletic and virile dancing, which is

OH, MABEL NORMAND!

ALSO HART AND RAY AND FARNUM AND SOME OTHERS.

Quinn's Rialto.

Comes Mabel Normand to town again. This time the little Miss Cheerful will be seen in "Joan of Plattsburg," which begins at Quinn's Rialto today. George Loane Tucker directed this picture, and that means, of course, that the production has some beautiful artistic touches and a real wallop. In fact, it will be generally conceded that "Joan of Plattsburg" is the best thing that Goldwyn has done. As Joan of low estate, Mabel Normand dreams and hears voices, like Joan of Arc in France. The little orphan dreams of delivering her country, just as Joan of Arc did, and by accident she is given the chance to prove her devotion. Every boy and girl, every father and mother in America, should see Joan.

Clune's Broadway.

Depicting a character of the West, with the requirements of which he is thoroughly familiar, and which is bound to accentuate his fame as being perhaps the foremost actor of the day in strenuous western characterizations, William S. Hart appears in Clune's Broadway the coming week in his newest Artcraft picture, "The Tiger Man." There is a certain fascination about the wildlife characterization so indelibly associated with the name of "Big Bill" Hart, so that one unconsciously for the moment breathes the same atmosphere which he knows how to invest with such convincing realism. As Mr. Hart portrays the character of Hawk Parsons, leader of a band of outlaws, in this excellent photoplay, the denouement is thoroughly in keeping with the most artistic conception of such a role.

Grauman's.

Charles Ray, the magnetic Ince star, possessed of the talents which go to make up the thoroughly pleasing characters in and out of filmdom, will open tomorrow at Grauman's in his latest celluloid play, "His Own Home Town," by Larry Evans, directed by Victor L. Schertzinger. As Jimmy Duncan, son of a bishop whose sacred garbs are somewhat besmirched with soiled politics and used to cover a dishonest career, Ray has the experience of being a vagrant, ne'er-do-well newspaper publisher, and lover, and as Duncan James has the distinction of becoming a playwright. The story deals with the corrupt operations of a political ring in a small town, and with the efforts of Jimmy Duncan to rid the city of this degrading incubus. Ray is supported by an excellent cast, among whom Katherine McDonald plays a charming and important role. A superb musical programme, with the usual Grauman features, will be offered.

Tally's Broadway.

Heart interest and the genuine human emotions of hate, greed, snobbery, cowardice, vanity and brutality, redeemed by the homely kindliness of a passer-by, furnish the motive upon which the dramatic structure of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," the attraction at Tally's Broadway, next week, is built. In many respects this photoplay version of Jerome K. Jerome's great play is director Herbert Brenon's masterpiece, and Forbes Robertson in the same role that he played in all parts of the English-speaking world for eight consecutive seasons, gives us one of the most remarkable characterizations that the screen has seen. The story is largely symbolical, picturing the compelling force of love and understanding in solving the ills of human misery and weakness.

"From Here to Summerland," another beautiful Robert Bruce scenic subject, and an exceptionally interesting musical programme will add to the pleasure of your visit to Tally's this week.

Kinema.

"Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," as he was written into fictional immortality by E. W. Hornung, was the hondsomest crook in the world. He had all the dash of a Fairbanks, all the infectious good humor and love of adventure that a good red-blooded American is wont to admire, and so it was that when it came to making a screen version of the famous stories that they chose the debonair Jack Barrymore. They needed someone who could make love at a mile a minute and crack safes for the sheer love of adventure, so again they chose Jack Barrymore. As Raffles, he wins your confidence—and you are tickled pink when he leads England's best detectives a merry chase and has them stumbling over their own toes. The play, accompanied by Kingsley and his orchestra of solo artists at the Kinema, has been set to a lively and popular musical score.

Clune's Auditorium.

Are you glad that you are an American? That is the question you ask yourself and answer at the same time with a great big "Yes" when you have seen the greatest war picture on the screen today, "My Four Years in Germany," by Ambassador James W. Gerard. This is the picture that President Wilson has urged all, young and old alike, to see, if for no other reason than educational purposes. It is the greatest collection of facts dealing with the great war that has been filmed and shown to the American people, dealing with nothing but truths of Ambassador Gerard's experiences in Germany. The Kaiser is seen in secret session with his band of outlaws framing on the other nations and plotting the downfall of the American people. He tries to bluff the representative of the American people, but he fails in this, and when he goes too far with his murderous plundering and destruction, the American Ambassador asks for his passports, and the battle is on.

Superba.

"The Bride's Awakening," a Mae Murray Universal special production, presenting the little star in the role of the disillusioned wife, comes to the Superba this Sunday. In it is pictured the aftermath of a clandestine wedding and a startling expose of the folly of secret marriages. Director Robert Z. Leonard has handled a daring subject in a delicate manner, and while the scenes at PARIS SYMPHONY.

MUSICAL ENTENTE CORDIALE BETWEEN US.

Under the auspices of the French government, the Symphony Orchestra of the "Societe des Concerts du Conservatoire," the French national institution, more briefly and generally referred to as the Paris Symphony Orchestra, and one of the oldest and most famous institutions of its kind in the world, is to visit the United States during the coming autumn for a concert tour of the leading cities.

This arrangement is part of the extensive co-operation between the French High Commission and the United States government for the increase and advancement of the "Entente cordiale" between the two republics. The bringing of this most prized orchestral possession of France to America was suggested some months ago by the French Association for Musical Art in New York, which will supervise the tour. The Executive Committee includes Frederick G. Bourne, James Byrne, Andre de Coppet, Henry P. Davidson, Henry C. Frick, Robert Goelet, Augustus D. Juillard, Otto H. Kahn, Clarence H. Mackay, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Charles H. Sabin, William K. Vanderbilt, Henry Walters and George W. Wickersham. Mr. Kahn recently arrived in Paris to complete arrangements and has cabled his colleagues that the orchestral society will arrive in New York in time for its first reception and concert in the Metropolitan Operahouse early in October.

Leopold Godowsky,

Pianist, who will conduct a summer school in Los Angeles, commencing June 10.

As the eighty-six members of the Paris Symphony are professors in the National Conservatory in Paris, this, their first trip abroad must be limited, and consequently no more than fifty concerts will be given from the time of their arrival in America, about October 1, to their return to France, January 1. The committee is arranging with chambers of commerce in the important cities from coast to coast for their co-operation, and report enthusiastic responses from all parts of the country. The financial profits derived from the tour are to be donated to war reliefs.

Godowsky's Summer Classes.

On June 10, at Trinity Auditorium, Leopold Godowsky, the distinguished pianist and pedagogue, will inaugurate a five weeks' summer master class.

This will be the first time such an opportunity has been afforded California pupils and teachers; it has been the habit among the progressive teachers to travel eastward, during the summer months—which was their slack period here—but the hottest in the East and devote long hours to studying under a master like Leopold Godowsky. This necessitated expensive railroad fare and hotel bills, both of which are eliminated by the opening of the classes in Los Angeles. This will also be of interest to the many inland pupils and teachers who journey to California in the summer to avoid the intense heat at home.

The classes will be conducted from 9 to 1 o'clock on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, with private lessons on alternate days. Pupils will be allowed to play any standard work of piano literature. From the bulk of works submitted, Mr. Godowsky will select as many different styles of composition as possible; anything from Bach, Beethoven, Weber, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Chopin, Liszt, Brahms and Debussy will be accepted in class, also Grieg, Tschaikowsky, Rubinstein, Scriabine, Rachmaninoff and other French and Russian composers.

The active class will be limited to twenty pupils, the auditors to twenty-five, so it behooves those interested to register early with L. E. Behymer.

Godowsky has to his credit in this country a small army of successful teachers and concert artists who studied with him either when he was the principal piano pedagogue at the Chicago University or during the summer vacations; the quiet of his manner, ability to impart his knowledge and infinite patience, have made him not only one of the ablest teachers, but one well beloved by the pupil and universally admired by his colleagues.

Matinee Musical Club.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Marshall Stookey Anderson, president, the Matinee Musical Club has made rapid strides toward the goal for which it strives, and is certainly to be congratulated when it comes to "doing things." This fact is all the more remarkable when one realizes the excellent programmes presented this year and the wonderful success attained in its efforts to aid the Red Cross. The "Vaudeville Soiree et Dansant" given at the Friday Morning Club on Friday, May 17, was a pronounced success, the seating capacity of the clubhouse being taxed to its ut-

BLIND YOUTH AT MASON.

MUSICAL COMEDY AT BURBANK. PLAYS ELSEWHERE.

Mason.

Having made his first appearance here in support of Mme. Bernhardt, and then in moving-picture work, the distinguished young actor and matinee idol, Lou-Tellegen, comes to the Mason for the week beginning tomorrow night, for the first time as an English-speaking player and his own manager. The play is "Blind Youth," a dramatic comedy by Willard Mack and Mr. Tellegen. It is in three acts and the scenes are laid in Paris and New York. The tour is under the direction of Charles Emerson Cook, who was for many years associated with David Belasco. "Blind Youth" tells the story of a young artist of French-American parentage. Left in Paris, he studies art and incidentally falls in love with a mercenary woman. She deserts him for a rich man, and he takes to drink in an endeavor to forget his loss. A fellow-artist who has lost everything through a similar adventure tells him of his own life, and this persuades the boy to go to his mother in New York. There he falls in love with a beautiful American girl and his regeneration is complete. The cast includes Jennie Eustace, Marie Chambers, Mark Smith, Gilda Leary, P. Paul Porcasi, Marian Manley, Sidney Riggs, Marguerite Forrester and Howard Lange.

Burbank.

Opening next Sunday at the Burbank, the Liberty Musical Comedy Company will present Ferris Hartman in a 1919 version of "The Campus," the musical comedy of college life that made Ferris Hartman famous when it ran for several weeks at the old Grand Operahouse several years ago. During this coming week the Burbank will be renovated, remodeled, refurnished and redecorated, for the new policy of the house must conform to the new slogan of "Everything new all the way through." Ferris Hartman, who was a great favorite locally, and who for the past few years, has been a star comedy director in motion pictures, will be the central figure of an all-star cast of musical comedians, and a company of fifty people, mostly girls. Rehearsals will start Monday morning on the Burbank stage, and this Sunday night will mark the close of the Burbank as the home of popular-priced vaudeville. Under the new policy high-class musical comedy will be presented at the lowest possible prices.

Orpheum.

Two distinguished stars top the Orpheum bill, opening Monday matinee, May 27—Edwin Arden and Elizabeth Murray. No, they do not play in the same act, but each has one of the stellar features of all vaudeville. Mr. Arden, the distinguished American player, will be seen, with an excellent company, in a strong and exciting playlet, "Trapped," which has to do with the intrigues and complications of secret service in war time. Miss Murray is too well known to need introduction; she is one of the most finished comediennes the stage knows today. Miss Murray brings some songs and stories; her songs are her own, and her stories are the quaintest bits of Irish humor heard in many a day. There are seven other acts, the coming week. The Four Haley Sisters are the greatest girl quartette known in America. Kathryn Dahl, with Charles Gillen, is another songstress who will make a new public for herself. Verce and Verci have "A Twentieth Century Elopement," one of those novelty man-and-woman acts that are so popular and strong in vaudeville these days. Howard and Helen Savage, known as the "shooting stars," naturally vary the bill materially with their marksmanship. In the list also are Percy Bronson and Winnie Baldwin, Francis Yates and Gus Reed, and, for their last week here, the Greater Morgan Dancers.

Pantages.

The stage of Pantages will be transformed into a modern fairyland during the coming week, commencing Monday, when Singer's Midgets, thirty perfectly-formed little men and women, offering practically every line of vaudeville entertainment known to the theatrical world, open a week's engagement as the headline attraction of a new bill.

The following acts are added attractions on next week's bill: The La Folette Trio, French singers and dancers; Lew Wilson, "the variety boy;" Fisher and Gilmore in a comic sketch, Madison and Winchester in their comic oddity, "Nonsense," and "The Nation's Peril," a timely playlet based upon the work of the United States Secret Service, presented by a capable cast, headed by Frank Belmont.

Hippodrome.

The most accomplished midget in the world, a man with a tiny body and a wonderful mind, is the headline attraction at the Hippodrome, beginning tomorrow matinee. Lord Robert is a miniature in everything but intellect, and will astonish you with his spontaneous wit in answering questions and creating laughs. The Meryl Prince Girls, a quartette of accomplished young women, will be able to give you any song you desire. Burt Shepard and Minerva Ray have a routine of whip-snapping and rope-throwing that they bill as "The Australian Cowboy and the Bush Girl." They are experts in their line. Tom Sena is a good-looking youngster with all the earmarks of a good entertainer. If you like a circus, you will like Norris's Animals. "Willie" Dunn can go the limit in funmaking with his foolishness and jazz. All kinds of dancing is the specialty of the Packard Trio.

Morosco.

More laughs to the minute than ever before in the history of the theater is the record which George V. Hobart's farce, "What's Your Husband Doing?" has created at the Morosco since its opening performance last Sunday. "What's Your Husband Doing?" will begin its second week at the Morosco with today's matinee. The demand for seats has been unprecedented, and the Morosco did one of the biggest weeks in the past five years with this production, last week. Built for laughing purposes only, "What's Your Husband Doing?" lives up to its purpose in a way that brings hysterical joy to the thousands of theater patrons who have been crowding the theater at every performance. Thurston Hall and Richard Dix are a team of funmakers which cannot be beaten. Bertha Mann has a role of exceptional value. The cast includes Dora Mae Howe and Alberta Ballard, Frank Herbert, Robert Lawlor, Joseph Eggenton, James Corrigan, Elmer Ballard, David Butler, Emily Pinter, Charles Buck and Marion Vantine.

SEVENTY-YEAR-OLD "MESSENGER BOY."

MINISTER TAKES PLACE TO RELEASE A YOUNG MAN FOR MILITARY SERVICE.

Rev. Ira Van Allen, Western Union messenger No. 28, has turned "boy" at 72 to help win the war.

The man, who has been a preacher for forty-two years, has donned the blue cap of a messenger and daily does the work a boy of 20 might do in order to let that boy go to war. He knows he is taking the place of one who can bear arms in his country's defense, and he is satisfied that he is doing that much to help Uncle Sam.

For sixteen years Mr. Van Allen has been pastor of the Sand Beach Reformed Church, on Owasco Lake, near Auburn, and has made his home in this city. He has given his spare time to various activities as a canvasser and collector and has served as supply in various churches. He felt the call when the country went to war, but he did not know what to do. His 72 years forbade his going to France. There is only one Sapper Boucher, and that field of glory was not for the veteran clergyman.

LIKES TO DELIVER MESSAGES.

Boys were needed in khaki, just such boys as the Western Union sends out with its messages of sorrow and happiness and urgent business. He walked into the Western Union office and applied for a job. He got it. He carried his first message, and he liked the work.

Every morning he is at the office at 8 o'clock. He takes an hour for rest at noon and then he is back on the job until 6 o'clock. He gets all kinds of calls from all kinds of places, just as any messenger boy does, but he meets with and extends courtesies which do not always go with a messenger's work.

"Preaching, my life work, is an honorable calling, and so I consider my messenger work," said Mr. Van Allen last night. "Some seem to think it strange that I should take it up, but I saw in it one way to help and I am glad to do it. I meet with all kinds of people, but my treatment is most considerate. I like the work, for it keeps me out of doors, going here and there.

NOT ASHAMED OF CAP.

"The company first gave me a band to wear on my hat, but then one day they asked me if I objected to wearing a cap. I told them that I did not, that I wanted to do whatever was required of a messenger and that I was not ashamed of it.

"I have had some amusing experiences. I answered one call and the man said: 'Are you from the Western Union?' I replied that I was. 'Well,' he said, 'I wanted a boy, not the president of the company.'

"There was another call to the St. Cloud and I went. The man said: 'Are you a boy?' But before I could answer another man remarked facetiously, 'He was when you called.'"

Harry Leo has lost the distinction he had so long. He works for the New York Central now, but he carried messages for years and finally came to be called the "messenger man." There are a number of men, some of them past 50 years of age, now acting as messenger boys, but to Mr. Van Allen belongs the distinction of being the oldest "messenger boy" in Syracuse."—[Syracuse Standard.

FRENCH PLAN CONCERT TOUR.

most; consequently, through the tireless efforts on the part of the chairman, Mrs. Henry Clay King, and her co-workers, a tidy sum will be received by the Friday Morning Club Red Cross Auxiliary.

The first of a series of Liberty teas to be given by the club was held at the home of Mrs. Caroline Eager, Inglewood. Mrs. Eager had gathered together in her charming home, a remarkably interesting group of artists including Hilda Holte, pianist; Evelyn Marshall, soprano, the Inglewood Women's Trio, and the Inglewood High School Orchestra under the direction of Judge Monroe, who, by the way, started this orchestra with seven members, and it has now forty-five members. Their work, both ensemble and individually, reflects great credit upon Judge Monroe.

Apparently interest is high in the closing event of the year, the dinner dance to be given at the Alexandria Hotel on the evening of May 29. It has been the custom of the club to close the year with an affair of this nature, in honor of the newly elected officers.

Members wishing reservations for this evening, call Mrs. Seth Hart, chairman, 77143.

Anderson Pupils In Recital.

Next Friday evening, at 8:15 at the Ebell Club Auditorium, Jode A. Anderson, will present his advanced pupils in piano recital. Mr. Anderson, as a personal pupil of Treschetizsky has been most successful with his teaching, and one may be sure that the recital will be well worth hearing. Those taking part are the Misses Evelyn Apple, Agnes E. Kringle, Irene Frederickson, Edna Bradley, Harriet Hammond, Eunice Abernethy and Olga Orth.

Oscar Rasbach's Pupils.

Piano pupils of Oscar Rasbach presented the monthly programme at his studio, May 18. The following took part: Helen Hartnack, Lorenz Ruddy, Cecile Zobelein, Cesar Marburg, Clara Schlalos, Meta Blankmeyer and Anna Hinz. Modern composers were presented in representative selections.

To Introduce Moderns.

Mrs. Monimia Botaford and Mrs. James Ballagh have decided to open the evenings for modern composers, which will serve to arouse interest in the works of the new writers, with a reception to Charles Wakefield Cadman, some time early in September. The soirees, which have been arranged for this purpose, will then proceed throughout the season.

Got the Babies Mixed.

Mrs. Minnie Leoniff and Mrs. Gussie Felner became mothers of girls the same day in a New York hospital, several months ago. Mrs. Leoniff wasn't in condition at first to nurse her child, so it was given to Mrs. Felner, who nursed both children temporarily. A day or two later one of the babies was returned to Mrs. Leoniff, and later both women left the hospital each with a baby. But no sooner did Mrs. Felner reach home than her sister declared the child Mrs. Felner was caring for wasn't her baby. After a time the mother herself grew suspicious. In the Leoniff household doubts also began to arise. The little Blanche was so unlike her rosy-cheeked dark brothers and sisters. She was blond, had light blue eyes, and instead of being boisterous and robust, was slight and pale. A few weeks ago there was an accidental meeting of the mothers and babies on the street. Instantly Mrs. Felner decided that Mrs. Leoniff's Blanche was really her child. But nobody at the hospital would own that such a mistake could happen. The mothers finally went before a magistrate before whom the hospital physician admitted that an exchange might have occurred. The magistrate finally awarded the Leoniff baby to Mrs. Felner and the Felner child to Mrs. Leoniff because there was a striking resemblance between the child and a 12-year-old boy of the Leoniff family and between the other baby and its mother.—[Unidentified.

BARBED WIRE FOR WAR USE.

Wire manufacturers have completed the allotments of 110,000 tons of special barbed wire to be manufactured and shipped to France and Italy for use by those nations on the battle fronts. This is one of the largest contracts for barbed wire entered into since the war began, coming to a total value of nearly $9,000,000, and is the forerunner of great orders to be placed in the near future, as the United States government is expected to enter the market for a heavy tonnage of this war material and the other Allied nations will need more wire. The American Steel and Wire Company will produce a substantial amount of the tonnage for France and Italy.

"For the next four or five months," the Iron Age says, "more steel will have to be diverted to the wire mills than has lately been the case and the general demand for wire products will be harder to satisfy."—[New York Times.

WAR INSURANCE A HELP TO FIGHTERS.

BY JAMES H. COLLINS.

October 6, 1917, the war-risk ance law went into effect, pro- ing for protection of our soldiers, and marines and their fami- On April 6, 1918, only six later, Uncle Sam had writ- approximately $14,000,000,000 risk insurance on his fight- forces, covering upward of 000 persons in the military naval service. have spoken of it as "the war- insurance law." Technically, correct; actually, it is mis- for the legislation that effect on October 6, 1917, really a group of laws—four coordinated for a common pur- The first measure in this un- programme of protec- the system of allotments and in which the fighter and ment are partners for the the families of all enlisted the military or naval servsecond measure provides for compensation for death and incurred in the line of This is the modern American for pensions. The com- which ranges from $20 to month, is paid automatically government to certain specified beneficiaries, regardless of rank or pay, and without any cost to the recipient.

AT NET PEACE RATES.

The third measure of protection is outright government insurance against death and total permanent disability. In this, the United States is a pioneer among the nations of the world—offering insurance up to $10,000 to every member of its fighting forces at net peace rates The government assumes all overhead charges and costs of administration, thus making the rates almost incredibly low. This insurance is a supplemental form of protection, stimulating thrift and strengthening self-respect.

The fourth measure of protection embodied in the military and naval insurance act is the system of re-education and rehabilitation of the men disabled in the war—in itself a task of vital importance and great magnitude.

The figures given convey an idea of the immensity of the bureau's work. The insurance now on the books of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance exceeds by several hundred per cent. the insurance held by the largest life insurance company in the world.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance now occupies space in eight separate buildings, covering an area of more than 120,000 square feet, and has a personnel of more than 3300, working in two shifts, from 9 o'clock in the morning till midnight.

THE REASON FOR IT.

It may be asked why the government, in addition to family allowance and liberal compensation. should offer insurance against death and disability to its fighting men The justification for this sweeping innovation is simply this: The government by calling a man to war takes him into the most hazardous business in the world, and thus destroys his insurability. In return, it is only fitting and proper that the government sohuld go into the insurance business for his benefit.

Private insurance companies could not possibly insure soldiers and sailores except at prohibitive rates. At a conference of life insurance representatives in Washington, when the present act was discussed, it was stated that $58 a thousand was the lowest figure at which any insurance company could afford to accept soldiers and sailors as risks, and that only for one year. Thus, $10,000 life insurance, which under the government system would cost a soldier 26 years old $80.40, would cost about $580 with a private insurance company. This disparity is largely explained by the government's liberality in itself assuming all the administrative costs and the extra war hazards.

The entire system of protection afforded by the government is, in the words of a major general in the army, an element of victory in the present war. Families provided for means fighters unafraid. This sentiment is reflected rather dramatically by the insurance slogan used at one of the naval training stations:

"The ship with the greatest amount of government insurance will be the first into the Kiel Canal."

A CASE IN POINT.

The difference between the old pension system and the modern system which has supplanted it is clearly demonstrated by the case of Mrs. Betty Ingraham, No. 403 Third street, Platt City, Ala., the first woman to receive a check from the Bureau of War Risk Insurance for a soldier or sailor killed in action in the present war. Her son, Gunner's Mate Osmund Kelly Ingraham, was killed October 15, 1917, when the United States Steamship Cassin was attacked by a German submarine.

Under the terms of the military and naval insurance act, Mrs. Ingraham, being a widowed mother dependent upon her son for support, will receive $20 per month as as she lives, unless she remarries. Furthermore, she is entitled to $25 a month for 240 months under the insurance provision of the act. Her son had not made specific application for insurance, but up to February 12, 1918, automatic insurance for approximately $4300 was provided.

Thus, Mrs. Ingraham will receive a total of $45 per month from the United States government. If her son had applied for $10,000 insurance she would receive $77.50 a month. Under the pension laws, section 4707, Revised Statutes, as amended by the act of June 27, 1890, Mrs. Ingraham would have been entitled to $12 a month. Such is the chasm between the old and the new.

The vast amount of correspondence which comes to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance is steeped in human interest. Stories of heroism and lofty patriotism are found the thousands in the letters received at the bureau. Many mothers and fathers have returned checks sent to them by the government, declaring that the government needs the money at this crucial hour to win the war. Other letters are vivid and moving tributes to the government's liberality and justice.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance is keeping the home fires burning. But it is doing more than that. It is keeping America's fighting forces confident and reassured.

A bluejacket on one of the battleships after signing the application for $10,000 of government insurance, dropped his pen and said:

"I have taken care of my family; now I can go out and fight like blazes."

Thousands of families throughout the country are directly and vitally affected by the allotment and allowance feature of the War Insurance Law. Every married enlisted man in the army and navy must allot from his pay (every month) at least $15 a month, and not more than half his pay, toward the support of his wife and children. To this allotment the government adds certain allowances, depending upon the size of the family. In addition, the enlisted man may make some further provision for other relatives, and in case of dependency the government will add certain allowances.

MILLIONS OF CARDS.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance, therefore, must keep a tremendous filing and cross-filing system, covering every enlisted person in the nation's service, and this means millions of cards, millions of book-keeping and financial operations, thousands of awards, and thousands of checks going out every month.

The bleak specter of poverty, the humiliation of charity, the silent suffering of penniless pride—these are eliminated by the government protection when the man is fighting. After his fighting is over, government compensation and government insurance are then called upon to play their part in the work of protection.

In a limited percentage of cases there are estrangements, desertions, separations, divorces, remarriages, adoptions, disappearances, and miscellaneous complications. These cases are tackled by a miniature domestic-relations court within the legal department of the bureau. Neither the soldier nor his wife appears before the court. It is a court without plaintiffs, defendants, attorneys, fees, juries and bailiffs. Cases are dealt with largely by affidavit, supplemented by reports of special investigators. Trained lawyers of the bureau and allotment and allowance experts make the awards and decisions.

Persons who have business with the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, as beneficiaries or otherwise, need not in any circumstances employ claim agents or provide lawyers. The Bureau of War Risk Insurance will cheerfully furnish full legal advice and assistance. Secretary McAdoo has vigorously denounced the nefarious activities of claim agents and others who would prey upon dependents of men killed in battle by exacting unnecessary fees and requiring useless litigations.

THE AVERAGE POLICY.

The latest figures show that the average amount of insurance taken out by our fighters is upward of $8000 per man. It was estimated as early as February 12, 1918, that the American Army, both here and abroad, was more than 90 per cent. insured by Uncle Sam. Final figures for the navy are not yet available, but the bluejackets are known to have responded enthusiastically. As long as new men are called to the colors Unce Sam's insurance campaign will continue without let-up. "Insurance means preparedness; preparedness means victory"—this is one of the many battle cries which are arraying all American fighters in the insurance ranks. This campaigning is made the more spirited because of the fact that the new men in the service must apply for government insurance within 120 days after entry into the service. After that it is too late.

The War Risk Insurance Act is administered by the Treasury Department, and the work of carrying out its provisions is under the close supervision of Secretary McAdoo, who proposed to the Congress the measure creating the bureau, and who has had personal charge of the organization of this new form of government activity. Its success is very close to his heart, because he sees in it not only a great humanitarian piece of legislation, bringing security and justice to those who defend our flag, and to their dependents, but also an experiment which may lead to broader human benefits in the future.

A UNIQUE SYSTEM.

"No other nation has ever passed anything like this act," he said recently. "Other nations have provided old-age pensions and similar social safeguards, but never before has a nation gone so far in safeguarding soldiers, sailors, and their families, or in providing protection upon so scientific a basis. The crudities and injustices of the old pension system, with its political administration, have gone forever, together with the pension sharks and all the evils that we know in connection with that system. Quite apart from political favoritism, it was clumsy. War risk insurance is impartial, absolutely divorced from political administration, and its benefits are arranged on the most modern insurance lines, with monthly payments to beneficiaries extending over twenty years.

"Is it too early to hazard a guess as to the cost of this insurance to the government?" Secretary McAdoo was asked.

"We cannot measure justice in dollars," was the Secretary's reply. "While it is too early to determine costs and losses, we know that the more men we insure the lower the cost will be. There is every reason to believe that military losses are much lower than has been estimated, and that this insurance will ultimately reveal surprising figures in the way of economy."

"What do you foresee as the outcome of this insurance?"

"Many interesting possibilities," replied the Secretary. "Through the principle of government insurance we may find the solution of a number of great social problems. It has been said, for example, that humanity is handicapped by three great fears—the fear of sickness, the fear of unemployment, and the fear of penniless old age. Government insurance in itself is not an experiment. But it will develop new and most valuable experimental data bearing on other social problems, such as these three common human fears. Out of our experience we may find first, the solution for the problem of superannuated government civil employees. Humanity demands that something be done for these employees, and suggestions of pension systems, while praiseworthy as an effort to render justice, are not a real solution. I believe the solution lies along the lines of this insurance, with both the government and the civil employee contributing to a scientific plan that will provide for retirement. From such experience it may follow that government insurance along the same lines can be extended to employees of industrial concerns and the country generally, and cover not only old age, but sickness and unemployment. This is a most interesting possibility. Government insurance is founded on correct principles, and will furnish the popular education necessary for such steps at some time in the future. We should not be afraid to face such beneficial measures. They will lift humanity, and most ultimately be worked out by humanity for its own protection, either in this or in some other form. Let us suspend judgment and be not afraid of words or phrases or selfish interests while such a far-reaching measure as war risk insurance is working out the benefit it has in store for us."

OCEAN TRAVEL IS NOT MONOTONOUS.

Somewhere in France—Getting "over there" is a real experience these days. The war has revolutionized ocean travel. Those who crossed in peace times have little conception of the changes and the thrills.

It is no longer a joy ride. It is an adventure, likewise a lottery. You may arrive, and, then again, you may not.

The war has brought democracy into the salon. A spirit of fellowship prevails from cabin to steerage. Life aboard a trans-Atlantic liner is more earnest and matter-of-fact.

Frivolities and artificialities have vanished. So have social lines and dress suits. Travelers today are too serious to bother with formalities.

A woman writer, who is to do canteen work for the Y.M.C.A. back of the fighting lines, said:

"One feels most at ease in backwoods togs. The gorgeous gowns and jewels of normal times would be absurdly out of place now."

This woman's daily attire was a storm skirt, sweater, worsted cap, white tennis shoes and leggins, and she dined in this rig. She is an aristocrat, too, with a score of ocean trips to her credit.

In this, his latest photoplay, which is said to be one of the best he [illegible] ever shown.

Deeply Engraved.

THE CALLING CARD ON BILL HART'S ARM.

"MR. HART, do you remember me?"

A dark-complexioned man in the khaki of Uncle Sam stopped Bill Hart a few weeks ago just outside his Hollywood studio. Bill was stumped. There was something familiar about the face and figure, but a uniform does disguise a casual acquaintance. Then he remembered. "Oh, yes. You're the man who did that fine riding in 'The Tiger Man,' aren't you? Where've you been keeping yourself?"

The mysterious soldier half nodded, half shook his head. "Can't you remember any farther back than that?" he said. Hart puzzled and tried to place the mystery man and finally had to give up. "Well," said the soldier, "can you remember way back in North Dakota when you were a youngster roaming around on the prairie?" Bill opined that he could remember that far without straining his imagination.

"Well," the stranger continued, "you don't have to remember, you've got my calling card and have been carrying it for all these years. If you want to know who I am, just take off your coat and roll up your sleeve. I heard of you and saw you in pictures and decided to try to get a job with you before I joined the army. I came down here, I got the job, I joined the army and have been ordered East and thought I would come round and tell you I'm [illegible] before I go 'over there,'" and the soldier stuck out his hand, [illegible] Hart's a moment and turned away.

The calling card he spoke of is a deep scar on Hart's arm. When he was a youngster, this man, the little Indian boy, had been his special pal. They had roamed the prairie together, and one day came the boyish quarrel. Hart was [illegible] big and strong for the Indian [illegible] the red man's instinct asserted [illegible] there was a flash of a knife [illegible] and Hart lay on the ground [illegible] deep slash in his arm.

From that day Hart never saw his Indian playmate, but the [illegible] carried a scar in his heart to match the welt on Bill Hart's arm. During the taking of "The Tiger Man" a newcomer, an Indian, did some wonderful riding that fairly put the cowboys of Hart's company to shame. It was the Indian who years ago in a fit of boyish passion had scarred his white friend for life. He came and went mysteriously and suddenly and since the meeting outside the studio Hart has had but one postal notifying that Private —— [illegible] wounded in action while on a [illegible] expedition in No Man's Land.

So when you see "The Tiger Man" and you notice exceptionally [illegible] riding by a member of the band of Indians which plays a [illegible] part in this thrilling story of the desert, you will know that there is a little side drama, which has no connection with the plot, but is none the less a vestpocket "thriller" all by itself.

Roscoe's Secret.

HOW TO GROW THIN WHILE YOU WAI

IN the May issue of Film Fun, the famous rotund comedian, Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, reveals the inner secrets of "how to grow thin." He says in part:

"It is estimated that fat people have rolled billions of miles in the last year in their frantic efforts to grow thin, with but very little real success. The practical jokers in the medical profession are simply having their own laugh at the expense of the gullible people.

"Take up tumbling is my advice.

"Tumbling will cause you to fall off more than does rolling. When I was young and inexperienced I did not revel in the buoyant grace and debutante figure of my manhood. That was because I rolled. I can assure you that after rolling all about town I actually gathered fat, and yet my vitality suffered. I couldn't sleep nights, and for a while it looked as if I would not attain that perfection of form which has been my fortune in motion pictures.

"If you must roll, be a low roller, because high rollers only reduce their pocketbooks. Do not attach too much importance to the old proverbs, 'A rolling stone gathers no moss,' or 'A setting hen never gets fat,' as it is a sad mistake, except when taken in a literal sense. I have seen lots of rollers gathering everything in sight, and lots of fat hens that never did anything else but sit.

"I have tumbled too, a whole loadful of times, and I can solemnly aver that there was a big reduction after a time. Of course, tumbling is hard on fat people; it makes light of their dignity.

"Since becoming a motion-picture comedian I have had letters from all over the world asking how tumbling is done. Here are a few recent samples:

"'My dear benefactor:

"'A friend of a friend of mine who knows your chauffeur's cousin told me that you reduced by dodging pies.

"'SUSIE MERINGUE.'

"'Answer:

"'My dear Susie:

"'After you have dodged 120 pies, stop about eighty with your face and you will tumble to how it is done.'

"'Friend Fat:

"'Would it be improper for a debutante of 36, weighing 350 pounds, to take tumbling exercises?

"'BABE DEBUTTE.'

"'Answer:

"'My dear baby: Nothing could harm a person such as you describe.'

"'My dear Prof:

"'Do you approve of tumbling on a full stomach?

"'FANNY FALL.'

"'Answer:

"'Dear Fanny:

"'Yes, but be careful on whose stomach you tumble.'

"I sincerely hope my readers will tumble to everything I [illegible] vealed. Tumble in love and [illegible] worry yourself thin. Getting [illegible] ried will worry you [illegible] Of course, there are [illegible] this rule."

EBUTANTE'S LETTER.

ELSINORE, May 24.

Dear: While you are bask- Oceanside your industrial lit- has been trying how it really work. They let me two days with the Land Elsinore, and anybody who that is a pretty comedy cho- will have to think again. to get a uniform, of course, very swanky before my home in Los Angeles, and self-conscious pass- town to start my trip. you know. That uniform, really a delight. Smart like the polo men ride in, thick boots, a loose light for work, and an over- to the knees for neat- town wear—all in khaki, wondrous pockets, and a hat. That uniform is go- famous—one just must live up to it, you straight, eyes right, car- hop briskly on the work like a Ford engine by machine and stopped at Ontario. Ontario hadn't like me before, evi- and I felt like a jolly poppy my legs well under the the restaurant. But ar- Elsinore all was right. They used to legs and women's Elsinore, and we get as as a Liberty Army of- Camp Kearny on his best It was rather wonderful any skirts to fuss about, bag to carry, no gloves and a hat that just stayed no flops.

I was introduced to the the newest recruit, they over pleasantly, hoped work and keep up the said I'd find high boots a more serviceable than then I had worn my old and I must not mind feeling amateurish just as first—I'd soon shake down.

Of course, the first unit of girls who had put in their solid three weeks before the second batch arrived, felt like seasoned veterans. They had blazed the trail and earned respect for us. Just at present it is a sort of mutual admiration society up there between the farmers and the girls. The farmers took me on one side and told me how wonderful the girls were, what good sports, how hard and grittily they worked, and kept right on the job all the time, and the girls confided in me that the farmers and overseers were perfect peaches, so considerate and polite, and explained their work to them so simply that they just couldn't make mistakes if they tried. In fact, my dear, the farmers have almost cut out the soldiers for popularity up there. All the girls have decided to acquire farms some day now. Of course, they had their initiation difficulties, for the opposition was bent on ridiculing them. About the second day three of them were working with hoes, accompanied by a fourth figure in khaki that looked very much like them in the distance. A party of critics stood off the road and made sarcastic remarks about the way the hoe was being wielded. "Look at that tall one at the end," they laughed, "ain't she the dainty dear?" So the tall one turned round to have a look at the critics—and "she" was Mr. Scott, Elsinore's speed-up champion gardener. Since then, criticism has died down. Then there was the overseer who thought a little swearing essential to instruction. But another farmer reminded him that the polite professional attitude would probably work better—and it soon did. Even army officers don't find swearing the best form of instruction nowadays; it's gone out.

The first two days are the supreme test, for eight solid hours of hard physical labor play tricks with the muscles and sinews—one is stiff in every joint. But the girls just laugh about it and go right on, and make a point of singing on the way home from work, just to show their spunk. One soon gets limbered up—and after that the girls just look like buoyant young Amazons, ready for anything, radiant in mind, body and estate. They have the appetites of young hunters—couldn't make them believe in the no-breakfast plan. They turn out at 5:30 a.m., and demolish an ordinary's day's food at the 6 o'clock breakfast; take another supply with them to the fields for lunch, and come back at 5 p.m. ready to eat up the town after a swim in the lake, which laps against the shore at the bottom of their garden.

It is jolly to see the girls driving the teams with the machines that plow, cultivate, grade, or bunch the hay, as the case may be. Young Jean Kantrell, for instance, or Caroline Norten, or Hilda Secor or Maude Rhorer—any one of them is quite at home with horses, and ride the harrows like chariot drivers of old. Susie Mitchell looks so tall and straight and sunburned, and can hoe a field with less exertion than most women play nine holes of golf. Little Clarissa Boke, fondly known as Bobbie, who has her hair bobbed to save trouble, and wears a big hat to save her eyes, is just getting broken in; she was at the second-day stiffness stage, but still smiling. She and Hilda Ruthman had both done hospital war nursing for a long time, but found the "sick" atmosphere depressing, but now feel they have fallen into the sort of work they can love. Mrs. Maddock, who, you know, was a society butterfly in Pasadena, and a good deal too willowly, has gained five pounds, a thick coat of tan, seven blisters, and an appetite that is priceless. Little Emily Williams, an English girl, who looks petite and fragile, but has never lost a minute's time since she went a month ago, is the champion tomato planter. D. W. Harvey, the ranch manager, says she has beaten all previous records. Jean Kantrell drives the team and works the water break, while Emily sits at the back of the machine on a low seat near the ground and tucks the plants rapidly in place; her dainty quick little hands are far more adept and strong than any clumsy male fists could be at the work.

Jean Armeruster looks just like a jolly boy, especially as she scrapes her hair back under her hat and almost runs instead of walking. She dotes on mowing hay, just as the tall, husky Hilda Ruthman does on irrigation. These two girls can be won to a furious speed of work on any old task with a promise of haymowing and irrigation to follow. Hilda slops around in the water like a happy seal and wields a spade like a tennis racket.

They let me try every kind of work, so I had a wonderful time. One doesn't play at it, I assure you It is very easy to learn, this farm work the men have regarded as so exclusively their own. It is just a question of enthusiasm and endurance—and that jolly troop of khaki-clad girls have those in obvious abundance. They turn into bed at 9 p.m. every night, joyously tired, and sleep like tops till daybreak.

They have a flourishing Red Cross shop up here, started by Mrs. Orpha Eastman, who has a lovely ranch across the lake. She has a delicious plan for making all the Elsinore ladies work themselves to death for it. For she invites the ladies of surrounding towns like Murrietta, to take charge of it on alternate days; and each town tries to make a better record than Elsinore itself. The effect is a roaring trade. The Red Cross is getting up a dance next week at which the Liberty farm girls will be the guests of honor in their jolly uniforms—can't you imagine what a social rendezvous it will be. Young ranchers from far and near will come to see if they can dance as well as they can plant and hoe and toss hay.

Elsinore likewise has a stylish, be-uniformed policeman. Up till two weeks ago he had not been possessed of a distinctive uniform and the Liberty girls made him feel jealous. So the Red Cross ladies got up a subscription to present him with a uniform and baton and cap with No. 1 on the front—and now he has acquired tremendous dignity and corresponding prestige. Who says a uniform doesn't help?

Elsinore went "dry" last week and is evidently feeling a dreadful excess of virtue about it. The restaurants are very facetious and append on their menus: "For wines and beers try Vernon or San Diego. We are as dry as the Sahara Desert."

I hear the baby ward of the Children's Hospital is in financial need in Los Angeles and that a big event is to be given at Ebell Club House for its benefit on June 4. Mrs. Thomas Ridgeway, Mrs. John Milner, Mrs. Farlow Lindsey and Mrs. James Page are all working like Trojans to make it a success, so if I can get my nose neatly peeled by then I must lend a hand.

The Red Cross parade was simply wonderful last Saturday—it would have done your heart good to see those miles of white-clad, charming women. I marched with the Friday Club contingent, and, as we were far from the bands, we all sang "Keep the Home Fires Burning" all along the march, with Mrs. Selby gallantly leading. Before I came to Elsinore I decided the Red Cross costume was the most becoming in the world—but now I favor the khaki suit. But then, of course, everyone looks lovely in the Red Cross suit and one does have to have a figure for those breeches!

Yours pantily,

BETTY.

SOCIETY.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS.

To Marry Judge Advocate.

Marking the most important bit of society news in army circles for the week is announcement today of the engagement of Miss Chellah Otis Ingels and Capt. George Derby Holland, Judge Advocate at Fort Rosecrans, San Diego.

Miss Ingels is the daughter of Mrs. Lauren Ingels of Hollister, Cal., and New York, and was educated at Miss Ely's school in Greenwich, Ct. She has traveled much abroad. She is fond of dancing, plays golf and tennis and is never so happy as when driving her own machine, which she does every day. One of her favorite pastimes is to drive from San Francisco to San Diego. She is well known in society circles all over California as well as in New York, where her family figures prominently in society and business circles.

Capt. Holland is a West Point man, having graduated with the class of 1911. The ceremony, which is to take place in Los Angeles early in July at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William Jerome Toomey of Windsor Square, will no doubt be brilliant. It will take place in the evening and will be strictly formal. Capt. Holland will have fellow-army officers to stand with him and to serve as ushers. A private car will bring a party of friends from San Francisco, and a number from New York are also expected to be here for the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Toomey, who formerly resided in New York, have only recently completed their new home, which has already been the scene of many functions. Recently they included Mrs. Ingels and Miss Ingels and Capt. Holland in a house party, and entertained for them at several dinner parties. Mr. and Mrs. Toomey and the Ingels and Capt. Holland are old friens, having known each other in New York for years.

Relieve Your Indigestion With A Laxative

Dyspeptics know that indigestion is accompanied by constipation, and that until the bowels can be regulated so they will act freely and naturally every day at a stated time, swallowing dyspepsia tablets is of little use.

A great and growing number of sufferers from this trouble find immediate and then permanent relief by the use of a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The laxative herbs act on the bowels and the pepsin and extracts on the digestive tract, forming an exceptionally effective laxative-tonic.

It is a combination that has been found wonderfully helpful in indigestion, constipation, biliousness, headaches, bad breath, belching and gas on the stomach. A small dose is all that is required.

The druggist will refund your money if it fails to do as promised.

Why Gray Hair
Is No Longer Necessary
New, Clean, Easy, Harmless Treatment. First Bottle Gives Satisfaction.

After having been tried and proven successful by hundreds of their customers, leading stores are recommending "Canute Water for Gray Hair" to those who wish the color of their hair restored. Owl Drug Stores and Sun Drug Stores sell it, and all questions one naturally asks are here plainly answered.

IS IT ABSOLUTELY SAFE TO USE? By all means—Yes. You may use Canute Water for Gray Hair without the slightest fear of injury to the hair, scalp or eyes, as it contains none of the injurious elements of the ordinary hair dye. Being entirely FREE from acid, sugar of lead, sulphur or coal tar products of any kind—making it as harmless to the hair and scalp as ordinary water. It is for external use only.

WILL IT SOIL THE HANDS OR SCALP? No, it will not. Our own patented process prevents it from staining the hands or scalp. Canute Water for Gray Hair is an especially clean, convenient treatment—not being sticky or greasy. It restores so naturally and evenly no one will be able to tell you are using anything.

IS IT A DYE? Positively not. That is just the thing it isn't. Canute Water is a simple and natural method of reviving the youthful color of hair that has turned gray from age, illness or other causes. Proof that Canute Water is not a dye is that it has no numbered shades—the same bottle is good for all shades of hair. While as the reader knows, dyes are numbered 1, 2 or 3.

HOW IS IT APPLIED? Very easily. Just wet the hair with it and allow to dry in good, fresh air. Nothing hard about that, is there? Apply on hair once daily and day by day observe the hair becoming darker and darker. And by the time you have finished the first bottle the youthful color of your hair will be restored. It will then remain that way and simply require a retouching once every week or two as the new hair grows.

CAN THE DARKENED COLOR WASH OR RUB OFF? The color will not wash off. Shampoo the hair all you like—you may even use a hot curling iron as not even that will affect the color. On the contrary, the more you shampoo the hair the softer and fluffier the hair will become. Remember, it will only be necessary to use Canute Water for Gray Hair afterwards once every week or two on the new hair that grows.

Believe us, after a week you'll thank yourself for having tried it. Sold at the above mentioned stores for $1 a bottle. Owl Drug Co. and Sun Drug Co. of Los Angeles.

Escaping Steam Is Wasted Fuel

THE lines of steam curling up from kettles and saucepans on your kitchen range tell a story of wasted heat which you should heed. That steam, confined, could do a big share of your cooking for you. And you are letting it escape and waste your dollars.

These Fireless Cookstoves Use all the Heat for Cooking

In a Domestic Science or Ideal Fireless Cookstove, every particle of heat is utilized for cooking. The water-seal top and the heavy, scientifically arranged insulation conserve the heat so completely that a few minutes' heating of the cookstove radiators will do cooking that would take hours of heat on your range. The fuel saving is often as much as 80%.

In addition, the confined heat prevents the drying up of foods and the big shrinkage in meats which ordinarily occur. This is another economy worth considering. The automatic steam valve permits the escape of excess steam and enables you to bake and brown as is possible in no other fireless cookstove—as quickly as in your range.

Best of all, an Ideal or Domestic Science Fireless Cookstove will give you so many additional free hours away from home, while the meals are being cooked, that it will more than pay for itself in time saved.

Ask your dealer to show these Fireless Cookstoves or write us for our free booklet, "Delicious Fireless Cooked Dishes," with recipes and photographs in color.

C. S. Gibbs, his mother, Mrs. S. M. Gibbs, and sister, Mrs. F. H. Smith, left this week for North Dakota points, where they will make a visit of some months.

Under the auspices of the Child Welfare Circle, the parent-teacher organizations and the W.C.T.U., Dr. Sara Wise of Los Angeles gave an address Monday evening at the Plymouth Congregational Church on the topic, "Moral Education and Race Betterment."

Mrs. Everett Reese of Oxnard is a guest in the house of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Bacon of East Whittier.

Members of the East Whittier Improvement Club and their families to the number of 125 enjoyed the annual club picnic at the clubhouse last evening. As honor guests the club had Sergt. and Mrs. William J. Sutherland, whose sudden wedding occurred last week. The bride was formerly Miss Lucile Reed, daughter of Mrs. Anna V. Reed. Both Mrs. Reed and her daughter have been very active members of the club. Mrs. Reed, as the retiring president, introduced and installed Mrs. S. W. Barton, the new president.

Fullerton.

THE last meeting of the Woman's Club for the season was held at the home of Mrs. A. E. Stuelke, East Chapman avenue, Wednesday evening. The time was spent in Red Cross work. A pretty feature of the meeting was a surprise in the presentation by the club of a beautiful basket of carnations to Mrs. Redfern and Miss McDermont as an appreciation of their faithfulness in being present at every service during the year. The meetings of the club will be resumed in August.

Mrs. Grace Crandall of No. 609 North Spadra road and Mrs. Ella Williamson were the delegates from the local P.E.O. to the convention of the order at Orange this week.

The Home Missionary Society of the M. E. Church was entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Campbell, No. 306 North Pomona avenue. Mrs. C. C. Smith gave a review of the first chapter of the new study book.

Redondo Beach.

MISS ROSAMOND CRAIG returned the first part of the week from Mills College where she has just completed her first year.

The Liberty Boys Club held a social time this week Tuesday with a masquerade ball at the Hotel Redondo. Dancing and a social time made the evening enjoyable. Prizes were awarded for the most original costumes to Ray Kegerles, Theodore Day, Murray Watkins, Mrs. Robert Peck, and to Miss Stanley who represented Miss Liberty.

Sigma Kappa girls met at the home of Mrs. Dora Davis last Tuesday evening for an informal social hour in honor of Mrs. Louis Heath who leaves in the near future for Seattle. Next week the girls will give a dinner party in honor of Mrs. J. A. Stanley, who was recently married.

Miss Joan Anderson, Miss Collise Slater, and Miss Rosamond Craig were invited to attend the announcement of Miss Frances Parker in Hollywood, a former Redondo Beach girl. Miss Parker will marry Oliver Garver of Hollywood.

Topping the social calendar for the week was the dance given by the Misses Ruth Rider and Laura Duffy at the El-Ja Arms ballroom. The young ladies gave the affair as a final event in the social season before leaving the beach for their summer vacation.

The members of the Caesar class entertained several invited guests Friday evening at a Roman banquet. Everyone appeared in costume. The room represented as closely as possible the triclinium, or dining-room of the ancients. Tables were in a hollow square; the household shrine was in evidence; and all the decorations were a la Roman. Roses, the favorite flower of the Romans, were in profusion. Members of the Latin 1 class served as slaves and flower girls. Speeches, songs and toasts, all in Latin, were on the programme. Programmes were minature Roman scrolls. The flower girls decorated the guests with wreaths and showered them with rose leaves. A Latin version of America concluded the occasion.

Watts.

ATTRACTIVE boxes filled with the most tempting morsels of the culinary art were auctioned off at the dinner-dansant given Saturday evening by the Knights of Pythias in Odd Fellows Hall, which totalled $62 and immediately invested in War Savings Stamps. Fifteen dollars was the highest bid and no box sold under $1.75. One hundred dollars has been invested in stamps by the ninety Knights and $400 in Liberty Bonds. Ex.-U. S. Atty. Ralph Schoonover was the speaker of the evening, his address being patriotic in its entirety.

Owing to the mid-winter graduation, the usual large class of boys and girls to receive diplomas last Thursday evening had but twenty members and were the following: Thelma Clara Bailey, Bernice Carolyn Grenner, Marguerite Lucile Combs, Leona Elizabeth Crum, Margaret Butler Gove, Ella Roberta Hospe, Mary C. Landino, Ethel Leona Ludolph, Florence Stella Sell, Cecil R. Havens, Richard Q. Gunnell, Thomas Paul Merola, Wendell O. Martin, Gilman George Rorabeck, K. Smith and Florence Sell were salutatorian and valedictorian, their subjects being "The School and the War," and "The Elementary School," respectively. H. S. Upjohn, of County Superintendent Mark Keppels' office, gave the class address and Principal C. W. Baker the presentation address.

Mrs. A. J. King opened her home on Rosella avenue to members and friends of the Red Cross benefit Friday afternoon when strawberry sherbert and cake were served. At the last meeting, new officers were elected.

As a farewell gathering of school teachers before their departure to various homes and summer vacations, truant officer, Mrs. Anna M. Gartley entertained most delightfully Thursday evening a week at her home, No. 544 Rudolph avenue. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of a social evening, with music and guessing games as features. All but seven of the twenty-two members of the faculty were present.

Compton.

BUT one change was made in the officers in charge of the Red Cross auxiliary at a recent evening meeting, when O. K. Reed, president of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank, was elected treasurer. The board of directors will be composed of the officers and heads of the different departments; the principals of the Grammar and High Schools will act as treasurers of their Junior Red Cross departments. At the conclusion of the business session, Dr. J. L. Knowles spoke on the "Essential Needs of the Times." The Big Thing

Big things are happening on earth today. It is our privilege to participate in the greatest event ever enacted by civilization.

Much as we should like to be in the thick of things, where the young men of the land are facing the enemy, we cannot all go to the front.

But we can, and we will, give—give all, if need be, with the high thought that we are doing this for home and country.

And in this there is sublime pleasure; pleasure that only those know, who sacrifice to give.

There is one more chance to do the big thing for the Red Cross. If you have not given until your heart thrills with a sense of genuine generosity, give some more tomorrow.

$39.50

What is it about Robinson's frocks that makes them better?

There is no simple secret by which Robinson's frocks can be imitated, for their extra desirability is largely composed of style, and style is an intangible, unmeasurable thing.

But style has a very definite value, and there is more of style in these Robinson frocks at $25.00, $29.50 and $39.50, than in many other frocks at ten dollars more.

But style is not all—

Quality, durability, intrinsic actual usefulness, worth and economy are found in all Robinson frocks.

And variety! One may choose from all of the materials that are wanted for summer frocks.

"REFORMING" HUMANKIND IS A FAVORITE PASTIME HERE.

BY SUZANNE M. DANIEL.

A GREAT American vice is an insatiable thirst for reforming. From the cradle to the grave the majority of our countrymen appear to be overwhelmed with a great yearning to reclaim their neighbors from the error of their ways. Frequently the aforesaid neighbors are serenely ignorant of the fact that there is aught in their customs and habits at which to cavil; but any first-class reformer, amateur or professional, can pick flaws in the most upright citizen at a moment's notice.

California is the reformer's paradise. Whether it is an unusually rich field or the ease with which laws can be passed infringing on a man's personal liberty that is responsible for the horde of self-appointed moral preceptors is a matter difficult to decide. However, no other State can boast so many uplifters.

The pathetic feature of these misguided efforts at reform is that they are directed at such petty things. If those who feel themselves called to the high task of making the world over would only focus their attention on some of the burning problems of the day they might accomplish something worth while. But while humanity is bowed under the weight of its multitudinous cares and vexations our crop of reformers is fretting itself into a fever over inconsequential questions that should be a matter for the individual person to settle according to his conscience.

A PRIVILEGE OF SEX.

The majority of our local leaders in reformation are of my own sex. It is a privilege of our persuasion to show a more absorbing interest in the private affairs of others than a mere male would have the temerity to display. Added to this the fact that quite a few of the feminine contingent have a type of mind that inclines them to look upon the darker side of things, particularly the character and motives of others, and it is readily perceived that they are of the stiff of which splendid uplifters are made.

RULES OF CONDUCT.

That part of their spare time which is not consumed in studying and discussing new laws brought to the attention of the people via the ballot box is spent in planning divers ways and means of foisting new rules of conduct upon a helpless and more or less acquiescent electorate.

Of course, the world has need of reformers. We should be lagging in the dark ages without them. But one who has the welfare of his people at heart should wait until the public feels a crying need for his especial brand of reformation. And then the people should be educated up to an appreciation of it gradually. The mere act of passing a law does not change the hearts and character of those at whom it is aimed. What the citizenry needs to improve itself is more education and a little less legislation.

With these thoughts firmly implanted in my mind I betook myself one sunny afternoon to a session of a little club which acquaintances of mine had formed for the avowed intention of discussing burning problems, and, incidentally, solving them offhand. What I saw and heard merely confirmed my original opinion regarding the futility of amateur reform.

INTO THE DISCARD.

The chairman called the meeting to order and for two hours the fair members knitted their brows over the abstruse details of some proposed legislation regarding workingmen's insurance. Both sides were presented in an able manner and a heated and acrimonious debate followed. One protagonist inadvertently admitted that the legislation had originated in Germany, whereupon the bill was consigned to the wastebasket.

The next meeting I attended was presided over by a man, and quite a sprinkling of the sterner sex was present. He launched into a diatribe against the lack of morals of the community, reinforcing his statements with an abundance of details. The civic pride of every one present was pricked, but none was resentful. On the contrary, all appeared to relish the gentleman's unwholesome dissertation. His tone was most unctious as he described the vices and wickedness of New York, Paris, Port Said and Hongkong, and solemnly assured us that they were as nought compared with the iniquities of our own Angel City. One felt reasonably certain that none could linger long in our midst without sinking into the quaquire of immorality waiting to engulf the unwary. The wonder was that those present had been able to grow into noble manhood and upright womanhood in such disastrous environment.

After he had reduced us all to a state of shame over our civic shortcomings, he brought forth his pet scheme for our reclamation. His ideas on this matter seemed to be vague and nebulous, and consisted chiefly in jailing all those who deported themselves in a frivolous manner, bedecked themselves in festive raiment, or roamed the downtown thoroughfares after curfew time.

The tourist would assuredly have shunned us if he could have had his way, and the Pilgrim Fathers have led a riotous existence compared with that which he would have vouchsafed the residents. Most of the taxes would have gone toward the building of new stockades to house the hapless folk caught in the police dragnet for looking too pleasant or attending too many movies.

Fortunately, there was a murmur of disapproval among those present, and they vetoed his plans with emphasis. It is all right to make regulations which hinder and annoy the other fellow, but it is too much to expect even the most zealous reformer to accede to the framing of a law interfering with his own liberty of action.

My next incursion into the realm of uplift consisted in a trip to hear a woman who had designs upon the State Legislature. She was a determined person with an aggressive manner, and she let us know in no uncertain way that we would not recognize the local laws when she got through with them. Men came in for vindictive attacks, and her chief idea in running seemed to be for the purpose of stripping them of as many of their constitutional privileges as possible. If women must hold office, it seemed to me a shame that they could not devote their time toward ameliorating the condition of their own sex, rather than antagonizing the other. I failed to see what gain either sex would secure, if its members spent a large part of their time evolving schemes to make the other miserable.

WOULD FILL CHURCHES.

Numerous other reformers' meetings followed, and I was dazed at the revelation of the sleepless nights so many of our fellow townsmen must put in while cudgelling their brains in an effort to raise humanity to a higher plane. One pious gentleman wanted his auditors to beseech the City Council to pass a law making it obligatory upon all able-bodied folk to attend church at least twice during the month. He failed to point out what benefit the godless would receive from being forced into church by fear of the police.

One woman had a novel scheme for regenerating the city and incidentally saving money to be expended for various worthy and patriotic activities. The city was to be divided into districts, each one to be headed by a committee composed of reliable specimens of feminity. Women who lived in these sections and contemplated replenishing their wardrobes, should first visit the committee and receive its approval. If they decided that the clothes were necessary, and the expenditures within reason, the members would give their sanction.

TO POST AS SLACKERS.

No legislation to enforce this ingenious idea was called for, but those who objected were to be posted as slackers and the full weight of public disapproval and social ostracism visited upon the recalcitrant. A few dowdy persons, and some with penurious husbands, hailed the plan enthusiastically, but the majority were overcome with indignation.

Only once did I hear a sane and sensible bit of legislation proposed at the various meetings. The rest of the ideas were petty and absurd, ridiculous intrusions into the private lives of others, and inroads upon the rights of self-respecting people. To listen to the discussions made one feel sorry for the human race, although most of the proponents were actuated by the best of motives. And the weary listener to these futile schemes for making the world over, longed most of all for the passage of a statute prohibiting people form enacting any new laws until we had had time to understand and abide by the old ones.

THE LETTERS OF LEMUEL BEAN.

"Even Overalls Make a Uniform."

BY ROY MOULTON.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW YORK.

Dear Folks:

"The man in New York who doesn't wear a uniform is as out of place as a barefoot dancer in a sticky fly-paper factory."

It was my wife Luella who was speaking and she is some speaker. She was urging me to get into some sort of service which would allow me to wear a uniform and she was right. I have felt wofully out of it when I have walked down the Great White Waste of an evening.

"Really it is becoming quite embarrassing to go out with you," continued Luella. "You and your two-quart derby attract too much attention. You are positively conspicuous."

"Too fat to fight," I replied. "I buy Liberty Bonds. That's all they will let me do. Outside of being fat, I have everything the matter with me that can possibly be the matter with anybody."

"But you are not too fat to wear a uniform."

"Where will I get one made? Omar, the tentmaker, has gone out of business."

"You don't have to have a military uniform. Why not be a carriage opener?"

"Or a bellhop at the Ritz," I suggested. "It is a wonderful idea."

AGAIN LUELLA IS RIGHT.

Luella is right. She is always right, whether she is or not. That much is understood in our family without dispute or argument.

The epidemic of uniforms which has broken out in New York since the war started has crowded the civilians quite off the map. The soldiers are the least conspicuous of all.

Luella and I were walking down Flash alley the other night trying to find a place where we could get into a show for nothing (Columbus, by the way, wasn't much of a discoverer. He only discovered America,) and when we reached a certain corner we observed a wonderful sight. It was standing at the curb twirling its mustache. It was a riot of gold braid. The uniform was lavender and the party who put on the gold decorations was doubtless the same one that furnished the murals for the Grand Central Station.

"A major-general," I whispered to Luella. I was positively overcome.

"He is waiting for a party, no doubt," whispered Luella. "They are going into that restaurant for dinner."

Luella and I had never seen a major-general before, and it looked as though this was going to be a red letter evening in our lives. So we stood and looked.

"Here comes the general's party," said Luella excitedly, as a limousine pulled up at the curb.

A MAJOR-GENERAL SMILES.

The general gave a smile of recognition, and deftly opened the door of the limousine and helped three fashionably-dressed ladies to the sidewalk. A man in khaki accompanied them.

Then a startling thing happened. The man in khaki slipped the major-general a piece of money, and the general, in spite of his gold braid, saluted respectfully and slipped the money into his pocket.

"Another wonderful evening spoiled," hissed Luella. "That bird is a carriage opener."

The military uniforms are the soberest to be seen in New York. Even the lowly chauffeur is more beauteously arrayed. There is a doorman at a certain movie theater on Broadway who, if sent to the mint, would assay about seventeen pounds of gold. In fact, the gold entirely covers his uniform, and you cannot tell whether the uniform is blue, pink or pea green.

Looking at this official is difficult without smoked glasses. Trying to see his uniform is remindful of the story of the man who couldn't see the forest for the trees.

The major domo of one of the lobster cabarets has recently blossomed out in a mauve uniform with a solid gold collar, twelve bands of gold around the cuffs and the coat of arms of the place, two lobsters rampant done in gold upon his breast. It is positive offense against the ethics of lobsterial decency to hand that boy less than one iron man as a tip, and even then he knows you are from Yonkers.

The other day a great war film was shown at one of the celluloid theaters here, and the manager of the place conceived a bright idea. They do it occasionally without outside assistance. When they do conceive an original idea, it is worthy of mention.

This one thought it would be a ten-strike to put up a sign to the effect that all men in uniform would be admitted free of charge. It was a ten-strike.

SOME POPULAR UNIFORMS.

At the next performance the lobby was filled with hotel porters, firemen, carriage openers, bellhops, messenger boys, chauffeurs and white wings, and by the time the doors were opened the street outside was filled from curb to curb with men in uniform, and not a soldier or sailor in sight.

The manager was a good sport and went through with the agreement for one performance, no matter how painful, but he got a sign painter on the job that afternoon, and the sign soon read:

"Soldiers and sailors in uniform admitted free."

Since that time he has had some room for civilian patrons.

The ladies have begun wearing uniforms to an almost alarming extent. Conductorettes and even farmerettes and war-gardenerettes are found on Fifth avenue and Broadway in large numbers.

Luella has become quite obsessed with the uniform idea recently. We have discussed it pro and con for about three weeks. She has seen several resplendent French "counts," one or two of whom have since turned out phony.

One of these boys is now resting in the Tombs having fleeced a dozen actresses on Broadway and trying to borrow $50,000,000 from Mr. Morgan. This one had a new uniform for every hour of the day. In private life he was a telephone mechanician.

When this gorgeous bird burst upon the cabaret zone he resembled an Italian sunset suffering from a bad attack of artistic temperament intermixed with hydrophobia. He was the only man in New York who could in any way rival the doorman at the motion-picture theater. True, he wore an artillery officer's pants with an infantry general's coat and a cavalry colonel's cap, but an intermixture of that kind means nothing to dear old Broadway, which is so filled with gullible boobs that it is still the best gold brick market in the world, and always will be.

WHY LADIES LIKE UNIFORM.

"There is something about a uniform which gets to the ladies," said I to Luella.

"It is psychological," she said. "This is the era of uniforms and if you go around with that 1914 derby and Eighth-avenue Oxford suit another week, I am going home to mother. You look like some kind of a slacker. I don't know what kind, but some kind."

It was then that I started in quest of a uniform. There is no uniform which exactly fits my profession. I wouldn't under any consideration try to impersonate an officer, even to please my wife, and I am quite fond of her at that.

The only man in the world who can impersonate an officer and get away with it is the Crown Prince of Germany.

The first days of my search brought few results. I even tried for a job as a subway guard. Their uniforms are not the brightest in the world, but they don't look half bad if they fit properly, which they never do.

The gentleman who operates the ash cart which backs up to the door of our tenement house every morning, wears a uniform which, when seen without the ashes, must be a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Luella and I have both admired it for some time. But I found that to get one of these uniforms I would have to go to work for the city, and going to work for the city in this metropolis requires more of a pull than I could by any possibility muster.

Finally, in desperation, I invented my own uniform, which I think will save me a great deal of money, inasmuch as the tailors inform us (and how the tailors do dread it) that suits of clothes which cost $17.85 now will be costing $75 a year from now.

I got a perfectly good pair of overalls and jumpers and a blue cap, which cost me in the neighborhood of $7, having been worn only a few times by a railroad engineer in a Broadway melodrama. I went home and decked myself out in my uniform.

"What's the grand idea?" asked my wife.

"It's my uniform," I replied with some dignity. "Now you can walk down Broadway with me without being ashamed."

"You have one more guess coming before you are backed up against the stone wall at sunrise," she replied. "What are you supposed to be?"

"I am a lineman for a wireless telegraph company," I replied. Hoping you are the same, I remain yours,

LEM.

WOMEN'S WORK AND WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

THE Woman's City Club, which has undertaken to raise the necessary funds for an industrial training section in the present voluntary woman's training home has unanimously indorsed the work of Mrs. Minnie Barton, as also has that large body of women who comprise the Big Sister League.

Ebell Club.

Tomorrow's programme at the Ebell Club will be a musical one in which Mme. John Marguardt, formerly of Petrograd, a now famous symphony orchestra harpist in this country, will give a programme assisted by her husband, John Marguardt, violinist, who was also connected with the Boston and Chicago symphony orchestras.

Mme. Marquarde has played in grand opera with Melba, Patti, and Tetrazzini and the club is anticipating an usually fine programme.

When members of the French mission made their bow at the Ebell Club last Monday, Lucien N. Brunswig made a graceful little tribute. He presented the club with a great floral Red Cross—an essentially French courtesy which was appreciated to the full.

Women's University Club.

The university women will hold their next meeting in the form of a reception at the California Club next Saturday from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. when the installation of new officers will take place, the old and new officers being in the receiving line. Members of the board of the men's University Club will be guests of honor of the occasion.

The programme will include a talk on "Americanization" by Lucien N. Brunswig, another on Red Cross, by Gurney Newlin, a group of songs by Ruth Hutchinson, and the French national song in costume by Mrs. Irwin Muma.

The University of California Women's Club will hold its next meeting with Mrs. David Babcock, No. 2914 Wilshire boulevard today at 2:30 p.m.

City Teachers' Club.

The closing weeks of the Los Angeles City Teachers' Club are replete with activities.

At the annual election last Monday Miss Wilhelmina Van de Gorrberg was unanimously elected president. Her re-election was greeted with applause. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Wilhelmina Van de Goorberg; first vice-president, Sarah Gooch; second vice-president, H. Maud Bland; recording recetary, Leila Glasscock; corresponding secretary, Zoe McClure; membership secretary, Ruth Holcomb; financial secretary, Nita Mills; treasurer, Elizabeth Thompson; board of education member, Edyth Thomas.

The most notable financial feature of the year has been the compilation and sale of the Liberty Cook Books. The net proceeds are $1,769.47. The disposition of this fund has been repeatedly agitated by the club members, but the announcement of Nita Mills's leaving for France in July brought a final decision. The bulk of the proceeds should go to aid Miss Mills, but $200 was voted for a fund which is being raised by the International Kindergarten Association to send a kindergarten unit to France.

Several social events mark the calendar. The board of directors dined at Christopher's on Thursday for a farewell social hour.

On June 6 at 4 p.m. the club will be "at home" to the outgoing and incoming officers, to the chairmen and members of the various committees. Miss Florence Thresher, chairman of the Social Committee, will arrange the entertainment.

Hollywood Club.

The French and Spanish sections held their closing luncheon on Wednesday, when more than 100 members enjoyed the excellent lunch and entertainment. The tables were decorated in the Spanish colors, orange and red, and small French bouquets marked the place of each guest. Mrs. Eugene Tilden furnished the music during the luncheon. At the close of the lunch two Spanish plays and one French play was presented by members who included the following: Mrs. W. M. McKenzie, Miss Margaret Seibley, Mrs. J. MacClaren, Mrs. George Hunt, Mrs. Frank Harasuthy, Miss Lula Maeyers, Miss L. Freeman and Mrs. Anna B. Goodman. Miss Julanne Johnson accompanied on the piano by Miss Mary Lippencott, both of the Hollywood School for Girls, gave a Spanish dance. Miss Marly Fitts, sang several Franch solos. A vote of thanks was most heartily given Mrs. Goodman and Mrs. Cora Reed, the chariman of these two sections, for the excellent work they have accomplished the past year in these two classes, then all joined in singing the "Marseillaise."

The regular meeting of the club on Wednesday afternoon took the form of an informal reception by the board of directors to the members. Betty Jenks, the 6-year-old monologist, and Miss Barbara Blech, Marjorie McLouth and Sarah Chandler in fancy dances met with much applause. At a short business meeting which was held the same afternoon it was decided to raise the admission fees into the club from $7 to $10. The annual dues are to remain the some. It was also decided that each member of the club give one dollar on or before June 3, for the war work fund so that this work can go on during the summer.

Next Wednesday at 1 o'clock, is the annual luncheon, when reports of officers and chairmen will be heard and installation of the new officers will be held.

The Travel Club.

Mrs. Thomas B. Stowell, State Historian, California D.A.R., will speak on "Our Flag" at the patriots' day programme of the Los Angeles Travel Club tomorrow afternoon at the Brack-Shops, Mrs. M. L. Hughes, presiding. The club is also anticipating the talk on "International Affairs" by Mrs. Mae. Barclay, who was a prize winner in the national contest arranged last year by former President Taft. Mrs. Bessie Bartlett Frankel, district chairman of music, will give a few suggestions as to special work for clubwomen during the summer, and Miss Dorothy Merritt will contribute piano numbers. The last business session of the year will be called at 1:30 o'clock Monday, when matters of importance will be discussed.

A decidedly happy day was spent by the club at the patriotic picnic last week, when Company A in the membership contest was entertained by Company B, Mrs. Edgar Winans, captain. Mrs. Lambert E. Jenkins gave the greeting as the guests sat down at the long "mess" table, the tempting "army" dishes proving the efficiency of the cooks in "camp." In the "Allies' Athletics" demonstrated during the afternoon, silk flags were awarded as trophies to the following successful contestants: Mrs. D. H. Jefferson in "French Fashion Sprint." Mrs. J. A. Zimmerman, "Italian Base Line Dash;" Mrs. I. W. Gleason, "British Basketball Match;" Mrs. J. L. Lindley, "Irish Race;" Mrs. Leon Sherwood, "Scottish High Fling;" Mrs. J. Mark Lacey, "Russian Rush;" and Mrs. May Hoffman in "Korn Kernel Kontest." Humorous readings were given by Mrs. E. J. Gookins. At a meeting of the War Savings Society, held late in the day, members promised support of the "Pledge Day Drive" on June 28.

Wednesday Morning Club.

The Wednesday Morning Club will have a happy ceremony on Wednesday in the burning of the mortgage, which obliterates the last vestige of debt of the organization.

A great deal of credit is due to the work of the retiring president, Mrs. M. E. Johnson, who has written several original plays, and various others things which have netted a goodly sum for the club.

The club also owns six Liberty Bonds and with the installation of officers for the coming year on the 29th, the club is closing very happily.

There is to be an especial musical programme by Mrs. Robert Parker Sheldon, vocalist, and Miss Sylvia Harding, violinist.

On last Wednesday, Mrs. Gertrude Follansbee, pupil of Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith, gave a very interesting interpretation of Barrie's "The Will."

Mrs. H. E. Brett read several very interesting letters from her son, who is with the Engineering Corps in the front-line trenches, in France.

At Glendale.

The monthly meetings of the N. P. Banks Post and Corps, always patriotic in character, grow more so with each occasion. On Friday luncheon was served to almost 150 members and guests, many of whom were from Los Angeles and other posts. Mrs. Lena Roberts and her committee acted as hostesses and partiotism was featured both in decorations and toasts. Commander C. H. Clarke, recently elected Department Vice-Commander at the Oakland convention, and Comrade C. R. Norton, re-elected Department Chaplain, were guests of honor.

The salute to the flag opened the monthly meeting of the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations on Monday. Mrs. Arthur Brown presided. Reports were heard from presidents and committee chairmen. The annual election of officers was held, resulting as follows: Mrs. Opal Greenwalt, president; Mrs. E. Andersen, vice-president; Mrs. Minette Sherman, secretary; Mrs. F. Carmichael, treasurer; Mrs. T. Timothy, historian; Mrs. H. V. Henry, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harry Duey, auditor.

State reciprocity day was observed last Friday afternoon by Chapter B. A. of P.E.O., Glendale, at the home of Mrs. C. B. Wilde, No. 1331 Milford street. Mrs. Wilde was assisted as hostess by Mrs. Harry Parker, the president, who turned the meeting over to Mrs. Freeman Kelley for the programme. Mrs. Gladys Gibbs Sherman, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Gibbs, gave some quaint little English folk songs. Mrs. Gibbs also contributed a Mendelssorn selection. Mrs. E. H. Willisford, who returned especially for the occasion from Claremont, where she has made her home since Dr. Willisford's departure for France, where he is prominent in the Y.M.C.A. work, gave some patriotic readings, as did little Miss Mary Young.

The Foothill Club, according to custom, devoted its entire meeting to Red Cross work. Mrs. C. H. Crawford was hostess at her home, No. 1320 North Central street, and served luncheon. In the afternoon Everette K. Barnes made an address on the Red Cross war fund drive, especially complimenting the Central-avenue school on its patriotism as evidenced by the fact that more Thrift Stamps were purchased there in proportion to attendance than in any school in Glendale. Special guests of the afternoon were Mrs. Raymond Wells and Miss May Bradick of Hollywood, who contributed several vocal solos.

Million Club.

A card party will be given on next Wednesday at the La Salle Apartments, Sixth and Witmer streets, at 2 o'clock, for the benefit of the Million Club Red Cross Auxiliary. Miss Electa Felt, who made the song, "There is Someone Knitting for You," so popular when singing it at the Morosco and at Clune's Auditorium, will sing it for the Million Club Red Cross fund, and little Miss Dorothy Durkin will sell copies of the song at 30 cents, the auxiliary making 25 cents on each copy. Miss Anna Ames, the popular contralto, also will give a group of songs. Tickets for the card party are on sale at the headquarters, 1025 Story Building. Mrs. S. I. Mahoney will be assisted by Mrs. Chase Terry, Mrs. Carl Stillwell and Mrs. Frank de Long. Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, president, will give a short talk. A. A. Samuel will speak at the meeting on Tuesday in behalf of the Red Cross work, during the luncheon hour at noon. Any woman interested in the work is most cordially invited.

Woman's City Club.

"Safeguarding the State Revenues" will be the subject of Carleton A. Wheeler's address before the Woman's City Club tomorrow. Mr. Wheeler is president of the High School Teachers' Association.

The annual election also will take place at this meeting, but as the primaries reported last week pretty well decided the question no new excitement may be anticipated.

The luncheon will take place in Hamburger's cafe at noon and the programme starts in the auditorium at 1 p.m.

Averill Study Club.

Mrs. Valentine Fisher was responsible for the programme of the Averill Club last Tuesday, which proved to be varied, clever and entertaining. There were readings, recitations, musical monologues and oriental songs in costume, to which many talented members contributed.

This was the last programme of the year and was followed by the installation of new officers, Mrs. S. T. Exley, the outgoing president, handing the gavel to Mrs. A. E. Wheeler. Other officers are: Mrs. N. P. Bailey, vice-president; Mrs. J. M. Hale, second vice-president; Mrs. Charles Young, recording secretary; Mrs. F. W. Maile, secretary; Mrs. C. A. Silk, treasurer.

The first act of the new president was to call upon Mrs. Bailey to voice the appreciation of the club for the work of its outgoing president, Mrs. Exley.

Friday Morning Club.

The Friday Morning Club will be thoroughly domesticated this week, for not only is next Friday's programme devoted exclusively to children—that postponed patriotic programme, "The Seven Ages of Washington," showing the spirit of 1918 in the shadow of the spirit of '76, in idealistic color, music and symbolic pageant—but on Saturday, June 1, they will sponsor the monster "Poster Folk" pageant to be given by 200 children at the Majestic Theater for the Red Cross.

Tickets for the latter event must be exchanged for reserved seats at the box office of the theater on Friday or Saturday.

At the Friday programme at the clubhouse members may only take one child or grandchild as a guest of the club, as Mrs. A. S. Lobingier told them the club would be proud if they owned six children, but only one apiece could be accommodated.

Mrs. Lobingier also announced that the Matinee Musical Club programme at the clubhouse for the Red Cross benefit netted $237. The "Mercy Jar" last week contained no less than $107—that jar for voluntary contributions which go to provide the wool for the knitters. More than $1000 has already accrued from the "Mercy Jar" during the last club season.

At Sawtelle.

Miss Paine gave a food demonstration at the clubhouse Thursday before a large attendance of the members of the Sawtelle Woman's Club, in which all took an active interest. At the close of the demonstration a luncheon was served. Harry Johnson, Food Administrator of Santa Monica, also addressed the members.

The Woman's Club, by a unanimous vote, expelled from its membership Mrs. Emma Hayes, who was convicted by Police Judge White Wednesday of disloyal remarks. Mrs. Hayes had never been an active member of the club.

The following women were elected to serve as officers of the club for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. H. L. Snyder; first vice-president, Mrs. G. C. Stubbelfield; second vice-president, Mrs. E. W. Mecum; recording secretary, Mrs. C. H. Goodrich; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Orris Jewitt; federation secretary, Mrs. Reynold Evans; treasurer, Mrs. G. C. Shull; member of the board of directors, Mrs. Charles Newlands.

Club Briefs.

The University Book Club will meet on Tuesday morning in the Jefferson-street branch library, when the annual election of officers will take place and the programme will be the closing lesson on "South America."

The Cosmos Club closed for the year last Wednesday with the proud showing for its Red Cross auxiliary of over $400 cash balance in hand. The Philanthropy Committee also has taken care of several needy families. Mrs. Alice T. Anderson, who has won the club to harmony from chaos during her presidency, received a special vote of appreciation.

Highland Park Ebell held its last civics programme on Tuesday, when Miss Mary Foy and Walter G. Lincoln were the speakers. The former spoke of her work as emergency war relief chairman and the great value of the women's organizations. Mr. Lincoln traced conditions from this country's entry into the war. Next Tuesday's meeting will close the club year, and the installation of new officers will follow a musicale.

The Business Women's Civic Club will meet in the lecture hall of the public library tomorrow evening at 7:30 p.m., when Mrs. Harriet Barry will talk on the "Woman's Land Army."

The Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club will have a programme by Gloria Mayne Windsor on June 3, when she will give an illustrated recital of three types of prima donna—long ago, yesterday and today.

The Women's Auxiliary to the R. M.A. held its last meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Darr on East Adams avenue, Eagle Rock, and devoted the day to the making of Red Cross garments, while a musical programme was enjoyed.

Mrs. C. C. Cottle has returned from Washington, where she attended the national conference of D.A.R. in her capacity of California State Regent. She will give her report at the reciprocity luncheon on Wednesday next. Information about the luncheon can be obtained from Mrs. Lyman Stookey, phone No. 22188.

The Ruskin Art Club will be entertained by Mrs. Florence Halstead, Mrs. C. E. Day and Mrs. Herman Smith at No. 219 West Avenue Forty-two on Wednesday afternoon.

The Pomona College women held a picnic in lieu of their final meeting of the year last Saturday afternoon. After the Red Cross parade they assembled at the picturesque home of Mrs. R. P. Jennings, No. 4170 Glen Albyn drive. The club has contributed $100 for a scholarship fund for a young girl whose father is serving in France and $30 for the nurses' hut fund.

The Echo Park Civic League Auxiliary of the Red Cross meets every Tuesday from 10 to 4. Many of the members are active in the present Red Cross drive and are placing their precinct in the banner class.

The Burbank Women's Club met at the City Hall. Mrs. B. A. Davis, on "Patriotism of Today," was the speaker. The club will hold reciprocity day at the June meeting.

THE HASKIN LETTER.

Lining up the Women.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) May 15.—More than half the women in the country are now registered for war service through the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense. This means that at least 18,000,000 women are at the sumons of the government, in case of emergency, to fill any one of a long list of jobs, ranging all the way from factory hand to translator of foreign languages.

Twenty-seven States have completed their registrations of women. Returns in Michigan, the last of the twenty-seven to conduct such a survey of its woman power, are still coming in. Other States are now ready to follow suit, but members of the National Committee have asked them to defer their registration for a couple of months until a standard method of conducting it can be selected and indorsed.

For the value of such an index to the nation's feminine ability is just beginning to be appreciated by the government. Women stenographers and clerks, for which there has been such a sudden great need among government departments, have been selected by the hundreds from the State registration lists, and brought to Washington. Bacteriologists and laboratory technicians have also been obtained in this way. The services of many professional women of high ability have been procured through registration.

Registration has also shown the lack of trained women. In one small town in Florida the register showed that for every man called to arms there was a trained woman in the town to take his place, even to locomotive engineers. But this is a notable exception. In general, women are willing, but they don't know how to do anything.

There is even a shortage of women trained in the pursuits commonly allotted to women. Take trained nurses, for example. It is beginning to look now as if there will not be nearly enough trained nurses to go around. The same is true of teachers, although the circumstances are different, and of dieticians, clerks, dressmakers and social workers.

With the evidence of this lack of feminine training at hand, the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense has taken measures to provide the training needed. Thus, when it was learned some time ago that the government was in need of draftswomen, the women's divisions of two States arranged for courses in mechanical drawing and drafting and found students for them. Business courses are also being offered women that they may fill the demand for office executives—positions formerly filled to a great extent by young men of draft age. And everywhere women with no responsibilities are being persuaded to enter training schools for nurses.

The Federal government is not the only agency to profit from this registration of women. During the last draft, one city found itself in great difficulties owing to the lack of a clerical force. The local woman's committee was notified, and within a few hours a number of women who had registered for just such an opportunity were on the job. They finished the work in two days, although a time limit of five days had been given them. In one State, a call for 100 social workers was immediately answered through the medium of the registration cards.

If registration were valuable for no other reason, it would have proved its merit by showing the tremendous loyalty of American women, which often borders on the quixotic. "The spirit of the women is certainly an inspiring thing," says the chairman of the Montana division. "A letter I have just received today from one woman offers any service she can render. She wants to know at this time where she could be used. She would like to have time to break a team of horses to sell. She will even sell her farm if necessary."

Every imaginable form of service is pledged by women registrants, ranging all the way from the offers of well-to-do women to lend their houses for hospitals and convalescent homes, to the young married woman of poorer circumstances who offers to take back her job in a factory to release a man for the front. An Illinois woman volunteered to drive a baggage truck. In Kansas City a Polish woman said that she had served as a policewoman in Poland and offered the same service here. The next day this woman was sent to another city in her State, which employed her in that capacity.

A typical instance of the value of registration was furnished by one city block in Boise. One woman living at the end of this block said that she would be glad to devote a certain number of hours each day to Red Cross work if she had some place to leave her children. This provision was instantly met by calling in the services of a neighbor living a few doors away, who, as an ex-kindergarten teacher, had registered to care for children.

The enthusiasm of the foreign women is no less inspiring than that of the American women. According to a member of the Idaho Federation of Women's Clubs, even the Hungarian women in Idaho walked great distances to register, offering their services to the American government. In one [illegible] colony, a Greek tailor closed [illegible] shop and registered all the [illegible] women for the division. The [illegible] women, as well as the [illegible] Spanish and Chinese women [illegible] forming valuable service in [illegible] and hand-sewing, at which [illegible] them excel.

One Italian woman, blessed [illegible] eight children and only two [illegible] offered to take care of more [illegible] dren belonging to women who [illegible] to go out and work.

Another Italian woman, [illegible] could barely speak English [illegible] could not write it at all, [illegible] to make her local registrar [illegible] stand that she would teach [illegible] can women domestic economy. [illegible] registrar smiled skeptically, but [illegible] the woman down for [illegible] Later, the registrar discovered [illegible] through some mistake this [illegible] Italian woman had been [illegible] assist in a demonstration [illegible] conservation, and had actually [illegible] ceeded in imparting a great deal [illegible] knowledge on the subject of [illegible] conservation to her better-[illegible] sisters.

In one place the local [illegible] was left almost speechless [illegible] one woman asserted that the [illegible] thing she could do was to [illegible] canary birds. This would [illegible] pear to be an indispensable [illegible] sion to a warring country, but [illegible] woman is now occupying an [illegible] ant position in the [illegible] training carrier pigeons for [illegible] abroad.

Some cities which have [illegible] age limit on registration [illegible] ceived some interesting offers [illegible] sistance. A county in Missouri [illegible] instance, has the registration [illegible] of a woman 103 years old, [illegible] born and obtained her [illegible] trained nurse in Scotland. [illegible] offered her services to the [illegible] ment during the war, [illegible] she will serve anywhere. [illegible] same registration a girl of [illegible] if she might not go in the [illegible] of "errand girl" to France, [illegible] ed that she was prepared [illegible] her own expenses.

Thus the registration of [illegible] has not only provided [illegible] trained workers on which the [illegible] ernment may draw, but it has [illegible] women their own industrial [illegible] and has placed a new [illegible] their work. Women who have [illegible] done anything more [illegible] decorating a drawing-room [illegible] performing hard, valuable [illegible] Others, suddenly made [illegible] their ignorance, are entering [illegible] ing schools. Finally, the [illegible] of this registration is [illegible] by the fact that the enemy [illegible] tempted to interfere with it [illegible] registration the local [illegible] has had to work against [illegible] circulated by mysterious [illegible] that the registration of [illegible] would mean the [illegible] their food.

[illegible] of the reasons I am using young [illegible] in my new ballet."

"And what of the future of American dancing?"

"Well, for the present we Americans are too repressive. We shall have to cultivate more freedom of self-expression before we become an originative people. Dancing is one of the best avenues of self-expression. This war will bring us in closer touch and sympathy with the artistic races, the French and Italians, and will result, so far as art is concerned, in untold uplifting influence on all artistic endeavor in this country. Some day, I believe, we shall even advance so far that the creative dancer in this country will invent the dance, and then the musician will be asked to create music especially for it, instead of the dancer as at present slavishly interpreting the master musicians."

Then Miss Morgan made a prophecy:

"I believe that from California will come the great dancers of the future, and that before that time there will be a great renaissance of outdoor dancing in California, for our climate, our traditions, our wholesomeness and vitality, our freedom of thought and openness to new ideas all point in that direc-

KNOWING what we want and getting it is a sight of satisfaction. Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith wants pageants, and they are not good for her because she works herself very nearly to death putting them on. I do not want pageants, and they are exceedingly good for me because they have so much of the lifting wing and the wider horizon.

Mrs. Goldsmith's latest enterprise in pageantry would require circus posters for its fit announcement, together with a circus band and three trainloads of circus adjectives. It is to be given free at Exposition Park on the evening of May 29, and if Mrs. Goldsmith can stage it according to her own mental prospectus and specifications, I shall admire her capacity for hard work and results more than that of any other woman in America. "And what of the future of American dancing?"

"Well, for the present we Americans are too repressive. We shall have to cultivate more freedom of self-expression before we become an creative people. Dancing is one of the best avenues of self-expression. This war will bring us in closer touch and sympathy with the Latin races, the French and Italians and will result, so far as art is concerned, in untold uplifting influence on all artistic endeavor in this country. Some day, I believe, we shall even advance so far that the creative dancer in this country will invent the dance, and then the musician will be asked to create music especially for it, instead of the dancer as at present slavishly interpreting the master musicians."

Then Miss Morgan made a prophecy:

"I believe that from California will come the great dancers of the future, and that before that time there will be a great renaissance of outdoor dancing in California. Our climate, our traditions, our spontaneousness and vitality, our freedom of thought and openness to new ideas all point in that direc-

PIRIT OF GREAT CAUSE IN FLAMING PAGEANTRY.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK.

NOWING what we want and getting it is a sight of satisfaction. Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith wants pageants, and they are not good for her because she herself very nearly to death putting them on. I do not want pageants, and they are exceedingly good for me because they have so much of the lifting wing and the far horizon.

Mrs. Goldsmith's latest enterprise in pageantry would require circus posters for its fit announcement, together with a circus band and three thousands of circus adjectives. It is to be given free at Exposition Park the evening of May 29, and if Mrs. Goldsmith can stage it according to her own mental prospectus and specifications, I shall admire her capacity for hard work and results more than that of any other woman in America. In fact, I won't believe it after I see it, but she will have at least 30,000 witnesses to the performance, and their joint testimony may combine to outweigh

That last paragraph was becoming too long and unbelievable, so I out nations and literature. They just the same. All the nations will have leading roles, and literature will have unbridled

Miss Susan Clayton Ott wrote the script, and it should be published to give its fine values permanence. People have been reading me pageants ever since they were sure of my carefully cultivated distaste for them, and anything nobler in this than Miss Ott's latest work, "Son of the Southland," I have yet to hear. Its lines have beauty, sweep and power. Its imagery is high and colorful. Its word paintings are susceptible of direct visualization, and the work has a movement that is free and purposeful. Seeing it will bring delight to as many people as can get within sight of the big Exposition Park stage, and reading it will bring joy to the fastidious lovers of letters the world around.

Assuredly, this looks like a tremendous order to fill, but Mrs. Goldsmith has once before proved her capacity for big out-of-door dramatic achievement in giving us two free nights of the "Nativity Mask," by Miss Ott, at Exposition Park in 1915, when a total of 50,000 people enjoyed the mammoth spectacle. Her present proposition is three times as big as the 1915 show and the funds provided are less than a third of what she had before, so the work is going forward at great sacrifice. Fifteen public-spirited men have made it possible, and at least forty-five others ought to help.

When you get down to the bedrock idea of this pageant, or of any other, the purpose is to ignite and extend the community spirit. This offering, "Son of the Southland," is remarkably adapted to that purpose. It not only carries a communicating enthusiasm for the riches of our fragrant fruitful Southland, but also voices and envisions the spirit of that great cause for which the civilized world now bleeds and on the success of which depends the freedom and the happiness of all lands for generations that yet sleep within the womb of time.

It is impossible to say how she does it, but Mrs. Goldsmith, in these undertakings always contrives to draw, within a golden circle of entertainment, about her some of the rarest and most talented exponents of every branch of stage art. This time she has dancers, actors, and singers of such distinction that it can be truly said that the Los Angeles public is getting a three-dollar entertainment for nothing.

For instance, the music is provided by such persons as Jerome Uhal, a grand opera baritone star of the first magnitude whose voice has a quality of sympathy that goes to the heart's core; and Carlos Bravo, a young robusto tenor with a voice of such power that to hear it in the open air is to visualize a golden flame with sparks that leap to the stars.

Mme. Aldrich, Miss May Nell, Miss Esta Kite and Miss Mary Gowan are also among the beautiful voices to be heard.

Among the men and women who will have conspicuous reading parts are Bert Hadley, Jack Cosgrove, Mrs. O. H. Morgan, representing Elks' Lodge 99; Jacques Sindore, H. Ellis Reed, Mrs. C. E. Ylolland, Mrs. S. B. Welcome, Mrs. M. E. Johnson, Mrs. J. Calderwood, Mrs. Viola Redman, Mrs. Reginald Knox, Miss Jessica Don Carlos, Mrs. George Kress, Mrs. L. Bancroft, Mrs. Florence Pierce Reed, Mrs. Chester Ashley, Lillian May Kahn, Dorothy Lyndall, Miss Mabel Hubbard, Miss Harriet Passmore, Mrs. O. T. Scherer, Miss Edith Leisk, Prof. K. S. Inui, representing Mr. Oyama, the Japanese Consul, James Bush, Miss Bertha Wilcox, Elizabeth Kervane, and Miss Theresa Cogswell.

Miss Cogswell has the leading role, "Son of the Southland," and has the figure, the voice, and the dramatic fervor to make the part wonderful. Miss Hubbard comes from Redlands to take the part of Joan d'Arc and brings her white charger with her. With her golden hair, perfect complexion, glorious singing voice and silver armor, she makes one of the most striking figures in pageantry.

The show is divided into three parts, "The Garden of Make-Believe," "The Legend of the Arrow," and "A World at Peace." Fifty lovely children are used for the "Garden of Make-Believe," which really takes the place of a one-act curtain raiser. Elks' Lodge 99 has furnished a big band of Indians for the "Legend of the Arrow" and the Denishawn School offers a number of talented people for the "Dances of the Earth." To these dances the Hollywood, Los Angeles, Polytechnic, Lincoln, and Manual Arts high schools have furnished groups of twenty-four dancers each, while the Boy Scouts and Uncle Sam have supplied the soldiers and the sailors.

SOME OF ELIZABETH MURRAY'S STORIES.

By virtue of the fact that she is a dialect comedienne, Elizabeth M. Murray has a fund of good stories that runs well over a thousand.

"It was Christmas Eve in camp, and very cold at that," she relates. "There was a certain amount of confusion, owing to the Yuletide festivities, and leave, and so forth, and one 'rookie' was unable to find any of his outer garments. He wandered about shivering, and asking all his mates if they knew where they were.

"'Has any one seen my b-b-blankets,' he demanded. No answer.

"'Has any one seen my t-t-trousers?' Again no answer.

"'Well, I'm jolly g-g-glad I have a n-nice w-w-warm pair of b-b-braces.'"

Says Miss Murray: "Mrs. M'Tavish met Mrs. Brown on a country road. The former was carrying a queer-looking parcel, and Mrs. Brown inquired as to its nature.

"'Oh, aye, it's just some ham for M'Tavish, I bought frae Sandy in the toon.'

"'Indeed so?' said Mrs. Brown. 'I'm thinkin' I'll be getting some.'

"Arrived in town, she called at Sandy's provision establishment and demanded a pound of ham.

"'What kind of ham wull ye be wanting?' asked Sandy.

"'Oh, the same kind of ham that you serve Mrs. M'Tavish wi'.'

"'Aw, reet!' whispered Sandy; 'whaur's your bottle?'"

But one story that Miss Murray delights most in telling is about Elmer, the ebony-hued poker expert. Elmer was haled into court on a charge of assault as a result of a poker game.

"'Hit's jus' this here way, Mistah Judge,' he explained," said Miss Murray. "'Me an' seben other gen'men wuz a-playin' poker all quiet and 'specterble. I wuz layin' fer de gang to make a killin'. I already had three aces an' wuz waitin' fer d' foth to roll roun.' Sure 'nuff, here she comes soon, and I was just d' same as countin' all dat money mah own—and den I diskivered some fool niggah had et mah sandwich. Den it wuz dat I riz up an' fight.'

"'But what did you want to make such a fuss over a sandwich for?' asked the magistrate. 'Couldn't you get another one for a dime?'

"'Yezzir, I guess I could, boss—but not like dat one. You see, dat sandwich of mine, what some niggah et when I wuzn't lookin' was d' one where I wuz er keepen' dem three aces.'"

MENU OF WEEK ON THE SCREEN.

times border on the risque, the exquisite manner of presentation and the moral pointed out removes all possibility of offending even the most prudish. Since leaving Paramount for Universal, Miss Murray has appeared in two big productions, the last of which was "Face Value," which created a furore at the Superba a few months ago. "The Bride's Awakening" is hailed as the star's biggest Universal production so far.

Miller's.

William Farnum's latest, best and most entertaining photoplay, "True Blue," is to be shown at Miller's for one week, beginning today. Here is what the management says is the real pictorial treat of the season for everyone. It has all the elements which go to make a popular William Farnum play. The hero is a red-blooded westerner, strong in mind and body. He faces not merely physical dangers, but those insidious temptations which tend to make even a strong man weak—the lure of wealth, the love of woman, the spur of jealousy that sometimes brings out a yellow streak in one whom everybody believes to be "true blue."

How the hero conquers all complications and resists temptations until he reaps a just reward in the end makes the story.

Symphony.

"Blindfolded," a thrilling crook play, starring Bessie Barriscale, will be the coming week's feature at the Symphony. It is declared to be out of the range of the usual underworld plays, and to contain many unique features from the standpoint of plot, suspense of interest and acting. "Blindfolded" is woven around the life of Peggy Muldoon, the adopted daughter of Patrick Muldoon, who is well known among crooks as "The Ear" because of his remarkable powers of hearing. Before the opening of the story, Patrick Muldoon is blinded by a premature explosion of nitroglycerine while he is robbing a safe. From this time on he educates Peggy into believing that there is no wrong in robbing the rich, and trains her in all the cleverness of the art of safebreaking, which has made him famous. She progresses to such an extent that "The Ear's" men depend entirely upon her for a living, and she becomes the leader of the gang.

Garrick.

Douglas Fairbanks comes to the Garrick today for a week's engagement in "The Matrimaniac," one of his mile-a-minute laugh fests that is said to be a sure cure for any despondent ailments. Constance Talmadge is Fairbanks's leading woman in this production. "The Matrimaniac" contains a highly interesting plot, in which Fairbanks has the role of an easy-go-lucky fellow who takes things as they come and gets the most out of life without working too hard to find it. Constance Talmadge has the role of Fairbanks's sweetheart, and how the two become mixed in complicated situations, only to extricate themselves as easily as they enter, will cause a flood of laughter from the first foot of film to the last.

Riviera.

Is a minister's daughter immune from sin? Is a drunken debaucher worth risking your life for? These are only two of the perplexing questions that are asked and answered in "Old Hartwell's Cub," William Desmond's latest production, which comes to the Riviera for a week's engagement, starting today. Desmond has the role of a fighting blacksmith who is forced to battle—both verbally and physically—a whole village of reformers to uphold the honor of his family. The plot thickens when the blacksmith is rescued from a bloodthirsty mob by the new village minister, who takes his protege home, where he meets the clergyman's daughter. Mary Warren is the feminine star, while such Triangle players as Graham Pette, Eugene Burr, Dorothy Hager and Walt Whitman are in the supporting cast.

Alhambra.

George Walsh, the William Fox human dynamo, will be at the Alhambra for one week, beginning today, in a photoplay called "Brave and Bold," and it is promised that it is just the kind of George Walsh picture to keep his many admirers gasping, and also to make them forget all their little daily worries. The action is said to go at a mile-a-minute rate, and interwoven into it is a well-seasoned love tale. It is adapted from "Four-forty at Fort Penn," by Perley Poore Sheehan, and it is one of those stories that are well adapted to the "athletic thunderbolt." The other attraction on this fast-moving bill is the latest of the official war films released to the Alhambra, produced by the British government under the title of "Britain's Bulwarks."

Palace.

Douglas Fairbanks and William S. Hart will be the stars of the coming week's bill at the Palace, while the Christie comedy, "Their Honeymoon Baby," will be an added attraction. The exponent of laugh and live will be seen in his latest Artcraft production, "Mr. Fix It," a picture that fairly radiates with cheerfulness and mirthful moments, while the western star's vehicle will be "Taming the Four-Flusher," a western story of a bully who was cowed by a woman. "Mr. Fix It" is the story of the dull and grouchy ways of New York's society sets and shows "Doug" as a millionaire "swell," dressed in evening clothes and boiled shirts. "Taming the Four-Flusher" is said to be an extremely dramatic production that shows Hart in one of his famous western roles.

De Luxe.

The bill for the week at the De Luxe starts Sunday and Monday with Cecil B. DeMille's masterpiece, "The Whispering Chorus," the picture with an all-star cast; Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Judgment House," directed by J. Stuart Blackton, will be given; Thursday and Friday, Bessie Barriscale in her latest Paralta picture, "Blindfolded;" Saturday, Bryant Washburn in "Twenty-One," by George Randolph Chester. Bryant Washburn declares that this is his best picture.

EDUCATIONAL.

Dr. Harold L. Cleasby, connected with the Latin department of Syracuse University for the past ten years, has accepted a position in Hunter College, New York, where he will teach Latin and Greek. At Syracuse Dr. Cleasby has been especially interested in musical and dramatic affairs. He has composed several university songs and written numerous original classical plays which he has coached and produced for the Classical Club and for commencement exercises.

Presentation by Wellesley College of a 300-starred service flag to the town of Wellesley was one of the features of a patriotic parade held at the college. The parade, which took place on West Playground and the proceeds of which went to the Wellesley relief unit, was led by the freshmen and sophomores dressed in regulation sport costumes. The juniors, dressed in white, followed. The seniors marched in academic costume, and members of the faculty wore their academic robes.

"MOTHER SHIPS."

Big Vessels in an Irish Port Attend to All the Wants of Their Charges.

There are two mother ships attached to our destroyer flotilla in an Irish port, a mother ship and—shall we say?—a grandmother ship. This not in irreverence, but affection. The latest is so much younger, has learned so much from the older generation, and—well, really she is a wonder. Take Park & Tilford's, Wanamaker's and Brown & Sharpe's and roll them into one, add a cold storage warehouse and a few such inconsidered trifles as an arsenal, a hospital and a torpedo store and you will have a few of the flagship's features.

If only she had towed a floating dock along she would amount to an automobile naval base. I am sure there is nothing that they have not got on board that they could not make on board; nothing, that is, that the most exacting destroyer could possibly need after four days at sea, or six months at sea on active service. A boat that wants patching or refitting has only got to nuzzle up alongside when she comes in and, forthwith, she has all attention. The foundry can make her a casting up to nearly a ton in weight and, in the machine shop, there is no casting nor steel bar but can be turned into the wanted fitting while you wait.

You don't have to wait very long, either. It is a factory in which there are no union rules or eight-hour days; the work is done as it is wanted, quickly. There is steam up day and night and Sunday is no exception. The mother ship, of course, is not all stores and toil and warlike work. There is a superb canteen where the American bluejackets—lucky fellows!—can still buy candy to spoil their teeth and tooth paste to clean them with afterward, and almost everything else, for that matter, the palate can wish for, or the stomach crave, or the mind of the seafaring man desire.

If he wants more kit than the regulations provide, the best can be bought at cost. There is only one department not equal to its task—the postoffice was never designed for so large a fleet at sea, or for the big reserve camp forming on the hill above us. It was the only untidy thing in the flagship; and it was hopeless to try and keep it tidy. I expect it will be banished to the beach.—[A. H. Pollen in Collier's Weekly.

be were the volumes of choking smoke rolling from three sides of the auditorium. But just at this moment some enthusiastic stage hand touched off a particularly lively smoke-pot down in the orchestra pit, just at Miss Talmadge's feet. Up bellowed the smoke in dark, nauseous clouds, and down went the select star for the count.

Half suffocated and entirely unconscious, Miss Talmadge was quickly carried to the wing and revived, and a little while later the filming of the picture went on, with one stage hand less on the company's pay roll than there had been a half hour before.

Wanted a Simple Pearl.

Like many other actors, Sessue Hayakawa receives requests constantly for all sorts of things.

"If I were to comply with the numerous requests for a lock of my hair," he said the other day while discussing the matter, "I'd have to lay off and devote myself to raising hair." One young lady admirer writes the Japanese actor asking for his discarded silk shirts, which she says she will utilize for sofa cushions, and another asks for old cravats, which she will convert into "crazy curtains," whatever they may be.

"But here's one that tops them all," said Hayakawa, as he exhibited a letter from a writer living in a western city. Said writer tells Hayakawa of her admiration for him in his picture, "Hidden Pearls," and says her gratitude will know no bounds if he will only send her "one of the pearls as a souvenir!"

Robinson a Hun Hound.

Carlyle Robinson, formerly with Charlie Chaplin as publicity man, has left off shooting stuff into newspapers, and has started training to shoot stuff into the Huns. He left for Fort McDowell, last week, and has been replaced by James Tynan, formerly with Roscoe Arbuckle.

Ethel Clayton Among Us.

Ethel Clayton, famous film star, arrived in Los Angeles the other day and visited the Lasky studio, where she will begin work about June 1 on her first Paramount picture.

In the meantime, Miss Clayton, who is in need of rest and relaxation following the death of her late husband, Joseph Kauffman, is taking short motor trips about Southern California, recuperating for her work.

Society Note.

Vivian Martin is making preparations to leave the Southland for a two months' vacation at Lake Louise, near Banff, in the Canadian Rockies.

Light Fantastic Item.

For the first time in the history of the organization, the Lasky studio of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation will be thrown open to the public on the night of June 8, when the dance and bazaar for the benefit of the studio folks at home fund takes place.

Last Tuesday noon, Cecil B. de Mille, director-general of the corporation, addressed the 600 employees at the studio, stating the purpose of the folks at home fund, which is to provide money for the families of men who go into military service from the studio. The response was enthusiastic on the part of the Lasky people, and the dance and bazaar is sure to stand out as one of the big events of filmdom. Picture fans will have a chance to see their favorites at close range and also to dance with them. For they'll all be there—Mary Pickford, Wally Reid, Ann Little, Clara Kimball Young, Ethel Clayton, Theodore Roberts, Douglas Fairbanks, Fatty Arbuckle, Charlie Chaplin, Charles Ray, Enid Bennett and so on. In fact, a recital of the names of those who will be present sound like a who's who of West Coast filmdom.

The Lasky studio has eighty-two men at the front, and the big entertainment is for the benefit of the families of these men. After Mr. de Mille's stirring address to the studio employees on Tuesday, Jesse Lasky announced that he would add 5 per cent. to the amount raised at the benefit.

Bill Hart has promised to run his Wild West bar and serve the drinks himself. But—oh, me, the drinks will all be soft.

Tells About the Stars.

A lively and neat little sheet is The Leader, a paper recently established in this city, devoted to the interests of the picture business. The Leader is regular newspaper size and contains four pages, which are ornamented with tasteful and attractive portraits of the best-known picture stars.

Culture Note.

What a lot of good people feel has been a long-felt want was filled when a reading-room for motion-picture actors was established last week in a large building opposite the Griffith studio on Sunset boulevard. Here the weary picture actor may find mental entertainment all the way from the current magazines to "Young's Night Thoughts," from the Police Gazette to the Prudie Parlin books. Credit for the achievement goes to those enterprising young men, the editors of The Camera, a weekly publication devoted to film interests.

Olive Flirts with Muse.

The Triangle poets at Culver City are now on their second lap in the heated contest of verse. This one was run through an ordinary typewriter between scenes and is the work of Olive Thomas:

"O pity the legless pencil man,
Who sits in the wintry storm,
But still we can envy him some, I guess—
His feet are middling warm."

Just Retribution Note.

Retribution swift and sure descended upon a man and woman who witnessed "My Four Years in Germany" at Clune's Auditorium the other night. The pair had failed to applaud, and were therefore objects of suspicion from all their neighbors seated round about. Finally, the man got up in the middle of an exciting scene and started to walk out. But he had forgotten about those tricky little steps, and over he went on his nose. His wife was close behind him, and tripping on the next stair, followed suit. Wild huzzahs of joy, needless to say, arose from spectators who had been neighbors to the pair, as, crest-fallen, their blushes illuminating even the dark auditorium, they picked themselves up and walked out.

Theda Bara Held Up.

Theda Bara, Fox star, who returned last week from visiting her godsons at Camp Kearny, relates that as she was bowling along comfortably in her car in a lonely spot just outside of San Diego, two men, apparently armed, sprang in front of the machine and bade her chauffeur stop.

"I felt sure it was a hold-up," said Miss Bara, "but the man told my chauffeur he was a customs official, and must search my baggage.

"'But that is Miss Theda Bara inside, and I wish you wouldn't annoy her,' expostulated the chauffeur. 'Well, I gotta see,' declared the official. He opened the door, took a look and apologized. 'Well, as I'm alive, if it ain't,' he exclaimed. 'Well, Miss Bara, I'm sure you ain't got any German spies or any contraband concealed about your car, so I'll wish you good day.'"

Believed in Signs.

"Are you superstitious?" a young lady asked Charlies Chaplain, the other day.

"Well," admitted Chaplain, "I am in a way. For instance, I think it's bad luck to be run over by a hearse."

Mabel Came Through.

Raymond Hitchcock's country estate at Great Neck, L. I., was the scene of splendid military review recently when the actor turned out the Home Guard, of which he is a major, in honor of Mabel Normand, who come to Quinn's Rialto today in "Joan of Plattsburg." At the conclusion of the review Mr. Hitchcock informed Miss Normand that she had been elected to the guard. Pressed for details, the comedian explained to the comedienne that on state (or stated) occasions it devolves upon a female member of the guard to supply large quantities of cake and lemonade for refreshments. Mabel, like the good sport she is, declared she felt highly honored, and went through her part of it like a major.

He was Scared.

When Eugene Burr, who plays the part of Arizona Ed in the Triangle picture, "Old Hartwell's Cub," at the Riviera this week, read in the script that he would have to engage in a fist fight with Bill Desmond, he suggested to Directod Thomas N. Heffron that he make it a chase instead of a battle. Heffron insisted on the fight scene, and Burr had to take a whipping that kept him out of pictures for a couple of weeks.

Poor Little Josie.

Josie Sedgwick, Triangle leading woman, who has won laurels in the support of Roy Stewart, cowboy favorite, is seriously ill at her Hollywood home. Miss Sedgwick is suffering from a severe attack of the grip.

Piscatorial Item.

William Desmond, of the Triangle, declares that Darrell Foss, leading man at the Culver City studio, is a "bum" actor. Investigation shows that Foss recently fished a trout stream ahead of Desmond; taking out twenty-seven rainbow trout, while Desmond landed but three; hence the attack on Foss's histrionic ability.

Sequel to Tarzan Finished.

This week will see the completion of the sequel to "Tarzan of the Apes." Wilfred Lucas and Bess Meredyth have been the co-directors of this feature, which, announces Studio Manager Isadore Bernstein, is being completed in the exact number of days predicted by him. Harry Vallejo is the man to receive credit for the expert photography seen in this picture.

Geographical Distinction Item.

Bill Parsons sat on the steps of the picturesque building which houses the office of the National Film Corporation at Santa Monica boulevard and Gower street. He wore a cap which completely covered the Parsons baldness; he wore amber glasses through which only a partial brightness of the light that lies in the Parsons eyes could be seen. Vaguely he resembled some one. Samuel Goldfish, who was a visitor at the plant, at that moment guessed "Bill Taft." Isadore Bernstein, manager of the National Film Corporation, Director Al Santell, Elmo Lincoln and others each tried to place the resemblance. Finally some one ventured, "Jimmy Quirk of the Photoplay Magazine," and everybody else agreed.

Lest, however, Mr. Quirk begin to worry about his figure upon reading this, let us add the resemblance between himself and Mr. Parsons is facial only.

Not Married—So There.

"Please deny that I am married."

Thus Alma Rubens, Triangle star, disposes of the reports, rumors and guesses which have been rife along the Rialto of late. So persistent has been Dame Grundy in linking Miss Rubens's name with wedding bells and orange blossoms that several newspapers throughout the country have kept the film fans guessing with stories headed, "Is Alma Rubens Married?"

As a result of the published reports, Miss Rubens has been deluged with letters and pestered early and late with telephone calls. Many friends and scores of admirers have sent their congratulations, and Miss Rubens has been kept busy telephoning, wiring and writing that all the felicitations are premature.

"I am not married, have made no plans to be married, and, in fact, have not even remotely considered the question of matrimony," is the emphatic way in which Miss Rubens is disposing of the wedding story.

Noah's Ark Stuff.

Those lions acquired by the Fox Company, which have been used to play tragic roles, have turned into comedians, and Henry Lehrman is using them this week in the making of a new comedy.

The lion was used in a scene which was made on the tracks near the Salt Lake station the other day. An old lady, waiting for her train, strayed out into the realm of picture making. She directed her gaze with that of the crowd. She saw the lion on top of a car.

"My lord," she gasped, "what's the matter?"

"Why," exclaimed a Fox actor who happened to be standing near, "that's nothing. They didn't have room inside the baggage car for the lion, so they're going to let him travel on top, that's all."

"Well, I just hope I don't have to travel in that car, that's all I've got to say," gasped the little old lady, as she gathered up her skirts and went away from there.

Fatty's Latest.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle has completed his eleventh hilarious screen farce, "Good Night, Nurse," to be released by Paramount. The rotund comedian believes there is nothing like realism even in the broadest of farces, so he took his entire company to a famous Southern California health resort, Arrowhead Hot Springs, to film the proper locations.

Here are some of the things you will laugh at in Good Night, Nurse."

Did you ever try to light a cigarette in a blinding rainstorm? Fatty will show you how in "Good Night, Nurse."

If you are afraid to go to a sanatorium, Fatty's laughable experiences in one will remove your fears.

The funny dreams which ether brought to Fatty.

Fatty disguised as a female nurse, and, last but not least, Fatty making love to a girl who believes everybody is crazy but herself.

Majestic.

For the first time in the history of Los Angeles motion picture exhibition, a production moves from a smaller house into one of more capacity. For two weeks "Carmen of the Klondike" has been packing them in at Quinn's Rialto, and a third week for Reginald Barker's big production has been arranged at the last minute for the Majestic Theater, at Eighth and Broadway. The big production is too well known now to need any more descriptive heralding. It has made a triumphant hit at the Rialto, and Clara Williams, Herschall Mayall and Edward Coxen have loomed brightly on the picture star sky ever since they first appeared in the picture. The Majestic will now house the production for a third and last week, beginning today at 2:15.

THE HIGH COST OF MUD.

Financial Loss of $200,000,000 Annually Because of Poor Roads.

Power costs money to the farmer and to everyone else who must draw loads over our roads. A scientific investigation of the power required to move loads over various kinds of roads discloses some interesting results. To draw a load over a concrete road in an ordinary farm wagon required a pull of 27.6 pounds per ton of gross load. Over a road of asphaltic oil and screenings top over a concrete base the pull was 49.2 pounds; good water-bound macadam, 64.3 pounds; good gravel road, 78.2 pounds; dry dirt road, 92 pounds; dirt with mud on top, but firm underneath, 218 pounds; fresh gravel, 263 pounds. No deep mud was available at the time and place and test was made, so that we can only guess what power would have been required.

The difference in power required between good roads and poor is power wasted. The loss is borne not alone by the farmer, but by all of us who consume farm products and who pay to have them hauled to us. When the roads are wet and heavy the farmer can haul but one-eighth of the load to town that he could haul if a first-rate road were available. The United States Office of Public Roads estimates the national excess bill for hauling because of poor roads at $200,000,000 annually.

Mud slows up the business of the entire nation. Dull seasons are the seasons of mud when the farmer cannot get to town with his produce, cannot transact business, so that the business of the town suffers and consequently the business of the nation. Mud means lost time, for the farmer must spend hours instead of minutes upon the road, must make many trips instead of few. Our present need is to turn the power and time now lost into productive channels. To do it we must improve our roads.

Authentic.

THE STUDIO SCENE IN "BLIND YOUTH."

The studio scene in "Blind Youth," which Lou Tellegen will play here on his first appearance as an English-speaking actor-manager, is the real thing. Mr. Tellegen assures the public it is a faithful reproduction of the young actor's home when he was a struggling sculptor in Paris.

Before his career as an actor, the famous stage lover was first a student with Constantin Meunier, the famous Belgian sculptor, and later, for an entire year and a half he lived under the same roof with Rodin at Prasse, as his only pupil. America also knows somewhat of Mr. Tellegen's work as a sculptor, for in 1910 he had an exhibition of his work at St. Louis.

"There is no city in the wide world for the artist like Paris," explains Mr. Tellegen. "There the artist, no matter how unsuccessful, how poor, how unrecognized, or how mistaken in his talents, is loved and respected by the populace. The doors of every salon are open to him no matter how badly dressed he is. The Parisians have the same respect for the artist as the people of the East have for their prophets. Just as Paris is the darling of the cities, so the artist is the darling of Paris.

"As accurately as I could remember the details of my studio in Paris, I have reproduced them in the first scene in 'Blind Youth.' That grotesque drawing on the wall, for instance, looking back on my artist days, the time an artist friend of mine came in. Snatching a crayon from the table he drew that head in less than a second, threw down his pencil in despair and said it was the last drawing he was going to make. He was going back to America to work in his father's glove factory. Yes, I drew the head on the stage wall myself this time, and I must admit it is almost as bad as the one he drew. That old-fashioned wooden sink, the bed behind the curtains that would not hide it, the cupboard—they are all exactly like the ones in Paris.

"The characters, too," here Lou Tellegen, the playwright spoke, "are also drawn true to life, as I have known them in Paris. Oh, the vampire? Have I known her, too, true to life? Or, was it Willard who knew her? Oh, well, we'll answer that. But she, too, is drawn true to life; there is no question about that."

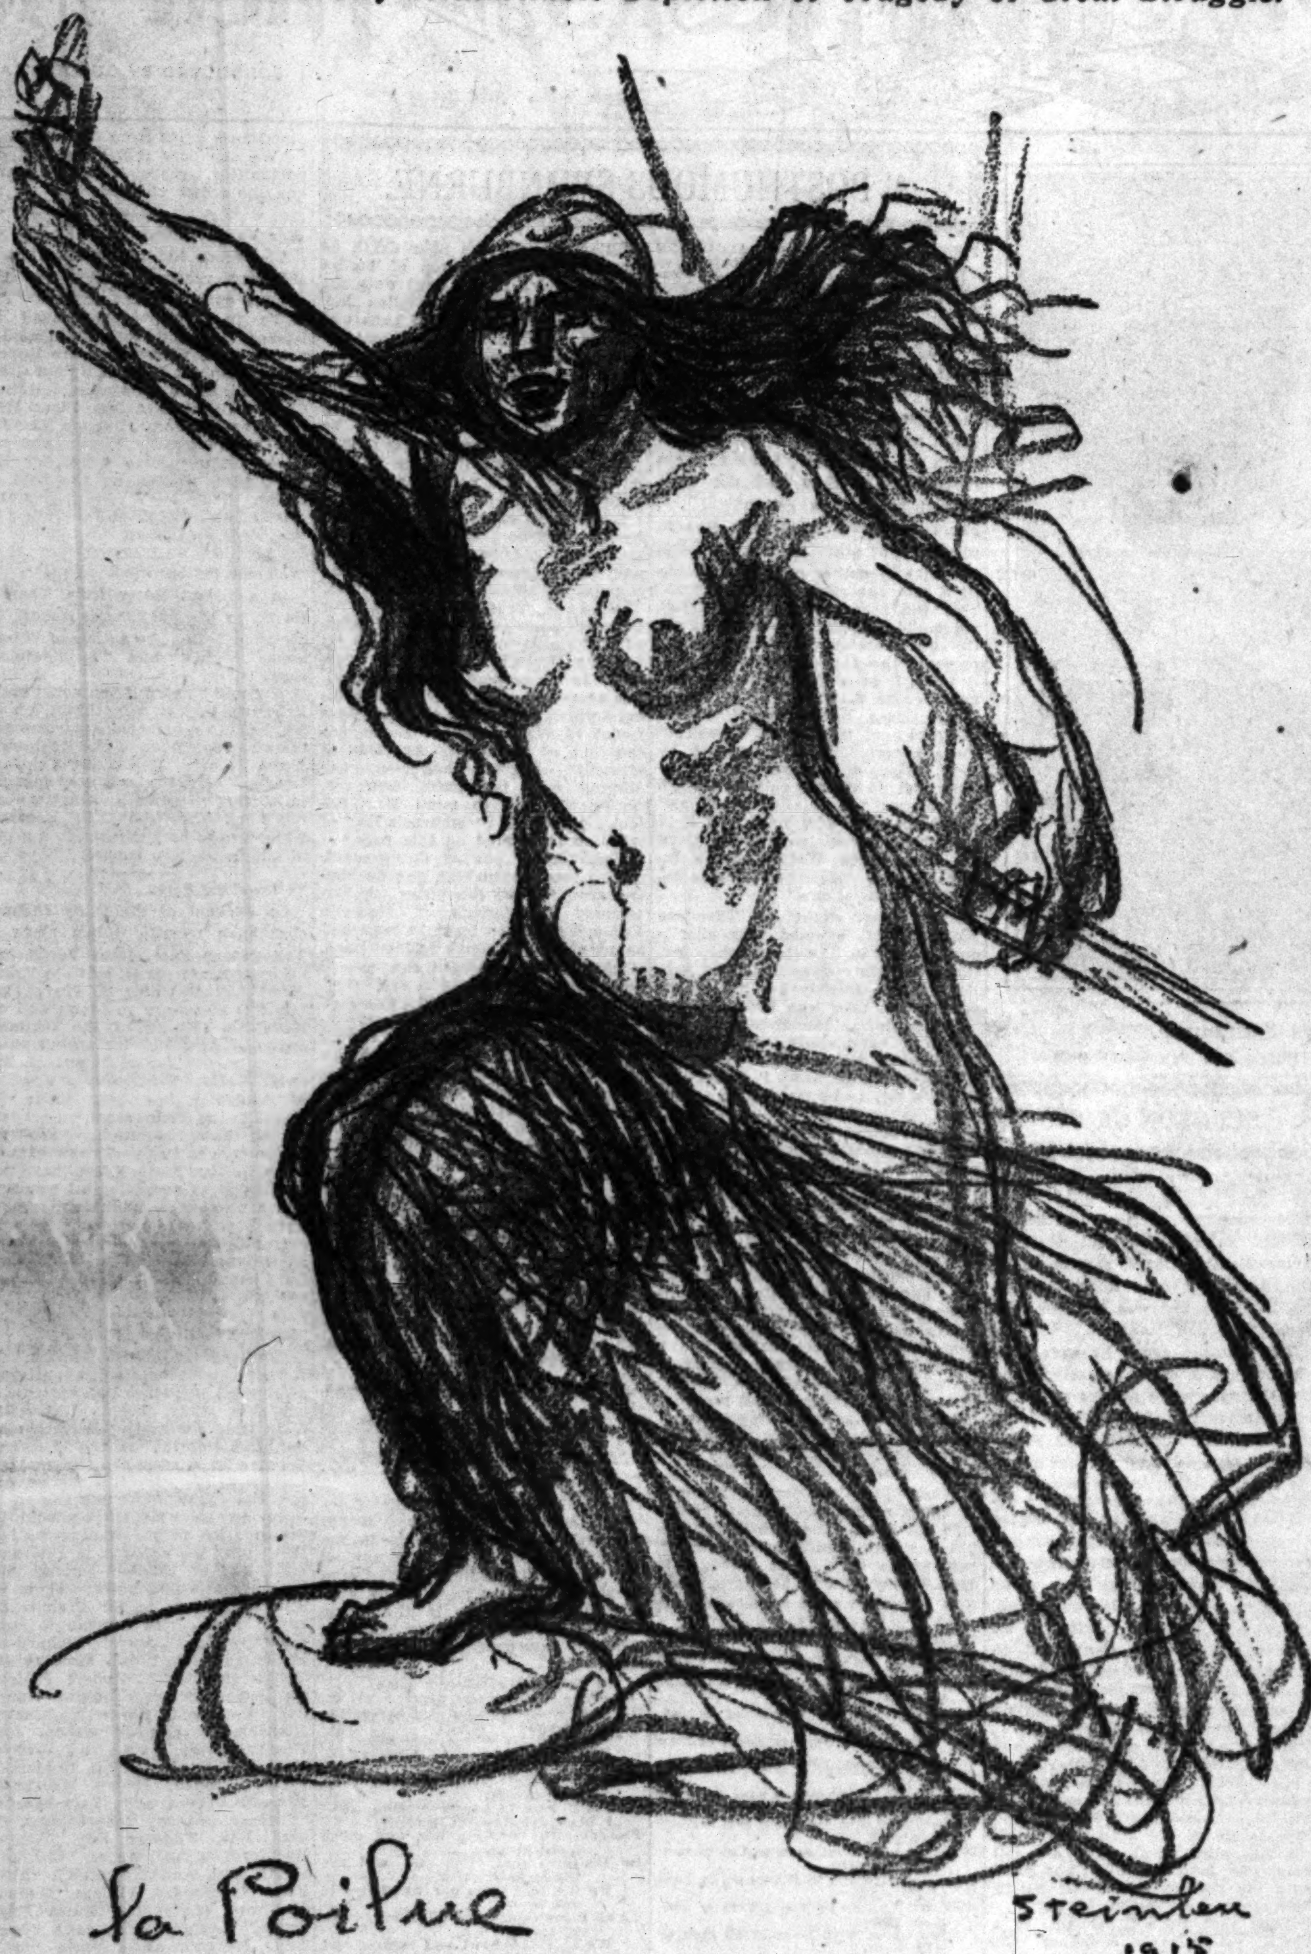
By this I do imply that the subjects drawing. They are, in more conventional and many of them will bear long study. Now and then there is a symbolic figure, beautifully constructed (as in the case of the spirit of France and the nude study;) and these pictures have an intrinsic value aside from their representation.



"Le Poilu," by Steinlen.

This reproduction from the original reveals the French artist as a realist, his picture being a snatch of tense drama, caught with sincerity and strength.

But Steinlen is primarily a realist and his most attractive works are these pictures which reveal some actual phase of the war—a snatch of tense drama, a cross section of suffering and grief, a reminiscence, a group of children, a suggested tragedy, a street scene, a bit of sardonic humor (as in the almost ghoulish "Veuves d'un Louis,") a band of refugees, a singing throng of soldiers. . . . There is sincerity and strength in all these drawings. Twelve of them are originals, and the others are lithographic reproductions of a perfection rarely seen in this country.

A MODERN DORE.

De Groux, represented by fourteen fairly large reproductions, belongs to an older school of draughtsmanship than Forain and Steinlen. His work is of the more finished, meticulous type. De Groux is a kind of modern Gustav Dore, and he has followed that famous illustrator with intelligent understanding. The present lithographs (magnificent specimens of their kind, with original signatures) are well filled in with close hashures, and reveal a serious and competent worker. Two of the after-battle scenes are splendid arrangements of black and white masses; and in No. 242, De Groux shows his ability to compose with the modern abbreviations. In all these pictures there is a conscientious attempt to carry illustration into the higher realms of pure art, and, as a result, the work itself is more interesting than the subject-matter.

A man who stands nearer to De Groux than to the school of Forain and Steinlen, is Paul Renouard, who exhibits two aqua forte studies. We should like to have had more engravings from Renouard, for his work is highly effective as illustration, and though not competently composed, is beautifully and sensitively drawn. These two pictures show us two groups of wounded soldiers, and our own illustrators could learn an excellent lesson in contrast by studying the different poses and types of expression which go into these groups.

FRANKNESS OF PANN.

Abel Pann, who, perhaps is better known as a cartoonist than as an artist of serious pretensions, presents several pictures of widely varying theme and manner. His fantastic portrait of Joffre is little more than an effective newspaper cartoon, well done and uniquely conceived; while his two large engravings showing the herding of the refugees are quite remarkable as serious pictures. The upstanding one is particularly well massed.

The pictures of Pann, however, which undoubtedly will attract most attention are three colored lithographs—"Une Victime" (erroneously translated "A Victory" in the catalogue,) "In Galicia" and "The Woman Soldier." One cannot look at these three pictures and forget them quickly. For their suggestion of downright horror they surpass anything in the collection; and they are more brutally frank than any other pictures on view.

The artist with the greatest number of frames to his credit, both in originals and reproductions, is Lucien Jonas. His pictures for the most part are clever, capable, astonishing, apt, and at all times sure of themselves. Jonas is master of his medium, and many of his works are so perfectly and completely finished, so carefully done and with such infinite detail, that they look, at a short distance, like glorified photographs.

GREAT ILLUSTRATIONS.

As a sheer illustrator, and as an accurate reproducer of subjects, Jonas has no equal in the exhibition, and few equals outside of it. Compared with him the best of our American magazine illustrators are almost juvenile, so crude is their drawing and so unfinished in their technique by contrast with the surety and polish of this Frenchman. Jonas is lacking in what the cartoonist and the satirist call "ideas"—that is, there are no trick captions in his work, no curious abortive dramas, no poignant sidelights on the erring human mind. This type of work is not his forte, as it is Forain's and, to a certain extent, Steinlen's. Jonas depends for his effect upon accuracy and tonal completion, on close and painstaking drawing; and let it be said that he achieves his effect with no slight degree of mastery.

His most finished works are among his lithographs, some of which are colored by Jonas himself with striking effect; but in the numerous originals are to be found many forceful and impressive studies. "The Starving Belgians" (No. 307,) is particularly fine and compelling in its drama of human emotions; the drawing of the young German guard is like a portrait, and an unforgettable one. "The Servians" (No. 323,) is simple and yet powerful in its direct appeal, for it sums up the tragedy of a whole people. "The Conquest of a Bavarian Flag" (No. 333,) reveals Jonas as a competent, modern, capable of achieving wonders in compact design with a rigid economy of means. The two struggling figures in this colored drawing are more than the participants in a grim hand-to-hand struggle for a symbol of idealism; they have an intrinsic significance of esthetic value, which intensifies the drama and lifts the picture far above the ruck of mere tense and grewsome representation. It is in "The Cold" (No. 338,) however, that Jonas, the sublimated illustrator, becomes Jonas, the artist. This last picture is Jonas's finest offering, as well as his simplest. It shows merely a soldier leaning on his gun in a wilderness of snow, but its rugged, direct strength, is like a piece of sculpture—a plastic mass chiseled out of gray stone.

POULBOT'S CHILDREN.

The gayest humor of the show is furnished by the inimitable Poulbot, who is as far removed as possible from Jonas, both in execution and conception. Many have made unsuccessful attempts to imitate Poulbot, among them Marechaux, many of whose lithographic reproductions are also on view.

Poulbot seems to be the one artist who has managed, in the midst of devastating and soul-staggering experiences, to view the war with a light heart and a whimsical, unsullied mind. Most of his pictures have to do with the fantastic and unserious make-believe of children, especially those forlorn little urchins who have been caught in the sweep of war, and who know the rigors and terrors of military domination. Some of the pictures reveal those new grim games of war and death which the children of Europe have, during the past few years, founded on the tales their elders have told and on the sights their own uncomprehending eyes have beheld.

In most of Poulbot's drawings is something of the mock seriousness of childhood, coupled with an often frightful, but unconscious humor which, when contrasted with the realities of which the children are innocent, produce a strange and not seldom fascinating type of irony. There is a new kind of war smile in the picture of the little gamin, about to be trounced by his mother, holding up his hands and crying: "Mamma! Kamerade! Kamerade!" And there is an original touch to the picture of two serious waifs profoundly regarding a dead crow which seems to have died in convulsions, while one of them comments: "He must have eaten some Boche."

But Poulbot does not count alone on theme or idea; he fits his drawing remarkably well to his subjects. His children have individuality, and he is at all times clever in his characterizations. He has taken one limited field of war humor, and he has developed it to a unique point. In his particular brand of light comedy he stands alone.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS.

The famous Raemakers (of whom Maximilian Harden said when he had made only a few drawings: "He is worth to the Allies at least two army corps,") is represented in the present exhibition by what is perhaps the best collection of reproductions of his work in existence, as well as by twenty-four original drawings. Raemakers has done the most telling cartoons of the war, and his conceptions have given the propaganda of the Allies a tremendous impetus.

This fearless Hollander is easily the foremost cartoonist of the war, and his drawings not only are criticisms and indictments, but they constitute a pictorial record of the war. Raemakers belongs to the Forain-Lautrec-Legrand school, and his best works have the power which comes alone from clearly-visualized and succinctly-stated ideas. The originals on view differ greatly and seem almost to run the gamut of Raemaker's talents. "Hohenzollern's Track" (No. 121,) is colossal in conception, whereas "The German Prisoners" (No 105,) attracts solely by its execution; as a study of German types it is remarkable.

There are many other interesting exhibits of which space forbids complete enumeration. Among them may be mentioned a large original pastel in color by Chaineux, the official painter of the Army Museum. A tragic story attaches to this picture. Chaineux, a famous Parisian academician, had his right arm blown off, was taken prisoner and spent eight months in a German hospital. Later he was an exchange prisoner, and his present picture, done with his left hand, shows the exchange of prisoners in Switzerland—an experience through which he himself passed.

Then there are three engravings and a lithograph by George Scott, the chief illustrator of L'Illustration. Scott's work is delicate and pretty, and has evolved from the school of Detaille. Berne-Bellecourt is an illustrator of similar inspiration. He is sketchy, and, like Scott, belongs to the Detaille tradition.

All in all, this exhibition is one which deserves our hearty support, not only because of the charitable appeal behind it, but also because of its inherent merit.

HAPPY THOUGHT CLUB
SYMPOSIUM.

IF THE Happy Thought Brass Band is to be uniformed in Harveyized union suit, it will not be necessary to send to Bethlehem or Pittsburgh for the equipment. At least two of the local firms specializing in structural steel have offered to armor the band at prices lower than those named by the Steel Trust or by Shears, Sawbuck & Co. The Quaker Iron Works went still further and asked permission to make a complimentary uniform for the Old Resident. They noted the wish of the pioneer for a replica of the massive suit of chain mail worn by Sir Launcelot at King Arthur's tin wedding. They submitted a blue print of this design and also of the substantial armor used by Roland while whistling for the crossing at Roncesvalles. They could equip the whole band in uniforms of these styles at the rate of $90 for Sir Launcelot pattern or $75 for Roland—per each.

The drawings submitted were shown at the symposium yesterday and were pawed over with interest by the members. Ignatz Paderewski, whose piano has been mounted on a truck as a unique feature of the band, did not know exactly how it would be for a piano player to go abroad in a suit of burglar-proof steel. He was positive he would not be able to play his instrument while wearing metal gauntlets. The notes would necessarily have a metallic sound.

The Cheerful Idiot suggested that the piano might be incorporated in an armored tank and prove a still more interesting feature, but Ignatz objected. He said that his music would be so muffled that it could not be heard and that as it was his piano that was the real attraction of the band, this would not be just to the audiences.

Prof. Watts Eaton Hughes sneered. It was his turn to sneer this time, the amourous blacksmith having sneered at the last symposium.

The professor said it had been stated that piano performers held high opinion of their abilities and now he was sure of it. "The trouble with Ignatz," explained the professor, "is that he has expansion of the conko or embellishment of the human bean. As a matter of fact, nine out of ten people who stop and listen to the band do so because of my masterly performances on the cornet, but I am not going around and talking about it."

"You hadn't better mention it," interrupted the Cheerful Idiot. "Everybody knows that my work with the solo cymbals is the hit of the band."

The Old Resident patted his trombone affectionately and said nothing.

He knew.

At the suggestion of Juniper Rickey, the iron works was invited to make up a suit like each of the designs submitted—the Sir Launcelot pattern to measure of the Old Resident and the Roland one to fit the form of Prof. Hughes. It was thought that individual creations would be preferred, and after Launcelot and Roland had tried out their suits others could be made up in renaissance of Tancred, Oliver, Rinaldo, King Arthur and other scrappy gents who wandered around in boiler plate.

When it came to measuring the Old Resident for his outfit the Cheerful Idiot suggested that the pioneer be padlocked into his bomb-proof retreat. "If you don't this Guinevere person will never give him time to play," he explained.

They finally compromised on a steel bolt that can be shot from either side.

It is hoped that the sample uniforms will be ready for exhibition at the next symposium and the collection will be complete when the band appears in connection with the celebration of the launching of the Ship of State on the Fourth of July. The members of the band will select their armored suits in connection with the historical characters they wish to represent. Marjorie Evelyn Heartsease, the sunny secretary, who wants to do a man's task and play the bastinado in the band, wishes to appear in the regalia of Sir Galahad.

"You're the first gal I had," whispered the Old Resident.

"Aw! go on you big stiff," murmured Marjorie, coyly.

Prof. Asa Hartz, the temporary director of the band, will probably be armored to represent Charlemagne. He has quite a mane to start with and as the Frankish emperor had a likely bunch of fireproof scrappers on his staff, it is fit that another leader should wear his accouterments.

Jess Willard is anxious to sign up as drum major of the band and if he is taken on he would be given a suit of armor plate that would leave him comparatively immune from attack. Even Fred Fulton would be disposed to leave him alone. Watch for the Happy Thought Band.

Director David Oliver Tobasco of the club studio reported that he was working on a composite film for Valisa Van Bush Vandevere, the baby Bernhardt. In it she appears as the changeling child of King Boonerges of Barnegat. In the first act she is David the shepherd boy, who was taken from the palace of his foster mother when the capital was sacked by the Bloody Ocapoda. Later she is found masking herself as a manicurist in the barber shop in the Hotel Nomdeguerre at Petits Pois. The young Prince Pom de Terre is in delicate health. His physician has advised him that he must take the manicure if he would live. He has taken the Keeley cure and the Kneipp cure already, but without relief.

So he starts forth — or maybe third.

In the course of his wanderings he comes upon the fair manicure in Petits Pois and when she takes his hand in her'n she trembles with passion. The beauteous Iwarda Chase—for as such was she masked—was a pretty fair palmist and she knew that she held the hand of either a prince or a faro dealer. In either case she could not lose, and so, when he sprang the one about her being a good fellow, she wobbled her glims in a way that got him quivering. That night he took her to the movies and bought her an oyster stew and the next day he was back to have his fins done over again. This goes on for some time and finally Armenius, a stalwart brakeman on the stockyards express, who has been hovering about the fair Iwarda, becomes jealous. The two men meet after hours one night in the barber shop and there is a desperate battle in which safety razors are drawn and the foam flies. In the excitement Iwarda escapes with the cash register and catches the night freight for Hoboken. From there she wires back to the Petits Pois Hospital for the survivor to meet her.

Which shall it be?

The next day the prince comes into her room as graceful as you please. He said he would be glad to marry her, but as he was a prince he couldn't exactly do that, but—

"Don't let that worry you," interrupted the fair girl. "I am a full-fledged princess in my own right and don't mind a little thing like that. I will live with you, but I cannot be your wife. I suppose I will have to marry an American wine agent.

So they clinched and lived unhappily ever afterward.

This play gives Valisa a wide latitude in costumes and permits her to disclose a few of the physical charms with which she is endowed. As the poor shepherd boy she wears a loud checked suit made in London, with black stripes down the trouser seams and a white satin vestee. Accompanying this are patent leather pumps and a green velour hat with an ostrich feather tip in it. She also has a wrist watch and a pint flask encased in leather from which to refresh herself. When she blossoms out as the manicure lady she gets a regular trousseau and comes to the barber shop the first morning in peacock-blue chiffon cut clear to the edge of the porous plaster which conceals a part of her fortune.

Iwarda is certainly there with the sunny togs, and the posters which are being designed for the production will make the eyes of the spectators pop with joy.

Some of the scenes have already been located and the company is now being assembled. The little angel vampire appears to even better advantage than as Digitalis in the tragedy of "Simons Says Thumbs Up."

Sum Noyes, the veteran cribbage player of the Palace Livery Barn, was around for a few moments yesterday and wished to be remembered to Col. Berori Toot in his "Sweetly Solemn Thought" collection. Comrade Noyes made a noise like this:

"One sweetly solemn thought
Comes to me o'er and o'er,
The green goods I have bought,
Have oft been sold before."

This opened up the activities of the symposium and several members clamored for the speaker's eye. Knoxon Wood, the refined terminologist of Mt. Baldy, sang himself to sleep with this soothing morsel:

"One sweetly solemn thought
Comes to me o'er and o'er,
The mischief I have wrought,
Will haunt me ever more."

* * *

Ima Raven, the Riverside roisterer, whose poetic license was witnessed by Mary Mee and Som Wish, came up to the trough with this parcel:

"One sweetly solemn thought
Comes to me more and more,
The man that Daisy caught
Paid for the duds she wore."

This same Raven puts up a fragment in the entry book of limericks of names and places. It rattles a bit like this:

"There was a tough fellow named Mann,
Thought slacking a very good plan,
But when they found out
He would make a good scout
To his slacking they tied a tin can."

Happy Daze, the reformed burglar, who now makes a living by writing home for money, is sometimes able to write literature on the side. In one of his amiable moods he grunted this little wheeze:

"There was an old fellow named Lawrence
Who held all sin in abhorrence;
When pinched as a felon
For stealing a melon,
The tears from his eyes came in torrents."

Lady Lou Mont Royal, the Verdugo Valley vestal, came whinnying to the barrier with this treasure in her capacious stocking:

"There was a young fairy named Laura
Who wished that she might have been Nora.
Tho' often called Cora,
She answered to Mora—
On the stage she is still Floradora."

Prof. Pendennis Whiffletree, the bald-headed eagle of Cinnamon Gulch, was also numbered among those present. For the entertainment of the company he warbled this ditty to the tune: "What is Home Without a Scandal?"

"There was a wild man of Manhattan,
Who made up his mind to learn Latin;
But to him it seemed Greek,
And he spent a whole week
In finding a new way to Patton."

J. G. Fortunatus, the wizard of the Oboe, was rescued as he was about to go down for the third time. When hung on a picket fence to dry this team of limericks leaked from him:

"There was a young damsel named Iska
Who boasted that no man had kissed her.
She really felt blue,
'Cause she wanted them to,
But one look at her face, and they missed her.

There was an old fellow named Izor
Who was counted a close-fisted miser,
But when asked to buy bonds
To help right Hunnish wrongs
He said, 'I give all, damn the Kaiser!'"

Seymour Seltz, the young warbler of Moneta, was able to cough up this morsel:

"There was a lithe lady of Lynn,
Who was most distressingly thin.
She dodged in a tube
To hide from a rube—
She was only a bone and some skin.

John Godfrey Fortuna, the Long Beach telemachus, came bravely to the fore with a glistening string of beads, from which these gems were carelessly plucked:

"There was an old lady named Gunn
Who never had had any fun,
So she donned hubby's pants
And got over to France,
And the next day she shot down a Hun."

"There was an old man named Howe Green,
The fattest that ever was seen;

He'd sit on a mat,
Would this great lump of fat,
And in front of a mirror would preen.

"There was a young fellow named Harry,
Whose gold was too heavy to carry,
So to lighten his load
He said, 'I'll be blowed,
But I think I shall just have to marry.'"

"There was a young lady named Hannah,
And no rest would she give the piano;
But young brother tease
Put a mouse on the keys,
And it took all the neighbors to fan her."

Hattie Harrison Shiner, the clever little Clio of Claremont, who is a recent comer to the studio, said that she had a little offering which was taken down by her amenuensis as she sobbed it in her sleep. When opened with a Yale key and laid on the table it seemed slightly like this:

Flying Jones.

Deacon Jones and his wife Lucile,
Bought a kite with a steering wheel,
A gasoline engine, seats for two;
They heard the instructions, quite a few;
While the agent talked till his face grew thin,
The deacon smiled and stroked his chin.

With a running jump, a buzzing wheeze,
The thing shot up and caught the breeze;
It tried the "dip" with a sudden rush
The air semed stirred like a pot of mush.
Where his head was set, Jones did not know,
'Till he felt the wind through his whiskers blow.

As Jones stood, mended, on a stack of hay,
And watched a bird sail far away,
As though to fly were the easiest thing
If the head has brains that go with wings;
His thoughts were deep, though his hair was thin,
As he sadly gazed and stroked his chin.

Jot Woof, the amorous blacksmith of Anaheim, who recently designed and manufactured a mermaid trap with the idea of capturing Aggie Fish in the same, is under suspicion. After setting the trap and baiting it with talcum powder, he says he suffered himself to close his eyes for a little nap. When he awoke the bait was not only gone, but the trap as well. Since that time no one has set eyes on Aggie nor has a whimper been heard from her.

Jot himself acts distracted and swears he is more grieved than anybody, but there are those who whisper that the Anaheim blacksmith is really a good actor and that as a matter of fact he has confined Aggie in some secret place where he visits her from time to time. The fact that he was seen buying a curling iron and a box of sardines tends to confirm this suspicion.

Time perhaps will tell.

Meanwhile an offer of fifty bones is made to the discoverer who will produce Aggie, dead or alive.

The sunny secretary reported having received a letter from the Smithsonian Institution, congratulating the club upon the acquisition of so many great historical relics to its curio collection and desiring to inaugurate a system of exchange for exhibition purposes. This was prompted by the securing last week by Prof. Watts Eaton Hughes, of the original jawbone with which Samson did such terrible execution among the Philistines. A curious feature in connection with the discovery was the finding in proximity of the jawbone of a No. 15 collar, with the initials "F.J.H." thereon.

Prof. Hughes is offering a reward of one thousand seeds for the solution.

For the moment the jawbone reposes—if a jawbone can repose, in the place of honor in Curio Hall.

In the meantime all answers, all limericks, all Gander jingles or rhymes of names and places in the M, N, and O classes, as well as other club correspondence may be addressed to Eugene Brown, editorial rooms, The Times. So no more at present.

EVERYBODY HELPS IN PORTO RICO.

"With the munitions of the mouth we will win the war," is the slogan of the inhibitants of Porto Rico in their food conservation campaign, according to Dr. F. H. Sheets, who has just returned from a trip to Porto Rico in the interest of the centenary wold programme of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Dr. Sheets says that food conservation is being carried on so intensively in Porto Rico that even the humblest shack has a Hoover pledge card displayed on the front door.

"I saw more evidence of a vigorous food conservation campaign in Porto Rico than in the United States, due probably to the continuous pushing of it by the missionaries," said Dr. Sheets. "Since the passage of the Jones bill, March 2, 1917, which made Porto Ricans American citizens, every man, woman and child in Porto Rico seemingly has put forth every effort to show loyalty to the United States. There are many Red Cross centers where women daily roll bandages and prepare comfort kits for shipment to France, and even little girls are organized into junior Red Cross auxiliaries.

"Service flags can be seen on countless houses throughout Porto Rico," says Dr. Sheets, "and an American flag flies from every pole. At the present time preparations are being made to accommodate 40,000 men in camps and cantonments on the island for military training."—[New York Herald.

SWINNERTON'S "NOCTURNE."

"Nocturne."

FRANK SWINNERTON is very well known among the people who manage to like books that are not widely popular. It is sometimes very difficult to manage such "predilections," but your aspirant intellectual will dine on caviar and grin though it be as gall and wormwood in his mouth. I do not know to how many mouths Frank Swinnerton's novels be gall and wormwood. He has no Meredithian involutions of thoughts, no labyrinthine passageways wherein the inexperienced wanderer is prone to be lost while seeking Henry James's ideas: what he does have is a psychological exactitude, an accuracy, a precision in creating intangible portraits that has baffled more famous writers than himself. He conveys the unvoiceable and does it in a simple, direct manner. So when he becomes an intellectual fad, toward which end H. G. Wells in "Nocturne's" preface points the way, the faddists are due to run up against, not something complicated and esoteric, but a very lucid and entertaining style; and it will probably be frightfully disconcerting to them to find that anyone can read Swinnerton understandingly. What is the use of studying something simple?

Mr. Wells, by way of a preface, or introduction, as it is called, manages as usual to talk of himself rather than the subject he is introducing; and I particularly rejoice in Mr. Wells's admission that he does not enjoy reading the sort of stuff that he writes. "As a writer," says Mr. Wells, "I belong to one school, and as a reader to another." Then he adds defensively the lame simile: "As a man may like to make optical instruments and collect old china."

I and Mr. Wells ("Me und Gott") have one thing in common at least. We both detest his imitators; or to give his words: "the confessed imitators give me all the discomfort without the relieving admission of caricature." So let W. L. George, thrice confessed imitator, take a company of young men and women with him into a hole and remain quiet: they are avowedly objectionable to their Master. Many people, myself, too, could find much to appreciate in Mr. Wells if not compelled to read him with the exaggerated huzzas of his admirers ringing to the welkin; and so as an argument to them rather than as a sober appraisal of what may be had from him, shout depreciations, only really meaning the utmost unkind things when Mr. Wells writes about "The Soul of a Bishop" or "God, the Invisible King."

Mr. Wells thinks very highly of Mr. Swinnerton's "Nocturne" (George H. Doran Company.) In conclusion he says that "this is a book that will not die;" and from some unattributed source the slipcover bears the sentence: "You know, Arnold, he achieves a perfection in 'Nocturne' that you and I never get within streets of"—H. G. Wells to Arnold Bennett. It would be interesting to know, not what Arnold Bennett replied, but what he thought.

Few people can read "Nocturne" without realizing that it is a remarkable book; not because it is confined to incidents that occur between sunset and dawn, but because it conveys the reader to an obscure little London home and makes him intimately acquainted with a half-dozen characters whom he is not likely ever to forget. One may not like the characters, they may seem sordid and without romantic or endearing charms; the paralytic "Pa" driveling at the mouth as he smokes and jumbling idiotic words may revolt, Alf may seem a repellent kind of lover; Keith, though he is on a lord's yacht as skipper, is singularly lacking in the fictional trappings of romance; the two sisters, Jenny and Emmy, have no sentimental goodness, no unusual piquancy of mind, scarcely anything by way of girlish attractiveness.

And nothing happens; that is, there is no "action," no screams, no excitement. The "action" is psychological: Alf, who has been going out with Jenny and likes her, merely perceives that he and Em have more in common and he proposes.

But those characters are unforgettably natural and human. The slight incidents are convincing: not only convincing, but presented with such technique that the manner in which Jenny gets Alf to take Em to the theater becomes tense with dramatic suspense, and after the theater the love-making between Alf and Em has the tense suspense and thrill of a cavalier climbing vines to reach his lady love's window. How does Mr. Swinnerton do it? How does Fabre make a fight between two beetles as epical, as tense and breath-taking, as the sparkling clash of Dumas's rapiers?

The love-hatred—the sisterly affection which holds the two girls tight around "Pa" and the centrifugal irritation that would fling them apart because Jenny's ideas of life are distasteful to the plebeian Em—reaches a very high point of psychological description. It is unusual, indeed; vivid and delicate, implied, but understood—inescapable. To do such things is literary art.

And Mr. Wells, out of vast experience in love scenes, pays the expert's tribute to Mr. Swinnerton's "After the Theater" chapter: "Only a novelist who has had his troubles can understand fully what a dance among china cups, what a skating over thin ice, what a tight-rope performance is achieved in this astounding chapter. A false note, one fatal, would have ruined all. On the one hand lay brutality; a hundred imitative louts could have written a similar chapter brutally, with the soul left out, we've loads of such 'strong stuff' and it is nothing; on the other side was the still more dreadful fall into sentimentality, the tear of conscious tenderness, the redeeming glimpse of 'better things' in Alf and Emmy that would at one stroke have converted their reality into a genteel masquerade."

After that penetrating appreciation, there is not much left to say. "Nocturne" is what may be called a tour de force in psychological artistry. The artist in the reader will be immensely gratified by the ending. It is supreme. One finishes the book, not merely understanding how Jenny feels about Keith, the lover who has known better things, and who may be true, and may not—but, I say one not merely understands how Jenny feels about Keith, but feels precisely as she does, knows no more about him than she does, and is racked with doubt and hope even as she.

If to write such a book as that is not to write a "great" book, then what is?

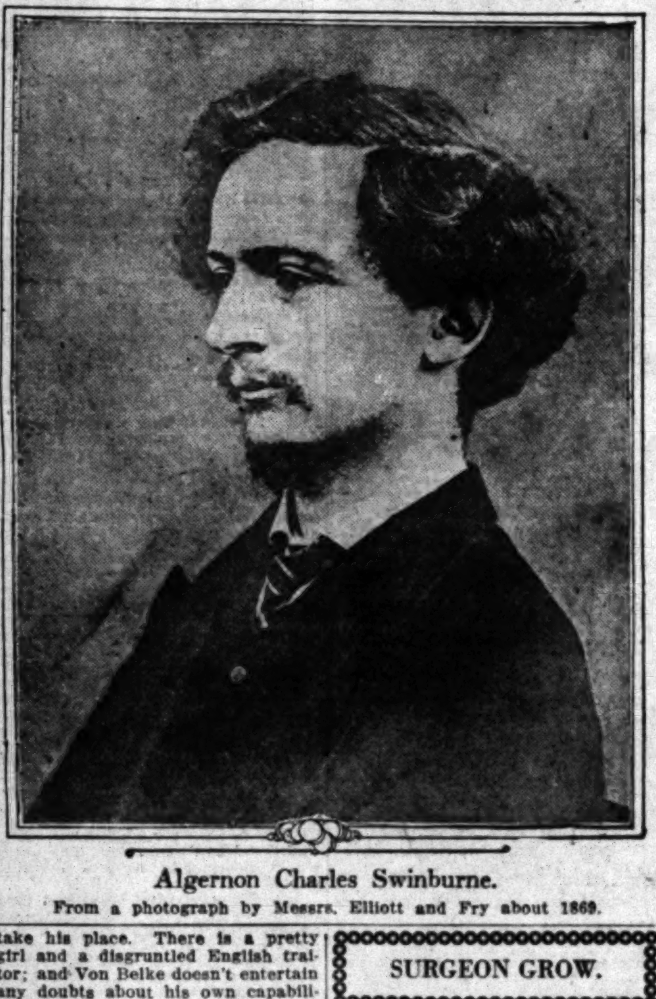
"The Spy in Black."

Most gratifying things happen in "The Spy in Black," by J. Storer Clouston (George H. Doran Company.) It is made up largely of the narrative of Lieut. Von Belke, who is sent by underlings of the All Highest to England for the purpose of getting information that will permit U-boats to locate British warships.

Many things happen, exciting things, the usual and unusual "spy" story things. An English minister is kidnaped and thrown into the sea because the Germans have a man who looks like him, and who can take his place. There is a pretty girl and a disgruntled English traitor; and Von Belke doesn't entertain any doubts about his own capabilities.



Algernon Charles Swinburne.

From a photograph by Messrs. Elliott and Fry about 1869.

The English are a stupid lot—just about as stupid as Mr. Clouston has revealed—like a fox. And when Lieut. Von Belke wakes up to the fact that everything is not going as the All Highest would like to have it, the tables have been turned and U-boats have got into the trap they set for others.

To tell more would be to reveal the story, which is no more than normally entertaining, but not so poorly constructed as mystery-spy stories frequently are.

"SHELLPROOF MACK"

SHELLPROOF MACK. By Arthur Mack. Small, Maynard & Co., Boston.

Arthur Mack tells what is really a plain and unvarnished story of his two years and three months of service in a London regiment that saw much active service. He certainly does not try to make himself out a hero. He earned the name of "Shellproof" by being buried, all but his head, by one shell, and immediately jarred loose by another shell, coming out of the experience without a scratch. Medical officers said it was impossible; their judgment on the matter was something like an anecdote Mr. Mack relates of a soldier who was sucking a piece of ice when a medical officer placed a thermometer in his mouth. The soldier said nothing about the ice, and when the officer removed the thermometer he exclaimed:

"My word, me good fellow! If this bally glawss is right you've been dead since the battle of the Marne."

Mr. Mack was through the attack on Messines Ridge. That was where he saw the roughest fighting. He was at no time infatuated with the life, but because the Lusitania went down he went to war and stayed until gassed and discharged. He says he is now ready to do his bit for Uncle Sam, being much recovered from the injury. He was, in the first place, a bantam and sent to a bantam regiment; but this was not found to be a success and the bantams were distributed among other regiments.

Mr. Mack tells of being in at the capture of German "pill boxes" which were made of English concrete, and the concrete had been shipped out of England but three months before via Holland. There was quite a scandal over it as the English firm knew—or should have known—that the concrete was for Germany. A few months later when discharged and in London he saw another shipload of concrete going down the Thames—for Holland. Such were the depths of profiteering to which even Englishmen descended.

Discipline and humor he believes are the things that make the English army very nearly invincible. Punishment is severe and execution frequent, and the soldiers are trained to be soldiers—not machines; while the humor of those soldiers, Tommy and officers, is simply irrepressible.

It is an interesting book, among the few that give an unglorified picture. Even "Over the Top" and those like it have a kind of romantic glamor that is lacking wholly in "Shell-proof Mack."

Although his ability as a writer has long been recognized, Franklin K. Lane appears for the first time as the author of a book, with the publication this month of his "The American Spirit" (Stokes.). In this volume of his speeches the Secretary of the Interior explains in heart-to-heart fashion some of the perplexing problems of ideals and of policy now troubling the American people. Mr. Lane, who is a Californian, is one of the nation's greatest Democratic statesmen. He is a man of broad vision and sagacity and a power of swaying human hearts which has won him fame as a public speaker.

SURGEON GROW.

SURGEON GROW: An American in the Russian Fighting. By Malcolm C. Grow. Frederick A. Stokes, New York.

Surgeon Grow, formerly lieutenant-colonel in the Imperial Russian Army Medical Corps, saw much of the fighting before Russia turned out her Czar and was bunkoed into accepting the Kaiser.

The Russian army, he says, was always underfed, underarmed, and the Germans were always aware of every movement in advance, being supplied with information at Petrograd as soon as any order was given. He considers that in the face of the handicaps the Russians made a remarkable showing. As illustrative of the Russian temperament, and the English, too, he relates one astonishing incident that took place under his own eyes. He was standing at the roadside talking to an English officer who was about to bring up his armored car. Suddenly out of a great yellow cloud that rose in the air came "a great straggling disorganized mob of soldiers. . . . Many were without coats or hats and some had thrown their rifles away. . . . When they were about a hundred feet from us the dapper little English lieutenant stepped into the middle of the road, raised his walking stick aloft with his left hand and held out his right hand with the gesture of a traffic policeman stopping a runaway horse."

Then that little lieutenant, in a boyish voice, began speaking very bad Russian. "He told those Russians what he thought of them, what cowards they were to be running away, and ordered them to return and fight." And they did.

Incidentally, Dr. Grow says, had the Englishman been a Russian, they would have shot him and run on over his body.

The doctor was in the thick of things for a long time. He met the Czar and is of the opinion that the Czar is happier off than he was on the throne. He sailed over the German lines in a captured airplane, and has some horrible things to say of the German gases, which, in one instance, left half an acre covered with dead men lying as close as they could be laid.

FRENCH TRAVEL.

Cited by every historian is the book, "Travels in France During the Years 1787-1789." It should be read by every student, says Adams in his "Manual of Historical Literature," for it is perhaps the most graphic picture extant of the condition of the country in the years preceding the French revolution. In 1797 the Directory ordered that all Young's works (twenty volumes) should be translated into French at the public expense. Not the least interesting portion of the new edition is the introduction by Thomas Okey, well known as a scholarly writer on France and Italy. He gives a brief but vivid sketch of Arthur Young, and concludes his appreciation with the following sentences: "How strikingly the permanency of national traits is evidenced in these Travels. The passionate love of the fatherland that animates the French people, even in provinces such as Alsace, was indelibly fixed in my memory during the period immediately following the annexation of that province to the German empire by hearing Alsatian peasants, not permitted to express themselves in French, exclaim, in German, "Nimmer will Ich Deutsch sein!" The book has long been out of print and available for reference only, but is now placed on the shelves of the Public Library for circulation.

A POSTHUMOUS SWINBURNE.

POSTHUMOUS POEMS OF ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE. Edited by Edmund Gosse and Thomas J. Wise. John Lane Company, New York.

SAYS the preface: "The greater part of the poems here published were hidden, unknown to Watts-Dunton, at the Pines. All 'round Swinburne's sitting-room there were discovered after his death unsightly rolls or parcels tied up in old newspaper, some of them looking as if they had not been opened for half a century. . . . For many years Swinburne was in the habit of allowing miscellaneous material to gather on his table until a moment came when he could bear the pressure of it no longer. He would then gather everything up, tie the whole in the current newspaper of the day, and then delicately place it on a shelf, where it was never again disturbed."

Mr. Gosse, having completed his biography of Swinburne, turned to these papers. He was assisted by T. J. Wise, a distinguished bibliophile and Swinburne collector. Says Mr. Gosse: "In this laborious and delightful work Mr. Wise was kind enough to associate with me from the first, since Watts-Dunton's interest in the matter had become entirely a financial one."

After that slight at Theodore Watts-Dunton, coupled with numerous others in the biography, Mr. Gosse certainly owes it to the public to state frankly his grievances against the man who housed Swinburne so long. Innuendoes are unbecoming, particularly from a man of Mr. Gosse's distinction; and though Watts-Dunton be dead, it is certainly more fair to be frank than slighting.

Hope springs eternal at the mention of posthumous works. That is nearly synonymous with "treasure trove" as far as the book lover is concerned. But it is expecting too much to hope that Swinburne, the greatest poet and among the best of the critics of his day, should even in the passion of clearing his desk have stowed from sight any masterpieces, and forgotten them. What comes to us through these posthumous pages is largely ballads in the Scotch manner, for the appreciation of which one requires a special taste; certain youthful and un-Swinburnian efforts, some fragments of no great promise, and a few choice poems that would grace any "collected" work.

What "The Centenary of Shelley" is doing among posthumous poems I do not know. It is a brilliant sonnet, has long been in print, and recognized as such. But since it is here it may as well be reproduced:

Now a hundred years agone among us came Down from some diviner sphere of purer flame,
Clothed in flesh to suffer, maimed of wings to soar,
One whom hate once hailed as now love hails by name,
Chosen of love as chosen of hatred. Now no more
Ear of man may hear or heart of man deplore
Aught of dissonance or doubt that mars the strain
Raised at last of love where love sat mute of yore.
Fame is less than love, and loss is more than gain,
Where the sweetest souls and strongest, fallen in fight,
Slain and stricken as it seemed in base men's sight,
Rise and lighten on the graves of foemen slain,
Clothed about with loves of all men as with light,
Suns that set not, stars that know not day from night.

Some twenty years ago Richard Le Gallienne, writing the most appreciative reviews of anyone in England, said that of all the myriad similitudes in the world, Swinburne seemed to have perceived scarcely more than those having to do with flowers and flames, suns and seas, stars and tides. Whatever his theme, said Mr. Le Gallienne, to these and one or two more such primary facts of nature he is restricted for his imagery.

True, and the more is the marvel for Swinburne's word witchery is perpetually radiant, iridescent, and as far from monotony as tropic sunsets; and there are flashes, and occasionally a steady burning of that radiancy in posthumous poems. These are the opening lines from "The Cup of God's Wrath":

Drink deep and spare not; it is great and wide;
The corners of it are made thick with gold;
The wine of it was trodden out of old
In the wine press of Egypt, where man's pride
Was in his purple raiment sewn and dyed,
And he grew lusty in God's sight and bold.

And "Echo" is one of those pieces of song and beauty in which he so delighted: a frail theme and flaming words. The second stanza of "A Carol for Charity" is the most typical of Swinburne uninspired that can perhaps be found in the length and breadth of his works, and fails to be parody only because its mediocrity is unrelieved:

One boy goes galloping over the moorland,
Wild with delight of the sunshine and speed.

is good enough for anybody, but when it is stretched to:

Blithe as a bird on his bleak, bright foreland,
Glad as the wind on his own glad steed.

we begin to appreciate what miracles Swinburne did accomplish and what ridiculous jumbles he did evade with his wonderful alliteration.

Most of the poems are Scotch ballads, written under the influence of Walter Scott's collections, and these might have been reprinted from Percy's Reliques for all that I could say either from memory or judgment. In this regard even the judgment of pundits was likely to be deceived. The story is told that when William Morris was near death he was making a selection of border ballads, which he declared were the finest poems in the English language. The difficulties of gaps and various readings were too great for Morris and it was suggested that the work be turned over to Swinburne. "Oh, no!" said Morris, "that would never do. He would be writing in verses that no one would ever be able to tell from the original stuff!"

Mr. Gosse says that the ballads published in this volume show the complete justice of Morris's remark.

There is, of course, as in anything by Swinburne, condemnation of kings and glorification of freedom and her warriors. An interesting contrast is afforded by the present "Ballad of Truthful Charles" for anyone who remembers Lionel Johnson's "Statue of King Charles at Charing Cross." "Landor at Florence" in the present volume is good, but scarcely equal to the "In Memory" which celebrated the "faultless fame" of Walter Savage Landor at the time of his death. An "Ode to Mazzini" of some length—a very stirring ode, too—must, however, necessarily call to mind Mr. Mallock's parody on Swinburne's love of freedom (reprinted on this page.)

Posthumous poems do present, among lesser valuables, one decided treasure. Of all the many who attempted translations of Francois Villon, Swinburne must be regarded as pre-eminent; though Andrew Lang, Arthur Symons, Rossetti, and perhaps John Payne have done at their best such ballads from the old French as are in a way comparable to Swinburne. Something of Villon's charm seems to inspire and be retained by all who invoke "our sad, bad, glad, mad brother's name;" and so far as I remember, Swinburne's translation of the "Ballad of the Fair Helmet-maker to the Girls of Joy" (in the present volume) is published for the first time, though it has a familiar ring, and one not confounded with Payne's less vivid rendition.

I do not know how widely popular Swinburne may be, how much read. He was once the subject of much mistreatment and abuse. All poets of distinction are at some times in their lives; it seems to be the ordeal of initiation commanded by the gods of fame.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS.

Parody on Swinburne.

The following parody is taken from W. H. Mallock's poems, and is not included—one wonders why—in the Oxford edition of "A Century of Parody and Imitation." Swinburne occasionally wrote parodies on himself, and others, as in the "Heptologia," but few things for exquisite accuracy have excelled Mr. Mallock's lines:

"I bowed my laurell'd head
Above my lyre and said:
'What new song shall I sing across the strings?
Madden'd for whose new sake
What new noise shall I make?'

"And I answered: 'Lo, I will sing of no new things;
I will turn to her once more
I have sung so oft before—
Freedom—and worship her, and curse some kings.
By the seas that link us and the hands that sever,
By the foes upon our weather-side and lee—
By all these things and all other things whatever,
We call and howl and squeak and shriek to thee,
Calling thee early and late.
Wild, inarticulate,
Calling and bawling that thou shall set something free.'"

Rebecca West's Literary Vote.

"The most beautiful work of art of the year," Rebecca West, in her reply to the inquiry recently addressed by the New York Sun to distinguished American and English writers as to the book or books that interested them most in the past twelvemonth, pronounces to be "Nocturne," the new novel by Frank Swinnerton shortly to be issued here by George H. Doran Company, with an introduction by H. G. Wells.

Literature and Soldier.

"Under the German Shells" is to be published by the Scribners during May. The author, Emanuel Bourcier, was a member of the French commission and was sent to this country as an instructor in liaison — the service that co-ordinates the movements of airplanes, artillery and infantry.

Capt. Bourcier is one of the most successful of the younger French writers, having twice received the prize of the "The Societe des Lettres," and in 1916 the Montyon prize. From this prominent position in the literary life of Paris at the beginning of the war he went into the trenches as a private.

Capt. Bourcier was moved to write his account of the French poilu by resentment against certain other stories of French soldier life which seemed to him utterly unworthy.

When Gerard Missed His Chance.

The huge crowds at the New York Liberty Loan meetings are reported to have given ex-Ambassador Gerard the biggest ovation received by a sub-treasury speaker.

The former Ambassador put the question: "Is there danger for this country if that line which holds so well in Flanders should break?" His own answer was a retelling of the famous talk with the Kaiser when the Emperor spoke of taking no nonsense from America after this war. The speaker described vividly how the German ruler put his face close to the Ambassador's and shook his finger at him.

"You should have got him then," piped up a voice from the crowd.

"We can only regret our lost opportunities," responded Mr. Gerard, and the crowd cheered.

War Verse Anthology.

The mere list of contributors is sufficient recommendation for the volume of war poems entitled "The Muse in Arms," just issued by Stokes. Among the distinguished soldier-poets represented are Rupert Brooke, Robert Nichols, Julian Grenfell, Siegfried Sassoon, Robert Graves, Gilbert Frankau, Lieut. Herbert Asquith, Sergt. Patrick MacGill, and others equally known and admired. The poems were, for the most part, written on the field of action. They have been judiciously selected and edited with an introduction by E. B. Osborn.

Velcome for Sammies.

In a recent letter from Thomas Burke to his publishers, Robert M. McBride & Co., the author of "Limehouse Nights" and "Twinkletoes," says:

"I would be glad if you could make it known in any way that I am always glad to welcome American soldiers at the offices of the Reciprocal News Service, Queen Anne's Gate, London." Mr. Burke is now engaged in writing a series of American articles on the troops in England, which are to be published in a group of middle-western papers.

Yellowstone Park.

On account of the many changes that have recently taken place in Yellowstone Park, Mesa Verde, and other national parks, Edward Frank Allen, former editor of Travel, has found it necessary to revise and enlarge his "Guide to the National Parks of America" for spring publication on the list of Robert M. McBride & Co. Practically a new set of schedules has been made for travel in the Yellowstone on account of the new regulations permitting motor cars in the park, new excavations in the Mesa Verde have unearthed fresh archeological wonders, and a number of additional regions have been made national parks by act of Congress; and these, as well as various other important changes, have been incorporated into the new edition.

"Motives in English Fiction."

"Motives in English Fiction," by Robert Naylor Whiteford, professor of English literature and director of graduate study, Toledo University, is in train for early publication under the imprint of the Putnams. Written in a style that an eminent authority has with full justice pronounced "sparkling," it gives an interesting as well as authoritative presentation of the leading motives that color the threads in the warp and woof of English fiction. The chapters are as follows: "From Sir Thomas Malory to Sir Francis Bacon," "From John Bunyan to Jonathan Swift," "Samuel Richardson, Henry Fielding, Sarah Fielding and Tobias Smollett," "Robert Paltock, Charlotte Lennox, Thomas Amory and Laurence Sterne," "Samuel Johnson, Charles Johnstone, John Hawkesworth, Frances Brooke, Horace Walpole, Oliver Goldsmith, Henry Brooke, Henry Mackenzie, Richard Graves and Clara Reeve," "Frances Burney, Robert Bage, Sophia Lee, Thomas Day, William Beckford, John Moore, Charlotte Smith and Ann Radcliffe," "Elizabeth Inchbald, William Godwin, Matthew Lewis and Maria Edgeworth," "Amelia Opie, Jane Porter, Lady Morgan, Anna Maria Porter, Charles Robert Maturin, Elizabeth Hamilton, Hannah More, Mary Brunton and Jane Austen," "Sir Walter Scott, Thomas Love Peacock, Lady Caroline Lamb, Susan E. Ferrier, Mary Woolstonecraft Shelley, Thomas Hope and Mary Russell Mitford," "A Glance at English Fiction from Miss Mitford to Charles Dickens."

"Limits of Pure Democracy."

W. H. Mallock's new book, "The Limits of Pure Democracy," which E. P. Dutton & Co. have ready for publication, is a brilliant study in political science that seeks to show that, while pure democracy is the natural system of government for small communities, its suitability lessens as states increase in size and their life becomes more complex, when some form of oligarchy must take its place. In the course of his discussion he considers the problems in government which the war has emphasized or produced, takes up the modern Socialist movement, and even includes so recent a happening as the Russian revolution.

CAPT. KNYVETT DEAD.

Capt. R. Hugh Knyvett died in New York April 15, two days after the publication of his book, "Over There With the Australians."

At the outbreak of the war Capt. Knyvett was a pearl fisher in Australia. He had graduated from Sydney University and lectured on psychology, but the outdoor life appealed to him more. He enlisted as a private, was trained as a scout in Egypt, served at Gallipoli and then on the western front as an intelligence officer.

It was while he was scouting behind the German second lines that he was severely wounded. Dragging himself inch by inch eight hundred yards over the German lines and No Man's Land he reached his trench.

He was invalided to Australia, where another man's nerve was grafted in his wounded leg. As soon as he could walk he came to this country to recuperate, intending to get back into service as soon as he could pass the physical examination. In the meantime he lectured for the cause, addressing over 200,000 people, and wrote his book. In March he went to New York to see his book through the press and to lecture.

Although constantly growing weaker physically, he insisted on keeping his engagements, often from his bed just an hour be engagement.

As someone has said, Capt. vett died in the service as truly on the field. Invalided by he sought to help by war The last was broken short collapse on the stage and died. That was what "all and all we are" meant to h

Mr. Wells, by way of a preface introduction, as it is called, mam as usual to talk of himself rather than the subject he is introducing, and I particularly rejoice in Mr. Wells's admission that he does not enjoy reading the sort of stuff that he writes. "As a writer," says Mr. Wells, "I belong to one school, and as a reader to another." Then he adds defensively the lame simile "As a man may like to make optical instruments and collect old china."

I and Mr. Wells ("Me und Gott") have one thing in common at least. We both detest his imitators; or to give his words: "the confessed imitators give me all the discomfort without the relieving admission of caricature." So let W. L. George, thrice confessed imitator, take a company of young men and women with him into a hole and remain quiet: they are avowedly objectionable to their Master. Many people, myself, too, could find much to appreciate in Mr. Wells if not compelled to read him with the exaggerated huzzas of his admirers ringing to the welkin; and so as an argument to them rather than as a sober appraisal of what may be had from him, shout depreciations, only really meaning the utmost unkind things when Mr. Wells writes about "The Soul of a Bishop" or "God, the Invisible King."

Mr. Wells thinks very highly of Mr. Swinnerton's "Nocturne" (George H. Doran Company.) In conclusion he says that "this is a book that will not die;" and from some unattributed source the slip-cover bears the sentence: "You know, Arnold, he achieves a perfection in 'Nocturne' that you and I never get within streets of"—H. G. Wells to Arnold Bennett. It would be interesting to know, not what Arnold Bennett replied, but what he thought.

Few people can read "Nocturne" without realising that it is a remarkable book; not because it is confined to incidents that occur between sunset and dawn, but because it conveys the reader to an obscure little

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS,
WARTS AND MOLES.
Pulling a few stiff hairs from the face may start a serious growth. Let me demonstrate free of charge how pulling, cutting, using wax depilatories and the so-called hair removers promote growth of hair on the face. My electric machine is the only known method of killing superfluous hair, fuzz, warts and moles, without destroying the surrounding tissue. This machine destroys 360 hairs an hour. I have had 19 years' experience and devote all my time to this work. A binding guarantee that any hairs or moles I treat will never return. Many L. A. satisfied customers will testify to my skill as an expert.

SEE THE SAND GAZER.
DR. MUNDO-DARE, ORDAINED.
DIFFERENT FROM ALL OTHERS.
SPECIAL READING, THIS WEEK, 50c.

The only member of INDIA'S MYSTIC BROTHERHOOD to ever visit this country. First in America to introduce this MYSTERIOUS ART employed by PROPHETS OF OLDEN TIMES. His remarkable disclosures are pronounced "PHENOMENAL" by thinking people who have consulted him. Any Clairvoyant can tell your name, the past and present. If wives, husbands, sweethearts or friends are true or false, and many other things of more trivial importance. All these things the SAND GAZER tells at a glance. What you want is to be successful and make the most of a life that is passing ALL TOO FAST. To get what your Creator promises, you must know your strongest points. Your future possibilities, physical condition, how to gain the one you desire, how to be magnetic, etc., etc. To acquire these things, you MUST SEE THE SAND GAZER SOONER OR LATER. So COME TODAY.

IN HIS DEPARTMENT HE STANDS SUPREME.

You need not speak for him to call your name in full, names of those you wish to know or what you came for, how to make business pay, whom you will marry and when, every possible advice regarding love, travel, changes, speculation, divorces, lawsuits, sickness, etc. All of life's active principles are minutely analyzed by THIS WIZARD OF THE SHIFTING SANDS. The Only Psychic who really demonstrates the mysterious power to help you. Come. Test him and be convinced. Hours, 12 to 8 daily and Sundays. Maid in attendance. 1920 S. FIGUEROA ST. Phone 22141. No sign.

PERSONAL—
About three years ago D. Bonoff, the Furrier, formerly at 703 South Broadway, Los Angeles, was sued for damages on account of personal injuries arising out of an automobile accident. A judgment was rendered against Mr. Bonoff for $10,000, which has just been affirmed by the Supreme Court of California. This judgment has caused Mr. Bonoff to file a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court. His beautiful stock of furs is being offered direct to the public by Wm. H. Moore, Jr., Trustee in Bankruptcy, at 621 South Broadway, Los Angeles, the sale beginning Monday morning, May 27th, 1918. The stock is being sacrificed at this season of the year to provide funds to maintain litigation and to save delinquencies and possible foreclosures. All furs are being offered at one-half (½) of the marked prices. For further information, apply to WM. H. MOORE, Jr., Trustee, 704 Higgins Building, Second and Main streets, Los Angeles, Cal. SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS—
WARTS AND MOLES.
Pulling a few stiff hairs from the face may start a serious growth. Let me demonstrate free of charge how pulling, cutting, using wax depilatories and the so-called hair removers promote growth of hair on the face. My electric machine is the only known method of killing superfluous hair, fuzz, warts, and moles without destroying the surrounding tissue. This machine destroys 360 hairs an hour. I have had 19 years' experience and devote all my time to this work. A binding guarantee that any hairs or moles I treat will never return. Many L. WANTED — TRACTOR ENGINEERS FOR THE coming harvest. Men wanted in California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, North and South Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas, New Mexico, Arizona, Texas and Nevada. We have more orders for men to drive tractors than the combined schools of Los Angeles have students. In order to keep these men writing in here for tractor and heavy duty gas engineers we are making a special effort to meet this great demand. If we can furnish them with good men in this emergency they will continue to write in when work is slack.

Come in and let us prepare you to hold one of these positions. We will give you the knowledge that will make you feel in your own heart that you are worthy of your hire. Don't let the big wages frighten you. These farmers must have these men and they are willing to pay anything within bounds of reason. We have the equipment, the instructors, and the inclination and will do the best we can for you. We are recognized and recommended by the manufacturers of twenty-two different makes of tractors. We teach everything in tractors, from the little fellow that you walk behind and guide with a pair of plow handles, to a Holt "75," everything in stationary heavy duty gas engines from a ½-h.p. put-put to a 200-h.p. Deisel hot head.

On account of the rush we are running a night and day class at half rates. Competent instructors, plenty of equipment. Come in and talk with our students. (See Inst. adv.)

Class is almost full. Six more students will be enrolled at reduced rates.

TO LET—

The BELMONT Apts., Figueroa, at 10th st. The BELCAMP Apts., 2407 W. 10th st.

If you are going to live in an apartment in Los Angeles this summer, there are none which will give you as much comfort and happiness as will the BELMONT and the BELCAMP.

"Not how little, but how much we can give our guests," is our motto. And we cater to their individual needs; try to think of ways and methods for making them contented; anticipate their desires. In fact, we make these houses literally

"the place like home."

With the beginning of the summer season we have special inducements in the way of hot weather prices to offer YOU.

While our prices are not the lowest, we give more for every dollar you pay than anyone else. If you just want a place in which to eat and sleep, you can get just as good elsewhere and probably for less money. But if a real home, with real social, home life, congenial people and elaborate entertainment—real living—appeals to you, you should reside with us. We spend more money and give more time and energy for the comfort and satisfaction of our guests than any similar institutions in the city. We are going to specialize on auto excursions and picnics this summer and we are going to have a lot of 'em. But while we will go a-field a good deal, indoor entertainments will not be curtailed in the least.

If you are not perfectly satisfied where you are, would it not be well worth while to call and learn just what we have to offer?

The BELMONT, $65 and up.
The BELCAMP, $20 and up.

THE ONLY PLACE TO BUY GOOD USED HUPMOBILES AND CHALMERS CARS.

Cars that are rebuilt and refurnished and which in every respect are in A-1 shape; cars that will give as good service as those that are new we will sell at a saving of from 40 to 50 per cent.

Bear in mind that there is to be a further reduction in the output of automobiles. This means the used car market eventually will be combed for cars. It also means that along with new cars the used ones will bring higher prices. Now is the time to buy. In six months used cars will be scarce. See T. W. TAYLOR, Used Car Dept.,

FOR SALE—1918 CHANDLER SIX COUPE (FOUR-passenger inclosed car) that has just been driven 3000 miles and cannot be told from a new car, at a discount that will surprise you. We will not be able to offer this low figure again for at least six months, and would not be doing so now except for the fact that we are aiding a purchaser who is drafted and who purchased this car new from us less than three months ago. This is the Fisher type of body, and the car throughout is absolutely perfect. To further assist this patron, we will fully guarantee the car, adding a liberal service period as well. We are not speculators in used cars. We are not making a profit on this car, but we are going to make a satisfied purchaser out of you if you purchase. EARL V. AARMSTRONG, INC., USED CAR DEPARTMENTS, 1126 S. Olive st. or 1034 S. MAIN ST. Phones, 60695 or Main 3459. Open Sundays, 11 to 4 p.m.

FOR SALE—
FRANKLIN,
1914 ROADSTER 1915 TOURING

If you are in the market for a Franklin, you will save several hundred dollars by purchasing either one of these cars. We are not speculators in used cars. We do not care to make a profit on them, but we do want to make rapid sales and the prices on these two will sell them rapidly. Come in, try them out, take them to any mechanic in the city before you purchase and if you don't find out that they are real opportunities, allow me to compensate you for your time. We do not misrepresent and we do positively state that these cars are in first-class condition excepting minor adjustments which we will make without cost. Used Car Dept., CHANDLER SIX, 1126 S. Olive or 1034 S. Main. Open Sundays 11 to 4 p.m. Phones 60695 or Main 3459.

FOR SALE—1917 CHALMERS.
1916 CHALMERS.

Both of these touring cars have been thoroughly rebuilt, refinished and are in excellent condition in every respect. They look as good as new cars and will serve you as well. They are far better values than a new car at the same price and you will get more service and satisfaction out of them with less depreciation than you would have on a cheap new car. Our NEW CAR guarantee and service is included at the price of $850 and $750 respectively on TERMS if desired. Never before have we had such a splendid assortment of used cars at the remarkably low figures we are offering them this week. It will pay you to call at either used car departments at 1126 S. Olive or 1034 S. Main. Open Sundays 11 to 4 p.m. WE ARE NOT USED CAR SPECULATORS. Phone 60695 or Main 3459.

FOR SALE—CHANDLER SIX.

You do not dare to purchase a Chandler until you have investigated the REBUILT—REFINISHED—FULLY GUARANTEED—ones that we are offering at a range of prices from $650 to $1350 on TERMS. You cannot respect yourself as a wise purchaser unless you at least learn about these values and what CHANDLER SERVICE and CHANDLER GUARANTEES will mean to you for the next YEAR to come. Our business is the sale of new Chandlers, this has been our business since the CHANDLER was first placed on the market. We KNOW practically every CHANDLER owner in this city and we know quite a bit about the way he has used his car. We will not accept his car in exchange on a new one if he has abused it. We do not have to. We cannot get all the new CHANDLERS now that we can sell, so you may rest assured that we are particular about the used cars we take in trade. If you don't believe this, try us out with some car that is not up to standard and see how quickly we will refuse it. We are NOT independent but we are careful of our reputation and we do not want to be forced to offer a poor used car for sale. Used Car Dept., for the CHANDLER SIX, 1126 S. Olive or 1034 S. Main. Phones 60695 or Main 3459. OPEN Sundays 11 to 4 p.m.

FOR SALE—1917 SAXON SIX.

Go out and price one of these cars and then come in and see this one at $750 and you will appreciate that this is a very good figure and we will include terms if you desire. Were this car even as high in price as others on the used car market it would still be advisable to purchase from us as our service and GUARANTEE agreements are far above the average. They are going to mean at least a saving of FIFTY dollars to you in the next year. Used Car Dept., CHANDLER SIX, 1126 S. Olive or 1034 S. Main. Phones 60695 or Main 3459. Open Sundays 11 to 4 p.m.

FOR SALE—GERMAIN'S POULTRY SPECIALS.
July 1, we move to our new store at S.E. corner Sixth and Main streets, opposite P. E. Station. Prior to that time we are going to reduce our stock as much as possible, and are therefore offering big specials in every department of our large store.
QUEEN AND CYPHERS INCUBATORS.
At Special Prices.
Our entire stock of Queen and Cyphers incubators will be sold at pronounced reductions—buy now for next Spring's hatching. Don't wait until prices are greatly advanced.
We are special agents for the famous BUCKEYE INCUBATORS and BROODERS, and carry a full line of this well known manufacturer's goods at all times.
FOR THOSE BABY CHICKS.
COULSON'S CONDITION POWDER NO 1 is a preventive, as well as a cure for disease in baby chicks. Always keep some in stock. It may be the means of saving an entire hatch. Builds up the system and aids digestion.
CONKEY'S STARTING FOOD is prepared especially for baby chicks. It gives them the RIGHT START and helps to produce money-making layers and fat, juicy birds for market.
COULSON'S GROWING CHICK FOOD should be fed after chicks are eight weeks old; contains just the proper ingredients to make strong, healthy birds.
NECESSITIES FOR LAYING HENS.
FRENCH'S POULTRY MUSTARD—for fertility and increased stamina.
DARLING'S MEAT CRISPS—a necessary protein food; hens must have protein for productivity.
COULSON'S EGG FOOD—Contains necessary ingredients for egg-making. Keep before hens all the time.
INTESTINAL CLEANSER—rids fowls of intestinal worms without reducing strength. Best of all worm remedies.
GRIT, CHARCOAL, SHELL—Some of each of these should be kept where hens can get it at any time.
GET RID OF VERMIN.
Lice and mites are the greatest profit destroyers that the poultryman has to contend with. Paint your poultry houses inside and out with Carbola—a germ-killing disinfecting white paint. Vermin simply cannot live where Carbola is used.
Use a diluted solution of KINOLEUM to wash out incubators and brooders. Once each year all woodwork should be thoroughly cleaned with CARBOLINEUM. It preserves the wood and makes it germ proof.
Apply Conkey's LICE POWDER direct to birds to rid them of lice.
GET OUR POULTRY CATALOG.
For full listing of poultry supplies of every kind, get our free 1918 Poultry Catalog. It will save you many dollars in a single season, by telling you what and how to feed your fowls, and how to prevent disease, as well as cure it.

LAPAN'S SWAT WINS BATTLE.

Hits Ball for Three Bags in the Ninth Inning.

Defeat is Quickly Turned Into Victory.

Pertica, Angel Pitcher, has an Off Day.

BY EDWIN F. O'MALLEY.

Angels picking it out of the fire, 7; Seals rattled to a frazzle, 6; with a few brainstorms thrown in. Leaden despair turned into frantic joy inside of a few moments. But the hero, little Pete Lapan. Let's dwell on him for a spell. Not being satisfied with establishing a world's record in the ninth inning of Friday's game, he comes right back yesterday in the final frame with a mighty pole for three bases to left field, and won for the Seraphs in the eleventh hour. It was some swipe—a swipe that sent hats, cushions, handkerchiefs, parasols, vanity bags, knitting bags and everything of a grabable nature into the air, accompanied by lung-rending peals of joy that almost lifted the roof off the grand stand.

In the first of the ninth inning the Seals had gotten to Pertica for two runs on three hits. The score then stood 6 to 4 in favor of the northerners. As usual, every one present was beginning to saunter mournfully to the exits. The big entrance was cluttered with those thats like to see the finale while standing a few feet from the gates. Kantlehner was sent to tre mound for the Seals, as Baum had been taken out in the first of the ninth to allow O'Doul to bat for him. Pepe ambled to the plate. The little fellow teased Kanty into a walk. Ote Crandall, substituting for Pertica, waddled to the rubber carrying a young lumber yard across his shoulder. Zowie, how he leaned on that pill! It sped so fast toward Hunter's bailiwick that the air caught fire back of it. Pepe scudded home, while Doc landed at second.

RUNS FOR OTE.

Fittery was then sent to second base to run for Ote. Killefer singled infield, sending Fittery to third. As the going was getting good many of the spectators hiked back into their seats and began shattering the air with exhortations. Lapan batting for Caldwell strode to the plate like the mighty Casey of old. Pete was bareheaded—an infallible sign that he was on mischief bent. Suddenly the air grew as calm as the tread of a snail. Kantlehner wound up slowly and sharply volleyed a straight one marked "made to order." Little Pete drew back his right foot; dug it deep into the soil; strung his right biceps to almost the snapping point and brought the willow forward with the velocity of a mountain torrent. Away flew something dark and away flew Herbie Hunter after it. Onward, onward like the flight of a Parthian arrow darted that something, and onward and onward sped Paul Fittery and Red Killefer, both cleating the plate before a madhouse of frantic fans.

Did Little Pete stop? Well, not that you could observe. As he turned second and rushed to third with his hair buffeting the wind like that of a maddened porcupine he looked as if the goblins, gnomes and swart fairies of the mines were after him. We can't imagine why Pete wasted all that energy as the horrible deed had been accomplished just after he had reached second and with nobody out. Long before Pete got to third, wise Charley Pick had skun to the clubhouse and was well under the shower.

CONFIDENCE.

The visitors turned into the first half of the ninth with the score tied. Then apparently to cinch the game they grew very pert with Pertica's delivery, something like this: Downs fanned, McKee walked and Smith was sent to run for him. Hummel whiffed. Corhan singled to right. O'Doul, batting for Baum, singled to right, Smith scoring. Maggert singled to center, scoring Corhan; Pick flied to Cooper. Two runs, three hits.

Pertica, who pitched for the Angels, had an off-day. He was frequently in trouble, but managed to get out of a number of bad holes until the ninth. Baum hurled a fair game and probably would have won had he been allowed to finish the game. Herb Hunter featured for the visitors. He belted out two triples and grabbed two long flies far on the stretch. He was surely a different Herbie than the one that played here the earlier part of the season.

Terry injured his finger in the first inning on a thrown ball and had to retire. Pepe was sent to short and Caldwell to third. Terry's injury is not serious and he will return to the line-up today. The score:

CHICAGO, May 25.—Chicago defeated New York 7 to 4 today in one of the most exciting games played here this season. The locals played an uphill game behind Tyler and by bunching hits managed to drive two pitchers off the mound, and overcome a lead which they had handed to the visitors through erratic fielding by Deal and Zeider.

Paskert's timely double with two men on and two out, tied the score in the third and Deal's triple put the locals ahead. Tyler tightened up after that and the visitors were unable to score. The score:

PRINCETON VICTOR IN TRIANGLE MEET.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) May 25.—Princeton came through victor in the triangular track meet today between Harvard, Princeton and Yale, with a score of 49 1-3 points. Yale finished second with 41 2-3 and Harvard third with 13 points. Princeton took a commanding lead by capturing all places in the high and low hurdles and although Yale took a majority of firsts in the field events and broke even in the others the blue was unable to overcome this lead. Princeton took seven firsts, Yale five and Harvard one.

Richard Cleveland of Princeton, son of the late President Cleveland, won the shot put with 39ft. 8¼in. E. M. Fisher of Yale, had an easy victory in the mile run, covering the distance in 4m., 36 3-5s.

This was the first time that the three institutions had met in a triangular meet. The arrangement was due to war conditions.

OAKS' LUCK FAILS TO WIN.

Tigers Work Ten Innings and Capture Game.

Eighth Breaks Badly for the Visiting Nine.

But They Pull Together at the Finish.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—Despite the fact that they had all kinds of luck in the eighth inning today, during which Clyde Wares made the shortest two-base hit on record, the Oaks were whipped again. The Tigers won, 5-4, but had to work ten innings to turn the trick. Ordinarily the Tigers would have won 4-3, in the regulation nine frames, but things broke badly for them in the eighth and they had to toil overtime.

"Wheezer" Dell, the handsome pitcher of the Tigers, had been derricked in the seventh when he had two on and none out and Reiger was called upon. He got out of that hole with ease, due to some swift and swell pegging by young DeVormer, who picked one man off second and flagged another trying to make that station.

The eighth opened with the Tigers one run to the good. The Oaks evened it up in the eighth, but were easy in the ninth and tenth.

Mathes got a pass to open the tenth, was bunted to second, and Prough walked Alcock. DeVormer hammered a double to right that scored the winning Tiger run. Hosp also hit to right, but Hawks scooped the ball while on the run and fired it home in time to put out Alcock. It was quite a play, but the Tigers had already cinched it. The score:

BRICK MUELLER IS HERO OF DIAMOND.

SAN DIEGAN'S HOME RUN IN TWELFTH INNING WINS GAME.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, May 25. — "Brick" Mueller's home run in the twelfth inning, which netted his team two runs, won the semifinal contest for San Diego, on the Pomona High School grounds this afternoon, in a game between Long Beach and San Diego high schools, and leaves Huntington Park the only other contender for the Southern California baseball championship of the south. The score was: San Diego, 6; Long Beach, 4.

The game, which was witnessed by an immense crowd from all over the Southland, was the most thrilling game played here this season, and was an excellent exhibition of baseball. Mack, the San Diego twirler, pitched the entire game; as late as the eleventh inning he struck out three men.

Buckley, famous little box artist for the Long Beach lads, pitched a fine game, holding his opponents to a tie throughout eleven innings of the game. Schall, who replaced him in the eleventh, allowed Mueller's home run, which finished the game. Mach, of San Diego, was the star of the game, getting one home run and one three-base hit, the latter good for a home run except that he missed touching third base and had to recover.

After Long Beach had scored in the last half of the ninth, tieing the score, 4 to 4, the game remained the same until in the first of the twelfth. Roberts up, singled, Devine safe, fielders' choice, forcing out Roberts. Deeds grounded to Andrews, forcing out Devine. Deeds stole second. Mueller rapped out a home run over the fence, scoring Deeds and cinching the game. Long Beach failed to score in the last half and the game ended with San Diego victor, 6 to 4. The summary:

SMASH BIKE RECORD IN SANTA ANA RACE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, May 25. — Nearly three minutes was knocked off the official American competition record at the Southern California amateur bicycle race here today. The new time for the fifteen miles is 36m. 47⅖s., and the record holder is Robert S. Gerwing of Santa Ana, who has ridden in several races during the past two years and whose father was formerly a rider of note. Five of today's riders rode within the former record of 39m. 29⅘s., which has stood for three years. They were Robert and George Gerwing and Eugene Adams of Santa Ana and Champion Kingsley and Adolph Ziegler, the latter only 15 years old, of Los Angeles. The new record is official, as Charles Fuller Gates, Coast representative of the National Cycling Association, was present and saw that the timing was correct.

Nearly forty riders took part in the contest. Another feature of bicycle day here was a parade of bicyclists this afternoon.

HUNTINGTON PARK GETS INTO FINALS.

SHUTS OUT RIVERSIDE HIGH SCHOOL NINE IN PREP BASEBALL SERIES.

The Huntington Park High baseball nine swatted and fielded itself into the finals for the Southern California title on the Manual Arts diamond yesterday afternoon, Riverside being the unhappy victim of a 6-0 score. Incidentally a young man named Toliver, from Huntington Park, connected with the pellet for a home run declared to be one of the longest hits ever rapped out in a prep encounter. No less a person than demure Jerry Abbott, who has been umpiring ball games since Simpson Sinsabaugh first sliced the atmosphere with his mystic wand of willow and catgut, went on record as saying that he had never witnessed so far-sailing a clout during his career. The Manual Arts authorities have decided to bar Toliver from competing on their diamond, fearing that his long-range activities may do serious damage to the landscape of the neighborhood.

Robertson, chucking for the winning nine, struck out but eight to the thirteen whiffed by Allec, his opponent. The excellent support and superb fielding of the Huntington aggregation accounted for the shutout administered the Riversiders. Jones, at short; Toliver, in center field, and Erbe, at first, snagged two runs apiece to their credit. The score:

No amount of money that the billboard men could possibly afford to pay, however, would really justify any municipality in sacrificing its presentability and safety as a community by permitting these ugly, thug-harboring structures the right of way over popular prejudice. How, then, can the practice of letting a few individuals spoil whatever beauty a city has be justified when the defacers pay for their privilege a sum so paltry as to be absolutely negligible in the city's revenues? Beyond any shadow of a doubt, the billboards in many an otherwise attractive district in Los Angeles have damaged real estate values to an amount far in excess of the billboard license returns to the city as a whole.

Los Angeles is giving up park and parkway improvements at this time because it does not consider that mere beautification projects come within the classification of necessary public enterprises. One thing it can do and is going to do, however, is to get rid of the eyesores that now deface and disgrace its residence districts. This step toward municipal beautification will cost nothing and interfere in no wise with any war work.

Farewell to the billboard! Good riddance to bad rubbish! A few more days and the public will have its first chance to see what residential Los Angeles looks like.

The plant will stand at the corner of Sacramento and Mateo streets. Negotiations for the project were handled by the W. Ross Campbell Company.

CANNING COMPANY SUIT COSTING HIGH.

EXPENSE OF WITNESSES ALONE IS SEVEN HUNDRED DOLLARS A DAY.

Martin Deloff, timekeeper during 1903-1904 at the plant of the Dunkley Company of Michigan, occupied the witness stand yesterday morning in Federal Judge Trippet's court, where that firm is suing the Pasadena Canning Company for alleged patent infringement.

In direct contradiction to allegations of the plaintiff corporation, Mr. Deloff gave evidence that peaches were peeled by hand in 1903 at the Dunkley plant, at which time between 260 and 300 women were employed in this operation. Evidence had hitherto been introduced to show that the peeling during that year was done under the patented "lye process." Photographs were placed in evidence to bear out Mr. Deloff's testimony.

That the present suit will prove one of the costliest ever held in the local Federal courts became evident when Attorney Kemper B. Campbell disclosed that the expenses to date for the Pasadena corporation in defending the suit have reached $59,000.

Fifty witnesses have been brought to the trial from outside the State and thirty more will be due here this week. The sum of $700 a day is being paid out as expenses for witnesses. The hearing is to be resumed Tuesday morning.

Dr. W. F. Swift and Mr. D. W. Pollard spoke to the boys, pointing out that the climate of Southern California is ideal for the raising of rabbits.

ARIZONA RAILROAD LOSES INJUNCTION.

MUST OBSERVE STATE STATUTE LIMITING CARS TO EACH TRAIN.

United States Circuit Judge Ross and United States District Judges Bledsoe and Sawtelle, sitting en banc yesterday, denied a preliminary injunction to the Arizona Eastern Railway Company restraining the State of Arizona from enforcing the statute to prohibit railroads from operating trains of more than seventy cars. The order of the court in denying the injunction follows:

"The preliminary injunction is denied without prejudice to a renewal of such application in the event the United States Director-General of Railroads or his duly authorized representative shall represent to the court that it is necessary as a war measure to run the freight trains in question with more than seventy cars each."

Wiley E. Jones, Attorney-General of Arizona, and L. M. Laney, County Attorney for Maricopa county, Arizona, were named defendants in a suit brought by the Arizona Eastern Railway Company, an auxiliary of the Southern Pacific Railway. Asst. Atty.-Gen. W. P. Geary, of Arizona, presented the State's case while the railroad's contentions were argued by Attorney George P. Bullard.

The law sustained by the Federal judges was enacted in 1912 and was never observed by the railroad company.

Another Restaurant for South Spring Street—Projectors Lease Site and Erect Building.

A new cafe will soon be added to the list of such establishments recently projected and built in the downtown district, as the result of a deal closed between W. G. Hutchinson and Arthur F. Armstrong and Ben H. Carleton, whereby the two last named men have secured a five-year tenure of a site owned by Mr. Hutchinson at No. 538 South Spring street, the building on which they are now remodeling for restaurant purposes. The lease was closed through the agency of Metcalf & Ryan, and is understood to have involved a total rental consideration of $30,000.

Plans for the new cafe were drawn by H. H. Whiteley, who also is in charge of the construction work. A new front with mat-colored terra cotta facing and large plate and art glass windows is being put in, and the interior of the present building is being entirely rebuilt and refinished. The woodwork will be in quarter-sawed red gum, stained silver-gray. The place will have a seating capacity of about 150.

Expanding.

TO MOVE INTO LARGER PLANT.

Citrus By-Products Concern Makes Big Strides.

Will Have Modern Factory on Sacramento Street.

Firm's Goods Now Sold All Over United States.

The W. Ross Campbell Company, through W. C. Skaggs, of its leasing department, reports the passing of the final papers in a deal whereby E. H. Graham, vice-president and general manager of the Washington Iron Works, is to erect a brick factory building on a site fronting eighty feet on Sacramento street by 142 feet on Mateo street, for the Laughlin Fruit Refiners, Inc., of which Homer Laughlin, Jr., is the controlling head.

The lessee company is the manufacturer of the California Citrus Face Cream, and of marmalade, orange and lemon paste for the use of bakers and confectioners. In its new location the company will also make dried peel, candied peel and peel in brine from citrus fruits.

The firm started in business a short time ago in a space of 30x50 feet. One year later the company moved into its present quarters, which contain 6400 square feet, but this space has also proven inadequate to care for its rapidly expanding business. In the new location the company will occupy more than 26,000 square feet of space.

In the construction of the new factory building, which was planned by Richard D. King, especial attention will be given to facilities for the convenience of the employees and the cleanliness of the products. The plans call for lunch-rooms, rest-rooms with built-in lockers, and for the maximum of light on street and alley frontages.

There will be a basement, where part of the machinery will be operated and which will also be used for the storage of finished products, including lemon juce, of which the company will have several carloads in the cooling-rooms at all times. The second floor will contain the process-rooms and rooms for the pulping of fruit and the filtering of juices.

The company will install about $15,000 worth of up-to-date machinery in its new home and will employ about 100 persons.

Its goods are now sold over the entire United States.

SELLS NEW FLAT.

S. M. Cooper reports having sold a four-flat building of twenty rooms, which he recently completed at No. 843 South Berendo street, to Martin L. Kelsey, for a consideration of $22,500. He also reports the sale of a lot 100x150 feet in size at the southwest corner of Oxford avenue and Seventh street, in Pellissier Square, for Julie Pellissier to Esther Martin, formerly of Louisville, Ky. Mr. Cooper has secured a contract to build on the site a two-story house of fourteen rooms, work to be begun at once.

WAREHOUSE STARTED.

Work is being started on a three-story warehouse for the Lasky film interests at the site of their plant at Selma avenue and Sunset boulevard in Hollywood. The structure will be of reinforced concrete construction and 35x105 feet in size. Edwin Bergstrom is the architect.

$10 PER MONTH.

I own about sixty half-acre plots in one of the best developed suburban sections, close to Los Angeles. These little half-acre farms sold for as high as $650 before the war. I will supply those who are interested with a plat and tell them how to get to the property. All these half acres are priced the same; some are better than others. It is the kind of property you can live on and work in the city. My reason for making this a blind ad. is that I don't want to be bothered with a lot of agents. If you are interested, I will mail you a plat, price list and complete description. Nobody will call upon you or bother you in any way. You will have to go and see the property yourself. Paved street, cement curbs and gutter, sewer, etc. A most entrancing view of valley, mountains and sea. Nearly 1000 pines and other evergreen trees set out on the hills and walls of the canyon. A cactus garden on the sunny side of the canyon, with over 100 different species of ornamental cacti. Numerous trails, rustic seats, swings, etc., make of the canyon a natural park. Here one may enjoy all the convenience of the city and yet a walk of 100 yards from the street takes one into the seclusion of the canyon, the quiet of the country. A place for those who care most for health and the beauties in nature. High above fogs and frost. No grander building site in all California. You can verify the accuracy of the above statements by a visit to the property. The view alone is well worth the trip. J. F. WILSON, owner, 337 Highland place, Monrovia, Cal. Phone Red 307.

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS OF PREVIOUS WARS or their widows may send me power of attorney to select and file declaratory statements for them, on the opening of California, Oregon R. R. land grant, where no one could file a homestead for over 50 years. I will send you official receipt for $105 and a receipt of $30 for my services. You and yours will need good producing land later. California uses apples, potatoes, wheat beef and lumber from Oregon. Help win the war and help heal the wounds of the war by helping raise food. Don't wait, either, come or get order in mail by Tuesday, May 28. No drawing now, no uncertainty. Safest and surest and best thing to do is to get land by using special right your Uncle Sam has given you "for services rendered." Come or write JOSEPH CLARK, Arlington Hotel, Roseburg, Or.

FOR SALE—
I have a few good citrus groves for sale. They are bargains but not gifts. They are solid investments for people who want steady income. They are not run down. They are not to be sold under the ax. They are first-class groves of proven stability as income producers. They are all in the best of condition, well fertilized, fumigated, pruned and otherwise properly cared for.
Do you want a grove that will pay you better than 10 per cent. net and hire all the work done, in addition to furnishing you with a beautiful little home to live in free of rent?
How is this?
A grove which has paid better than $2100 net each year for the past three years including this one. This means better than 7 per cent. on $30,000 for each year.
What is it?
10 acres of navels and Valencias in the pink of condition, with a pretty little flower covered bungalow overlooking a most superb view.
Where is it?
In one of the best paying districts in the State, Charter Oak.
Did it pay this year?
Get your pencil. Owner has received so far over $2200 for navels and more to come. He will allow $2000 for the Valencias on the trees. His expenses for the past year, including fumigation, irrigation, fertilizer, taxes and team work were about $1300. All work hired done.
What is the price?
$20,000 as it stands, or allow $2000 for the Valencia crop. Reasonable terms on part of it, if required.
Can you beat this?
YOU CAN NOT!

426 Investment Bldg.,

RATTRAY MAKES A SPECIALTY OF EXCHANGing business propositions for property and property for businesses. Very often a man will worry along with something he does not want, or is unfitted for when a deal could be worked out so that he could get some money and something else that he could handle better than what he has if he only knew how to go about it. When you find yourself in that position come in and see me, and before you come bear in mind one thing, that I do not solicit your business or property if it is a losing or hopeless proposition. I do not want it, and that same argument will apply the other way, I will not submit anything to you that would not be worthy of your consideration. I have been at it for six years and have been successful. If you think from my ad that you could trust me with your interests, I'll sure do my utmost to deliver the goods on time. RATTRAY, 1003 Title Insurance Building.

Oranges and Lemons.

THE CITRUS MARKETS: WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

THE market on Valencias continues strong with prices holding very steady. Very best grades are ranging from $7 to $7.90 average in the auction markets with an occasional sale of extra fancy stock bringing better than $8 per box. The general run of fruit is averaging from $6 to $6.75. The New York market showed a slight tendency to ease off somewhat early in the week, which was possibly due to the arrival of early peaches which attracted the attention of the trade. Later sales showed the market again regaining strength with practically no material change in values.

F.o.b. quotations are on a basis of $5.50 to $6, according to district.

There is much speculation as to the future trend of the market on the remaining portion of the crop. Some shippers believe that present high prices cannot continue when arrivals of fresh deciduous fruits become liberal while others contend that fresh fruit prices are also bound to be high and will have little or no effect on the light supply of Valencias that will be offered.

Valencia growers who have not contracted their crop are holding out for 6 and 6½ cents a pound for their fruit—some sales being reported this week on a 6-cent basis.

Navels, seedlings and sweets are now shipped, leaving the field clear for Valencias, although a few cars are still out that are unsold.

LEMONS.

The market on California lemons is excited, sales in some of the auction centers touching close to the $8 mark. The unusually early warm spell now prevailing throughout most eastern markets, coupled with the prevailing shortage in supplies of foreign lemons is responsible for present market conditions. The demand up to this time has been largely speculative and both the jobber and the retailer have been putting away lemons for future needs. The shortage in supplies of foreign stock in the Eastern markets has made it necessary for California shippers to take care of the increasing demand from that territory and as a result, the market is gaining strength daily.

At the present writing one cargo of 4000 boxes of foreign lemons is due to arrive at New York on Saturday and one other cargo of 26,000 boxes reported sailed for New York on Wednesday. The vessel reported with cargo of Sicily lemons (quantity unknown) was ordered back to port and nothing further has been heard on this shipment. Just what the situation is as regards the supply of foreign lemons is problematical as sailings are not reported promptly and nothing definite can be learned as to the quantity of lemons afloat. Some shipments are getting through in usual time, others are very much delayed. Present market prices will undoubtedly stimulate imports.

The f.o.b. situation on California lemons is on a basis of $6 to $6.50.

Shipments for the next three months are expected to run around 30 cars daily.

NERVOUSNESS CAUSES CORN MARKET SLIDE.

ERRONEOUS IDEAS ON NEW REGULATIONS CAUSES SLUMP IN GRAINS, PROVISIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, May 25.—Nervousness over new regulations in regard to hedging sales led to a rapid downturn in corn prices today notwithstanding that previously the market had been on the advance. The close was heavy 1 cent to 1¼ cents net lower, with June $1.37¼ and July $1.38⅝ to $1.37⅞. Oats finished unchanged to ⅛@¼ cents down and provisions unchanged to 27 cents down.

Erroneous ideas as to what would be required from dealers having grain on hand gave the bulls in corn a decided scare.

Oats were dominated by the action of corn.

Weakness in the hog market pulled down provisions.

COMMERCIAL.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The butter market remained firm last week after advancing 2 cents to 41, while eggs strengthened sufficiently to practically recover the losses of the previous week. The cheese situation is steady with advances in a few varieties despite heavy receipts of Oregons. The eastern market has been strengthened by new export demand for the Allies, which is giving the existing surplus a good outlet. There is considerable old stock still in the coolers notwithstanding the government order to prove old stocks by June 15.

Receipts at the Produce Exchange yesterday were as follows: 213 cases of eggs, 39,800 pounds of butter, 1500 pounds of cheese and 13 sacks of potatoes.

HEAVY SELLING FORCES MARKET PRICES LOWER.

Rally Later Headed by Rails Recovers Most of Early Declines.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 25.—Extensive selling for both accounts characterized the first half of today's short session of the stock market, the further reaction being ascribed to disappointment in connection with the government's taxation programme.

Steels and associated industrials made extreme declines of 1 to 2½ points with coppers, shippings, oils and tobaccos, while active specialties averaged reversals of about one point.

Even rails of the better class yielded large fractions to a point, but rallied briskly later, carrying the general list forward, though not to the same extent.

Coalers were strongest on the rebound of rails, Reading, Chesapeake and Ohio and Baltimore and Ohio scoring actual gains of 1 to 2 points, with as much for St. Paul and Western Pacific common and preferred, the list closing with a firm undertone. Sales amounted to 435,000 shares.

General news had little direct bearing upon the securities market, trade reports again emphasizing the contraction of business in non-essential lines.

The international phase of the financial situation was represented by another collapse to a new minimum for lires or Italian exchange.

Aside from a decrease of $30,000,000 in actual loans, the bank statement presented no interesting features, excess reserves contracting by about $4,000,000.

Bonds were easier, the 4¼'s Liberty issues making a new low at 97.38 and the second 4's repeating their minimum at 94.60. Total sales (par value) aggregated $2,675,000. On call old United States coupon 3's gained ⅝ and Panama 3's 2 points during the week.

REVIEW OF WORK.

In the face of many conflicting elements this week's stock market offered additional proof of stability.

A few leaders closed 3 to 6 points under their recent maximum, but this setback was regarded as nominal in view of the incessant profit taking and fresh aggressions of the bear faction.

Rails were the sustaining features of the list.

Events in the war zone and the course of Federal tax legislation are expected to become the chief influences of the coming week, if not for a long period. Banks continue to lend freely of call money, but time funds remain exceedingly scarce.

The outcome of the negotiations between the War Board and the copper corporations has caused some revision of estimates and opinions respecting Washington's attitude toward further regulation of steel and iron. Indications point strongly to increased restriction of all non-essentials.

With the War Finance Corporation measure now effective, it is believed that some of the railroads of the country will soon receive permission to engage in moderate financial rehabilitation.

OIL BOOM SLACKENS; WEEK SHOWS LOSS.

UNITED EASTERN LEADS IN MINING STOCK SLUMP. TWO CLOSE HIGHER:

Oil stocks continued to hold the attention of local investors last week with comparatively light sales in the aggregate. The general average of the price movement, however, was downward instead of the reverse, as the week before, and indications point toward a collapse of the recent boom in oil securities. Of the active oil stocks only two closed higher than on the preceding Saturday, Columbia and Mascot. Columbia closed yesterday with a bid of 1.10 as compared with 1.00 the preceding Saturday, no sales being made and 1.15 the ask. Mascot closed a week ago at 1.73 and yesterday at 1.88, a net gain of 15 points for the week. The stock was going strong Friday, closing at 1.90, but weakened two points on yesterday's closing bid, with no stock offered.

Union Oil, Associated Oil, General Petroleum, Mt. Diablo Central Oil, Jade Oil, United and National Pacific all show losses for the week. Union sold yesterday at 106.00 on a single sale, closing at 105.75, as compared with 107.50 a week ago, losing $1.25 per share in the interim. Associated shows a loss of 50 cents per share in the same period, closing yesterday at 59.25 and the week before at 59.75. For a while General Petroleum looked as if it would certainly reach par, but the loss last week was $1 per share, closing at 95.00 with 96.00 asked. Jade Oil was off ¼ point on a close yesterday at 6½. Midway Northern remained firm at 24 as on the close of the week before. National Pacific is off ¼ point on a close at 5, while United Oil is off a full point, closing at 17, as compared with 18. Mt. Diablo shows a loss of 7 points, closing last Saturday at 1.40 and yesterday at 1.33; and Central, though not active, closed at 75 bid, as compared with 77.

Mining securities are still inactive and show continued weakness with the biggest dividend payer of them all, leading the slump. United Eastern closed yesterday at 3.54, as compared with 3.70 the week before, losing 16 points. Eastern was the most active mining stock on the local board yesterday, selling from 3.52½ to 3.53. In the Good Springs list Boss sold at 48, closing with a bid of 44 as compared with 48; Boss has been steady around 50 cents for a long while, but the prevailing weakness in mines has reached even this staid dividend payer. Non-dividend paying mines were weak and inactive during the period, Richmond Copper, however, showing a 4 point gain on a sale at 29 yesterday, closing on the preceding Saturday at 24.

TRUE OIL

The public buying of this issue has been one of the main features of the past week's trading. Those red-blooded Americans who felt like taking a gamble in a cheap oil stock have purchased "True Oil" stock upon the assumption that if the Company brings in a good producer their stock would probably advance in price several hundred per cent. The well is said to be over 1975 feet deep and reported to be showing FAVORABLE INDICATIONS. We are closely in touch with the True Oil situation and will be glad to endeavor to furnish such information concerning the property you may ask for. You CAN'T become rich drawing 6 per cent. interest on a small capital — SO WHY NOT TAKE A CHANCE and see if "True Oil" is not your LUCKY NUMBER? We will sell any part of 3000 shares for cash or on time payment—$25.00 cash on each 1000 and balance $10.00 per month.

TRUE OIL

The merits of this popular oil is best attested by the fact that almost without exception the numerous visitors at the property have purchased good sized amounts of stock. The many experienced oil men who have thoroughly inspected the property are unanimous in their opinion that an important and highly valuable field will be developed. The Montebello, Taft, Coalinga and other wonderful California fields were at one time in exactly the same position as True Oil and it was not the individual who was too timid to "try something new" who participated in the profits that eventually rewarded those who developed these fields.

True Oil is speculative, of course, but it does appear that this project will prove highly successful, in which event those of us who purchase stock now should be handsomely rewarded. We believe the time in which this opportunity may be embraced will be of short duration, as we are advised that a successful outcome is anticipated almost any time. Place order early tomorrow. Out-of-town clients should wire with a 7½ cent limit.

The World Beater

General Petroleum's Barnhart No. 1 well just brought in in Ventura County. Flowing 135 barrels 56 gravity oil daily. This is 80 per cent. gasoline. You can drive your old flivver right up to the well, dump in a bucketful and drive off. TRUE OIL is drilling in Ventura County. Their well is down 1975 feet. Supposing they bring in a well like this? Do you think you will be able to get any stock for 7½c a share? They certainly have an excellent chance, as they have already reported showings of 38 gravity oil.

General Petroleum jumped from $78 to $98.25 a share, while this Ventura County well was being brought in. How high will TRUE OIL stock jump if they bring in such a well? Don't wait for the oil to spout over the derrick. Get the stock while it is cheap. GET IT NOW. If you do not want to pay all cash, buy on the partial payment plan—$25 down on each 1000 shares and the balance $10 per month.

Crude Oil Situation

From March, 1916, to March, 1918, 34,000,000 bbls. of crude oil were drawn from the nation's storage stocks.

Of this amount 23,000,000 bbls. was drawn from California alone, and California's normal reserve of nearly 60,000,000 bbls. has been reduced to about 30,000,000 bbls.

Despite steady increase of production consumption of California oil continues at the rate of more than 750,000 bbls. per month in excess of production.

AMERICA WILL FINISH KAISER.

Los Angeles Camoufleur is Amazed at Preparations.

Tells of Belief of Soldiers Hearst is an Enemy.

His Papers and Editorials Despised Over There.

Testimony as to the gigantic nature of the war preparations which the United States is making in France is contained in a letter just received in this city from Halleck Finley, a member of the Los Angeles corps of camoufleurs who went overseas some months ago. Writing from an unnamed place in France on April 19, he says:

"I haven't much idea of what the Americans are doing, but I know that our preparations are gigantic. The troops come on unceasingly, and the wheels are turning faster and faster. When we finally strike I think there will be a crash that will rattle the Kaiser on his throne. The American men are everywhere, working like hounds, singing, raising Cain generally, getting in trouble, etc., but getting more and more determined, more and more eager to go to the mat with the Boche."

HEARST IN CONTEMPT.

What the American soldier thinks of the Heart papers, is indicated in the following extract from the letter:

"Last night we had an interesting lecture from one of the Y.M.C.A.'s men, Sedgewick. I did not hear much of it, but heard some of the questions that were asked him about William Randolph Hearst. Hearst's papers and editorials seem to be pretty thoroughly despised by the American force men. He is one man, at least, who will yet hang himself if he gets enough rope. We have seen his papers, some of them, and the men of my company, at least, are outspoken and bitter against him. Hence the questions they put to Sedgewick.

"The reply was a hot one. It seems that he was in college with the gentleman in question. He said that his opinion of him had never changed; that William R. Hearst should be dealt with as any other enemy. Very much to the point, I thought, in view of the despicable things he has said and done."

NEW IDEA OF FRENCH.

Of the French soldiers and civilians the writer says:

"I had a rather funny idea of the French, that their vitality had been sapped by the Napoleonic wars, etc. Rot! You ought to see them. Of course, the whole male population is in some form of service, and what a bunch! You ought to see the husky kids; the peasant women are stronger than most men; the young French man or woman of the better class is the cleanest, finest, most thoroughbred specimen of humanity that you could imagine."

To the Public.

"I just want to say that we keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand all the time, and find it excellent for bowel trouble," writes Mrs. H. P. Cook, Anderson, Ind.—[Advertisement.

SOUTHLAND COLLEGES ACTIVE IN ALL LINES OF WORK TO WIN WAR

Military Corps Train Men for the Front, While Experts in the Laboratories Try Out New Processes and Engage in Important Researches.

RALLYING to the call of the nation, the colleges and universities of Southern California are doing intensified war work along many lines suggested by the government. In addition, university men are being trained for active war service, either in the ranks or behind the lines, and are receiving training in military corps that have been established at the institutions, and in the laboratories where new chemical processes are being tried out.

At the beginning of the war, the government issued an appeal for educated, trained men to serve as officers either in the National Army or in the army of home workers that must sustain the nation's fighting forces. As a result, researches in chemistry, surgery, dentistry and engineering have been accomplished, in addition to the military training which in some cases has netted college men an officers' commission.

All the institutions of the Southland have responded also to the appeals made by the Red Cross and the Y.M.C.A. Something like $20,000 worth of thrift stamps have been purchased by students and faculty members and about $50,000 has been subscribed to the Red Cross. More than 2000 Southern California college men have joined the colors, and numerous women have enlisted for service overseas in nursing and other reclamation work.

NEW RESEARCH WORK.

What is said to be a new process in synthesizing heavy crude oils to produce gasoline and toluol, has been developed by graduate research chemists at the University of Southern California. The work, under the direction of Dr. Laird J. Stabler, is in accordance with a governmental request, made at the beginning of the war, that American chemists produce formulae of their own, thus relieving the necessity of depending on German-made products. Chemists are at present working on a process of separating toluol, the chemical at present in great demand for the manufacture of munitions, from manufactured gasoline.

"As far as investigations have gone," said Dr. Stabler, yesterday, "the mono-nitration, or treatment by nitric acid, makes it possible to separate toluol from unsaturated products that have practically the same boiling point as the toluol. This has been done with but few accidents."

A process originated at this university is the "cracking" of the heavy oil that is obtained from the Mexican and the Santa Maria fields. This oil has heretofore been a problem to the oil profession, due to its extreme viscosity, or thickness, and the relative difficulty in piping it. The thinning process consists of pumping it under pressure into a chamber, and from here spraying it with steam into a receptacle into which flow hot gases of combustion coming from a bed of live coke in the still which is kept burning by air forced into the bed of coals from the bottom.

DEVELOPING POTASH.

Research for the conversion of nitrogen from the air into cyanide of potassium is at present being done by P. E. Palmer, a graduate chemist of the school, under the supervision of Prof. L. E. Weatherby. According to Mr. Palmer, a method similiar to that in experimentation was employed by German chemists when that country found itself unable to obtain potassium from outside sources. Chile is at present supplying this country with all the potash necessary, but the government is redoubling its appeals for original research and the development of potash production.

At present Los Angeles is the principal seat of this industry, and one concern, the Western Chemical Products Company of Vernon, is said to be turning out more than 300 ponnds a day. The city is the main producing center because of the production of potash salt from kelp, and the recently opened mines in Southern California.

Several of the recent graduates of the University of Southern California's college of chemistry are at present working for various private firms under governmental supervision. One of these, Attillio Bissiri, a last year's graduate, is chief research chemist for the Hercules Powder Company, in the department in which acetone, a product necessary in the manufacture of munitions, is manufactured from the fermentation of kelp.

EXPECT BIG RESULTS.

Bernell Tunison of the class of 1917 is chief research chemist for the General Petroleum Company of Los Angeles, and is working on experiments which it is hoped, will prove of great value to the government. Both he and L. R. Rebber of the same class, chief research man for the Union Oil Company at San Francisco, are working on toluol production, in conjunction with the government research committee. William Cereghino, a graduate chemist of the school, left the institution last week to assume his duties as superintendent of the Western Chemical Products Company of Vernon.

Research in prosthetic dentistry at the college of dentistry of the same university has brought to light several important phases of heretofore untried dental surgery. Under the direction of Dr. F. W. Frahm, the senior students, men who are all enrolled in the Dental Reserve Corps, are working on the replacing of shattered jaw bones, broken teeth and various forms of shell wounds that effect the oral bones. One exhibition at the college is the head bone ofa French soldier, the right side of which has been practically shot away, including one side of the optic cavity. The whole has been completely renovated both by natural bone grafting and by the use of artificial bridging. A plate with an artificial eyeball attached at one end was made exactly to fit the shattered bone cavity, and the whole can hardly be detected.

FIX SOLDIERS' TEETH.

The main part of the work that the college is doing for the government consists, however, in administering to draft and enlisted men. Under the auspices of the Dental Association of Southern California, about 100 dental surgeons have volunteered their time Tuesday and Thursday of each week and are at the college to receive men in uniform and those soon to be called to the colors, in order to remedy defective teeth. In every case the work is free to the men, unless gold has to be used, in which case a charge to cover only the cost of the metal is made.

Between 400 and 500 men have thus far been treated in this way, in addition to an average of 5000 patients a week in the regular clinic. The care of the soldiers, sponsored by the Red Cross, is the outgrowth of the lack of dental surgeons in the army. According to Dr. Franklin C. Lane, one of the dentists in charge of the enlisted men's clinic, the present ratio of one dentist to every 1000 men in the army is insufficient, and the men are in need of outside care. Up to date a large number of men from Fort MacArthur have been treated, and work will at once be commenced for the submarine base at San Pedro.

In accordance with government orders, all senior male medical students are required to register for ten hours of laboratory work in addition to the work that they are already taking, and, on graduation, every man is elegible for the Medical Corps of the army. According to a recent announcement, all men graduating from medical school this year will at once be called and sent to a training camp. No officers' commissions will be given out at first, it is said, although the men will perhaps have a chance to win laurels for themselves.

WOMEN WIN NOTICE.

Two women graduates of the medical college of U.S.C. have recently won distinction for themselves. One, Dr. Margaret Farwell, a graduate of the class of 1915, left recently for France, where she is scheduled to do civilian relief work among the French refugees under the auspices of the Red Cross. Dr. Placida Gardner, a member of the faculty, and head of the city's department of bacteriology, is soon to leave with the Stanford Woman's Unit for service in France. Dr. Gardner has for several years been an important figure in the city's health department, and was instrumental in establishing the Los Feliz Hospital for women. Since the establishment of the institution she has been directly in charge of all blood tests.

The college of law has done its bit principally by furnishing men and officers for the army. The service flag has 212 stars, two of them gold. John William Truxer, class of 1913, was a victim of the Tuscania disaster, and another man was killed in action in France. The men who have received commissions in the first officers training camp include: Eugene Blanche and Sam Blake, former football players; Phil Sterry, football and baseball star; Elmer R. Haslett, librarian of the law college; B. R. Fitts, John S. Shepherd, Fred J. Trude, J. Harman Decius, G. F. Delamer, Kenneth A. Carey, A. E. Hamilton, Leonard M. Comegys, Edward Dietrich, Henry C. Huntington and Bruce W. Mason.

The following men graduates and students of the same school have been selected for the second officers' reserve: Frank P. Doherty, instructor in the law school; Ewald F. Selph and Claire Woolwine, both deputy district attorneys; Lloyd Wright and Carroll M. Counts, former captains of the law school baseball teams; Ira W. Black, W. B. Abrams, C. M. Avery, L. W. Blodgett, B. S. Clendenin, Cliff K. Fitzgerald, Alvin Gerlack, Rex C. Hardy, James C. Levy, Leo M. Rosecrans, Rexford Shores, Arnold E. Wall and Garrett V. Winne.

HAVE COMMISSIONS.

Mark Herron, one of the school's most prominent debaters, has received his commission in a flying squad in France. John Burton is in Egypt in training with the English forces, and Clare Everhart and Arthur Brunton are in ground aviation at Camp Rockwell. Charles Wilkinson is a second lieutenant in the Signal Corps, Frank P. Doherty a captain, and James McKnight, a major. All seniors leaving after April to join the colors will be recommended for diplomas.

The Occidental College flag shows that 160 men have been called into the service, and military drill three times a week is preparing all men for enlistment. Special classes have been started in current events and international war problems, of which President Silas Evans is instructor. A class in radio, under Dr. J. C. Shedd, and one in drafting with L. H. Westcott in charge have also been instituted. Instruction in food administration is under the direction of Dr. F. J. Smiley, and arrangements are being made to commence a class in nursing.

In October, Dr. Robert G. Cleland, professor of history and political science at Occidental, was given a leave of absence to enable him to act as a member of a special committee to investigate the social conditions of Mexico. On the same committee are two alumni of the school, Dr. Arthur Young and Dr. William Cumberland.

All students of the college are to be released earlier than usual this year to enable them to assist in the harvesting of summer crops. President Evans has made a strong appeal for farm workers during the coming summer.

AT POMONA COLLEGE.

Pomona College is the recipient of a telegram and letter of instructions from the War Department granting to the institution a senior division of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps because of special facilities for a large range, drill and parade ground. Maj. Charles B. Vogdes is detailed there as professor of military science and tactics, while the college gives the prescribed course outlined by the Secretary of War. Since the opening of the college year, an actual course in military training has been followed and this now receives formal recognition from the government.

This recent action, however, gives a Pomona man the dual opportunity of completing his college training and at the same time being enrolled in government service. No necessary enlistment on the part of those taking this training is implied by registration in the course. However, should a man enlist voluntarily in the regular army, only a comparatively short period of intensive training will be necessary to prepare him for an officer's commission. The course represents three hours or more a week of intensive training for a period of two years, at the end of which time officers are to be chosen from the upper classes. Within a short time rifles and regulation uniforms will be provided.

A WAR CENSUS BOOK.

Several officials and graduates of the college have done work of national importance. Hugh Gibson is a graduate of Pomona. His diplomatic work in Belgium, under Brand Whitlock, is well remembered.

President James A. Blaisdell, who is now on a mission to Japan, will complete a task of national importance, and Prof. Frank R. Brackett, who served six months in Belgium on the Relief Work Committee, made an enviable record while there and has been able to give considerable inspiration to the students since his return.

Officials of the institution have started a war census book, in which it is to be determined exactly what students are engaged in the various branches of war work, what that work is, and what has been accomplished—really a means of mobilizing the forces of the college for the war.

WHITTIER AND REDLANDS.

At Whittier College, one of the Southland's smaller institutions, general physical culture has superceded all other forms of intensified athletic training. Russell Nelson and Herbert E. White, two former coaches, are enrolled in the nation's service, together with thirteen alumni and twenty-one students.

Redlands University has inaugurated a course in food conservation under the direction of Prof. H. C. Tilton, which will follow lines suggested by the government. The institution, with its 200 students, has sent fifty men into various branches of the service. Arthur Cocking, a former student, is now a lieutenant in the Royal Flying Corps, and has been flying his own plane in France for several months.

What is said to be the country's first collegiate reserve officers' training corps has been established at Throop College of Technology in Pasadena. The corps, of which Throop is an engineers' unit, was inaugurated at the school in September, 1916, and at the present time has 140 students enrolled. Capt. Charles T. Leeds, southern division engineer, is in command, although Prof. Walter H. Adams, one of the Throop faculty, is in direct charge.

In the course, the same training is given to the students as to other army engineers. Instruction is given in bridge building, obstacle construction, trench construction and map making, in addition to the necessary infantry drill. The government supplies the men with rifles, bayonets, haversacks, canteens and allows each man from $10 to [illegible] a year for his uniform. In charge of the corps are six cadet officers: H. Imler, and F. R. Capra, captains; R. H. Duguid and C. Bercaw, first lieutenants, and [illegible] Klein and R. J. Black, second lieutenants. The division is organized into an engineer battalion of [illegible] companies.

Gives to Nation.

STATE UNIVERSITY HAS ENVIABLE WAR RECORD.

VARIED phases of war organization have been undertaken at the University of California. When the next Coast Artillery school at Fort Scott begins its work on June 4 the university will be represented by a limited class of picked men, sent as a unit by the university's military bureau. The work at Fort Scott, requiring three months of intensive training, will be divided into four courses: The master gunner's, sergeant-major's, electrician sergeant's and the radio sergeant's. The rating granted in connection with this work is equivalent to the warrant rating in the navy and the rank somewhat approaches that of a naval petty officer.

Several members of the university faculty have been summoned into government service and are there distinguishing themselves. Dr. W. W. Campbell, director of the Lick Observatory of the university, has been elected a member of the Royal Society of London, an honor conferred upon only four Americans. The society numbers about 400 ordinary members, all scientists of Great Britain, and about forty foreign members.

CHILD WELFARE WORK.

Dr. Jessica Peixotto, associate professor of social economics in the institution, who has been absent on leave for the last six months, engaged in government war work, has recently been appointed chairman of the department of child welfare under the Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense. This department acts in collaboration with the United States Children's Bureau, which refers to the department cases of children whose need of special care has developed from war conditions.

Dr. Frederick P. Gay, former professor of pathology, has won distinct success in combating diseases in army cantonments. Dr. Gay, who has been created a major in the Medical Reserve Corps, is director of the Metchkinoff, one of the four laboratory cars maintained by the Red Cross in the United States. These cars, the staff of which have been named "shock troops," are specially equipped to fight the epidemics that break out in the camps without warning. The experts in charge have done notable work in stifling epidemics of communicable diseases at half a dozen cantonments, among which was the service performed by Dr. Gay's car a few weeks ago in combating the epidemics of measles and spinal meningitis that were threatening one of the aviation camps outside of San Antonio, Tex.

FROM FOUR BASES.

The other three cars, the Pasteur, Reed and Lister, are maintained by the Red Cross at an average expense of $1200 each a month, by a fund made available by a special appropriation. A car is sent wherever requested by the surgeon-general and the director of the car is instructed to confer with the proper authorities and assist them to the fullest possible extent. To facilitate the prompt movement of these cars they are being operated from four bases, Washington, Nashville, Chicago and San Francisco.

The government, recognizing the newly developed importance of psychological experimentation, has called Prof. Arthur U. Pope, assistant professor of philosophy in the University of California, who, on leave of absence, has been lecturing in psychology at Amherst College, Massachusetts, and who has been called to work for the government in his special field.

In addition to Prof. Pope, George M. Stratton, former professor of psychology, is now a captain in the aviation section of the Signal Corps, in charge there of psychological tests for aviation applicants.

How Some Schools Are Helping Ou

Pupils everywhere enlisted in war work.

Giving an Ambulance.

ORANGE UNION SCHOOL ACTIVE IN WAR WORK.

THE Orange Union High School Student Body, which has undertaken to purchase and fully equip for service on the front in France, an ambulance to cost $1600, points with pride to the record it has made in war-winning activities during the last few months.

A year ago the president of the student body appointed a war-work council, consisting of six pupils and six teachers. This organization directs all war activities of the school. One of its foremost accomplishments was the formation of the Liberty Girls' Army, consisting of 136 young women and girls, divided into four regiments, meeting and drilling four afternoons a week under strict military discipline. These girls participate in all of the war-winning tasks of the school.

MAKING GARMENTS.

Students of the Orange Union High School have bought and paid for the materials, which the girls made into 1594 garments that have been sent to stricken Europeans. The pupils have learned a smattering of French through a desire to scribble little messages in French upon the garments that have been made in the school.

Aside from sewing, the young women have knitted 344 garments, which have been sent to the front. They contributed $305 to Y.M.C.A. war work and gave $222 to the Red Cross. Twelve French orphans have been adopted by the school upon a pledge to regularly pay $36 a year for the maintenance of each child. The war-work council has set aside $25 for the relief of Italian refugees.

LIBERTY LOAN RECORD.

During the second Liberty Loan campaign the pupils bought [illegible] worth of bonds, and the instructors took $3000 worth. The pupils bought $4000 worth of bonds in the third Liberty Loan. The school has also challenged four other schools in Orange county to duplicate its record in the matter of buying Thrift Stamps and War Savings Certificates.

A few days after the United States entered the war, Delbert [illegible], principal of the Orange Union High School, enlisted in the officers' training school at the Presidio and was called to the colors a month later. Seventy-five young men from the Orange Union High School are in the several branches of the service.

HERS IN DEMAND.

working of the plan depends upon the enlistment of a sufficient number of instructors to carry on the campaign in each community. It is presumed that one teacher for each 150 pupils will be required, and one director for each 20,000 inhabitants is the need. It is expected that the majority of the student gardeners will be between the ages of 9 and 16 years.

All available space in back yards, side yards and vacant lots are to be planted, according to directions, with such vegetables as can be employed to the best advantage in the homes of the children. The gardeners will be required to keep an accurate account of time and money expended, quantities of seed planted, water used, etc.

The teachers and directors will be expected to devote to the work their afternoons, Saturdays and vacation days, and it is admitted that they should receive at least a small addition to their present salaries. Dr. Francis says this is a war measure and the expenditure of school funds to promote the work is entirely legitimate.

He holds that the educational value to the children will be much greater than the cost. Where Boards of Education have no funds with which to promote the work he suggests that Chambers of Commerce and patriotic societies be called upon for funds with which to work the plan out successfully in each locality.

BUY SEED CAREFULLY.

Parent-Teachers Associations in various parts of the country are taking hold of the idea with great enthusiasm and are providing the wherewithal to prosecute the campaign as well as securing large areas of volunteer city lots for the children to cultivate. Some communities are planning to hold garden pageants in May and June in order to stimulate interest in the movement, and raise funds with which to finance it.

Dr. Francis adds a word of caution to those who have not already planned and planted a war garden this spring. He says that garden seeds are extremely scarce in all parts of the country, and that unless people refrain from buying more than they need, there will surely be a shortage. He thinks the greatest danger lies in not knowing how much to buy for a certain patch of ground, which naturally means the gardener buys too much and has a quantity to lay away where it is out of circulation and beyond the reach of some one who may need it for planting similar patches. He advises giving away to people who desire to plant gardens, all seeds which are apparently out of circulation at present.

When it is necessary to buy garden seeds, he advises buying them from reliable seedsmen, and in bulk, if more than a packet of certain varieties is needed. In most cases seeds can be bought at wholesale by the schools, divided into packets, and distributed among the pupils who are cultivating plots of ground.

CATER TO DEMAND.

It would, of course, be the part of wisdom for each gardener to undertake the saving of a few good seeds next fall, as such a procedure, generally practiced, might prevent a seed famine.

The United States Bureau of Education advises student gardeners to grow only those crops that can be used at home or readily sold in the markets. Do not try to grow too many varieties; select the more easily grown crops at first, such as onions, radishes, peas, beans, turnips, beets, tomatoes and cabbages. Study the demands of the community and plant gardens to meet them.

The amount of space devoted to producing vegetables for home use will depend upon the size of the family to be supplied. One-fourth to one-half an acre is sufficient for an average family, and the rest of the garden space may be planted to crops for sale in the local markets.

If a smaller garden is a necessity, only those crops used at home should be planted. By careful attention to rotation of crops and interplanting (that is planting between rows and other plants,) one-fourth of an acre can be made to supply a family of six with all the vegetables needed.

LIGHT AND AIR NEEDED.

Plan out a general cropping scheme. Always keep in mind that your plan must provide for a continuous succession of garden crops. Keep your garden busy and plant only those things you can either eat or sell.

In order to aid the directors of this vast army in their garden work, the following general suggestions are offered:

All vegetable gardens should be located where the plants will receive the most sunlight and air possible.

The garden soil should be as well drained, rich and mellow as possible. It should be plowed deeply and harrowed, or spaded and raked before the seeds are planted.

Apply manures or fertilizers to make the soil rich. Keep weeds out of the garden all through the season.

Use every square foot of garden soil profitably. Plant succession crops as fast as harvesting occurs.

Don't waste surplus produce. Can, dry or store it.

Keep exact records of all work. It is important to utilize this opportunity to train children in business methods.

DOUBLE CROPS POSSIBLE.

Pupils who are participating in the United States school garden campaign should be given instruction in the double-crop plan of growing vegetables. This is advisable in order that they may make the greatest possible use of a limited amount of ground during the growing seasons. They should be instructed in some simple problems that will teach them the advantage of the double-cropping over the single-cropping plan.

It is possible to have onion sets growing between rows of tomato vines, especially when the latter are trellised. Winter radishes can be grown between rows of maturing carrots. Navy beans and late cabbage can be coming on between the rows of early potatoes. Sweet corn can be coming up between rows of onions or bush beans, and cabbage can be produced in the same way.

Before planting garden crops, the soil should be broken up and pulverized thoroughly. Just as early in the spring as possible the garden should be plowed or spaded. Do not work the soil when it is wet, as this will injure it.

DEEP SPADING HELPS.

Many gardens are too small to be plowed; these should be spaded deeply with a spading fork. Deep spading gives more air to the plant and a better opportunity for its roots to develop. After the soil is spaded, the clods should be thoroughly broken up and the top soil smoothed off with a rake.

A liberal dressing of well-rotted stable manure should be worked into the soil. This supplies food for the plant, improved the physical condition of the soil and helps to hold moisture in dry seasons. If the soil is too acid, lime may be added, as this "sweetens" the soil, or neutralizes the acid character. Apply about 1000 pounds of lime to each acre.

All garden crops require a rich soil, well supplied with humus. Humus is decayed vegetable or animal matter. Barnyard or stable manure is the best garden fertilizer, because it furnishes this humus. In some localities it is impossible to get manures for the garden, and dependence must be placed upon commercial fertilizers.

SELECTION OF MANURES.

When manures are selected for the garden, care should be taken that there are no elements in them injurious to the soil. Sawdust and shavings in manure tend to make the soil sour. If the manure used comes from stables, all shavings and sawdust should be removed if possible. The manure from sheep, pigeons and chickens contains a great deal of plant food. These manures are more valuable than the ordinary barnyard manures, but must not be distributed too thickly over the garden.

Where it is possible to do so, the student gardener ought to test seeds before planting them. Here are a few simple rules to follow in making seed tests to determine the vitality of the seed before placing it in the ground.

Fill a water tumbler, a cup or bowl half full of clean, moist sand. Place ten seeds on top of the sand. Cover the top of the tumbler with a small piece of glass or a saucer. Keep the seeds moist and warm. Note the proportion of seeds that germinate.

TESTING THE SEEDS.

Cut three or more pieces of blotting paper so that they will lie flat in a pie or a soup plate. Place ten seeds between each two layers of the paper. Add enough water to moisten the paper. Keep in a warm room. Note the proportion of seeds that germinate.

Plant ten seeds in the soil of a flower pot or a window box. Keep the soil moist and warm. Note the proportion of seeds that germinate.

Pupils should keep a record of these experiments, carefully noting results. If the pupil places ten bean seeds in a germinating dish and seven grow, let him work out the percentage of viability.

It is especially important to test seeds that have been held over from previous years.

WOULD CHANGE NAME.

On the ground that he is subject to military service and desires to obtain war risk insurance and name his mother as beneficiary, Albert Albee Wilden petitioned the courts yesterday to change his name to Albert Albee Somers. His mother, Margaret Orsavill Wilden, was divorced from Perry J. Wilden in San Diego in 1898. The following year she married William G. Somers. Her son, the petitioner, lived with Mr. and Mrs. Somers and learned to respect his step-father, he says.

SHIP BY CHRISTMAS, IS NEW COMPANY'S PLAN.

THE first ship off the ways by Christmas is the plan of the Southwestern Shipbuilding Company, which has set out to make a record at its new plant under construction at East San Pedro. The company has contracts for ten ships to be built for the United States Emergency Fleet Corporation. Contracts have been let for the engines for the first four, but the others will be outfitted entirely at the plant. A machine shop for the construction of the engines, for the other ships will be built at the plant.

With the sailing of the steamer Accomac for San Francisco, this week for delivery to the Shipping Board, Los Angeles will be still more plainly on the map as a shipbuilding center. The Accomac was the first ship launched at the plant of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company and the fast time in getting her in the water was largely responsible for additional contracts, bringing the total number of ships to be built by the government here up to thirty.

ANGELENO WRITES OF GASSING FRITZ.

WORK IS ALL DONE AT NIGHT; RUIN OF TOWNS BAFFLES DESCRIPTION.

A letter received by J. C. Knollin of The Times editorial staff from his brother, Loyal Knollin, who is with the Thirtieth Engineers, A.E.F., in France, gives an account of the work of the regiment which was organized from volunteers to use gas and liquid fire, and is known as the "hell-fire regiment." The letter, in part, is as follows:

"SUMWERINFRANCE, March 18, 1918.—I hardly know what you would consider being in the danger zone. Of course, we aren't quite as badly off as the infantry; however, sometimes we go closer to the Boche line than the infantry does. Our work must all be done at night, because it is all 'on top.'

"We leave our camp about 6:15 nearly every night, getting back about 3 in the morning. There are a few shells coming over, but so far none has come too close for comfort. The machine guns are the worst.

"All the cities or villages within walking distance of here have already had their share; they are absolutely ruined. It would be hard to describe the destruction one sees, and even if I could, I hardly think you would believe me.

"Tonight is to be a big night for us, as we have been preparing for a week. We are going to give 'Fritzie' a dose of gas he won't forget for a long while. An airplane is just going over now. I suppose he is going out for observation purposes. An Allied plane was brought down not far from our camp the other day. When I got to where it came down, an English fellow was crawling out from under it and asking where his hat and coat were. He looked to be about 21 years old. He certainly had nerve. In fact, nearly all the English officers I have seen are nervy.

"I hope this war gets Bill's goat before long, and we can all get back to our work again. But none of us even wants to think about going home before Bill has taken a back seat, and he still has the best of it, so I guess it will be some time before I can smoke a peaceful pipe in America.

"We have been having very fine weather lately, not too cold nor too warm, with very little rain. My first leave will be due in forty days. I get ten days then, I think, and if possible, and pocket-book permits, I am going to London with my bunkies. We are going to try to meet three American girls and take them to all the shows in London."

NEED BAEDEKERS' TO HELP WIN THE WAR.

A complete set of Baedeker's guide books to the countries of Western Europe should be placed on every transport sailing from this country, says a request sent out by the American Library Association Library War Service.

The books are needed now to help win the war, says the request, by giving officers and men detailed information that will enable them to adapt themselves most readily to their new environments.

The guide books should be taken to the nearest public library at once, and they will be sent to an A.L.A. Dispatch office and placed on a transport or sent to a camp.

You Can Tell the People Who Have Iron In Their Blood---Strong, Healthy, Vigorous Folks

Doctor Says Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Increase the Strength of Nervous, Run-down People in Two Weeks' Time in Many Cases.

ONE glance is enough to tell which people have iron in their blood. They are the ones that do and dare. The others are in the weakling class. Sleepless nights spent worrying over supposed ailments, constant dosing with habit-forming drugs and narcotics and useless attempts to brace up with strong coffee or other stimulants are what keep them suffering and vainly longing to be strong. Their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. Without iron the blood has no power to change food into living tissue and therefore, nothing you eat does you good; you don't get the strength out of it. When iron is supplied it enriches the impoverished blood and gives the body greater resistance to ward off disease. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have most astonishingly increased their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this, after they had in some cases been going on for months without getting benefit from anything.

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. There is nothing like good old iron to help put color in your cheeks and sound, healthy flesh on your bones. But you must take iron in a form than can be easily absorbed and assimilated like Nuxated Iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless.

Many an athlete and prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance which comes from having plenty of iron in the blood while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

In regard to the value of Nuxated Iron, Dr. A. J. Newman, late Police Surgeon of the City of Chicago, and former House Surgeon Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago, says Nuxated Iron has proven through his own tests of it to excel any preparation he has ever used for creating red blood, building up the nerves and strengthening the muscles. Dr. J. W. Armisted, Grove Hill, Ala., graduate of the University of Alabama School of Medicine, Mobile, 1882, says: "In the cases I used Nuxated Iron I have found more beneficial results than from any preparation I have ever used in 34 years' practice." Dr. R. B. Baugh, Polkville, Miss., graduate of the Memphis Hospital College, Memphis, 1898, says: "I always prescribe Nuxated Iron where a reconstructive tonic is indicated."

CUT THIS OUT

What Nuxated Iron is Made From

Sworn Statement of Composition of its Formula.

THE Board of Directors have authorized the broadest publication of the sworn statement of the composition of Nuxated Iron, so that the public may examine it for themselves and judge as to its merits.

Newspapers everywhere are invited to copy this statement for the benefit of their readers. It is suggested that physicians make a record of it and keep it in their offices so that they may intelligently answer questions of patients concerning it. Everybody is advised to cut it out and keep it. A copy of the actual sworn statement will be sent to any one who desires such. It is as follows:

Each dose of two tablets of Nuxated Iron contains one and one-half grains of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate of a special specific standard which in our opinion possesses superior qualities to any other known form of iron. By using other makes of Iron Peptonate we could have put the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets at less than one-fourth the cost to us, and by using metallic iron we could have accomplished the same thing at less than one-twelfth the cost; but by so doing we must have most certainly impaired their therapeutic efficacy. Glycerophosphates used in Nuxated Iron is one of the most expensive tonic ingredients known. It is especially recommended to build up the nerve force and thereby increase brain power, as glycerophosphates are said to contain phosphorus in a state very similar to that in which it is found in the nerve and brain cells of man.

As will be seen from the above, two important ingredients of Nuxated Iron (Iron Peptonate and Glycerophosphates) are very expensive products as compared with most other tonics.

Under such circumstances the temptation to adulteration and substitution by unscrupulous persons is very great, and the public is hereby warned to be careful and see every bottle is plainly labeled "NUXATED IRON" by the Dae Health Laboratories, Paris, London and Detroit, U.S.A., as this is the only genuine article. If you have taken other forms of iron without success, this does not prove Nuxated Iron will not help you.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE — Nuxated Iron recommended above is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by the Owl Drug Co., Dickinson Drug Co., B. & B. Drug Co., Boswell & Noyes, Sun Drug Co., and all other druggists.

Till We Come.

CERTAIN ALLIES CAN HOLD LINE.

Invalided Canadian Tells of Big German Losses.

Expects no Counter Drive for Some Time.

French and British Waiting Huns' Exhaustion.

"The Allied line on the western front can hold at any place that the Allied commander decide shall hold. It is like a thick piece of elastic that can bend back and not break, but it can snap back at any time and sweep the German armies from all the territory for which they recently paid the price in blood. I do not look for a counter-thrust on a large scale, however, for some time to come; I rather expect a tremendous air offensive on the part of the Allies."

This is the manner in which William Marr, who saw service as a drum major with the Ninety-second Highlanders, Fifteenth Battalion, from August, 1915, until he was honorably discharged in November, 1917, summed up the present status of the big German offensive. Marr was discharged as being unfit for further military service. He was with the Canadians during the capture of Vimy Ridge and many other major operations of the Canadian forces. He was blown up by high explosive shells several times, was partly buried on various occasions, and was further shaken while convalescing in England during a German air raid over London. He is now in Southern California.

REASONS FOR WAITING.

"Territory, in itself, is of only secondary importance in the present war," Maj. Marr explained. "This is the reason that I do not expect a major counter-offense yet. What is of prime importance at the present time is the number of men put out of action. So long as the Allied commanders can make the Germans pay a tremendous price in blood for a small piece of terrain of no too great strategical importance, just so long will they lead the Germans on and be on the defensive themselves.

"With America sending a large army over the seas, the Allies are constantly gaining strength as regards man power, while the reverse is the truth with Germany. Just now the war has resolved itself into a batttle between the Allied man power and the German man power. The man power will soon balance favorably on the side of the Allies.

"If the German losses are not ten men killed and wounded to every British, French and American soldier killed and wounded during the present offensive, then I certainly miss my guess. The Germans have not the slightest chance of breaking through."

A TREACHEROUS ENEMY.

Maj. Marr related several of the interesting phases of the tremendous world drama. On one occasion, he said, he, in company with a few Highlanders, came upon a German trench occupied by about twenty Prussians. Immediately upon seeing the British soldiers the hands of the Prussians went up.

"Have you had your breakfast yet," one of the Highlanders shouted, and several voices answered, "No." Thereupon the British soldiers took some bombs out of their pockets and throwing them into the trench, said "Well, here is your breakfast," and they passed on.

"The German soldier is treacherous and we cannot take any chances with them," Maj. Marr said. "They believe that all is fair in war, and practice this doctrine to the limit. Of all the German troops, the Prussians are the most treacherous. The Saxon fights the most gentlemanly of them. When the Saxons occupy the opposing trenches, both sides repair the wire entanglements before the trenches with almost perfect safety, aside from the danger of snipers, which exists at all times. There seems to be a mutual understanding between the British and the Saxons not to fire upon each other during this work. Often we repaired wire entanglements before our trenches within full view of the enemy with only fifty feet separating the opposing trenches. The Saxons did likewise.

PRUSSIANS COMING.

"But when the Prussians occupied the opposing trenches we always had to maintain a sharp lookout. Whenever a company of Prussians were to relieve a company of Saxons the Saxon troops would always inform us that the Prussians were coming and we knew what that meant."

Maj. Marr said that what surprised him most in America is that this country does not yet seem to realize, that it is engaged in a tremendous war. But the country will become thoroughly alive when the wounded and disabled soldiers begin to make their presence felt on street corners, he said.

"When you have such sights as we have in the old country or in Canada, you will realize what you are up against," he said. "In [illegible], which I left recently, there is a corner we call 'Shrapnel corner.' This seems to be the meeting place of wounded soldiers. To see a man in perfect condition without an arm or leg gone or some other member missing is an unusual sight there. This corner is located near two convalescent hospitals for soldiers. When you have such sights as that here you will fully realize what the present struggle means."

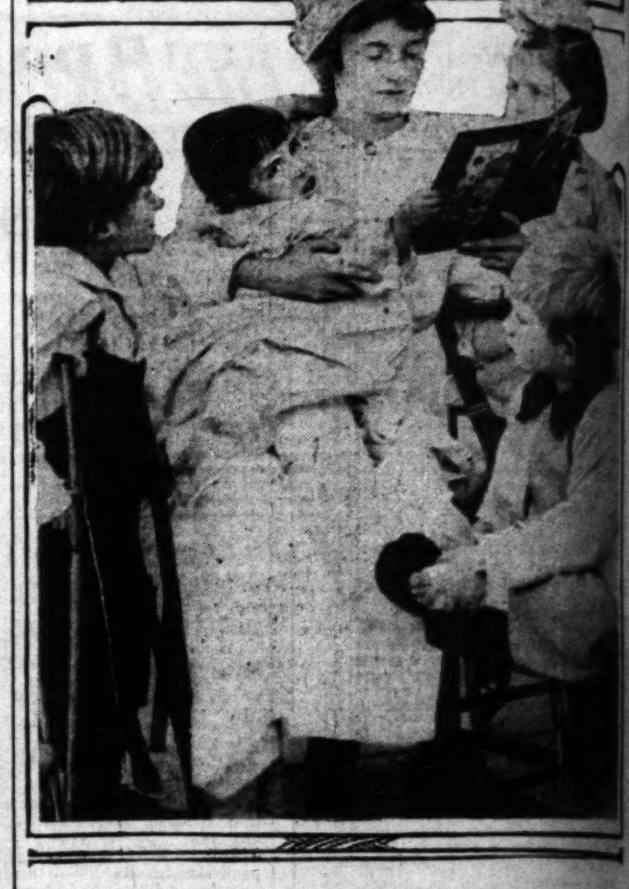
For Preservation of Little Lives.



Typical scene at the Children's Hospital.

Saves Lives.

INFANT CONSERVATION THIS HOSPITAL'S WORK

AT THE present time when conservation is the watchword, the work being done by the Los Angeles Children's Hospital takes on vital significance, for within its walls trained experts are concentrating all their forces toward the conserving of human lives. According to the annual report of the hospital, just made public, 4020 little invalids have been cared for during the year, as against 2184 the previous year, an increase of almost 100 per cent. Though the price of food has gone up tremendously, and competent help is expensive and hard to obtain, the hospital has been run with so much economy that the expenses have been only 10 per cent. more than last year.

Good and nourishing food is invariably served and the meals average only 7 cents. The daily average of patients cared for is seventy-two, although much of the time there are as many as eighty in the hospital. This does not include the out patients, that is, those coming back to the hospital for treatment every morning, of which there were 2342 during the past year.

Dr. Ellis Jones, in charge of the orthopedic department, holds a free clinic on Saturday mornings. There children are examined and if in need admitted to the hospital, while others are treated, coming regularly to the out-patient department. There is also a nurses' training school fully accredited by the State Board of Health, with twenty-five nurses and fourteen affiliated from five other hospitals.

SCOPE IS WIDE.

The fact that the Children's Hospital is the only institution of its kind in Southern California, and open to every creed and color, gives it a wide scope. While most of the children come from the homes of the poor in this city, many come also from the surrounding towns and even from other States. A number afflicted with tuberculosis of the bone have been sent here from Arizona. The district nurses in the course of their work find many children in need of hospital care, and the hospital also co-operates with the city schools. Other children's homes and charitable institutions send their sick children there as does the Home Finding Society.

The hospital has Dr. G. P. [illegible] as the resident physician. He had charge of the floating hospital for children in New York, which is in connection with Bellevue Hospital, and before that was connected with the Boston Children's Hospital.

Though work of great value is being done by the physicians and surgeons in every department, it is in theorthopedic work that some of the most interestin results are obtained. Dr. Ellis Jones has many times performed the Albee operation, originated by Dr. Fred Albee of New York, in which the diseased part of the spinal bone is removed and a piece of healthy bone is taken from the leg and inserted in its place, making a healthy and straight back. The results of infantile paralysis are overcome, and club feet have been straightened and made perfect members in numbers of cases, where children seemed hopelessly crippled.

MASTOID OPERATIONS.

The mastoid operations, which are particularly dangerous because of the proximity to the brain, are performed by Dr. J. M. Brown and Dr. Frank Detling. The hospital is equipped with operating rooms where every facility of light and appurtenance is the latest and most scientific. Dr. Mona Bettin is in charge of the pathological work and Miss Mary Bruce does the X-ray work.

The baby ward, which is supported by the Children's Hospital Auxiliary, is one of the most appealing [illegible]. There is a formulae kitchen exclusively for preparing baby food, and each baby's food is prepared separately, according to his needs. Dr. Victor Stork and Dr. Henry [illegible]rich are the specialists in charge of this work. The young [illegible] and women who are members of the auxiliary are planning a card [illegible] for Tuesday afternoon, June [illegible], at the Ebell Club House for the [illegible] of the baby ward.

The Board of Education [illegible] teacher to the hospital and [illegible] now established the only school [illegible] crippled children in the city. [illegible] little cripples learn to make [illegible]kets and many other [illegible] pretty things, and many of [illegible] are knitting for the soldiers.

WOMEN BACK WORK.

Behind this humanitarian institution, besides the physicians [illegible] give their services free, are [illegible] of women whose time, [illegible] money are being directed [illegible] work may go on. At the head of the organization is Mrs. Albert [illegible], who has just been re-elected president. Other officers include Mrs. [illegible] E. Newlin, vice-president; Mrs. James Page, treasurer; Mrs. [illegible] Eshman, assistant treasurer; [illegible] E. S. Rowley, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John Milner, recording secretary; Mrs. B. L. Harding, [illegible]tor, and Mrs. Walter J. Trask, [illegible] Mrs. George P. Griffith, director.

During the recent Liberty [illegible] drive the Ad Club took in $1100 [illegible] was put in Liberty Bonds for the Children's Hospital. This was [illegible]scribed at the tank in Central [illegible]. The Union Lithographic Company in the same manner took in [illegible] amounting to $300 which it put [illegible] Liberty Bonds for the hospital. [illegible] A. Kerr, captain of another [illegible] took in $60 for the hospital. All [illegible] money was mostly in nickels [illegible] dimes, and there were over [illegible] pennies.

Alkali In Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless,) and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

the Wild West Division have several thousand new will arrive. In the draft con- leaving their home stations 25 and 29 will be men from Idaho, Montana, Ne- Wyoming, Utah, North and Dakota and Minnesota. The and Minnesota will send their first men to this camp. California and Oregon, with their records for volunteer enlistments, will not be called upon to send men this month.

It was recently announced that Camp Lewis would be utilized to capacity, and it is believed that men have been ordered here from the Dakotas and Minnesota with this end in view. Camp Lewis also has made a record as a healthful cantonment, and it is said this has something to do with the ordering of men from new districts there. Minnesota will send 4700 men and the Dakotas about half as many more.

Although it has been about eight months since the first of the National Army men reported at Camp Lewis, there is one district from which men are due—Alaska—which has not sent a single soldier. Latest advices are that the Northland's first contingent will leave for Camp Lewis some time in June. The draft operated too slowly for the Alaskan snows last year, and the men in the interior could not report before this summer.

Camp Lewis is not lacking in Alaskans, however, for men living along the coast have come down to enlist, and they are among the huskiest men in the whole division.

While nothing definite is known of the work to which the recent graduates of the fourth officers' training camp will be assigned, it is believed these men will be used to train the coming draft contingents. Almost without exception, the men are eager to go overseas as soon as possible, but no matter what their orders are, they are resolved to give the best they have in them.

It is generally believed at Camp Lewis that many of the present non-commissioned officers also will be kept at the cantonment to assist in whipping the new men in shape. If this is true, there will be a group of disappointed men.

FIRST OF NEW DRAFT.

The first of the new draft arrivals reported at Camp Lewis today, and men now will come daily for about two weeks. The second contingents will start for the cantonment on May 29, and it is expected this movement also will require about a fortnight. Although nothing definite can be learned, the first of the men who have reached 21 since the first registration, and who will register on the first anniversary of this date, are expected at the camp some time in July or August.

Despite the fact that the division will be moved, there will be enough men to take its place, and possibly even two divisions, for more buildings are continually being ordered for the camp, and the government has announced that the cantonment will be utilized to its fullest capacity.

Among the many men and officers from Camp Lewis who already are known to be in France is Lieut.-Col. David L. Stone, the Quartermaster Corps officer who directed the building of the largest cantonment, and who during the months he was at Camp Lewis was successively promoted from captain to major and major to lieutenant-colonel. Lieut.-Col. Stone has just written Camp Lewis friends from London, where he says he was ill in a hospital with the mumps for eight weeks. His letter was posted on the eve of his departure for France.

An event the men of the Wild West division will look forward to—the unfurling of the largest American flag from the tallest pole at the largest cantonment—will take place in the near future, probably on Memorial Day. The flag is the gift of the citizens of Tacoma.

The giant silk flag which will fly at the camp will be 90x120 feet; ten feet each way larger than the famous Marshal Field flag in Chicago. The pole will be 343 feet high and weigh twenty-three tons. It will be quite an engineering feat to erect this pole. It is estimated that the work will cost about $1800. There will be appropriate ceremonies when the emblem is first freed to the breeze, and if the event can be staged on Declaration Day it is planned to make this the feature event of the programme.

Announcement of the early departure of the division from the cantonment is expected to result in a heavy influx of mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers, wives and sweethearts of the men, and many of them undoubtedly will come at a time when they can witness some big event at the camp. Such an event will be staged on June 15, when the biggest military horse show ever held on the Pacific Coast will be given at the auxiliary remount depot under the auspices of the depot. The proceeds from this event, which will be typically western, will go into the Wild West division's athletic fund.

Capt. J. W. Jackson, in command of the depot, has worked out the plan for the show, which has the hearty approval of division headquarters and the camp athletic council. The show will be open to all organizations of Camp Lewis having animal equipment, and there will be lively competition among the various units.

The show will be opened with a review of all the entries by Maj.-Gen. H. A. Greene, commanding the Ninety-first Division. This in itself will be the most impressive sight of the kind ever witnessed on the Coast.

Under the heading, "Western Horsemanship," there will be fancy riding and roping by men of the remount depot. This will be more for the interest of civilians than anything else, for no attempt is made at camp to specialize in Wild West features. The remount depot is entirely military, and Wild West riding for other purposes is not permitted.

All of the showings will be competitive. A few of the classes announced are:

Best four-mule team, best four-horse team, best ammunition train section, best machine-gun outfit, including mule team and cart; condition of animals, harness, wagon and personnel to be considered in making awards in these four classes.

Best officer's mount, best enlisted man's mount, horse high jump, mule high jump, horse and mule races, horseshoeing contest, maneuvers by wagon companies and pack trains, exhibition showing dismantling and assembling of escort wagon, western horsemanship, military features, including bayonet and rifle drills and grenade throwing.

PURCHASE OF RANCH TO SPEED HARBOR BUILDING.

Large Acreage will be Annexed to City and Water Supply Assured.

ALTHOUGH building permits in the harbor district will have passed the $1,000,000 mark by the end of the present month, plans now maturing for immediate development on a large scale are expected to treble this amount before the close of the year.

Following the sale of the Dodson ranch to the Community Association of San Pedro last Friday, steps have been taken to annex 2300 acres to the city of Los Angeles so that water for this and other property may be assured. Plans acceptable to the Public Service Commission have been worked out to provide water for all this area up to the 450-foot elevation.

This will include all of the government reservation at Fort MacArthur. As the officers are enthusiastically behind the annexation plan to bring the fort inside the city there is little doubt that the proposed bond issue of $300,000 for water development will be approved by the Federal government.

THE DODSON RANCH.

The purchase of the Dodson ranch by the Community Association, a home-building corporation recently organized under the auspices of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce, was made possible through the public spirit and liberal terms offered by Mrs. Rudecinda F. S. de Dodson, owner of the property. The property contains nearly 900 acres of choice land, much of which is available for home sites, and adjoins the city limits on the west of the San Pedro section of the city.

The purchase price of the ranch was $400,000, but the bulk of this will not be due for two years, and in the meantime the association may release units of forty acres upon the payment of $1500 an acre. It is planned to build substantial homes on the lower part of the ranch and sell them on the installment plan to shipyard workers who are now compelled to ride to and from Los Angeles, Long Beach and other cities because of the scarcity of houses in the harbor district.

Aside from the soldiers, there are only about 250 persons living in the district to be annexed. Water for the Fort MacArthur cantonment is imperative. On the higher elevations of the government reservation there is a scant supply from the privately owned plant of George H. Peck & Co.

MORE BUILDINGS.

The cantonment on the top of the hill, where the big guns are located, is being enlarged. Contracts have just been let to the William Simpson Construction Company for the construction of fifty more buildings at a cost of $200,000. They will include eight units for 132 men each.

Another large contemplated improvement in the harbor district is the grading and paving in the Second-street improvement section, for which plans have just been completed by the city engineer. The work involves the improvement of all the principal streets between Harbor boulevard and Pacific avenue north of fifth street, San Pedro, and involves an expenditure of about $300,000.

A telegram was sent by the North End Improvement Association of San Pedro to the Capital Issues Committee at Washington last week asking that the plan to improve the streets be approved as a war measure on account of the need of more buildings to house shipyards workers.

VALUE OF EXPERT KNOWLEDGE SHOWN BY KEARNY ENGINEERS.

Unit on Long Hike Builds Bridges, Repairs Roads and Utilizes Its Many Accomplishments in a Hundred Varied Fashions.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CAMP KEARNY, May 25.—Bits of knowledge, picked up here and there in strenuous outdoor life by men of the West, who comprise most of the Sunshine Division, are going to play an important part in the effective warfare to be conducted by the Camp Kearny boys in France. The cry has gone far and wide from the trenches and back of the lines for men who know the primitive ways of getting something done, from snaking logs and making them into a bridge or building in rapid-fire order to laying steel rails by the light of the moon. The cry did not go unheeded in the West for it was found in organizing the One Hundred and Fifteenth Engineer regiment that there are lots of sturly, expert workmen in the West who would rather build bridges for United States at $30 a month than talk I.W.W. stuff or work in the woods at much higher wages.

Every manner of man is needed in an engineer regiment. Men who know how to throw the diamond hitch and can talk in "mule language" when some of the refactory animals in tandem "snake" out freshly cut log. Felling trees should be the work of an artisan and in the army it has to be. Timbering and shoring has to be done by a man who has also handled a "single" or "double jack" in the mines. In fact, to be in the engineers one has to learn the tricks of the trade of a woodsman and miner, he must know something about construction, about railroad work, and if he does not, these are the things he has been getting from men, who do know, during his sojourn in Camp Kearny. And after all that he has to be a soldier, a good one with lots of nerve, for much of his work is done while the Huns tickle his fancy with shrapnel and well-aimed bullets. These men have to be able to come into a forest and turn it into a vital factor in the war.

AT OLD TASKS.

When the engineer regiment reached Cuyammaca Lake on the longest hike every taken by so large a uilt, the men began to breath again. They were high up in the mountains and they soon began to get at the tasks, that many of them had known all their lives, roughing it on the hills, where a tree is visually measured and its military value can be learned in short order. Woodmen and miners began to crop up here and there and the new man to the woods soon learned some valuable points. What these men did there was evidence that this war is calling upon men of all occupations to give their "widow's mite" to win the war.

Clyde Maynard, Company F, was formerly a corporal in Company F, of the engineers, but he asked to be made a private again. A corporal has a lot of writing to do. So back he went as a private, but when he got out in the woods he began to squirm around. He measured the forest with his eyes, sized up mules and outfits. Pretty soon Capt. Robert H. Nicholson put Maynard in charge of logging operations with Sergt. George Lefurgy and things began to hum. Both men were at home in the hills. Maynard is an expert logger. Sergt. Lefurgy was right in the front in the recent Ocean Beach tragedy when thirteen men lost their lives in the surf. He saved three men. He is an oil rigger, or was until he became a soldier, and also knows a lot about bridge construction. His knowledge and that of Maynard are much needed in the war. Maynard was made a temporary sergeant.

Another sort of expert was needed. The forest was scaled and cruised for available standing timber. Logs were felled by men who are clever with axe and saw. It takes an army mule to get the real joy out of life for these men. The forest soon resounded with axes and cries of "timber," which means get out of the way for a falling tree. One mule of two in tandem were hitched up to these logs and "snaked" them down the hills. This is one time that mules are not stubborn; they just got to keep out of the way of those logs or they will be sending in a card for mule heaven.

CONGLOMERATE UNIT.

The engineers are made up of a mixed lot of men. One native of the forests, an Indian, was able to talk in most soothing terms to one mule named George. All this man had to do was to lean over and say, "Please Mr. Mule, get a hump on you and pull," or words to that effect. But when this mule got in a tight fix there was only one man who knew just what to say to keep him moving. This was done by talking in meaning tones that wound up with "and I'll make your —— ears lay down over your head like a —— hounds." George always understood and stepped out.

There is lots of diversion in a hike of this nature. The men found the place where they camped well inhabited. Lieut. Sawyer, Company D, was in his tent at Santee when a skunk was about to call. The officer went out the rear of the tent in a hurry. Military tactics and engineering knowledge didn't count. He beat it. A man in Company A picked up a gunny sack full of leaves for his bed. When he was about to spread them out he espied a rattlesnake. One outfit killed five of these reptiles in fifteen minutes.

When the job of bridge making began, which was the first day in camp, the trees were felled, cut into logs and the "snipes" were cut in the ends, so they could be handled easily. The six bridges erected along the road between Alpine and Cuyamaca for San Diego county were crude affairs, but strong structures. The only materials used that did not grow on the spot were iron drift bolts and spikes. Mostly logs and rocks were used and the only milled lumber used was the flooring of the bridges.

This kind of work makes a hit with the boys, who have been training so hard at Camp Kearny that a change from the routine of things put new life and "pep" into them. It seems a far call from army life to swing an adz and watch it bite into a fresh log, or "snipe" the logs on the nose, or jamb a peavy into the timbers. Maynard introduced the Puget Sound "snipe" and many other tricks of the Northwestern woodsmen.

Good Turn

ARTILLERYMEN TO HELP CLUB'S RED CROSS FETE.

THE members of the One Hundred and Forty-third Field Artillery, who left Camp Kearny yesterday on a hike for Los Angeles, will show that they are appreciative when the regiment parades in Los Angeles. The boys in Battery F, a unit in this command, when mustered into the Federal service last summer, were "mothered" by the Friday Morning Club of this city. It supplied them with 100 blankets, sweaters and other comforts, making their life while in the temporary camp at the Grand-avenue school bearable.

Now, the bread cast upon the water is to return. The men, with the consent of their colonel, Ralph J. Faneuf, and their battery commanders, will assist the Friday Morning Club in advertising its benefit entertainment for the Red Cross by escorting the club's floats and the great Red Cross flag along the downtown streets. This parade will be next Friday afternoon at 1:30 or 2 o'clock, and it will be the only parade the One Hundred and Forty-third Field Artillery will make while in Los Angeles.

The regiment, fully equipped with cannon, caissons, ammunition train, scout and forage sections and ambulance service, and a band of fifty pieces, is following the inland route to Los Angeles. Last night it encamped at Escondido and tonight it will halt at Houk's Red Mountain ranch, near Fallbrook. It will pass through Whittier Thursday forenoon, arriving at the Stephenson-avenue entrance to Los Angeles shortly after the noon hour, when it will proceed to Exposition Park to camp for the four days it is to be the guest of the city. The Board of Park Commissioners, through Commissioner W. M. Bowen, has hastened the completion of one of its immense swimming pools, and this will be initiated Thursday afternoon by the tired and dust-coated artillerymen.

The Los Angeles auxiliary to Battery F, who initiated the movement to bring this regiment to Los Angeles on the 171-mile hike, and the members of the headquarters auxiliary, have joined hands in providing entertainment for the artillerymen while here. The two auxiliaries have plans in hand for a regimental ball to be given on the night of Saturday, June 1, at the Shrine Auditorium.

Washing Won't Rid Head Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

A Shampoo Worth Trying

It is not necessary to shampoo your hair so frequently if it is entirely and properly cleansed each time by the use of a really good shampoo. The easiest to use and quickest drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers is one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair and may be enjoyed at very little expense, by dissolving a teaspoonful of Canthrox, which can be obtained from any druggist, in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just to the top of the head. This, when rubbed into the scalp and onto every strand of hair, chemically dissolves all impurities. It is very soothing and cooling in its action, as well as beneficial to both scalp and hair. After rinsing out the lather so created, you will find the scalp is fresh, clean and free from dandruff, while the hair dries quickly and evenly, developing a bright luster and a soft fluffiness, that makes it seem very heavy.

GERMAN LOOT RILED CHAFFEE.

Protested to Waldersee at the Acts at Peking.

Tactics of Spoliation Same Then as Now.

American Commander Unused to Such "Kultur."

How Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, who spent his last days in Los Angeles, defied the Germans when they attempted in China, in 1900, the same tactics of destruction and spoliation that they have followed in the present great war, is told in Gen. Carter's biography of Gen. Chaffee, recently published by the University of Chicago press.

Gen. Chaffee — the only enlisted regular private who ever rose to the supreme rank in the United States Army—held, as commander of the American forces in China during the Boxer uprising, the most responsible position occupied by any American soldier between the Civil War and Gen. Pershing's arrival in France. When Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee arrived in Peking to take supreme command of the allied forces, in deference to his rank and Germany's suggestion, the allied troops were in possession of the city.

ORDER AGAINST LOOT.

Since the population had fled, valuable property was at the mercy of the soldiers. According to Gen. Carter, "the troops of some of the Powers looted officially; others, without official authority, but with equal facility." Gen. Chaffee's orders against looting were positive and the attitude of the American commander at once won the confidence and friendship of the Chinese and brought him into unpleasant contact with the German field marshal, for when the Germans came a new partition of the city was made and an area given over to them, and the German goose-step and German kultur were both soon presented to the astonished gaze of the honest, unpretentious American officers.

The area in Peking taken over by the Germans embraced the Chinese astronomical observatory. Perhaps even then the Kaiser was looking for his place in the sun, for "with scientific precision the ancient astronomical instruments were dismantled and prepared for shipment to Germany as trophies. The instruments were of bronze, of curious design, but of doubtful utility. Their chief value was that of curios.

WRITES TO WALDERSEE.

This act of vandalism aroused the indignation of the American commander. Though co-operating with Field Marshal Von Waldersee, he was not under his orders and felt free to write a letter which threatened to destroy friendly relations with German headquarters. This is the letter, as published in Gen. Carter's book:

"Headquarters,
"China Relief Expedition,
"Peking, China, December 3, 1900.

"Your Excellency:

"Having heard that the astronomical instruments are being removed from the observatory, an officer of my staff went there yesterday and on his return confirms the report. I have the honor to inform Your Excellency that my government would vehemently denounce any officer of its service who might enter upon spoliation of this sort, and it will sincerely regret to learn that any nation with which it co-operated to relieve the besieged legations in Peking authorizes or permits its troops to injure or remove any instruments or other part of the observatory. As commander of one of the four co-operating columns which relieved the legations on August 14,

"I make to you respectful protest in this matter and shall inform my government of the fact.

"With assurances of high esteem,

"Very respectfully,
"Your obedient servant,
"ADNA R. CHAFFEE,
"Major-General U.S.V.
"Commanding U. S. Troops,
"China Relief Expedition,
"Field Marshal Count von Waldersee,
"Commanding Allied Forces."

The field marshal, probably astonished that anyone should dare to questions his acts, answered in a brief note, criticising the American general for not writing in German and giving the impression that he was expected to mind his own business.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL AIDS YOUNG AND OLD.

MANY GARMENTS MADE AND DISTRIBUTED AND COOKING LESSONS GIVEN.

At the recent annual meeting of the Achsah J. Stimson Industrial Association, which conducts an industrial school at No. 318 LaFayette street, Mrs. C. E. Crary was elected president for the ensuing year.

The secretary reported that unsolicited donations have been received from many friends. One hundred garments and towels from the Needlework Guild were distributed where needed. Many partly-worn garments given by friends have been repaired and given where they were greatly appreciated.

The work of skillful repairing as well as making new garments was taught in the sewing classes, of which there were 106 held during the year.

The children made skirts, aprons, dresses and underwear and baby clothes for little brothers and sisters. The mother's class also had instruction in making and repairing. The high cost of material has interfered with the work of making new garments in this class. There were given 125 cooking lessons and many practical recipes were given, and later used at home.

A boys' club has been organized to meet twice a month. They have started a club library, and are organizing work for the Red Cross. Evening entertainments for the parents have been held, which have been well attended.

The tests conducted during the past week by a board of experts, headed by Col. Lucian B. Moody, of the Ordnance Department, showed the Liberty trucks satisfactory in every respect, it is said. There has been strong opposition to the Liberty truck from certain automobile manufacturers, who would have shared a lucrative business if the government had adhered to the decision of Mr. Crowell to supply the army with trucks of established design.

ROAD EXPERT WITH THE A.A.A.

The American Automobile Association has secured the services of Mr. O. K. Parker as road engineer. Mr. Parker has traveled every road in the Southwest and many miles where no road exists. He was the original scout for the National Old Trails, organized it and signed it. For years he has been scouting and mapping roads in mountain and desert and is without doubt the most experienced and best qualified organizer and road engineer in the West. After having traveled the National Old Trails, the Ocean-to-Ocean highway, the Midland Trail and every other road or suggestion of a road between Los Angeles and Denver, he made a trip over the Arrowhead trail to Salt Lake City and immediately saw its great advantages. His permanent connection with the work is the first result. Some very interesting and practical results will follow.

AUTOS ALLOWED ON NANTUCKET.

Motorists Win Victory in a Hot Contest.

Town Policy Twelve Years Old Reversed.

Lame, Halt and Blind Brought to the Polls.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NANTUCKET, May 16.—By a margin of forty votes, Nantucket yesterday accepted an act, passed by the Legislature recently, permitting the operation of motor vehicles on the island. The vote at a special town meeting was one of the largest ever polled on Nantucket, the advocates of admission being victorious, 336 to 296. The total registration of the town is 816, but 140 of the island's legal voters are now serving in the military or naval service of their country.

By its action yesterday, the town formally abandoned a policy of twelve years' standing. Although within that period automobiles have been used intermittently on the island, public sentiment has been so set against them that court proceedings, popular demonstrations and, finally, in 1914, an act of the Legislature resulted in exclusion from all roads and streets of all motor vehicles. The act of 1914 was accepted by the voters at a special town meeting, 276 to 224.

Yesterday's action came at the end of one of the most vigorous campaigns the island has ever seen. Literally the lame, the halt and the blind were brought to the polls. One aged voter had to be carried up the stairs to the polling booth and supported by friends while his feeble hand placed the cross on the ballot. Inmates of the almshouse who had not lost their legal standing as citizens were brought to the ballot box to exercise their right of franchise.

Summer visitors, most of whom favored a continuance of the exclusion policy, came from various sections of the country to assist in getting out the vote in order that the peculiar charm which Nantucket has had for them as a vacation resort by reason of the exclusion of motor vehicles might be preserved.

The advocates of admission were equally active. Headed by representatives of real estate interests, with holdings some distance from the boat landing, they campaigned from 6 o'clock in the morning until 6 at night, arguing up to the last minute that development of island property made the use of automobiles highly essential. They were aided greatly in their canvass by conditions created by the scrapping of the narrow-gauge railroad, which has run for years from the boat landing to Siasconset. The removal of the railroad left 'Sconset visitors and residents with no other means of transportation than that furnished by carriage drivers. The carriage drivers, needless to say, were out in force against acceptance of the act.

The result yesterday bore out the claims of those who insisted that a vote by Australian ballot would show a margin in favor of automobiles. At the special election in 1914, when motor vehicles were excluded, open ballots were used and there have been assertions that voters in some cases feared to express their views at that time because of the possibility that their business interests would be jeopardized through antagonism of the summer visitors.

The result yesterday undoubtedly means a rush of automobiles to the island. Already Nantucketers are negotiating for the purchase of motor vehicles and by the time the summer population begins to arrive, it is anticipated they will be in as common use as elsewhere in the State.

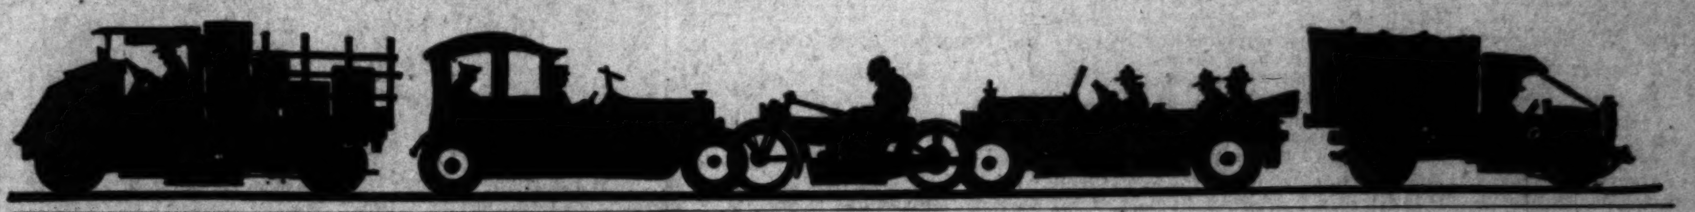
What effect admission will have on the future of the island as a pleasure resort is uncertain. It is believed that many who have been attracted to Nantucket in the past because of the freedom from the noise and other annoyances of automobiles will seek other spots for the heated period. On the other hand, advocates of admission assert it will bring to the island many who have stayed away in the past because of the lack of modern transportation facilities.

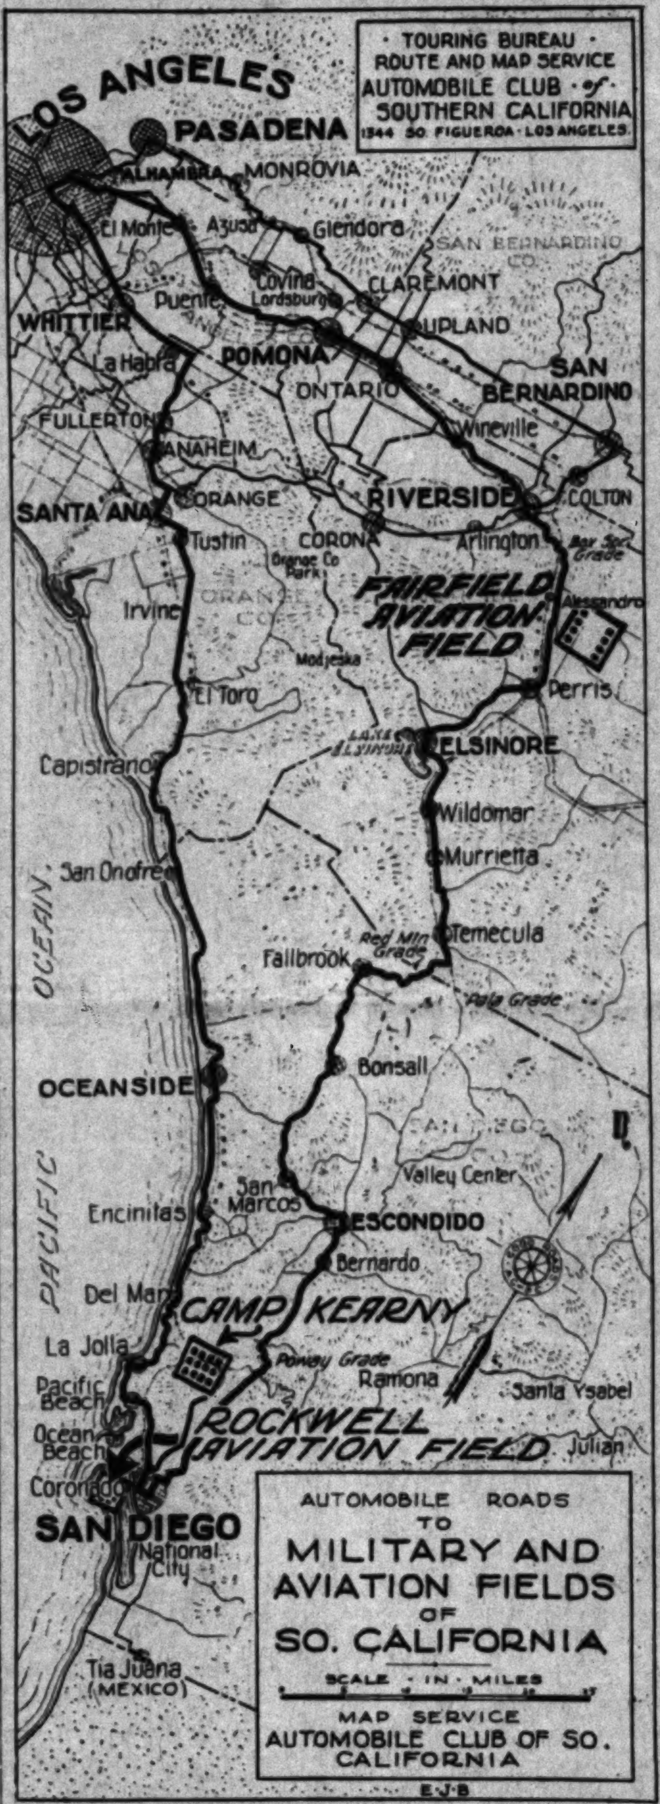
It is by no means certain that yesterday's vote marks the end of the island's automobile controversy. It is anticipated that those who are opposed to them will keep up the fight and that further legislative action will be sought.

CUTTING RIVETS.

The proper tool to use in cutting out rivets that hold together thin metal parts is a sharp chisel. The head of the rivet should be backed up with a weight of some kind so as to prevent tearing of the adjacent metal. An oxyacetylene torch is the quickest method of cutting off rivet heads.

Ribbons of Asphalt Connect Near-by Military Camps.





ROUGH AND READY ALIGNMENT TEST.

A rough and ready method of testing the alignment of the front wheels is to jack these wheels up an equal distance from the ground and spin them. While they are revolving draw a line on the center of the tires with a piece of chalk. Measure the distance from the line on one tire to the corresponding line on the other tire at the height of the hubs and both before and behind the front axle. The approved gather will work out at about three-eighths of an inch.

GOOD WAY TO GET EMERGENCY START.

In cases where the starter is out of business and the crank handle is not available, it is possible to start the engine by jacking up the rear wheels, blocking the front wheels and then shifting into high, after which the cylinders are primed, the spark and throttle are set and the engine is cranked by turning a rear wheel. In doing this the operator should take hold of the tire rather than the spokes and must be careful not to get caught when the wheels start to revolve.

Some Class to Us.

OUR MILITARY HIGHWAYS ARE THE BEST ON THE CONTINENT.

Southern California's Wonder Boulevards Link Military and Naval Depots in a Most Marvelous Manner, Making Quick Auto Runs Possible.

BY GORDON GASSAWAY.

TAKING an airplane view of the situation, it seems that Southern California has provided the greatest system of military highways in America—and by unconscious effort, at that.

With the establishment of the newest aviation field near Riverside, the military highways in this part of the State have come into their own so far as actual usefulness is concerned.

EARLY START.

In 1900, when the young Automobile Club of Southern California staged its first "run," to Pomona, that was probably the real beginning of the military highway system in Southern California—because, well, because it started the country to thinking that maybe "horseless carriages" weren't such tarnashun foolish things after all, and perhaps better roads would help to haul the beets to market.

Another run was run to Riverside, a big achievement, and then came a trek to San Diego and the road work was under way in earnest. Los Angeles county went to bat for macadamized highways—all really instigated by the motorists of the section under the never tiring leadership of the Automobile Club. Other counties followed suit, and then came the State highways, grumbled at, at first, by some who hated to think of "puttin' all that money into roads for these hifalutin' automobile fellers to skip about on."

WE STARTED IT.

What is the result of this tremendous "good roads" activity? It is just this: When the time does come that these United States get good and ready to build government-owned, honest-to-goodness military highways for transporting troops in motor trucks (which is one of the best mediums) then it will be to Southern California that the nation can look with gratitude for having shown the way.

And every motorist who has been behind the Automobile Club in its remarkable activity, can pat himself on the back for having been part and parcel of what has turned out to be one of the greatest patriotic movements possible—providing good roads for our troops.

VERY HANDY.

Consider now the necessity arising for the transportation of officers and inspectors from the Rockwell aviation field at San Diego to the new field at Riverside—from San Pedro to Los Angeles—from Camp Kearny to any one of a hundred points in the State, and then consider the importance of the highway system the motorists and people of Southern California have so gloriously provided for just such a contingency.

Caesar built his stone roads with deliberate intent—inspired by Mr. Mars, god of munition factories, but what has suddenly blossomed forth as the greatest military road system in America came into being when munition factories were making cheese.

SIGNPOSTING.

Furthermore, there is a national signposting work now being carried on by the Automobile Club of Southern California over the transcontinental routes which is bound to bear fruit in waking up these United States to the necessity of constructing paved highways from Coast to Coast. The Pacific Coast has built the roads which the government is using in one way or another.

America's coasts are its frontiers. They should be protected by good roads just as well as by cannon.

At the present time it is vital to note that our own club has its cars, some of them, out doing signposting work on the Lincoln highway, the National Old Trails and the Midland Trail. A big work and a good work. It not only encourages travel to Southern California, but sees that said travel gets here accurately and without loss of time.

WELL MARKED.

It goes without saying that roads built in this corner of America, the nest egg of the greater military system which is bound to become national, have been thoroughly marked by the club already, and everyone who drives a car here knows it. So do the military authorities and they give credit where credit is due. Camp Kearny has been signposted, and the aviation field will be signposted if need be.

Every membership in the Automobile Club means more power for greater good, more roads, more signs and more pep!

GASSAWAY WILL SOAK THE SUBS.

Gordon Gassaway, genial dispenser of information for the Automobile Club of Southern California, has valiantly rushed to the defense of his country, having joined the Naval Reserve at San Pedro, whence he hopes to be transferred shortly to a ship on the Atlantic. Gassaway has been with the club for several years and has kept its good deeds much in the public eye. He stirred up much of the good roads excitement, speeded up the club's campaign for registering machines against theft, and was in no small measure responsible for the success of the club's drive for members last year, which resulted in its becoming the largest organization of its kind in the country. Language flowed freely from the erudite ribbon of Gassaway's Remington (advt.) and if he soaks one of the Kaiser's submarines with one of his double-jointed adjectives, it will be all over but singing "Down went Von Ginty to the Bottom of the Sea."

TRUCKS CUT IN ON SHORT RAILROADS.

"The introduction of the motor truck into our commercial life sounds the death knell of short-line railroads," declared F. A. Seiberling, president of the Lincoln Highway Association. "Perhaps never again," continued Mr. Seiberling, "except where heavy tonnage is to be handled, will short-line railroads be built in this country. Due to its proven economic value, the motor truck is moving irresistibly forward, and now will be forced by the present war necessity to do in a year or two what economic efficiency would have led it to do sooner or later—dominate completely the short-haul field.

"We have today 400,000 motor trucks in service in this country. Those competent to judge intimate that within five years after the war shall end, this number will exceed 4,000,000, and that nothing can stop this great economic movement except the failure (which would be a national calamity,) to build hard-surfaced roads of adequate strength to carry the greater tonnage at the higher speed that will be required."

HERE IS A GOOD-ROADS SUGGESTION.

OUR present type of highways are equipped with death traps on each side. This is rather a startling statement, but it must have some basis in fact, for it is advanced by George C. Diehl, chairman of the good roads board of the American Automobile Association, writing in the March Motor, on "Our Roads as They Should Be." Mr. Diehl believes that the present ditch system of drainage should be done away with in favor of a system of underground drain pipes, making ditchless roads of our highways.

"The highways of the future," says Mr. Diehl, "must have roadways of sufficient width not merely for safety, but for the comfortable confidence of the driver. A car owner may come through alive at the end of a day's run on a popular thoroughfare, but the condition of his nerves after he has balanced himself fifty times an hour between a yawning ditch at his right and whizzing cars at his left, is something that need not be described to the average driver, because he has been there.

"Fear of an open ditch breeds overcaution that drives men to the other extreme and brings about collisions. On fairly wide roadways with deep ditches, drivers are reluctant to use only one-half of the roadway, since a momentary slip means disaster. Allowance for a two or three-foot margin of safety by drivers between their cars and the ditch reduces the effective width four or five feet. Safety and comfort demand the discontinuance of deep ditches."

How much of the accident list that is to be found in every Monday morning's paper is due to the fear of the open ditches alongside our roads it would be difficult to estimate, but certainly it is a large percentage.

The trouble is that our highway officials have not yet grasped the tremendous size of the problem that has been entrusted to them. There are nearly 5,000,000 motor vehicles in use in this country at the present time. If we allow an average of three passengers, this means that 15,000,000 people ride in self-propelled vehicles. This is equal to the population of our most populous State, with something over.

On a pleasant Sunday afternoon in the touring season, probably most of these people are out on the road. Every effort should be made to care for their safety, just as the health departments care for the welfare of the citizens of the State. The roads ought to be made as safe as human ingenuity can make them, instead of being fitted with deathtraps on each side.

PAIGE
Look 'Em Over!

"Popularity based upon satisfactory performance is added value to any motor car, especially when the time comes when you wish to exchange it for a later model. Paige resale values today are higher than at any time in Paige history—there must be a reason for this and that reason must be a good one, otherwise this condition could not exist. During the past week one dealer offered $100 more for a Paige than it cost six months ago new. We don't pretend to do business that way, but our allowances on Paige and all other makes of standard cars are as high as good business judgment will permit. We are rendering satisfactory service upon all the cars we sell, whether new or used, and our policies cannot help but satisfy any reasonable purchaser.

NOW HANDLE FOUR LINES.

Another Change is Announced on Auto Row.

High-Grade, Medium-Price Car Taken Over.

Have All Machines They Can Dispose Of.

Another important change on Automobile Row was effected last week when the announcement was made by S. F. Seager & Co., that the concern has taken over the distribution of the Columbia Six for Southern California and Southern Nevada. This aggressive concern is now the distributor of the Jordan, Columbia and Grant automobiles and the International truck.

"With the acquisition of the Columbia we feel that we have a line that should meet the demands of the motor purchasing public for a medium price car of high grade and with great power and durability. We are proud to add it to the line we already distribute. Although on the market but two years, it is one of the greatest successes in that period and the sales made in many parts of the country attest its popularity," said Mr. Seager.

"It is an assembled car, using exclusively the highest grade unit made in the United States and is manufactured under men who have won fame in the automobile field. The latest models are equipped with the thermostatic control of radiator which gives a better running motor and greater mileage from gasoline.

"We know we will not get as many Columbia Sixes as we will be able to sell, but we cannot complain on that point. Other dealers are in the same boat when it comes to production. We must all do our share to help win the war.

"The word 'service' is built in the Columbia and from investigations conducted by us we know that this make of car is absolutely dependable."

GOES FORTY-FOUR MILES ON ONE PINT.

AMAZING GASOLINE RECORD IS HUNG UP BY MOTORCYCLE.

Equipped with a Master carburetor, a Harley-Davidson motorcycle, at Sacramento, April 4, established a phenomenal gasoline mileage record, when it went 44.2 miles on one pint, which is equal to 355.2 miles on one gallon. It was more than a month after the record had been made that the news reached the Master company and then the authenticated information came from the East.

"Although we do a large volume of business through our Sacramento distributors, we wondered why in April, that the number of Masters ordered from there took such a sudden and big jump. An inquiry which reached us from Buffalo gave us the first clue," said Harness.

"The test is authenticated by witnesses which accompanied the motorcycle. What makes the record seem all the more astounding is the statement that five miles from the start, the carburetor was taken apart to remove some dirt and this caused a loss of about four tablespoons full of gas."

EUGENE WEBB NOW SOAKING SPEEDERS.

Motorists who formerly used to drop in and see Eugene Webb, Jr., when he was selling used automobiles for the Leach Motor Car Company can see him now with very little difficulty by simply stepping through the city limits of Culver City, a few miles faster than the law allows. Webb, who is high mogul of the Culver City Bank, has recently been appointed City Recorder and among his arduous tasks is that of soaking speeders with fat fines, calculated to make the pocketbook and the throttle-toe lighter. He warns all and sundry that this is where friendship ceases and that he has a tough motor cop who will make all speed fiends do the goose step up to the Recorder's office.

SUPPLY OF SEDANS PROVES INADEQUATE.

The recent unusual demand for the Sedan type of car has already caused it to become a real factor in the affairs of the automobile dealer in at least this part of the country. Sales on Ford sedans have become so large that what looked like an oversupply is proving to be inadequate to meet the demand, according to W. D. Dunham, the Ford agent on West Seventh street.

While we have been able to keep abreast of sales on this particular car, there is every reason to believe that another few weeks may change this status and those who delay their purchase of a Ford Sedan may find one hard to locate a little later on.

Barney Oldfield: I have a 1918 Maxwell which has been run 4000 miles. Two pistons leak oil. I put one non-leak piston ring on each. Within 500 miles the same thing happened. Would you advise three leak-proof rings on each piston?

T. K., Buffalo, N. Y.

Yes, I believe that three rings of the special leak-proof design would stop the trouble to a greater extent, but that amount might not eliminate it. Perhaps the cylinders are badly out of round, or scored; you may be using too much oil or an oil that is too light in body.

TRIP RECALLS PIONEER DAYS.

Interesting Auto Journey on "Forgotten Highway."

Old Stage Route to Imperial is Followed.

Warner's Ranch Country is Little Known.

Long-distance travel by road has seen a marvelous revival since the coming of the automobile. Thousands of Californians have traveled El Camino Real from end to end, cross-continent motor tours are the commonest of every-day matters. Many once-famous routes of travel, such as the Old Mormon Trail have been revived by the automobile, yet one road, sixty years ago, the main route of travel into Southern California from the East, has remained neglected. "The Forgotten Gateway," it might well be termed, yet it is a road well worth remembering, for more historic interest attaches to it than any Southern California road except El Camino Real itself. It is the road from Los Angeles to Yuma that the old Butterfield stage line followed, by way of El Monte, San Bernardino, Temecula, Warner's Hot Springs, Vallecito, Cariso Creek, Cameron Lake and Yuma.

The trail through "The Forgotten Gateway" was blazed as long ago as 1776 by bold Capt. Anza, founder of the mission and town of San Francisco, when he marched with his little band of priests, soldiers and settlers from Sonora, Mex., to the Golden Gate. They came by way of the Mission San Xavier, near Tucson, and followed down the Gila River to the present site of Yuma. Their journey west across the awful wastes of the Colorado Desert was guided by two imperative necessities—to reach the mountains as quickly as possible and escape the desert heat, and at the same time find a route with frequent water holes. Thus was the route through the pass of San Felipe chosen, and for the same reasons that the Spanish pioneers found it good, trappers and travelers continued to follow it during the period of the Mexican dominance of California.

WAR COMES.

Then came the war with Mexico, and "The Forgotten Gateway" saw the exhausted troops of Gen. Kearney toil through it, bound for the conquest of California. Like the Spaniards before them, they rested in the green meadows at the summit, in the Warner's ranch country, and then went on westward to fight at San Pasqual, near Escondido, the bloodiest battle ever waged on California soil. Followed them the troops of the Mormon battalion, and with California now a part of the United States, an increasing tide of emigrant travel came through San Felipe. It culminated in the establishment of the Butterfield stage line, running from St. Louis to San Francisco, longest and best equipped stage line the world has ever seen. Over the 2881 miles of mountain and desert the stages ran, twice weekly, and it took an equipment of 100 stages, 1000 horses, 500 mules and 750 men to keep the service going. Because the route followed was free from snow in winter and permitted an uninterrupted mail service, the Federal government subsidized the route to the extent of $600,000 per year.

The Butterfield stages began operation in the fall of 1858, and the service was maintained until the outbreak of the Civil War, when the Confederate government promptly levied on all the stock and equipment of the eastern end of the line thus putting it out of commission. Then travel dwindled through "The Forgotten Gateway," ebbing, until today the very existence of the famous route is almost faded from memory. The average automobile map does not show it, beyond Warner's there are only a few signs placed by the United States Geological Survey. But, according to "Jerry" Woodill of the Harold L. Arnold organization, it is well worth the time of the motorist seeking a new week-end trip to travel to Warner's Hot Springs, and from there explore for a few miles down the San Felipe Valley "The Forgotten Gateway."

GOOD DIRT ROADS.

Woodill chose to follow the road all the way to the Imperial Valley last week in a Maxwell. He made the trip successfully, but his advice to the average motorist is not to attempt to go clear through. In a car of the power and stamina of the Maxwell it is safe enough, provided the driver is experienced in handling a car in deep sand, but the chief part of the beauty and interest of the journey may be easily reached within a few miles of Warner's Hot Springs, over excellent dirt roads.

"The Automobile Club of Southern California advised going to Warner's Hot Springs by way of Hemet and St. John's grade, but I wanted to follow as nearly as possible the line of the old stage route," said Woodill last week, in describing the trip. "Accordingly, I took the Temecula route, leaving the concrete State highway on a left-hand road half a mile east of Temecula. There is one sandy creek bottom that might give some inexperienced drivers trouble, but aside from this the road was good dirt road all the way to Warner's. It is just 135 miles from Los Angeles to Warner's Hot Springs by this route, and the Maxwell covered it in five hours and twenty minutes without any effort at speed.

"After leaving Temecula the road passes through rolling hills—a wild, unsettled country for the most part. I saw more rabbits, quail and doves than I have seen for years. Two coyotes ran across the road and then stopped to look at the car. It is a delightful ride for anyone who tires occasionally of our endless boulevards.

"At Oak Grove we found the first sign of the past. The old stage station, built more than sixty years ago, still stands under the oaks, facing a wide green meadow. They told us that soldiers were encamped there for a long time during the period when the Cahuilla Indians were troublesome.

AT WARNER'S.

"From Oak Grove on to Warner's is one of the most attractive bits of road in Southern California, and the accommodations at Warner's Hot Springs are delightful. Though you are not interested in the slightest in history, scenically, the trip is one of the most worthwhile in Southern California.

"We spent the night at Warner's Hot Springs, and started for Imperial by the San Felipe next morning. Four miles from the Hot Springs we passed the old Warner ranch home. The old adobe is deserted, now, sleeping peacefully in the sun. It is hard to picture Col. Warner's dramatic escape from it, when Indians raided the rancho in 1857. He fought his way out, killing half a dozen of the Indians, and escaped on horseback, carrying with him a Mexican boy whom the Indians had wounded.

"A few miles further on we found a living link with the stirring days of the past that 'The Forgotten Gateway' knew. Once a keeper of the Butterfield stage station at Carrizo Creek, Henry Wilson still lives in the canyon of the San Felipe and keeps a little store. He is 84 years old, but still hale and hearty. His wife has lived in the canyon since 1861, and she remembers the soldiers that marched through the pass during the Civil War, probably the California volunteers on their way to Arizona. It brings those stirring days very close to talk to those old people who had a part in them.

"Beyond Wilson's, the road grew steadily more rugged and steep, finally reaching Vallecitos Creek through a winding rocky pass that was barely wide enough to let the car pass. The green meadows were left behind, the wonderful wild flowers of the San Felipe vanished and the desert began with creosote bushes, a valley of agaves, and then giant ocatillo bushes, the largest I have ever seen.

"The old stage station at Vallecitos still stands, a crumbling adobe that a few more years will destroy. The roof is made of pine rafters, hewn out with an ax then ocatillo stalks laid crosswise upon them and bound to the rafters with strips of rawhide, and a thick tule thatch above that.

"Below the stage station a battle with sand began. A wagon with sixty-inch tread had preceded us down the sandy wash, and blown sand had filled its tracks. You can imagine the sort of road it left for us. It was blazing hot, and what little breeze there was, was at our backs. In low and second practically every foot of the way, the Maxwell fought its way for thirty miles of the worst road I have ever traveled. 'Blow' sand, that shifts with every wind, clutched at the Maxwell's wheels all the way. Believe me, you appreciate a car with such power and cooling ability as the Maxwell possesses on a road like that. The ease of the Maxwell gear shift that permits you to drop from high to second and second to low without loss of momentum is another factor of value in such work.

"When we reached El Centro, the speedometer showed just 230 miles from Los Angeles. Some day, it is probable, that the San Felipe road will be improved, but until it is, 'The Forgotten Gateway' will remain little traveled. But, by all means, visit Warner's Hot Springs and the old Warner rancho, for you will find it one of the most worthwhile trips from every standpoint that you can make with a motor car."

A Message to the Business Man

Speed Up Your Business with Moreland Distillate Truck Equipment at the Lowest Possible Operative Expense.

In Moreland equipment you have increased fuel mileage, more economy, service and the utmost power and maximum efficiency.

Ask any Moreland owner about the operative cost of his truck and he will tell you the same thing. Facts and figures best tell the story of Moreland truck efficiency.

Do you know that all Morelands operate successfully on distillate? The Moreland gasifier insures a low fuel consumption average, because low-grade fuel is properly prepared for combustion by this non-comparable device.

The yearly operative cost records compiled by thousands of Moreland owners substantiate this statement.

Recent tests of the Moreland Company with a 2½ ton truck have proven conclusively that the surest, cheapest and fastest means of motor transportation may be obtained only with Moreland equipment.

The high-grade quality of material of the Moreland was best proven when the Government staged an official tryout of nearly all truck equipment during the Mexican trouble, nearly two years ago. Of all the motor equipment engaged in this severe and gruelling demonstration, the Moreland was one of the three that registered a perfect score.

Here's the answer—Moreland trucks are constructed to meet the requirements of western haulage conditions; because over $490,000 of parts are at the disposal of Moreland owners; and because unexcelled factory service is offered all Moreland truck operators.

Don't forget the Moreland is a California product, and in this time of strife, home industry should be patronized.

Let our salesmen demonstrate the merits of Moreland distillate truck equipment—let us show you some of the thousands of letters we have received from enthusiastic and satisfied owners. Also, let us show you official figures of our recently staged speed, economy and endurance demonstration, from San Diego to Sacramento.

ith sand began. A wagon with a ixty-inch tread had preceded us own the sandy wash, and blowing and had filled its tracks. You can agine the sort of road it left for s. It was blazing hot, and what ittle breeze there was, was at our acks. In low and second practically every foot of the way, the little Maxwell fought its way for thirty miles of the worst road I have ever raveled. 'Blow' sand, that moves with every wind, clutched at the Maxwell's wheels all the way. Believe me, you appreciate a car with such power and cooling ability as the Maxwell possesses on a road like that. The ease of the Maxwell gearshift that permits you to drop from high to second and second to low without loss of momentum is another factor of value in such sand work.

"When we reached El Centro, our speedometer showed just 230 miles from Los Angeles. Some day, it is probable that the San Felipe route will be improved, but until it is, 'The Forgotten Gateway' will remain little traveled. But, by all means, see Warner's Hot Springs and the old Warner rancho, for you will find it one of the most worthwhile trips from every standpoint that you can make with a motor car."

CAMP CURRY ECONOMY RUN DOWN FOR JUNE.

THE second annual economy run to Camp Curry in the Yosemite and which is scheduled for June 14-15, will be under the auspices of the A.A.A., according to an announcement given out by Mark A. Erwin, local manager, whose office is located at No. 623 South Spring, barring unforseen circumstances.

At a meeting of the dealers who have entered cars and which will be held this Wednesday evening, the route and other details incident to the event will be settled.

The Automobile Club of Southern California will furnish the scout or pilot car. This arrangement is considered an important one as there will be possibility of cars leaving the designated route. Stan Mitchell, secretary of the club, will be present at the meeting and advise the entrants on mileage and road conditions. Two of the club's scout cars have just returned from the Yosemite and complete data is at hand.

"I want the dealers to handle the run themselves in so far as anything they do will not conflict with the regulations set down by the three A's," writes Foster Curry from the Yosemite. "It was the intention that the run last year be under such auspices but there was not time in which to get the necessary sanction. The necessary details have been attended to this time, however."

As last year the entrants will be the guests of Camp Curry while there and no entrance fee is charged. The cars are divided into three classes and a cup is awarded the winner in each class. "The Yosemite was never more beautiful than it is now," writes Curry to Irwin.

A simple and effective way of conserving dry cells is to place them in a snugly-fitting box and fill the interstices among them with dry sand. When the cells rattle so that momentary short circuits develop, they are quickly run down.

Tips.

RACER GIVES SPEED RECIPE.

Oldfield Tells How to Make Touring Car Faster.

Changes in Auto may be Made by Owner.

Transformation will Amaze Those Who Try It.

BY BARNEY OLDFIELD.

[Copyright, 1918, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.]

A great many of my readers have asked me questions from time to time in regard to various operations to perform on their cars, whereby the speed may be increased. I realize that any young fellow worth his salt who gets an old car wants to turn it into a speedster. So I have concluded to write an entire article on the subject, pointing out just how the owner of an ordinary touring car or runabout may add anywhere from twenty to thirty miles per hour to its speed. Most of the changes necessary can be made by the owner himself, but in some cases he will have to call upon the garage or machine shop to carry out certain operations.

The first part of the car to demand attention is the engine, and to begin with it is necessary to give her more compression, so as to inject "pep" and snap into its operation. There are several ways of accomplishing this. If the engine has a removable head, and the chances are that it has, this part can be machined just a few thousandths of an inch, making it set lower, thereby decreasing the combustion space and increasing the compression. Another way of getting the same effect is to machine the whole cylinder block at the bottom; this brings it down slightly and increases the compression. Still another way is to fit pistons that have a little higher crowns. Some owners prefer to have plates riveted on the top of their old pistons. This is the cheapest way of handling the matter, but it has certain disadvantages, and I do not recommend it.

Weight removal should first aim at the reciprocating parts. For instance, the cast-iron pistons should be replaced by aluminum parts. If this is not wanted the iron pistons can be drilled so as to lighten them, though they will never be as light as the aluminum parts. In drilling an iron piston the holes ought to be put in the skirt, some distance from the piston pin. Two rings are enough to use in a part of this kind. Aluminum pistons can now be obtained to fit any size of motor, and unless the matter of expense interferes they should be used.

New and lighter connecting rods ought to be fitted. Tubular steel can be used, or a drilled I-beam section of alloy steel. Sometimes it is possible to lighten the connecting rods already in the motor by drilling them, thereby removing a portion of the metal, but this is likely to weaken the parts, which have a pretty strenuous task at best.

As a general thing the crankshaft had better be left alone. If the owner is determined to make a good job of the thing he can have the crankshaft drilled so that oil from the main bearings can lubricate the bearings on the lower end of the connecting rods. If the engine is only going to be used for short bursts of speed there is no need of bothering with this change.

To get high speed results out of the old car changes will have to be made in valve-timing and valve lift. As a general thing, the lift of the valves is changed by 1-32 or even 1-15 of an inch, if there is room. Sometimes it is necessary to install a new camshaft to alter the valve lift as much as desired. In the case of a Ford that is being groomed for speed, a new camshaft doesn't cost much and it helps a lot. The valves themselves ought to be changed for bigger ones, and the seats will have to be counterbored to hold the larger parts. If the owner is a skilled mechanic he can do the counterboring and fitting himself. The old springs may be made to serve the new valves by stretching them a little to get increased pressure. Every ounce of weight taken off at the valve mechanism helps the speeding process, and in the case of an overhead outfit it may be a good stunt to machine the vertical rods and rocker arms to get off some metal.

The carburetor will have to be adjusted or perhaps changed, if real increase in the speed is to be obtained. By putting on a larger carburetor the increased flow of fuel needed for higher speeds will be secured. Sometimes it has been found advantageous to fit a second instrument of the same size as the one already on the car. By fitting a larger carburetor the owner may have to put on a new inlet manifold. For fuel feed either straight gravity or straight pressure will have to be resorted to. The vacuum tank that is now so much used on passenger cars needs a vacuum pump to meet the demands of high speed.

When it comes to the question of ignition, if a good magneto is already on the car it will do very well. If the old bus has a good battery system that may be used, but a new unit with a second breaker will help a great deal. Thus the engine gets the current through two breakers feeding two sets of plugs instead of one. The spark plugs will have to be of the special racing variety, with flanges to keep them cool.

Signals

Proposed by Mr. Riggs of the Willys-Overland Company to clear up the present uncertainty created when a driver sticks out his hand.

A SUGGESTION.

A splendid suggestion, looking to greater safety for all kinds of traffic on streets and highways, has just been made by Frank C. Riggs, vice-president and general manager of the Willys-Overland Pacific Coast organization and the suggestion has already been indorsed by several automobile associations on the Pacific Coast.

At present the familiar "arm-out" signal indicates the driver is going to do one of three things—he is going to turn to the right or to the left or he is merely going to slow down. But which one of these three things he's going to do other drivers and pedestrians have no way of knowing.

"Riggs suggestion," says O. B. Henderson manager of the local branch of the Overland organization," calls for three distinct signals which are illustrated in the accompanying photographs." In No. 1 the driver has his arm raised, indicating that he is goin to turn to the right. In No. 2 he has his arm straight out, indicating he is going to turn to the left. In No. 3 he has his arm pointed downward, indicating he is going to slow down.

ANNIVERSARY MODEL MEETS EXPECTATION

AFTER a long and anxious wait upon the part of the local representatives, the new anniversary model of Apperson car finally has arrived here and been placed on display at the Los Angeles branch. Although no public announcement of the car's arrival had been made, a number of motorists who seem to know intuitively when something new in automobiles comes to Los Angeles found out about it and have called to look over the model. In their opinion, as expressed to Harris M. Hanshue, resident branch manager, it exceeds all expectations. The factory will build but a very limited number of these cars and the allotment to Los Angeles will prove all too few for the contemplated demand, in the opinion of Hanshue.

"There is a certain number of automobile owners who cannot be content with anything but a high-grade, high-price car and it is to especially to them that the versary Apperson was says Hanshue. "The car twenty-five years of duction and marketing of biles and it is very builders have put forward treme efforts. To have a niversary model that mean everything that the plies would be a mistake evident that Apperson made no mistakes in their fering. The car is somewhat in lines inasmuch as the ator, bullet headlamps and line body are new features Apperson. The first ceived is finished in and has nickel-plated

Why Franklin Owners are Franklin Enthusiasts

A NOTICEABLE fact about Franklin owners is their enthusiasm in speaking of the car. And it's not at all strange. Suppose you had a car that gave you 20 to 25 Miles to the gallon of gasoline. Would you talk about it?

If your car delivered regularly 10,000 Miles and more to a set of tires—wouldn't you take considerable satisfaction in it—especially in these times? These figures are regular performances of Franklin Cars—and owners, being human, become Franklin enthusiasts.

Another reason is that waste today is unwarranted, and the Franklin doesn't waste. The Five Passenger Touring Car, because of its Scientific Light Weight, its Flexible Construction and the splendid materials which go to its making, does exactly what an automobile should do—it delivers an efficient motor car service, economically.

And the man who owns it knows he is conforming to the national need of economy.

One of these cars is now being shown in our sales room. See it and let us explain to you Franklin economy.

Merchants in Other Cities Trying Plans.

There is one phase of the service rendered in connection with the sale of automobiles to which little if any attention has been paid by dealers and that is in connection with the settlement for actual work in the shops.

Along with every other form of business this has been handled on a slip-shod credit basis which always entails a certain amount of loss, because there are always a certain class of people who have little if any regard for their credit reputation and will try to avoid the payment of their bills if possible. This naturally works a hardship on the people who do pay promptly. Arrangements must be made in the overhead expense to take care of just this sort of thing. Whether it is a merchant selling goods or an automobile man selling service upkeep.

The first man to adopt this system in Los Angeles is Lynn C. Buxton in connection with service on Stearns-Knight and Liberty cars, who has done so after making careful investigation as to how the plan has worked out in other cities.

"This new plan is a step ahead in real business efficiency," says Mr. Buxton, "and will prove an actual saving in dollars and cents to all customers, and is not in any way a question of any man's credit, nor is it intended to work a hardship on anyone.

RAISING PRICE.

"It is simply a matter of raising the price of labor to care for the loss that is entailed through those people who refuse to pay their bills, and we are not going to burden our good customers by charging high rates to make up the big leakage, or saddle our service department with heavy cost of maintaining large book-keeping and collection department and the losses from bad debts.

"In my own business I can dispense with the services of one bookkeeper and a man for collections," says Mr. Buxton, "save the expense of lawsuits and losses by putting everything on a cash basis and fix the price of labor just where it is instead of raising it $1.25 to $2 an hour, as they have had to in San Francisco.

"The only fair way to carry this is to treat everyone alike, put everyone and everything on a cash basis, and the good customer, the man who pays promptly, will be the man who benefits, while the dead beat will be the man who loses, which is as it should be.

With a Good Truck.

TRUCK TRANSPORTATION PROBLEMS ARE SOLVED.

MOTOR truck busses are being used all over Southern California in interurban and city service. The necessity of quick transportation to and from points not served by the electric lines has developed a field which has grown to such proportions that the small cars formerly used in this service have had to be replaced by cars of heavier construction and larger capacity, and at the same time maintain the speed schedule and afford the public comfortable and easy riding busses.

This problem has been solved by the Long Beach Transportation Company of Long Beach, Cal., who during the period of 1916 were using light touring cars for their passenger busses, which they have now replaced by a fleet of twenty Menominee trucks, equipped with twenty-passenger buss bodies, and special nonskid solid tires, which later equipment was required by the city of Long Beach.

It being necessary for this company to maintain a rigidly accurate schedule in order to fulfill the requirements of their franchise, they selected the Menominee because of its well-known reputation for dependable service as well as easy riding qualities, and its exceptional economy of maintenance.

After investigating the merits of all the different lines of motor trucks represented in Southern California this company decided on the Menominee and placed an order for four of the worm-drive, one-ton models, equipped with high-grade buss bodies of the pay-as-you-enter type, and the excellent service rendered by these trucks proved the dependability of the Menominee to the extent that the company decided to standardize on the Menominee trucks and placed additional orders for a fleet of twenty, which are in daily service at Long Beach.

The Long Beach Transportation Company has established an enviable reputation for dependable service in passenger transportation, and they attribute a large share of the credit for this reputation, to the fact that the Menominee trucks require such a remarkably small amount of repairs that there are no delays in the service.

WATCH THAT WATER SYSTEM IN SUMMER.

Although the majority of Ford owners have little or no knowledge of gasoline engines, still there are little details, which if watched closely, will increase the efficiency of their cars. There is really no need for the Ford motorist to have a mechanical knowledge of the Ford car on account of the fact that Henry Ford has "flooded this country with his service stations."

"Now that summer is fast approaching with its heat the motorist must be sure that his water system is in perfect condition," says J. B. Fahy of Fahy-Atterbury Company, authorized sales and service station. "One of the things that should be done to keep the water system in order is the flushing out of the radiator."

IT PAYS TO GET TIRES RETREADED.

MODERN METHODS RESULT IN SAVING MONEY FOR MOTORISTS.

All motorists know by this time that auto tires are going skyward and will be scarce in the near future. Fabric and rubber is now under government regulation, therefore, we must economize on what we have on hand. EJ. Harris of the Tire Construction Company, Olive at Pico, says: "Don't throw away your old tires, bring them to us for inspection. We can make your old tires run from 3000 to 6000 more miles at a very low cost. Since the last temporary raise in tires, our repair business has increased 40 per cent. on retreading and vulcanizing. Our work is new and modern, and the service is sure." Dry cure molds are used by this firm, which insures perfect work. These molds are a Los Angeles product and are being shipped all over the United States. Be careful; Hooverize; get them repaired same as you would your old shoes or suit, etc.

WAR TEACHES US TO SAVE RUBBER.

THOUSANDS OF TONS OF OLD TIRES ARE BEING REPAIRED.

"American manufacturers do not fear any long shortage of rubber so I am, I believe, reliably informed," stated R. R. Colby, manager of Barney Oldfield's tire business at No. 1211 South Hope street. "The industry is using largely plantation rubber from Borneo and Sumatra because it is plentiful and sold at reasonable prices, but let it become scarce and costly, other rubber will take its place. Central American rubber and African sorts will loom large and the great reservoirs of Brazil, Peru and Bolivia will again be tapped to their utmost.

"It should not be forgotten, either, that thousands of tons of worn-out tires, inner tubes and rubber scrap, a stock greater than has ever before existed, will be reclaimed and used. The war is teaching us much about waste, and old rubber that has heretofore been overlooked and sent to the junk pile is now being worked over again and made into marketable material."

DEMAND FOR QUALITY CARS IS INCREASING.

Increased demand for quality cars on the Coast and the demand of the motorists for automobiles that will live up to the economy principles of the hour are assigned as the reasons for the increased sale of Marmon cars throughout this territory by Al G. Faulkner, California Marmon distributor.

"Never have the reports from our dealers throughout California, Nevada and the Hawaiian Islands been as encouraging as during the last few weeks," said Faulkner. "These dealers are constantly demanding more cars than we can supply them, and the demand in California is greater than ever before."

CAREFUL HOW YOU FIT SPARK PLUGS.

In fitting a spark plug in a cold cylinder, be very careful not to screw it too tight. The principal cause of the breakage of the porcelain insulators is the expansion of metal when the engines get hot, thereby exerting a crushing effect on the plug and resulting in a cracked insulator.

Warning.

DANGER OF POOR BRAKES SOUNDED BY AUTO CLUBS.

THE brake inspection movement has spread throughout the country like wildfire. Motor clubs and auto dealers' associations have taken up the matter of warning motorists of the danger of poor brakes. During brake inspection week the lining is looked at to see if it is worn and if so, it is relined, as half of the automobile accidents are found to have resulted from brakes failing to hold when needed.

H. W. Nernev, local Kissel Kar distributor, states that the same care which is lavished on the more delicate parts of the automobile should be applied to the brakes. "They should be set so that the wheels will hold to the ground without skidding. Both foot and emergency brakes should be so adjusted that they give an even braking force when applied. Also particular pains should be taken to prevent setting them too tight or they will burn and ruin the lining.

"Another thing every automobile owner should learn is how to stop a skid. When he feels the back of his car skidding, if he will turn the steering wheel immediately in the direction of the skid, he will find that it will cause the car to rotate in the opposite direction. With a little practice, this swing of the steering wheel will become almost automatic when the car begins to skid.

"It is such knowledge of a car's tendencies under all road conditions that will enable the owner to so handle his car that he can maintain a good average speed, without having to continually throw on his brakes and slow up his engine."

Will Your Present Car Match the Super-Six?

Can You Rely Upon It to Serve You Through the Times Just Ahead?

Now is the time when you should arrange your motor car needs for the future.

It may shortly be impossible to get a good new car.

You have seen in the newspapers how it is proposed to curtail productions to a fraction of the present output. Even now the output of every factory is much lower than had been scheduled.

But there has been no such falling off in demand.

Present needs call for more and better cars than can be furnished.

Motor cars must do the work that the badly-pressed railroads cannot do.

Good cars only can be relied upon. With outputs curtailed and a scarcity of mechanics to keep less dependable cars in good order, it is important that you plan for your future needs now.

Get a Super-Six while you can.

We can take care of today's wants. The revised schedule, much less than we had expected, makes future supply uncertain.

The known reliability of the Super-Six makes it the first choice of thousands of buyers.

If all who plan buying Hudsons should realize the present situation all the cars that the factory can build in the next year would undoubtedly be spoken for within a few days.

Some are going to be disappointed because they won't be able to get deliveries when they want them.

Better look over your present car closely and determine if it can be relied upon with the outlook as it now is.

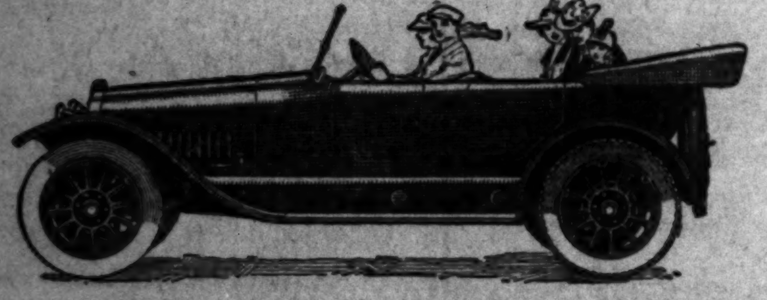
Mitchell Sixes



Last Year's Prices
Yet Many Added Values

NEVER before have so many improvements been made in one year in the Mitchell. Yet this year's cars still sell at last year's prices.

Both sizes of Mitchells today undersell any Sixes of their size and class. You will be amazed at what these prices offer, under scientific factory methods.

New Endurance Standards

In the past year, many experts have been added to the Mitchell staff. Most of them are specialists in sturdy, enduring parts.

They have fixed new standards, largely to meet extreme export requirements. In some of the countries where Mitchells now go, the road conditions bring enormous strains.

The over-strength in some parts has been even doubled. Radical tests have been adopted, which every vital part must meet. Cars at these prices were never before built to such requirements.

A famous designer has been placed in charge of the Mitchell body-building plant. You have never seen so much beauty and luxury in cars at Mitchell prices.

Come and compare these new productions with cars that sell for more. See how far these cars excel in every point you prize. They are bound to be your first choice in this class.

A Unique $1250 Six

The largest, finest car in the $1250 class is the Mitchell Light Six of this year.

The wheelbase is 120 inches. The motor is a 40-horsepower Six—the final result of many years of development.

The car is long and roomy. The motor is most economical. An excess of power makes it a wonderful performer.

The rear springs are shock-absorbing. The equipment is extra complete. It is distinctly the greatest $1250 value in all Motordom today.

BLUE BOOKS NOW READY.

Good Roads Development has been Enormous.

Thousands of Miles Redrafted for New Volumes.

Special Cantonment Routes are Included.

That good roads development had a great impetus during 1917 is evident from a statement by the data department of the automobile blue books, whose experts compiled the road data for the 1918 volumes—now ready for the motor tourist.

New roads, the reconstruction of old ones, and the reclamation of many others that formerly were impassable compelled the redrafting of 167,103 miles of roads for the new blue books.

The magnitude of the vast improvement on these roads is better understood when it is brought to mind that affiliation of Federal and State governments was responsible for the expenditure of almost $120,000,000 for highways betterment last year. Besides this, the establishment of many National Army and National Guard cantonments was followed almost immediately by the construction of additional hundreds of new highways direct to the camps.

Special routes to all of the cantonments have been included in the new volumes. The logging of these roads was in most cases made from cities nearest to which the camps are located, so that the tourist who plans to visit any of them need only take his blue book way to the large city near the cantonment to find in the same volume detailed guidance to the camp which has his particular interest.

NEW BOOKS.

The new books total in excess of 415,000 miles of minute roads data, charts and maps. That graphic detail which tells the motorist at what speedometer mileage he should turn right, cross railroad, pass stone church on left, or continue straightaway past yellow schoolhouse is more informative than even the previous intensive effort of these pathfinders has made it.

Points of interest notes have been increased threefold. Whether local beauty, historic interest or sports will induce his spending any considerable part of his time in a town may readily be learned by the motorist long before he starts on tour by reference to this department, which is more comprehensive than ever. These notes are so keyed that in each instance they are on the same page as that on which the route through a town is given.

The maps have been completely revised. Hundreds of new ones have been added and besides the redraftings of old ones, most of them have been enlarged, new detail added and larger area covered.

HEAD NOTES.

Head-notes are a feature. They summarize in short paragraphs the kind of road, how much of it is traveled, nature of the country—whether hilly, mountainous, or level—and which sections are difficult or impassable. They tell the motorist at a glance what the trip will probably hold in riding comfort and fuel expense, whether he will have boulevard or difficult country road to traverse.

Garages, service stations, and hotels have been classified in a special index, an evening's reference to which makes it possible for the motorist to arrange the details of all the tours he plans for the summer. And when he is touring, the location of the nearest garage, hotel or service station is always apparent. An instant's glance tells him how close he is to that one of the three which, in an exigency, he may need to reach quickly.

Populations of towns, their altitude and their situation as regards scenic or other charm are also indicated.

Automobile laws and traffic regulations of various States and cities are incorporated. They keep the traveler in constant touch with what civil and State authorities will require of him.

THIEVES TACKS HALT PURSUERS.

A stolen automobile loaded with large tacks with which to foil pursuers is the latest wrinkle reported by the Theft Bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

This car was stolen in Los Angeles late in April and was recovered three weeks later by the club's theft bureau in Oakland after what had probably been an eventful career.

When found by Detective Powell, the two front "pockets" were discovered to be full of large-headed tacks. According to club officials these were provided by the thieves to be scattered over the road behind in case of pursuit by police machines or motorcycle officers. According to the owner, O. K. Vass of this city, the tacks were not in the car when it was taken from Third and Broadway.

KEEPS CONFIDENCE IN ENTERPRISE.

PUBLIC NOT RATTLED EVEN IF PRICES OF CARS DO ADVANCE.

The public has become so accustomed to a continually advancing market price of all commodities that the mere announcement of an advance in the price of a motor car is scarcely heeded.

This shows the degree of confidence that the American public at large has in the industrial enterprises of this country. It shows that the public appreciates the fact that the successful manufacturer sells his product on a certain margin of profit over and above cost, and that he does not raise his price without sufficient cause.

The advance in the price of metal products and in skilled labor are the underlying causes of continual price advances. The Premier Motors Corporation have endeavored to maintain a low price on their product. They have already made one advance in price and now find it necessary to advance again. The Leach Motor Car Company have been advised that on and after June 1 the Premier will be advanced $300.

WANTS TO REPEAT IN ECONOMY RUN.

LOWEST FUEL CONSUMPTION CONTEST WINNER TO TRY ONCE MORE.

The Dort which won the cup in class 3 in the first Los Angeles-Camp Curry-Yosemite economy run will doubtless again enter this year. In speaking of the results of the first run M. A. Leach of the Leach Motor Car Company, Dort distributors, says: "The method of handling the contest last year in my opinion was fair in every respect. The miles per gallon per weight of the car is an equable basis of judging comparative economy, as it gives the heavy car an equal opportunity of winning the cup in competition with smaller and more economically operated cars. I think, however, that a more satisfactory way would be to divide the contest into cars, not of price classification, but of cylinder displacement and neglect the weight of the car entirely.

"Last year the Dort consumed a gallon less of gasoline than any other car in the contest and for that reason was entitled to the honor of the most economically operated car in that event, but because of the fact that the weight was taken into consideration the Dort was forced to take third place. However, it won the cup in its price class."

LOW FIRST COST IS FALSE ECONOMY.

DISTRIBUTOR GIVES SOME TIPS ON THE BUYING OF TRUCKS.

"There is one part of all motor trucks where the wear is excessive," declared A. L. Jones, manager of the Edward R. Bacon Company, in explaining why low first cost in motor truck buying is generally false economy.

"Sterling motor trucks have been doing heavy duty for ten years, and could never have maintained their supremacy for that long period of time if attention had been paid to low construction cost rather than building for long service.

"For instance, let us take the spring hangers, that one point of excess wear in every motor truck. In the Sterling the construction is massive. The hangers are equipped with large diameter and wide bronze bushings to take care of the excessive wear.

"I can go over the Sterling from one end to the other and point out to you small parts that a truck buyer rarely looks at or knows of until bills for repairs call them to his attention.

"These small parts are in a large measure responsible for an apparently higher first cost, but, as every Sterling owner knows, they make for an ultimate low cost."

KICKED OUT OF MOTOR AGENCY, HE RETURNS AND BUYS A CAR.

HOW would you like to tell a man to stay out of your place of business because he disturbed the routine—and then have him come in voluntarily and make a $785 purchase from you?

That was the experience of Manager Dalton Bolton of the Los Angeles retail branch of the Chevrolet Motor Company of California, who waved a "Good Luck" to Arthur Hinman and his wife when they left the southern city last week for a year's tour of the United States in their "490" Chevrolet.

For many years Hinman was a familiar figure along the Los Angeles "Row." He was in and out of all the big shops, a basket of sandwiches and candies on his arm, doing a brisk business with mechanics and salesmen alike.

NOON HOUR.

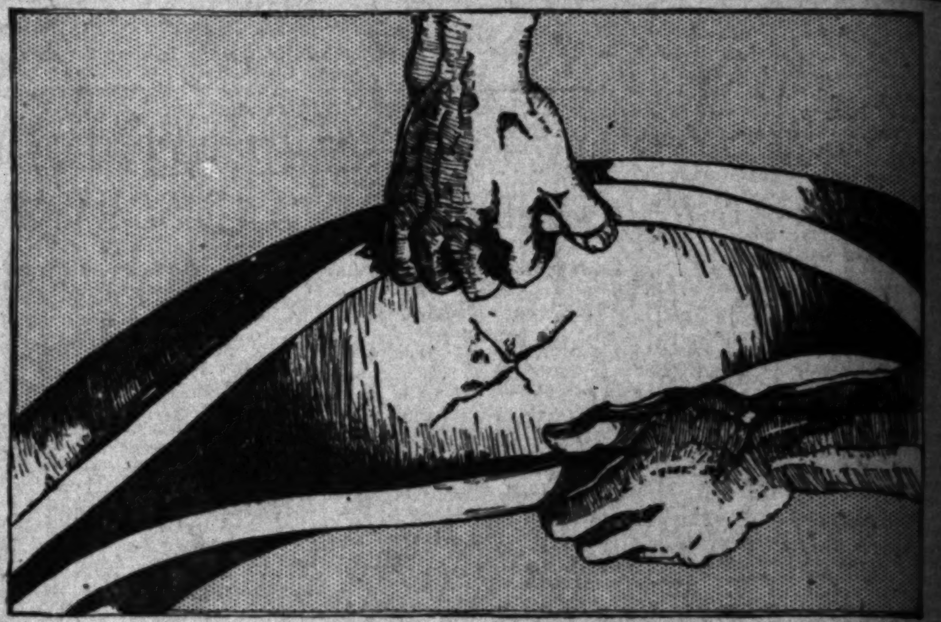
Naturally, Hinman could not get to all his patrons during the noon hour, when ordinary shop rules call for a cessation of business, so in most cases he called when the men were all back at their routine work, and more or less interruption was in order.

Manager Bolton was among the "victims," and when cars promised Chevrolet patrons at a certain hour were not ready he was able to trace the reason to Hinman and his tasty eatables. The sandwich man was told in firm but gentle language that he would have to confine his business activities to suitable hours—or stay out of the Chevrolet shops.

"I come in here to look at your cars more than to sell my goods," was Hinman's reply. This looked like "camouflage" to the Chevrolet manager, and he was more than surprised when Hinman came into his office a few days later, laid down a check, and declared he was ready to take delivery of a Chevrolet touring car.

Hinman asserts his mechanical education is founded on sandwiches. "I visited every shop in town in selling my stuff," he says. "I had plenty of chance to listen to both mechanics and patrons when they were speaking their real minds. I kept track, and when I was able to check up I knew definitely just what car gave the most satisfaction and the least 'grief.' Then I planked down my money and am now off on a year's jaunt with my wife."

Hinman's sandwich venture has enabled him to make a real tour. In his year's wandering he and his wife will visit the Yosemite, Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks, all the big cities of the country, and other points of general interest. The eastern terminus of the trip will be New York City, and on the return to the Coast the Grand Canyon will be among the stops scheduled for the Chevrolet.



"Blowouts"
A new rubber compound that resists them

Two years of road tests have demonstrated the Thermoid Crolide Compound Casing to be remarkably resistant to blowouts.

These tests have been made under severe conditions—with heavy cars and light cars—in baking heat and freezing cold weather—over thousands of miles of notoriously bad roads.

This result is not accidental. It is R. J. Stokes' answer to this most common of all tire weaknesses.

A new rubber compound

For many months Mr. Stokes, who is the Chief Production Engineer of the Thermoid Rubber Company, made countless experiments with new tire-making principles, new methods, that would overcome blowouts and kindred tire shortcomings.

He sought, first of all, a new rubber compound—a formula that would make rubber tougher, longer-lived. For it is the compound, as all chemists know, that makes rubber resistant to wear.

Almost 600 compounds were formulated before two years of untiring effort finally produced CROLIDE.

Blended with rubber—and the most costly grade of Up-River Para is used—the effects of Crolide seem miraculous. Exact laboratory tests show that it makes the tread tougher, more resilient, and more resistant to the attacks of oil, water, heat and similar agencies which weaken tires and lead to blowouts.

Crolide is compounded, also, with the rubber with which the fabric is treated This not only makes the fabric stronger but also unites the layers of fabric and the tread into one solid and practically inseparable mass.

New hand methods developed

But Mr. Stokes did not depend on his new compound alone to remedy common casing faults. He also turned his attention to tire building, seeking here refinements and improvements in design and workmanship that would give his new casing added endurance.

The final result was the development of new hand methods—radical departures from commonly accepted theories of tire making.

The new casing, from the innermost ply of fabric to the tread, is built up inch by inch by hand. And each casing is the work, from start to finish, of one man, who is rewarded not on the basis of how many casings he makes, but how well he makes them.

The most costly-built casing

These new hand methods are extremely expensive, and so are the rare chemicals that form Crolide.

That is why you pay more for the Thermoid casing than for average tires. But though your first cost is greater, your last is least.

We say this confidently—for we know this casing. Two years of hard usage has proved its remarkable efficiency. The Thermoid guarantee offers you an opportunity to prove it for yourself.

The Orville Wright dinner of the Society of Automotive Engineers, which is to be held June 17, at Dayton, O., will be attended by at least members and guests of the society. These will gather to pay tribute in his own home and in the birthplace of aviation to the man who first found a practical method of flight with heavier than air machines.

The society is co-operating with the Council of National Defense and other governmental agencies in cutting down railroad passenger travel. Those who will attend the two days sessions (June 17 and 18) have therefore been requested, whenever possible, to motor to Dayton. The city is almost in the center of the automotive manufacturing industry so that it can easily be reached by automobile.

Plans for the technical and exhibition features are now well advanced. Problems that must be solved in aeronautic, tractor and other branches of automotive engineering will be discussed by authorities among the S.A.E. members. W. Stout, the technical advisor of the United States Aircraft Board, will analyze the fundamentals of flight and explain what is required in designing machines for military purposes. Fay B. Faurote of the Curtis Aeroplane and Motor Manufacturing Company, will read a paper on "Airplanes of Today," describing the technical features of a large number of the flying machines now in use.

One of the most interesting features of the professional session will be the paper to be read by C. W. Stratford, a well-known petroleum chemist, on "Processes of Petroleum Refining." This will be accompanied by a demonstration of the actual refining, showing what happens from the time the crude oil is first treated until the gasoline and other by-products are obtained.

Turning old tires into soldiers' bandages.

Mrs. Clara Mosher, driver for the Red Cross, accepting a bunch of worn-out Horseshoe tires from the Pacific Rubber Company.

ONE WAY TO CURE ABUSE OF TIRES.

If the motorist could see the care that is taken by the large rubber companies in the making of their tires, motorists would be more careful in the kind of treatment they gave their own tires. One of the causes of tires not giving the proper amount of mileage is the separation of the plies of fabric and the separation of the fabric from the tread, says Frank Price of Nelson & Price, Inc., tire dealers.

This trouble could be eliminated if motorists did not run their tires flat, run their tires when underinflated, punishing them on rough roads, ride on car tracks, let them stand in wet places and become water-soaked, overload their cars, speed and cause excessive heat, and neglect small cuts in their tires.

KEEP ON LOOKOUT FOR FOULED PLUGS.

When spark plugs habitually become fouled with oil and soot, it is a good plan to investigate and see whether they may not be projecting too far into the combustion chamber, particularly when they are located in either one or the other of the valve pockets. If they are screwed into the valve port caps, the removal of the caps with the plugs in them will be the best way to determine the condition. The points or the outer end of the shell should extend very little beyond the inner faces of the valve caps. Anyway, adjustments to the carburetor or lubricating system should be made to prevent excessive gas or oil feed.

SALE OF OLD TIRES NETS BIG SUM FOR RED CROSS.

THE Pacific Rubber Company, distributor of Horseshoe tires in California and Arizona, has started a movement in Los Angeles that is furnishing material aid to the Red Cross in the way of salvaged Horseshoe tires, that have been run so long that they are only fit to be scrapped. Last week, L. S. Rounsavelle, treasurer for the company, turned over to Mrs. Clara Mosher, who in her Red Cross uniform pilots a truck about town collecting salvage articles, more than 1100 pounds of used rubber.

"Leave your old tires with us to be delivered to the Red Cross," are the words on a sign prominently displayed by the Pacific Rubber Company on West Pico street. "We hope to induce all who use Horseshoe tires to aid in this movement," said Rounsavelle. "If every Horseshoe owner when his tires are no longer serviceable will turn them into the Red Cross, the money value represented will run into a surprisingly big sum. Why sell them to a junk man at a few cents a pound, when that small sum many times multiplied will help the boys 'over there?'"

Chess and Checker Headquarters, No. 714 Higgins Building. All chess and checker players invited to join. For further information see or write the secretary, D. H. Bowes, at the clubrooms.

AMONG THE FANS

The city tournament has taken a new lease on life. Hopewell and Jensen met last Sunday morning and played a couple of games. Just to prove there was no ill feeling they divided the games—a win each. This makes their sitting stand three wins each and two draws. They are scheduled to meet again this morning and endeavor to break the tie.

Prof. E. R. Perry and Stach Mlotkowski are tied so far in the tourney being held for the chess championship of the Pacific Chess Club. Prof. Perry defeated Mlotkowski in their individual sitting and he in turn was defeated by R. C. Stephenson. Mr. Stephenson is only half a point behind the two leaders.

San Diego recently finished a tournament for the chess championship of that city. E. R. Adams was returned the winner by a good margin.

Alfred Jordan has purchased the checker concession at Riverview Park in Chicago, and expects to be kept pretty busy until the cold weather next winter makes him "take to the tall timber." He is still working at Pullman and hopes to manage to take care of both jobs.

George Dick of Denver, Colo., is in the city and has been making it mighty interesting for the boys at the clubrooms. As we have had no official report of any of the encounters we are unable to state just how hard "our side" has been hit. The name Dick is as familiar to all the old-time checker players as is the name Sullivan to the followers of the fighting arena.

J. A. Drouillard has been in New Mexico for the past three weeks, but is expected back in the city in a short time.

a—In the third American tourney Ginsberg played 25-22 against Henderson and the game proceeded as follows:

Black—Henderson.			White—Ginsberg.
25-22	22-16	23-14	14-10	22-15
4-8	11-20	13-19	7-14	27-24
21-17	26-22	22-21	17-10	19-15
8-11	1-6	19-24	20-24	24-19
17-14	22-17	[illegible]	19-16	21-17
12-16	6-9	24-27	24-27	Drawn
29-25	21-27	23-19	22-23
16-19	9-18	27-31	31-27

b—Well played. If 14-19, Black gets a powerful ending by 21-25, etc.

c—Another pretty sacrifice, reminding one of a Strickland problem.

d—The sequel to the second sacrifice. If 15-24, White draws by 20-25, 21-30, 6-9, 30-23, 9-4, but I hoped for something in the ending by keeping the man.

e—Bad. 8-12, 10-7, 12-16, 7-3, 16-20, 3-7, 20-24, 7-11, 24-27, 11-15, 27-31, etc. Drawn.

f—There seems to still be a draw now by [illegible] 17-22, [illegible] 10-7, 6-12, 7-3, 22-26, 23-19, [illegible] 16-11, 12-16. Drawn.

g—Hopeless. But there is no draw. If 20-24, 11-15, 24-28, 11-16, 23-27, 32-23, 27-32, and White has a well-known winning ending from Bowen's Twins. The ending has been played splendidly by Mr. Jensen. He was showing championship form. I must admit I was simply outclassed.

15-22	8-7	5-9	31-26	etc.
26-17	23-22	20-16d	15-19	W. wins

a—Not generally played, but it has some good points. If 26-22, 7-11, 14-10, as recommended by the Encyclopedia, continue 3-7, 27-23, 7-16, 23-7, 2-11, and Black has a formation similar to the 3-8 Glasgow that is good at least for a safe draw. This line has been but little explored.

b—I looked longingly at 28-24, but was afraid a draw lurked somewhere in the ending and I had to get a win to tie the round. If Jensen drew this game he won the point. After the game I played it with Shropshire, as follows:

28-24	12-8	31-22	27-18	3-7
16-19	3-9	9-14	11-16	22-26
21-17	15-8	18-9	10-7	7-11
19-28	4-11	5-14	16-19	26-30
17-13	14-10	22-18	7-3	[illegible]
8-12	22-26	14-23	19-23	etc.
				W. wins

c—At this point 26-23 looks tempting, but the draw is doubtful. Here is a likely continuation:

[illegible]	17-13	9-12	10-16	8-12
31-22	20-30	28-24	26-31	15-11
19-28	13-6	15-22	16-7	26-22
22-17	2-9	24-19	30-26	18-15
23-26	21-17	23-26	7-3	22-18

then 14-10, and White seems to be able to pilot his man through in safety.

d—The move Mr. Jensen did not regard with sufficient gravity before going 9-13.

a—27-23 is usually played here.
b—Loses. A. Jordan beat W. Scott.
c—The winning move.
d—Apparently allowing White a chance to escape. The best play seems to be 7-10, 26-23, 16-20, 21-17, 20-27, 18-14, 9-18, 23-7, 27-31, and Black seems able to win.
e—White, although a man down, seems to have a draw here.
f—White should have drawn the game, but Black eventually won the ending.

TIRE CONSERVATION SPREADS RAPIDLY.

MAKING TWO BLADES GROW WHERE ONE GREW BEFORE.

"Making two blades of grass grow where one grew before," is the problem that is being met by ranchers the country over in the great drive in food production, and now they are taking old worn out automobile tires and making them produce thousands of additional miles in the great drive that is being made in the matter of conservation.

This method of tire conservation, known as the Gates Half-Sole tire, was introduced some time ago by the International Sales Company, which has been forced to enlarge its quarters twice, already by the great response that has been made by the local motorists. A. R. Goodale, president of the International Sales Company, says that, where a few months ago, the firm was receiving Gates Half-soles in small shipments, it is now forced to get them in carload lots.

They Make a Gallon of Gas Work Overtime—the Chalmers Hot Spot and Ram's-Horn Manifold

You don't have to fill up the gas tank in a Chalmers every time you take the car out.

You have two little Scotch sentinels up in your engine that watch the gas for you. Both are stingy.

One is the great Chalmers Hot Spot device, which isn't much to look at because it's so simple. It performs an operation on gas very much like a coffee grinder does on coffee. Only it also warms up the gas and puts it in 100% condition for power results.

The other is the Ram's-Horn Manifold, which took 90 days to design once the Chalmers engineers found their idea was right.

This device carries the gas vapor from the Hot Spot to the cylinders with almost hospital tenderness, so that when the explosions come there's not a thing left except the power.

And all of it goes to the rear wheels, and such a magnificent, soft, easy flowing kind of power that you are tempted to believe it almost supernatural.

What Would Your Used Truck Sell For?

RESALE VALUE is the best measure of the intrinsic worth of a truck.

No truck on the market has a higher proportionate resale value than the Republic.

That is the best sort of evidence that the first cost of a Republic is a fair cost.

You pay no "excess profits" when you buy a Republic.

Here is a letter from a Republic owner that shows you what Republic resale values are:

Harold L. Arnold,
Republic Motor Trucks,

Los Angeles. Cal.

Gentlemen:-

Sixteen months ago I bought a one-ton Republic truck, equipped with electric starter, for which I paid $1400. I have used the truck steadily ever since in transfer work, frequently with loads as high as two tons.

The total repair expense on the truck has been less than $150. I was recently offered $1200 for the truck, which is in perfect condition, but refused to sell it. The total repair expense and depreciation on the truck, after sixteen months of hard service, has thus been only $350, or less than 75 cents per day.

Yours very truly,

Famous Cross-Country Truck to Repeat Trip on its Anniversary

Will Duplicate.

PREPARES TO REPEAT TEST.

Five-Ton Truck to Make Gotham-Boston Trip.

Will Crown Seven Years of Steady Service.

Judgment of Engineers is Proved Sound.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) May 20.—Traveling over the same route it followed seven years ago when its inter-city test trip aroused country-wide interest, a Pierce-Arrow truck, which, since has been in daily service, will repeat the performance Tuesday, May 28, the anniversary of the trip, when it will run from New York to Boston. The event has been arranged by George M. Graham, chairman of the National Motor Truck Committee of the national Automobile Chamber of Commerce at Washington, who is assistant commercial manager of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company. It is his aim to dramatize the importance of inter-city truck transportation in solving the problem of railroad freight congestion.

The truck known as Pierce-Arrow Truck No. 1 will be driven by Harry Ward, truck sales manager of the Pierce-Arrow Sales Company of Buffalo, who piloted it on the original test run.

"Aside from proving the durability of the Pierce-Arrow truck and demonstrating the soundness of the judgment of our engineers in pinning their faith to the worm drive, flexible frame and other fundamental features that enable this truck to give such remarkable service," said Mr. Ward, "the anniversary run will draw the country's attention to the fact that motor-truck transportation between cities has developed as a most important factor in war-time industrial and commercial activity.

CONGESTION.

"The railroad congestion during the past winter naturally increased greatly the use of motor trucks in long-distance transportation. What has been well known to many heads of business for several years was a surprise to newcomers in the use of motor trucks for this type of work; they discovered that in most cases motor truck transportation is speedier, more economical and far more satisfactory than rail transportation.

"The original inter-city run made by this truck proved that the first Pierce-Arrow trucks ever built were 'long-distance' trucks—not fragile vehicles for use on city streets only. The more than 100,000 miles covered since then by this truck, which has been in daily service for the International Brewing Company of Buffalo, makes this proof ironclad. No other make of truck could be used in such a demonstration as this because no other make of truck has ever achieved such a record.

"Another interesting phase of the matter pertains to the problem of depreciation. The test will show that although the truck easily has written itself off the books after seven years of service, depreciating to the extent of its full value figuratively, actually it still is an efficient vehicle, able to perform what it did seven years ago."

VETERANS.

Veterans in the truck business recall that when the truck made its original trial run the worm drive was entirely new in this country and its practicability was being debated bitterly. Since then other companies have been forced to acknowledge that the worm drive is the ideal method for motor truck propulsion. A comparison of the veteran truck and the present models of the Pierce-Arrow trucks will show that no basic changes have been made in the original type which has stood so severe a test.

The truck will touch at New York, New Haven, Hartford, Springfield, Worcester and Boston. On its original trip, the first long-distance run made in this country by a worm-driven commercial vehicle, its performance was perfect, not a tool being put to it. It consumed fifty-five and one-half gallons of gasoline on the 240-mile run, an average of 4.7 miles to the gallon. Since that time, despite its strenuous life, it has had only one overhaul and yet it is ready to be put to the test.

The Gotrocks family gets into difficulty.

Here we have Mr. and Mrs. Gotrocks, ably portrayed by H. E. Addams, demon Velie salesman, and Miss Margaret Joslin of the Rolin studios, being held up by a tough bad man, none other than Bill Hart himself. Bill wanted to see what a Velie town car looked like and Addams wanted to see what Bill Hart's revolvers looked like.

HERE'S A REMARKABLE YARN ABOUT A HOLD-UP.

LIGHT laughter and the merry hum of conversation came from the big Velie town car as it sped down the dusty road. Mr. and Mrs. Gotrocks had spent a very successful week-end at their hunting lodge in the mountains and were inclined to be hilarious. Little did they dream that calamity hung over their heads like a dark cloud of malevolence. Came a sudden grinding of the brakes with an exclamation of fear from the chauffeur, and the car came to a jolting stop by the roadside.

Peering under the silk curtains, the frightened Gotrocks were horrified to see a vicious looking highwayman crouching in front of their machine with two huge pistols leveled menacingly at them. One hundred per cent. efficiency was written in the piercing black eyes that glared at them over the regulation black silk handkerchief obscuring the lower portion of his visage. "Jump out of there before I blow you in two!" roared a hoarse voice, and nearly paralyzed with fright and babbling hysterically, Mrs. Gotrocks allowed her trembling husband and chauffeur to assist her from the machine. "Shell out," gritted the steely voice of the bandit, as he tossed his sombrero on the ground before him to accommodate their valuables. Fumbling in his pockets, old Gotrocks produced his well-padded wallet and his wife hurriedly tossed her purse and jewels into the bandit's waiting sky-piece, where the Chauffeur's Ingersol and Waldemere had already preceded them.

With a chuckle of satisfaction, the road agent, "Three-fingered Ike," who had been terrorizing the country for many days in utter contempt of a helpless Sheriff and bewildered posse, pocketed the booty, and turned once more to his victims. "Hop back in that gas buggy and drift right pronto before I unlimber a few slugs o' lead on your side of the map."

The Gotrocks couple scrambled madly back into their machine while the chauffeur made a getaway that would have done Barney Oldfield proud, and with throttle and pockets wide open headed for home sweet home, as the bandit melted noiselessly into the underbrush.

No, this is not a page from "Diamond Dick" or "A Trip Across the Plains on a Bullet" from the Tip-Top Weekly, but a fanciful sketch portrayed through the kindness of Mr. William S. Hart, famous movie actor, so dear to the newboy's heart, Miss Margaret Joslin, well-known comedy actress of the Rolin Studios, and Mr. H. E. Addams, versatile salesman of the Lord Motor Car Company. The two extremes—the epitome of ultra-modern fashion, as represented by the luxurious Velie town car, and the old road agent days, as personified by Mr. Hart—present a striking and humorous contrast.

LUBRICATION IS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE.

GREASE CUPS, OIL RESERVOIRS, BEARINGS SHOULD HAVE CARE.

To the motorist who realizes that 25 per cent. of the power delivered by his engine is lost in friction, the question of lubrication is one of paramount importance. Grease cups are gone over, oil reservoirs are watched carefully, bearings are inspected regularly and frequently cleaned.

Care in the selection of lubricants is important to him, too, as he realizes that each bearing, gear or spring requires its particular kind of lubricant. Engineers who are experts in the line of automobile lubrication point out that plain oils and greases squeeze out under great pressure and heat. When flake motor graphite is mixed in, however, the oil or grease serves as a vehicle to carry the graphite to all parts of the bearing or part to be lubricated. The flakes of graphite adhere to the surface, fill all the minute irregularities and form a tough, durable film which prevents metallic contact. The graphite does not squeeze out.

TAKE A STEEP GRADE IN CALIFORNIA-MADE TRUCK.

CALIFORNIA, has never lagged in developing her good roads. California appreciates, perhaps more than most other States, the value of adequate highway systems. This is especially realized during war times, when her highways are needed for the transportation of crops and needed materials to railway centers and "feeding" points.

During the County Supervisors' convention in Los Angeles last week, fourteen of the Supervisors inspected Mr. Loubet's truck while making its daily trip with a load of hay, and afterward Jack Ruddle, of Ruddle & Mennillo, Southern California distributors for Fageol trucks, and Mr. Graves of the Graves Spears Machinery Company of Oakland, had the pleasure of taking them in a big two and one-half-ton Fageol over the famous Quintero-street hill, located a few blocks west of the Sisters' Hospital, off Sunset boulevard. The hill is the steepest oiled road around Los Angeles. It is the famous hill over which Ruddle, a short time ago, drove the two and a half-ton Fageol with a full load, pulling a trailer with a similar load. The demonstration to the Supervisors on this hill was made to show the flexibility of the Fageol equipped with its patented compound gearset, which gives a speed of twenty to twenty-five miles per hour on good roads without racing the motor, and yet will surmount the steepest hill likely to be found in the hardest kind of work, pulling a full load on truck and trailer. Ruddle measured the grade on the hill and from his calculations it appears to be 29 per cent. on its steepest grade.

The adaptability of the modern motor truck in delivering direct from the producer to the consumer is well shown by Mr. J. P. Loubet's four-ton Fageol truck running nearly every day from Chino to Venice and back, a distance of 116 miles, hauling 155 bales of hay out from the field in which it is grown, direct to the consumer. For the same trip it takes the railroad three days, the hay having to be first loaded on the wagons, then unloaded into the freight cars, after which it is shifted from the steam to the electric line in Los Angeles, and on arriving in Venice has to be unloaded onto wagons and delivered to the consumer. Mr. Loubet's Fageol is equipped with the Fageol compound gearset with six forward speeds, and therefore can go right out onto the soft ground and get the hay and load to capacity, and yet on the good roads can make fast time without racing the motor.

Here is a big truck saving time and money.

This is the four-ton Fageol which runs from Chino to Venice every day in the year, hauling 155 bales of hay. This is a daily journey of 116 miles and it takes three days for the railroads to accomplish the same end.

FREE CAMPING PLAN POPULAR.

Motorists Respond Q... Boost Innovation.

Agitation will Help to Bring Success.

Proper Authorities Should be Interested.

The suggestion made through the columns of The Times last Sunday that a free camping ground for touring motorists be established under municipal control in Griffith Park has met with response on the part of motorists. Frank Spiane of the sales department of Earl V. Armstrong, Inc., the Chandler distributors, who has taken an attitude of advocacy of the plan has been congratulated in letters and by telephone messages and the hope has been expressed that the agitation be carried through until something definite is accomplished.

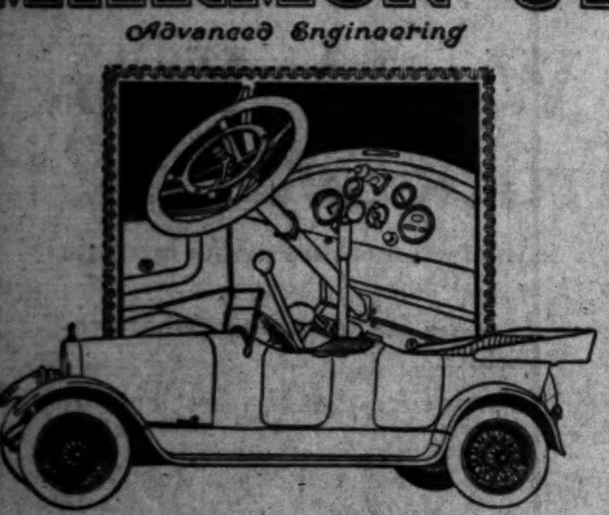
One woman seemed to take it for granted that no sooner need the plan be suggested than it become an actuality as she addressed a letter to Mr. Spiane in which she asked if the camping ground would be established by June 15. She said she knew of a two-car party of tourists who are coming to Los Angeles from an Ohio city, and inasmuch as her home is not large enough to accommodate all of them she wished to advise them they could camp in the park and be well cared for.

"I am glad to learn that it was a member of the Armstrong force who proposed the free camping ground in Griffith Park," wrote a business man to Spiane. "I own a Chandler touring car and last summer my family passed the vacation period touring the Middle West. We were gone three weeks and found so many cities had these camping grounds that we routed out itinerary accordingly and consequently slept under roof only four nights during the period. It was not so much the saving in expense that appealed to us as the evidence of the desire on the part of municipalities to welcome strangers by special provision."

Camping grounds cannot be established in a day and nothing tangible has been accomplished in the movement, Spiane reports, but he is confident that if the motorists of the city who have enjoyed free camping privileges in other cities will lend their influence to bear upon the proper authorities, Los Angeles will be put on the touring maps and guides as maintaining such accommodations.

NEVER FOLD YOUR TOP WHEN DAMP.

The top should never be folded when damp or wet, but should be kept open until thoroughly dry. Gasoline should not be used for removing spots, as many tops have rubber in their composition and the oily substance tends to disintegrate it. Good castile soap and water is best for removing stains. Rub the lather in with a stiff brush and wash with clean water. Chloroform is often used for removing stains.



MARMON 34
Advanced Engineering

Every Control at the Finger Tips

"It is the easiest handling car of American manufacture that I have ever driven."

THIS is the verdict of a noted engineer who obtained his training in Europe. What this means in added safety and comfort is recognized by every motor car driver. A woman can drive the Marmon 34 with ease and without fatigue.

At all speeds, on country pikes and amidst city traffic, the New Series Marmon 34 is always under instant control.

To change gears, or to use the emergency brake or the switches, the driver does not need to change his position. A slight foot pressure disengages the clutch.

Perfect balance and low center of gravity hold the Marmon true to any road at any touring speed.

A drive in the Marmon will convince you of the unequalled degree to which Marmon Engineers have obtained riding ease and roadability.

And just as the Marmon excels in this one respect, so does it in the many essentials.

We invite you to have this demonstrated—call, or telephone and we will call.

PNEUMATIC TIRES KEEP STEADY PACE.

TESTS AND EXPERIMENTS BY EXPERTS ARE MADE CONSTANTLY.

"Progress, steady and unswerving, has been the slogan of the automobile industry ever since the latter's establishment some twenty-five years ago, and today the models are marvels of grace, comfort, speed and mechanical ingenuity," declared W. R. Cain, general manager of the service depot of the Lichtenberger-Ferguson Company, factory distributors of Norwalk tires, in an interview yesterday. He continued:

"With this upward and progressive development of the motor car the pneumatic tire has kept steady pace. The best car in the world would be of little practical use unless equipped with casings equal to protecting it—carry the weight, withstand the high speed, absorb vibration and give the necessary mileage service that must attend the successful operation and economical maintenance of the car. Constant research, tests and experiments by the Norwalk tires factory and other leading tire manufacturers are resulting in placing on the public market a wonderful improvement over previous ones and in keeping with the remarkable advancement and improvements which have made the manufacture of automobiles the greatest single industry of the day."

PLANT AT VERNON HIVE OF INDUSTRY.

FACTORY IS TURNING OUT MOTOR TRUCKS BY HUNDREDS.

More than 150 Republic trucks have already been built at the Republic Motor Truck Company's plant at Vernon, according to D. F. Poyer, vice-president and general manager of the big new Los Angeles industrial plant. Two hundred trucks are in process of manufacture, and quantity production will be in full swing within the next two weeks. Difficulty in securing the necessary parts for some of the electrical apparatus has somewhat delayed production, but this will be overcome with the arrival of shipments that are now on the road by express.

"I will be very glad indeed when the factory gets into full production and we are able to fill promptly the Republic orders from up and down the Pacific Coast, that have been accumulating upon us," said Mr. Poyer last week. "During the time that I was Republic distributor in Los Angeles I was constantly after the Republic factory at Alma, Mich., to secure sufficient Republics. Now the tables are turned, and I am trying to keep a bunch of hungry Republic dealers satisfied.

Warning.

HAVE HEADLIGHTS TESTED OR COPS WILL GET YOU.

"HAVE your headlights tested right away, before you fall into one of the many police 'traps' located all about the city," said George Craokel, manager of the Akron Rubber Company, local Goodrich and Diamond Tire distributors.

"I had the experience last Wednesday night. I learned something, too; that the fact you had your headlights tested the first of the year when the law went into effect is no indication that they are all right now.

"That is what I tried to tell the officer who stopped me, explaining the fact that I had just recently had my lights tested. For answer, he took me seventy-five feet in front of the car, and asked me to look at my headlights. I tried to, but couldn't, for they struck me full in the eye, whereas they should only come waist high at seventy-five feet.

"The officer then asked me if I had changed any bulbs since the time I had my lights tested. I answered yes, and he said that there was where the trouble lay. He explained that the changing of a bulb may neutralize the adjustment and make the glare as bad as ever.

"This was news to me, and I am sure is to the majority of motorists. I had felt that since my lights were tested they were good for some time. The police department is at present making a drive against the blinding head light evil, and making arrests wholesale.

"Excuses don't go, and so it behooves every motorist to look to his lights—not only because of the fine, but maybe he is cussing some fellow on the road, when unknowingly his own headlights are making some other fellow cuss.

This is a roadster—nothing else.

There are motor car models called roadsters that more nearly resemble touring cars in seating capacity and arrangement, but this could not be said of the improved series 9 Franklin model. It is a roadster in fact as well as name, inasmuch as it is designed for two passengers and two only. There would be little use in trying to seat three and absolutely futile to try four without draping some of the passengers over the running boards. This model is designed for only two, because there are certain owners, among them in Los Angeles being A. B. Fothergill, who prefer a car of this type to all others.

TIRES REALLY HAVE SENSE OF DIRECTION.

RUBBER ADJUSTS ITSELF TO POSITION ON THE WHEEL.

"Ninety-nine out of a hundred motorists never give a thought to the fact that a tire really has a 'sense of direction,'" says F. R. Carroll, district manager of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company. "That is, when a tire has been on a wheel for some time the rubber has adjusted itself to its position thereon, and shapes itself to run in one direction. The tire stretches in one direction and recedes before a blow in one direction, therefore when a motorist removes a tire for repairs or for any other reason, he should religiously observe the tire's 'sense of direction.'

"Generally a tire is replaced any old way, possibly with the reverse side exposed to meet the shocks and blows of the road. The result is much more rapid wear of the tires. It is considered a good suggestion if car owners, in removing a tire, would mark an arrow on it indicating the direction the tire has been running, then, in putting it back on, one could see that the tire is adjusted to run in the right direction.

Efficiency.

OFFER THOUSANDS FOR BEST TRUCK RECORDS.

THE Council of National Defense has repeatedly pointed out the vital necessity of getting the maximum efficiency from the thousands of motor trucks which are handling the bulk of the short hauls throughout the country and proving valued allies of the railways.

The traffic that is taken care of by motor trucks releases an equivalent amount of freight cars for more important uses.

As an added incentive for owners and drivers to get the maximum efficiency the Packard Motor Car Company, has offered $5000 in cash prizes for the best efficiency records of Packard trucks, for a three-months' contest which starts June 1. The invitations to enter the contest have been made to California owners and drivers through Earle C. Anthony, Inc., California distributor of Packard lines, and already the entries have begun to come in in large numbers showing that truck owners are anxious to do all they can to help release freight cars for Uncle Sam.

At a recent conference in Chicago a number of truck owners and manufacturers of trucks and tires, evolved a cost system for universal use, that would be standard. There were a number of good systems in use but they did not offer a basis for accurate comparison of operating costs. Nearly every one was lacking in some vital point. For the contest, the National Standard Truck Cost System will be used so that it can be introduced to truck owners and become universal. By this system, the board of awards made up of H. P. Gould, editor of One Hundred Per Cent. Magazine, Harold M. Slauson, of Leslie's Weekly, and Waldemar Kaempffert, automobile editor of Popular Science, will be able to pick the winners from the summaries as shown on the cost system forms.

The system is very simple and requires ten minutes or so a day to keep up, but tells with accuracy all items of cost entering into the operation of a motor truck. There is very little accurate accounting done at present in truck operation and the one thing most desirable to be gained from the contest is an accurate and complete knowledge of transportation costs by motor vehicles.

WATCH BATTERY IN WARM WEATHER.

Do not forget that from now on until the end of the warm weather, the battery is going to need extraordinary attention. The electrolyte evaporates much more rapidly in warm weather and the cells should be inspected once a week and the liquid brought up to the proper level with distilled water.

TIRE TRADE DEAN OPENS NEW SHOP.

PIONEER READY TO GIVE HIS EXPERT ADVICE ON RUBBER.

During these times, when the great mass of motorists is learning to pay closer attention to the service received from tires, and is striving to get the very last available mile from a casing which in the old days would have been thrown away long since, expert advice from real tire men is more sought after than ever before.

Los Angeles is fortunate in having a number of men who have spent years in the tire business and who really know tires and everything that pertains to the industry, and the dean of them all, W. A. Jackson, formerly the head of the Jackson-Eno Rubber Company, who has spent sixteen years here in the tire business has just opened up a new shop near the junction of Broadway and Main, the quarters formerly occupied by the Fitch Rubber Company.

It was ad distinct compliment to the Mason tire, distributed by the F. Fred Thompson Tire Company that Mr. Jackson, after checking up and confirming his investigation, should choose this tire as the one he is to handle in his new business, where already he has a thriving trade through his host of friends and former customers.

SECTIONAL TIRE REPAIRING TOLD.

WELL KNOWN CASING EXPERT GIVES SOME SECRETS OF THE TRADE.

E. Richard Just, well known Diamond and Goodrich tire distributor, tells the motorist something about sectional tire repairing this week. "There's a popular misconception among motorists concerning this class of work," says Mr. Just, "They think that a knife is run through the casing on either side of the damaged portion and the whole thing lifted out. There is more to the job than just this.

"First the tread is cut away and then begins a step by step operation with each individual ply of fabric. Each succeeding ply, as it goes lower, is cut just a little narrower than the one above. The last ply containing the hole, is left on the carcass, there being about an inch or an inch and a half between the puncture and the edge of the ply above.

"When the series of steps leading down to the hole in the bottom ply has been completed, the new fabric is built in. Here can be seen the advantage of the step operation for each new fabric has below it a part of the original tire body on which to hold. It is obvious that the result is better cohesion.

"We have had good success with our sectional work on fabric tires, having many reports of repaired casings that have given just as good service as new ones.

"Cord tire repairing is an art in itself, entirely different from that of fabric sectional work. It is our plan to tell about it in a later article."

OPEN FOR BUSINESS IN THEIR NEW HOME.

SOUTH HOPE STREET ADDS ONE MORE TO ITS LONG LIST.

"We are open for a business of more than usual." This is the slogan of the Electric Equipment Company, which has just occupied its new battery, magneto, starter, generator and ignition service station at 1249 South Hope street.

"And though the war has taken eleven of our men, and while the twelfth one left us for the service of his country last night, we still are trying to do, and expect to do, more business than we ever have done before. We are one of those firms that are trying to follow President Wilson's advice that business must be made more efficient and more prolific."

The company's manificent addition to the plants of the automobile district was occupied last week and is now ready for business. The company's stock of parts for automobile electric apparatus, numbering more than a quarter of million separate articles, was moved without a mishap.

Walter McCredie Running Away with the Coast League Pennant at the Present Time.

Coast League.

BEES STILL SHOW CLASS.

Begins to Look as Though They will Keep Going.

Angels not Playing up to Their Capabilities.

Good Pitchers Best Standby of the Vernonites.

BY EDWIN F. O'MALLEY.

The Pacific Coast League race, in its eighth week, presents some peculiar phases. As we write this, five of the six clubs are noses apart, with some likelihood that they will remain in that situation for a spell. It begins to look very much as if nothing can stop Walter McCredie and his hustling bunch of Bees. Entering on last Thursday's game, they were seventy-four points in front of their nearest competitor. When the team arrives home next Tuesday, Paddy Siglin and Larry Chapelle will be missed from the line-up, having been drafted by Uncle Sam.

McCredie will be consoled for the loss of Siglin by the return of Karl Crandall, who is a better player in every way than Paddy. To replace Chapelle, however, McCredie will have to hustle some. Miller will take up Larry's duties in the right garden. But even with the absence of Chapelle, Salt Lake has a formidable line-up, and especially is this disquieting to other clubs, when the fact is taken into consideration that the Mormon heavers are all going well. Unless something can be done, and that very soon, to stop the pesky Utes, they will have gained a lead by July 1 that nothing short of a miracle can overcome.

BAD LUCK.

The Angels don't seem to be playing the ball they are capable of playing. They go well for a short time and then fall into an unaccountable losing streak. Their disastrous trip to Sacramento was directly referable to the absence of Terry and Crawford, who were incapacitated for play through injuries. In the first two games on their return home, however, they played rather indifferently, putting up a very poor exhibition on Wednesday, even though Terry was back on the job. They seem to be lacking with the bat at criaical stages of the game. With Crawford prancing around in right field again, the boys should get back into their stride. To us, the Killefers appear to be the only team in the league that has the right sort of material to dispute the Coast supremacy with McCredie. Let us hope that Red will inject a little more zip into his boys and get them scampering after the Bees. If he doesn't do this pretty soon, the race will resolve itself into a one-team affair—that is, as far as the flag is concerned.

Bill Essick is doing nicely with his Tigers. Nothing but a rank decision by Casey during the recent Vernon-Salt Lake series kept him from taking the odd game. Bill is probably the hardest-working manager on the coaching lines in the league. We thought with the loss of Long that Vernon would begin to falter, but they kept going along on the even tenor of their way, winning their regular share of games.

HOSP SLIPS.

The team at present is without the services of Babe Borton, who has been resting in Los Angeles trying to mend a charleyhorse. Even with this handicap they broke even with Oakland in the first two games played this week. Another handicap is the slipping of Hosp, who lately has been playing poorly in the field and at the bat. If the boys can hold their own with Oakland during the present book-up, we shall certainly have to take our hats off to them. One thing about the Bengals that must not be overlooked, and that is their heavers are all doing nicely. Jack Quinn appears to be a host almost unto himself.

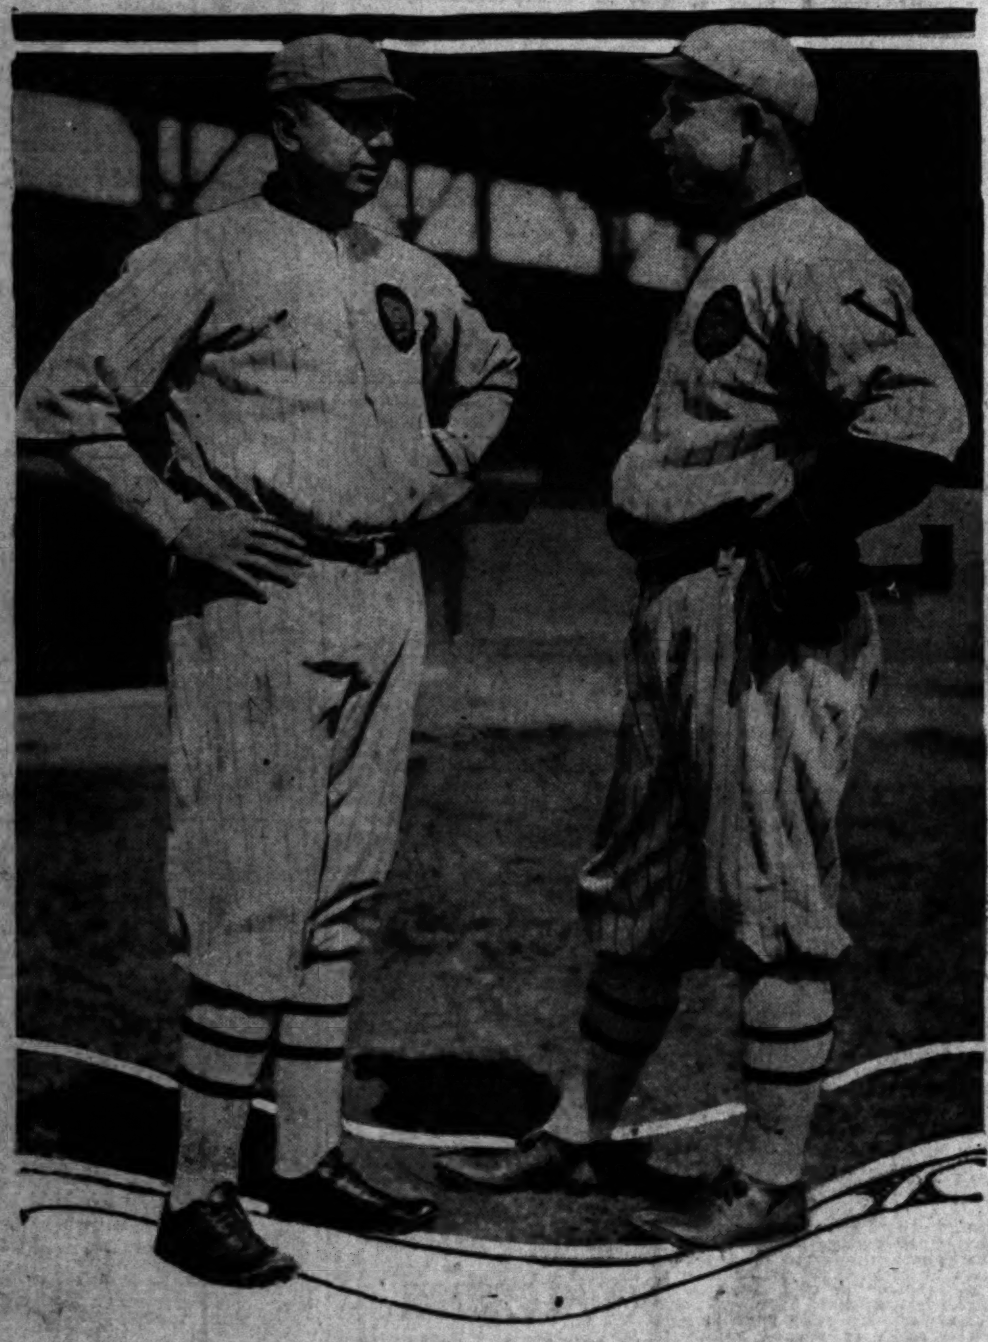
And now for the dark horse babies, Master Rodgers and his bustling Senators. My, how that fellow Art Griggs keeps mauling the horse hide! He won Wednesday's game in the ninth inning against the Bees with his club. We also notice that Harry Wolter is beginning to drive 'em out, and so is Denny Wilie, some slugger himself. Here is a trio of pill pasters that should often spell sorrow to Coast twirlers this year. Barring accidents, if these three stickers sould play all season long they are sure to keep Rodgers well up in the race at all times. It is up to them this week to stop the onrush of the Bees.

IN THE GARDENS.

We think that at present the Seals are playing a a little beyond their essential strength. They are rather weak in the outer gardens, especially since Maggert's knee is beginning to grow stubborn again. Jerry Downs's infield, however, is moving along at a great clip. Charley Pick is playing the game of his life, and is stealing everything in sight, from bases to opponents' signals. My, what a tower of strength he is to Charley Graham and his cohorts! With a hard-hitting outfielder and Maggert's knee in shape again, gee, but that Frisco bunch would go some!

They have a fellow named O'Doul pitching for them who is really a wonder in his way. If it were up to us we should call him O'Doul, the sticker, instead of O'Doul, the pitcher. And then, how he can run! Just imagine a twirler circling the bases as fast as he circled them last Wednesday on his home-hit run. This, to our way of thinking, is the real sensation of the Pacific Coast League thus far. Say, Charley Graham, what's the matter with playing O'Doul regularly in right field, and beating around the jungles for a good chucker to take his place in the box?

And now comes the team that is a poser for us. We will be candid—we don't look at them through jaundiced eyes. How they have kept pace thus far with the other teams of the Coast is more than we can fathom. We are speaking of Oakland. They smack all over of cellar quality, but yet they are right there with all the others, bar McCredie. Clint Prough has been keeping them in the race, partly assisted by Speed Martin. Even with Prough's excellent work we look to see the commuters in the hatches in a short time. We thought they should have dropped to last position a week or so ago, but such is the uncertainty of baseball. A successful seer in the diamond sport is an animal that doesn't exist.



The old boys who are holding the Tigers up.

This photograph shows those two genial old relics, Art Fromme (left) and Jack Quinn, who are two of the best bets in the Coast League and yet have both been pitching ever since A. G. Spalding was a boy (more or less.) Without these two demon heavers Bill Essick would have been yelling at the fifth team in the league to wait for him to catch up.

A CADILLAC ADVERTISEMENT

Written by Three Owners of Cadillac Cars

From the Office of the Mayor City of Los Angeles, California

Mr. J. E. Brown, Manager Don Lee-Motor Cars,
Los Angeles, California:
My Dear Sir—

I have driven the Cadillac which we purchased of you approximately fifteen thousand miles. We have not changed the tires nor had any difficulty. I think I can say without question it is the best car built for the money, and when I had an opportunity to purchase any car I pleased for the city I took the Cadillac, as it represented the greatest value at any price. You cannot get a car for more utility or one giving better service than the Cadillac.

Very truly yours,
F. T. WOODMAN, Mayor.

California Highway Commission

Don Lee-Motor Cars,
1207 South Main Street,
Los Angeles, California:
Dear Sir—

In response to your inquiry, would say that we have several Cadillac cars in use in different parts of the State, and they are rendering excellent service.

Our work requires a car which will stand up under hard usage, and the performance of the Cadillac has been very satisfactory in this respect.

Very truly yours,
N. D. DARLINGTON.

Western Auto Stage Co., Inc.

Don Lee,
Los Angeles, Calif.:
Dear Sir—

Being extensive users of the Cadillac cars, we take pleasure in writing you that we have had wonderful success with them. We have several Cadillac cars that have run 100,000 miles and are now in our shop for a general overhauling for the first time. We are sure that these cars will run another 100,000 before they will need another general overhauling.

When you take into consideration that these cars are being used in the stage business, which is considered the severest test that an automobile may be put to, you will see that this is a wonderful test.

Wishing you a very successful season, we are
Yours very truly,

BRAIN VS. BRAWN IN DANCING.

BY MARION MORGAN,
Orpheum Star.

DO LARGE muscles lower the brain force? Does a highly-developed brain affect the muscular development?

These questions will naturally arise when one seeks a highly-developed body accompanied and controlled by a highly-developed mind.

California is the natural and logical place for great athletic development. It is the real playground of the country, offering outdoor sports the year through. The municipal playground system and the large campus of the school provide a stimulating center of activity for the youth athletically inclined. In most schools a boy has to maintain a good scholarship standing in order to represent the school team—this is a strong incentive towards an equal combination of brain and muscular effort.

Naturally if one is inclined toward physical activity, their pleasure in leisure time will be expressed in this form to the exclusion of mere mental recreation.

In order to develop any one quality, it is essential to use that same quality; that is, to attain a flexible surging voice, one must perform vocal exercises of flexibility; to develop strong muscles, it is necessary to use those muscles in exercises which require strength of muscle. If the mental activity is used in directing muscular control, it is necessarily causing the intellectual forces to remain inactive. (I make a distinction between the mental and the intellectual.)

Of course we all know the great moral results from clean athletic team work—it is rightfully acknowledged as the great educational method of developing a sense of fair play, justice, co-operation and a healthy channel for superfluous energy. But we do not provide intellectual sports. The student gets a mental cramming, accepting his head as a vacuum, but is he given his intellectual food in an appetizing manner calculated to foster his desire for mental enjoyment? The campus and the team mean to him freedom, a keen delight in physical energy expressed, competitive combat with his fellows, a natural outlet for the elemental forces inherited from his ancestor, the caveman. But the same boy should have the same keen desire and delight in good literature, in drama and poetry, in conversational play with his schoolmates, and in reasoning power. The youth cannot be expected to think as a mature man, but the love of intellectual pursuits should be his, just as developed and inherent, as his love of athletic pursuits.

My professional work is expressed through the body, and the individual must have that delight in muscular activity and co-ordination necessary to feel and express enjoyment—but to comprehend, grasp and enjoy the fundamental idea back of the mere bodily movement it is essential that he be familiar with literature, drama and art. Then is he above the animal plane and his body becomes a mere vehicle for mind's ideas, and the basic thought is the source of his keenest enjoyment, the body simply a medium for expressing that thought.

YACHTING CLUB PLANS EDIFICE.

Newport Organization to Have Modern Home.

First Race of Season Slated Early in June.

High Schools Take Interest in Craft Competition.

Plans for the proposed clubhouse of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club were completed and placed on exhibition at the clubhouse last week. These plans show the prospective elevation of a handsome building in colonial style, with an ample porch, fronting the main and second floors, and overlooking Newport Harbor. On the main floor front is the assembly-room, 24x36 feet in size, and the cafe or dining-room, 24x22 feet in size.

These two rooms can be thrown into one large assembly hall, 24x58 feet. On the main floor are also the kitchen, storerooms, butler's pantry, screen porch, men's smoker, ladies' room and all necessary minor accommodations. The second floor will be divided into sleeping-rooms and dormatories, and will provide comfortable accommodations for twenty-two persons. The plans were drawn by Architect Stanley G. Wilson of Riverside, and have favorable criticism by the members. It is expected that construction work will be definitely arranged as soon as the club members have reached the 300 mark.

The opening race is to take place on Sunday, June 2, and plans for the same are about completed. This race will be for the commodore's cup and will cover a course of sixteen miles from the pier at Balboa to the pier at Huntington Beach and return. The start of the race is set for 10 o'clock a.m., sharp, and is a handicap event, being open to boats of all sizes. It is expected that the Viking III, Clipper, Spray, Meg, Pastime, Bonita,
Marion will compete, tries are possible.

Why SILVERTOWN CORDS Outserve in Comfort and Economy

YOU are conscious of the difference of Silvertown Cords from other tires the instant you ride on them.

They give a smoothly riding ease you have never enjoyed unless you have ridden on tires with the Red Hallmark of Tire Quality—the Red-Double-Diamond—neatly inlaid in the sidewall.

They begin different with a distinctive comfort; they end different with phenomenal mileage.

Silvertown service is different because Silvertown Cords are built different inside and outside.

You see difference at a glance in the smart, symmetrical lines of—

SILVERTOWN SERVICE VALUE CORD TIRES

But the vital difference, which has made the cord tire mean extra and special SERVICE VALUE, lies—

In cable-cord, that tough fusion of cord fibre, and rubber (40 per cent. rubber) found only in Silvertowns.

Cable-cord, spiral-wrapped—the same construction used in shock-resisting wire-wound big guns—builds up in Silvertowns a tire body, immune to tire fever, the internal friction which destroys ordinary tires, and able to absorb the stress of road pounding.

The CORD TIRE means comfort in easy riding, and economy in less gasoline and more mileage.

But make sure you get REAL cord tires, by demanding SILVERTOWN CORDS.
